THE MOTOR IS THE HEART of the car, of course. We began right there and put in a staunch, dependable, strongly-beating heart—the famous long-stroke Continental Motor, with the flexible, soundless ease of motion it means. No, it wasn't absolutely necessary to use quite so superbly powerful a motor in a medium-priced car. But we knew of no other on which we could guarantee you the years of service you want. When you drive your Abbott and feel the abundance of eager, throbbing power under your hand you'll be glad we ignored the saving of a few dollars on each car which a cheaper motor would have meant to us.

ABOUT THE MOST VALUABLE THING a self-starter can do is to start. We adopted none until we perfected a starter that would do it 100 times out of 100. A self-contained electric self-starter, the most practical and yet quite the simplest yet used on a car. Absolutely independent of ignition and lighting systems, we have made it, in truth, a perfect, self-contained, perfectly-working unit.

HOW OFTEN HAVE YOU RIDDEN in a car that started or stopped so violently that you permanently dislocated your backbone—or so it seemed to you at the time? A faulty clutch is the answer pretty nearly every time. We've provided against that with our multiple dry disc clutch, that engages with what an Abbott owner who knows his Dickens calls "ease, smoothness and precision." Unusual in other than the $5,000 class? Yes; but think of the joy Abbott owners have in a car that starts so smoothly they scarce know it has started at all!

WE'D HATE to have an Abbott owner feel self-conscious about his car! And he doesn't, no matter in what company he finds himself. Unless, perhaps, it's to feel a bit of pride that his car belongs in the thoroughbred class and "looks the part."

WE'VE PROVIDED FOR THAT by the straight, sweeping, high-bred lines of the body, terminating in the rear with the rich outward swell that lends added appearance of graceful strength. The inspiration, quite frankly, was gained from the expensive show cars of France and Italy. They know how to build beautiful cars over there!

AND AGAIN WE'VE PROVIDED for that by the soft, rich, thick leather cushions—12 inches thick we have made them—into which you sink with an "Ah!" of luxurious comfort.

AND WE'VE PROVIDED FOR THAT by the 24 painting operations, taking from 3 to 5 weeks, necessary on every Abbott car. Twelve painting operations would do. A very great many builders make it do. And on the salesroom floor both cars look much the same. You'd scarcely know the difference—until your car had had a few months' hard usage.

AND WE PROVIDE FOR YEARS, not months, of sturdy use.

All Fully Equipped:
- 34-40 Fore Door Roadster, $1,800.
- 34-40 Five Passenger Touring Car, $1,800.

WM. H. LARABEE DIES SUDDENLY

Venerable Bookworm Succumbs at His Home in North Plainfield.

AUTHOR AND CRITIC

General Complications Cause End of Scholarly Man—Funeral Services Will Be Held at Late Residence on Friday Afternoon.

William H. Larabee, aged eighty-four years, widely known as an author and literary critic, died of complications incident to old age this morning at his home, 45 Willow avenue. Several days ago he contracted bronchitis and this hastened his end.

Mr. Larabee was born in Maine and had been a resident of North Plainfield for about thirty years. He was graduated from DePauw University, Green Castle, Indiana, and always retained his interest in that institution. Last year he attended the commencement exercises and reunion of graduates of which at that time he was the second oldest. After leaving college, he associated himself with the publishing house of Appleton and for several years was one of the editors of Appleton's American Encyclopedia, issued annually, and he was engaged in writing articles for that work, chiefly along the line of antiquities. He was also engaged as a literary critic and book reviewer.

In addition to his other work, Mr. Larabee found time to write several books, including "Volcanoes and Earthquakes," and "How the World was Made," both published by A. V. D. Honeyman, and at the time of his death he was writing a work, entitled "Statesman of Italy," which was nearly finished.

For many years Mr. Larabee was a member of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, being engaged in the work of selecting a large majority of the volumes for the library. A close friend of his today said that he considered him in many respects Plainfield's most valuable citizen. He was the master of about seventeen languages which proved of incalcuable value to him in his literary pursuits. He also traveled to some extent, making two trips to Europe, with A. V. D. Honeyman, in 1895 and 1903.

Mr. Larabee was one of the oldest official members of the First M. E. church and for many years was a teacher in the Bible school. He was a man of strong religious convictions and was a faithful attendant at the church services. About five years ago Mrs. Larabee died. His son, William Larabee, died two years ago leaving a wife and two children, with whom Mr. Larabee made his home.

The funeral service will be held at the late home Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will officiate.

"TAPS" SOUNDED OVER MR. STRUTHERS' GRAVE

The funeral of Stephen R. Struthers was held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and was largely attended by friends, including members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., the Women's Relief Corps and the Asbestos Club. There were many beautiful floral tributes from these organizations, as well as other friends.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the church, conducted the service and made a short address concerning the life of the departed. Miss Grace Carroll, contralto soloist of the church, sang "Abide With Me" and "Peace, Perfect Peace." Herbert J. Harold was at the organ.

The burial was at Hillside cemetery, where "taps" were sounded on the bugle by Dr. J. F. Berg. The pall-bearers were H. O. Newman, Andrew J. Gavett, Donald McInnis, Captain William Hand, Nathan C. Pennington and Philip Swain.

A PLAYLET.

The final rehearsal of the cast to present a two-act playlet entitled, "A Rice Pudding," which will be presented tomorrow night in the Washington School auditorium by the Young People's Union of All Souls' Unitarian church, was held last night and a success is assured. The entertainment will be followed by dancing. The proceeds will be used to defray the cost of installing electric current for lighting purposes in All Souls' church.

ROUTINE BUSINESS OF COMMON COUNCIL

Some Minor Matters Considered at Session of Plainfield's City Fathers.

The Union County Mosquito Commission, through its inspector, Russell Geise, in a communication to the Common Council, last night, complained of the marshy condition of land east and west of Rock avenue, where it is claimed that stagnant water in the swamp is allowed to remain as an excellent breeding place for mosquitoes. It was requested that the city take action to abolish this mosquito-breeding condition. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

Residents of DeKalb avenue, representing 250 feet frontage there, who have received notices to lay sidewalks, informed the Council that their street is not macadamized and there is no sewer connection and they prefer to wait until these improvements are made before laying walks. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Petitions were received from John Reed, E. W. Roberts, Harry Seigel and other residents of West Third street, protesting against the granting of a permit to locate a Jewish slaughter-house on that street. The petitions were referred to the Board of Health after Councilman Fred Endress had made an adverse report.

Elliot T. Barrows, D. J. Courain and F. H. Andrews, commissioners appointed to assess benefits and damages in the matter of extending Kensington avenue, filed their oath of office. A communication from the Knickerbocker Trust Company, of New York, was received and filed.

The contract between the city and Charles T. McDonald for the building of a dog pound, was filed. H. M. Stevens and others made an urgent request that a fire hydrant be located at once on Prospect avenue, between Hillside and Woodland aenue. This was referred, as was also a communication from Carl Silbert, of West Front street, asking the city to remove an incandescent street light from a point near his street clock, as it obstructs the view of the clock. The city's contract with Joseph Harrigan for furnishing feed, etc., to the city departments was filed.

Mr. Mygatt offered a resolution authorizing the appointment of J. Fred MacDonald, Daniel J. Courain and F. H. Andrews as commissioners as the city had been unable to agree with the property-owners in the matter of widening Sycamore street, between East Fifth and Sixth streets. The commissioners will treat with the owners, assess benefits and damages. The first meeting was fixed for Monday night, June 2, at 8 o'clock.

The contract for macadamizing certain streets was awarded to Joseph Burke and Ralph Bonham, their bid being the lowest, and the bid regarding George street was withheld, the city reserving the right to accept it later if it desires to. The expense of macadamizing these streets will be approximately $24,000, for which bonds will be issued.

The Standard Sanitation Company, of New York, requested permission to use about fifty feet square at the city's sewage disposal farm, to demonstrate a patented system of sewage disposal, agreeing to remove the plant immediately upon completion of the demonstration. The matter was referred to the sewer committee with power.

Mr. Mygatt brought up the matter of widening Madison avenue, and gave notice that at the next regular meeting he would move the adoption of the ordinance for that improvement, following the report of the commissioners, which was presented recently.

On motion of Councilman P. J. Reville, one electric light was granted on the northeast side of Berckman street, one on North avenue, between Berckman and Hill streets, one at Raymond and Milton avenue, and one on Raymond avenue, between Front street and Milton avenue, in accordance with petitions received some time ago.

The Council adjourned to meet on Thursday night, May 15.

MOLEDZKY SOLE AGENT.

J. W. Moledzky, of 205 West Front street, has been appointed sole agent for the Sunday and daily editions of the New York American and the New York Journal. He is also sole agent for other New York daily newspapers and has had remarkable success as a newsdealer since entering the business here five years ago.

ASSESSORS WILL TOUR UNION CO.

To Confer With the Officials of the Various Municipalities.

ELIZABETH'S PLAINT

County Seat Claims to Be Paying More Than its Proportionate Share—State Board to Hear the Appeals.

In order to confer with the assessors of the various municipalities the members of the Union County Board for the Equalization of Tax Assessments will make a tour of the county on Friday afternoon. The tour was arranged at a meeting held in Elizabeth yesterday.

One of the matters that will be taken up during the inspection by the board is the charge made by the assessors of Elizabeth that that city pays more than its proportionate share of the county tax. The Elizabeth assessors allege that this situation is brought about by the custom of reporting low valuations in the rural districts of the county. It is probable that the county board will arrange for a conference among its members and the assessors from all parts of the county, in order to devise means for making assessments in all sections that will be satisfactory for all parties concerned.

The State Tax Board will hold a hearing at the Court House at Elizabeth Thursday morning on the appeal of the Western Union Telegraph Company from the assessment of the county board. F. O. Runyon, a Newark civil engineer, has been engaged to testify as an expert for the county. The county will be represented at the hearing by County Attorney William R. Codington.

CLEAN-UP WEEK FOR PLAINFIELD PLANNED

West End Civic Association Would Have Campaign During Last Week of Month.

Plainfield will have a "clean-up week" if the plans of the West End Civic Association adopted at its meeting last night are carried out. Dr. P. B. Cregar suggested the idea and it met with approval. He proposed the last week in May as the best time for the general cleaning up and recommended that all the other civic organizations in the city be invited to join in the movement. The boy scouts will probably be asked to assist.

The Public Service Corporation, through Col E. W. Hine, denied the petition of the association for a trolley station at Monroe avenue and West Seventh street to protect passengers, giving various excuses for not being able to comply with the request.

A resolution recommending that the Common Council be requested to locate a fire house at West Front street and Clinton avenue, was laid on the table for the present. An amendment was made to the constitution and by-laws making twelve instead of twenty members a quorum. The committee on streets was authorized to urge the Council to improve West Third and Fourth street. The executive committee of the association will meet Thursday night.

Y. W. C. A. GLEE CLUB GAVE A FINE CONCERT

Members of the Y. W. C. A. Glee Club assisted by Charles Sasloff, of New York, entertained a large audience of music lovers at their annual concert last night. The program, consisting of vocal and instrumental numbers which were compositions of some of the world's most famous composers, were all well received, the youthful musicians displaying marked talent.

The piano selections rendered by Miss Helen Lounsbury, a fourteen-year-old member of the Y. W. C. A. Junior Department, were worthy of particular mention, the little miss responding to encores after encores. The soloists were Charles Sasloff, a Russian baritone soloist, of New York city, and Miss Helen Lounsbury, who substituted in the place of Miss Lillian Schneider, a violinist, from New York, who was unable to present. Miss Elizabeth Goddard directed the affair and Miss Edith Mellick acted as accompanist.

EXPERT TO EXAMINE LIGHTING CONDITIONS

Council Makes Appropriation for Investigation—Better Service Wanted.

Adopting the suggestion of the Councilmanic lights committee, the Common Council at its meeting last night, passed the resolution offered by Councilman P. J. Reville, the chairman, authorizing the employment of an electrical engineer at an expense not to exceed $500 to make a complete survey of the lighting conditions of the city with a view to securing better service. It was explained that the action was taken upon the advice of Mayor Percy H. Stewart and Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed.

The committee on lights has decided that instead of making a new contract with the Public Service Corporation at present to see if it cannot make the company live up to its contract, Mr. Reville suggested that Thursday night would be a good time to discuss the lighting matter and as he has arranged to have a representative of the Public Service Corporation present at that meeting to explain the company's position he urged a full attendance of the Council.

MME. HOMER TO SING AT PLAINFIELD THEATRE TONIGHT

Madame Louise Homer, the famous contralto of the Metropolitan Opera House, will appear in a song recital at the Plainfield theatre tonight under the auspices of Charity Circle of The King's Daughters. The affair will be given for the benefit of the Day Nursery. In order to make the recital a popular one, the committee in charge announces today that the general admission price with a seat will be $1.

TAX BUDGET PASSED BY THE COMMON COUNCIL

There were two meetings of the Common Council last night, a special and an adjourned session. The first was called to allow for the passage of the tax ordinance on third reading, which was done. This permits the Board of Assessors to go ahead with its work, although according to the annual custom the assessors do not officially begin their duties until May 20. No further changes were made in the ordinance and it was passed as originally presented. The Council decided to meet again on Thursday night.

TROLLEYMAN ASSAULTED BY WOMAN PASSENGER

Mrs. Hannah Medow, of Johnson avenue, was fined $20 by City Judge De Meza this morning for assaulting a conductor on a main line trolley car late yesterdaay afternoon. She boarded the car at Scotch Plains and was apparently in an intoxicated condition, the police said. As the car neared the Watchung avenue trolley station she attacked the conductor, tearing his coat from his back and badly scratching him about the face. Chief Kiely arrested her.

Mrs. Medow is an old offender, having served two sentences of fifty and sixty days each in the county jail on similar charges.

PLAINFIELD MEN JOIN N. J. COMMERCE CHAMBER

Charles W. McCutchen, Roger F. Murray and George P. Mellick, of this city, have been elected members of the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce. At the meeting resolutions were adopted opposing the granting of immunity to labor unions and associations of farmers from prosecution under the anti-trust laws.

A steel engraving of Frederick Frelinghuysen, the first president, was presented to the chamber and placed on the walls of the directors' room. During the past month the chamber lost two of its trustees by death, George Philip Rust, of Passaic, and Col. Charles Wesley Fuller, of Bayonne, who was also a member of the Chamber of Commerce of this city.

RESIGNED AFTER 35 YRS. SERVICE

W. R. Cock Quits as Muhlenberg Hospital Governor—Made Honorary Member.

BULLOCK JOINS BODY

Eight Governors Are Re-elected for Three Year Terms—G. P. Mellick Expected to Be President Again.

After serving for a period of thirty-five years as a member of that body, William R. Cock tendered his resignation at a meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg

William R. Cock.

Hospital last night. In recognition of his long and admirable service, he was unanimously made an honorary member of the board. There was a general expression of regret over his decision, but Mr. Cock could not be persuaded to recall it for he felt that his advancing years would not permit him to continue the active and heartfelt work. He is a former president of the board.

William Starr Bullock, a former councilman, who did splendid work as publicity manager for the finance campaign of the institution only recently, was unanimously elected a governor for a one year term.

The terms of eight three-year members expired and they were all re-elected. They are Leignton Calkins, Jules E. Erickson, Charles J. Fisk, Benjamin A. Hegeman, Jr., David T. Kenney, S. D. Lounsbury, Herman Schwed and John P. Stevens.

It was decided to postpone the election of officers until the regular June meeting. The consensus of opinion seems to be that George P. Mellick, who is now president, will accept another term in that office.

The meeting was adjourned until Wednesday night, May 21, when important matters will be discussed, including the adoption of new by-laws.

JUDGE'S OPINION OF WOMEN LETTER WRITERS

New Brunswick, May 13.—"Women in writing a business letter write about five times more than they ought to," said Judge John W. Beekman, of Perth Amboy, in the District Court, here, yesterday. Sitting in place of Judge Woodbridge, the court heard the suit of Edward B. Shearer, formerly of Plainfield, against Harry C. Smith, of Dunellen. It was an action involving damages wrought to some furniture owned by Shearer, alleged to be due to moving by Smith.

V. W. Nash, Jr., of Plainfield, representing the defendant, produced a letter written by Mrs. Shearer in which she stated that if Smith would repair two pieces of furniture which she alleges he broke while moving her furniture, this would be agreeable. A. C. Streitwolf, representing the plaintiff, was prepared to show by expert testimony how much it would cost to put the furniture in shape again.

Judge Beekman gave the defendant a verdict by deciding that there was no cause for action.

MISSING ATHLETE IS WELL KNOWN LOCALLY

Basketball Player Coached by E. C. Ostlin of This City—Has Played Here.

A number of Plainfielders are watching with interest for further developments in the case of Caleb C. Hughes, Jr., whose mystifying disappearance was described in last night's issue of this paper. Hughes, who is a close friend of E. C. Ostlin, physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., mysteriously disappeared from the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia, where he is a student, April 13, and all efforts to locate him have proven unavailing.

Hughes came under the direction of Mr. Ostlin when the latter was physical instructor of the Williamsbridge Y. M. C. A., where the missing young man was an active member, being an accomplished athlete. Plainfield followers of basketball will remember him as a member of the Williamsbridge Y. M. C. A. basketball team, which has played the local association team on several different occasions. His herculean build and athletic ability have distinguished him wherever he has performed and his picture printed in last night's Daily Press was recognized by many.

TRIO-SCHOOL ASS'N IN ANNUAL SESSION

Mrs. Doane Elected President of Franklin-Stillman-Whittier Parent-Teacher Assn.

The rendition of a delightful program of vocal and instrumental selections following the completion of business matters, featured the annual meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Franklin-Stillman-Whittier Schools last night in the auditorium of the former institution.

Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, reading the report of the committee on sanitation, emphasized the many inconveniences caused by the limited amount of class room and recommended extensive lavatory improvements in the Whittier and Stillman Schools. Others who made reports were Mrs. Boyd Fullerton, recording secretary; Mrs. George Moore, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Edward McCarthy, chairman of social committee; Mrs. W. H. P. Veysey, treasurer, and Mrs. H. G. Henwood, chairman of the nominating committee.

The musical program was provided by Misses Helen and Ruth Sadler, vocalists, and Mrs. John B. Cottrell and Mrs. Harry Johnson, pianists.

These officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. J. Hervey Doane, formerly of the association connected with the Bryant School; first vice president, Mrs. Knowle J. Phillips; second vice president, Mrs. Anna M. Day; third vice president, Mrs. H. R. Boyer; secretary, Mrs. Boyd Fullerton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. George Moore, and treasurer, Miss Katherine M. Beebe.

STRIKE VANDALISM ON ERIE.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

New York, May 13.—While Erie train No. 58 was approaching the block signal near Agnews coal trestle, in Paterson, this morning, two men attempted to uncouple the second and third cars. The train was moving about four miles per hour and as the engineer was using steam the pull on the couplers prevented the working of the uncoupling lever. The men jumped from the train. Later two men were arrested but the conductor was unable to identify them.

GUARDIANS FOR ROCK ANNOUNCED

Governor Fielder Appoints Commission to Care for Historic Spot.

FIVE LOCAL MEMBERS

Mrs. C. W. McCutchen, Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, Mrs. John T. Harmon and Mayor Stewart and W. J. Buttfield Named.

Trenton, May 13.—Governor Fielder yesterday gave out the following statement from his office:

"'Washington Rock,' on the brow of the Watchung Mountains, near North Plainfield, in Somerset county, is, according to tradition, the spot from which General Washington, while in command of the Continental army, watched the position and movements of the British troops. The 'Rock' and ten acres of adjoining property were recently purchased by Charles W. McCutchen, of Plainfield, for the purpose of preserving this historic spot.

"The Continental Chapter of the D. A. R. at Plainfield has, through private subscription, erected a monument on the land known as 'Washington Rock Memorial' and has improved the property. Mr. McCutchen is willing to give the property to the State for a public park, and the Legislature provided for a commission consisting of the adjutant general, commissioner of public roads and five other persons to be appointed by the Governor to take over and improve the property.

"I have appointed Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. Frederick S. Mead, Mrs. John F. Harman, of Plainfield; Percy E. Stewart, mayor of Plainfield, and W. J. Buttfield, of North Plainfield."

Mrs. McCutchen resides in North Plainfield, but like Wilson, Fielder confuses the two places in making his appointments.

WHY 2 UNION COUNTY MEN BOLTED CAUCUS

Trenton, May 13 (Special).—After the Assembly had adjourned yesterday afternoon, Mr. Leonard, of Union county, explained why he and Assemblyman Griffin, of Union, refused to remain in the Democratic Assembly Caucus on the question of tacking the referendum amendment to the Chancellor jury reform bill.

"We went into the conference," Mr. Leonard said, "but when we found it was to be a caucus on the question of the referendum, I told them I could not favor a referendum. We were told the meeting was not really a caucus and the vote would not be binding. Nevertheless, I concluded that as I was against the referendum, I could not consistently remain in the meeting. Mr. Griffin had the same views and hence we left before the vote on the referendum was taken."

SHABBY COUNCIL CHAMBER.

During the session of the Common Council last night, President George S. Clay incidentally remarked that his attention had been called to the fact that the Council Chamber was visited yesterday afternoon by some out of town people, who were impressed with the rather dilapidated condition of the window shades and some of the wall decorations. This led Mr. Clay to remark that he thought the shades had outlived their usefulness and it did seem as though the wall decorations could be improved upon.

LOCAL MANAGER SAYS HIS TEAM WAS NOT AT FAULT

In response to a communication published in another local paper, yesterday afternoon, to the effect that the Royal Colored Giants' baseball team, of this city, quit the game while it was in progress at Kenilworth, Sunday afternoon, thus forfeiting to the team of that place with whom they were playing I would like to make the following answer:

The argument which in the end terminated the game arose when J. Mason went to the bat out of his turn at a time when H. Mason was due to bat in the place of one Ryan. The Kenilworth team put J. Mason up at the time, thus affording him two turns at the bat to the other team member's one, because of the fact that he was a consistent batter and had been successful as a hit-getter during the afternoon. The Royal Giants' manager called attention to the fact when it occurred and the umpire, who was a Kenilworth man, by the way, called him out when he answered to the name of J. Mason, the Giants' suspicions proving true. The Kenilworth team then flatly refused to abide by the decision of their own official and after waiting awhile for the other side to renew hostilities, Manager Simmons and his players left the field. It was then 6 o'clock and too late to wait fifteen or twenty minutes for the Kenilworth team to have its ruffled fur smoothed. Yours truly,

PETE SIMMONS,
Manager Colored Giants.

JACK MARTIN TAKES A BRACE.

Jack Martin, the local boy who is playing short for the Rochester team of the International League, appears to have regained his stride and is at present batting the ball viciously in every contest in which he takes part. In yesterday's game when Rochester lost by a score of 1 to 0 to Providence, Martin clouted out two hits, three assists and one putout without an error.

ANOTHER GOOD ATTRACTION.

Manager William Conger, of the Y. M. A. A. baseball team, has booked the Somerville Klinkers to appear on the Centre street diamond next Saturday afternoon to play his aggregation. Conger will probably use Hadley or Vail in the box, the former's return to the game having bolstered the team greatly.

GAMES WANTED.

The Vitaphone A. C. would like to arrange games with teams of this city and vicinity for the following dates: May 17, 24, 31 and June 7, 14, 18 and July 4, 5. Address H. Chatel, 334 Jackson avenue, or the O. A. R. Motor Company.

PEACOCK'S BINGLE WINS FOR P. H. S.

Local Catcher's Batting the Feature of a Great Victory on Parker Field.

Peacock's smashing two bagger in the eighth inning with the score standing a 3 to 3 tie, saved another game for the Plainfield High School boys at Parker Field, yesterday afternoon, when they lined up against the speedy Princeton High School delegation. Two men occupied the sacks when Peacock came across with the life saver and both scored giving P. H. S. a two run lead, thus keeping their season's schedule unblemished by defeat. This was the Plainfield catcher's third bingle of the game and his steady work behind the bat went hand in hand with his hitting ability. Woodhull did the twirling for P. H. S. and considering the fact that this was his first attempt to heave the pill over the pan in some time did remarkably well.

Princeton secured one counter in the first and two in the second but from then on they were blanked. P. H. S. got a run in the initial stanza and were behind by a score of 3 to 1 until the fourth inning, when two more tallies were registered, thus tying the score, and it remained in this condition until Peacock's act in the eighth. P. H. S. put up a clever exhibition of fielding, but one error being tallied against them.

SCORING RULES ARE DEFINED BY WRITERS

Hits for Official Scorers Which Should Be Followed—a Few of the Changes.

The special committee on scoring rules, appointed by the Baseball Writers' Association of America at its annual meeting held in New York last February, met yesterday at the National League offices in the Metropolitan Building, New York city. It was the first meeting of its kind held in several years, and the committee, consisting of William Hanna and Fred G. Lieb, of New York city, Jack Ryder, of Cincinnati; Thomas S. Rice, of Brooklyn, and William G. Weart, of Philadelphia, found plenty of problems to take up for consideration.

Decisions were reached in several doubtful cases, and a number of suggestions will be made to the Presidents of the two major leagues. The "Cincinnati base hit," by which the batsman is credited with a hit instead of a fielder's choice, when a base runner beats a play at another base, was officially adopted by the association. Presidents Thomas J. Lynch and Ban Johnson, of the two major leagues, recently went on record as favoring such a ruling. Other decisions reached by the scoring committee were as follows:

In a case where a base runner is being run up and down the base line for a putout, no player shall be credited with more than one assist, regardless of the number of times he handles the ball. One player, however, may receive credit for an assist and a putout, and in case of a double play in which he figures in both putouts he is to be credited with an assist on each putout.

When the fielder on the receiving end of a double play makes a palpable muff he shall be charged with an error. The rule in force absolving a player from an error in his haste to make a double play applies only to the player making the throw for the second out.

When second or third base is not covered to take a good throw from the catcher on an attempted steal, thereby allowing an extra base, the baseman and not the catcher must be charged with an error.

If, when a player attempts to steal a base, a pitcher makes a wild pitch or a catcher drops the ball, the battery error must be charged up against the offender and the player will get credit for a steal.

The committee voted to ask the rules committee of the two major leagues to include Jack Ryder, as representative of the association, as a member of their body, and also to include in their records the following:

The "left on bases" feature which is now included in the official score blanks of either league, and also that a record of players left on bases be kept for each team for the entire season.

The earned runs off each pitcher to be included in the summary of each game.

A list of base runners thrown out by each catcher to be included in the summary.

The committee also went on record as favoring the continuation of pitching records, giving games won and lost for each pitcher in the American League. President Johnson recently announced that this system would be abandoned in favor of a system showing the average number of runs earned off each pitcher on the basis of a nine-inning game. The National League uses both systems, and a request will be made to the American League to use the double system as a matter of record and reference.

SECOND ROUND ENDS IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

Finals in Eastern Interscholastic Match Will Take Place Tomorrow.

The second round of the Eastern Interscholastic Golf Championship was played over the Plainfield Country Club course, this morning, when M. R. Marston defeated V. Badham, 8 up and 7 to play; W. R. Stearns defeated C. F. Weems, 3 up and 2 to play; W. Ogden defeated E. B. Grier, 1 up (19 holes), and W. T. Badham defeated Philip V. Carter 1 up.

The third round will be played this afternoon, Marston being matched with Stearns and Ogden with W. T. Badham. The winners of these two matches will play the finals, 36 holes, tomorrow.

Coincident with the qualifying round was a team contest, aggregate scores to count, for a cup offered by St. Luke's School. Pawling's 355 was sufficient to capture the trophy, Lawrenceville had 366 and Pingry 378.

Davitt, of Hoboken—have passed the civil service examinations for the position of specialist in astronomy and assistant to the chief of the extension department in the agricultural experiment station at New Brunswick. The following captains of the Jersey City Fire Department have passed the civil service examination for promotion to the position of battalion chiefs: Charles W. Tindale, Clair Birch, Richard A. Green, James A. Coleman, John H. Harms, Frederick A. Peer, William D. Connell and William J. Murray.

FIRE DAMAGES HOSIERY PLANT.

New Brunswick, May 13.—Lint in the cardroom at the Norfolk and New Brunswick Hosiery Company plant caught fire yesterday, doing considerable damage. There is an automatic sprinkler system in the factory and the room was flooded by water. Some of the delicate machinery was damaged more by water than by fire. An alarm was turned in from a street box, but the firemen were not needed. The factory officials were annoyed by the outside alarm, declaring they could have handled the fire themselves.

PROHIBITIONS HOLD SESSION.

Metuchen, May 13.—A meeting of the New Jersey State Prohibition committee was held in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church here. Plans for the coming campaign were laid. It was decided to officially notify Rev. James G. Mason of his nomination for Governor on the Prohibition ticket June 16. Addresses will be made and the affair will take place in the Metuchen High School auditorium.

DANGER SIGNS SEEN BY A CLERGYMAN

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire Warns Parents About Rearing Children.

"Dangerous Signs of the Times," was the subject of a sermon delivered by Dr. Gabriel Reid Maguire before a large congregation at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Sunday night. His discussion treated of the attitude of parents and their children toward each other. Taking for his text 2d Tim. 3:1, the preacher said:

"One of the most dangerous signs of the times is the neglect and growing disrespect of children for their parents. A great army of children are coming soon to take our places in the world—whether for good or bad, depends upon the preparation through which these children are now passing.

"Religion never rises any higher than the home life. As we live in the home, so we live in the world. A child uncontrolled at six years of age, may become an outlaw at twenty. When God said, children, obey your parents. He meant that obedience begins in the home. The old fashioned mothers are fast disappearing; she was a home-stayer, she didn't spend her time at the club, or at bridge whist and euchre parties. Many of the greatest men and women of the world today, are those whose first ten years were spent close to their mothers. The first ten years are the most impressionable period in any life, for virtue or vice; religion or scepticism; bravery or cowardice; truth or falsehood. The doorsill of the home is the foundation of the church and state. A man never rises any higher than his own attic, or sinks any lower than his own cellar. The rocking chair is the nursery of the throne. A good home is deathless in its influence. A man may run seventy miles, and even then he cannot get away from the shadow of his own mantelpiece.

"A child must be reproved, corrected, punished. A parent who doesn't teach his child to obey is cruel. For the sake of the community, the State and the country, a parent should insist upon obedience, which is the foundation of subjection to God's authority.

"There's no chance in the world for the child who hasn't been taught to obey.

"Parents, make your home attractive for your children. Be pleasant and attractive yourself; dress for your children, and don't keep all your pretty clothes for company. Don't put your nicest furniture and fixings in the parlor and then forbid your children to enter the room.

"Provide abundant amusement for your children. Get down to their level, and they will not want to leave home. Fathers, leave your troubles and axieties at the office, and greet your children at night with a laugh. Play horse with them if they want you to; throw aside your dignity, and don't ever allow your children to feel afraid of you. Parents, sympathize with your children; encourage them to confide in you; be patient with them; never correct them when you're angry—wait until the flash of anger passes away.

"Educate your children for eternity, a training that shall enable them to have their names recorded in the Lamb's Book of Life. Parents, what are you most anxious about, concerning your children? Keep your boy and girl as close to your apron strings as you can. Don't leave the education of your child to the minister, the school teacher or the Sunday-school teacher. If your child is ever won for God, it will be because you have placed him on the altar of prayer. Parents, if you decide to lead a Christian life, your child undoubtedly will; if you turn away from God, your child may follow your example. Don't let it be said of you as was wrung in agony from a father's heart as his only child was laid away in the grave—'My boy never heard a word of prayer in his home.'"

TRIP FOR "ABERNATHY KIDS."

Frederick, Okla., May 13. The Abernathy boys, who leaped into fame several years ago by their record-breaking cross-country rides, are preparing to start from this place day after tomorrow on another long trip. This time they are to travel by motorcycle instead of on horses as before. Their destination will be New York City. They will make the trip by way of Kansas City, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. Four years ago, when they were 5 and 9 years old, the two boys rode horseback from Guthrie, Okla., to Santa Fe, N. M., and return, a distance of 3,210 miles. Their second ride, in 1910, was from Oklahoma to New York City to meet Col. Roosevelt on his return from Africa. A year later the two boys made a record-breaking ride across the continent from New York to San Francisco in sixty-two days.

BUSY DAY FOR SHRINERS.

Dallas, Texas, May 13.—The thousand of delegates and visitors now in Dallas for the imperial conclave of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine put in an exceedingly busy day today. The official program began at 9 o'clock this morning with the escorting of the imperial divan to the Scottish Rite Cathedral, where the session of the imperial council was formally opened an hour late by Imperial Potentate William J. Cunningham, of Baltimore. A luncheon for the members of the imperial council was spread in the grand banquet hall of the cathedral in the early afternoon. The remainder of the day was taken up with automobile rides, band concerts, races at the Fair Grounds, and other features for the entertainment of the visitors.

APPOINTMENTS O. K.

Mayors and other municipal officials have their trials and tribulations just the same as men higher up in public office do for their every official act is certain to be adversely criticized. They receive a superinbundance of "knocks" and very little praise. In nine cases out of every ten, it is the man who does not know the facts and does not care to investigate them who is the most hasty to pass judgment and to be the most scathing in his denunciation. It will be difficult, however, for any to take exception to Mayor Stewart's appiontments for the membership of the committee to cooperate with the Board of Assessors in the work of making the assessments, particularly in the business section, more uniform and equitable. It was a trying task to select the proper men for this work and we think that his honor has discharged the duty devolving upon him in a satisfactory manner. No politics or other purposes, save those of the best interests of all the taxpayers, it is plainly evident, was allowed to enter into the consideration of the matter. The committee should have the confidence of the public for its work, we believe, will be thoroughly done.

A GOOD CITIZEN.

After thirty-five years of devotion to the work, William R. Cock has felt compelled by reason of his advancing years to relinquish his position as a governor of Muhlenberg Hospital and that institution suffers a real loss. Plainfield has always been singularly fortunate in being able to command the services of able men to manage its civic affairs, but in no branch of public activities has there been a more truly excellent board of management, than that which has characterized the complexion of Muhlenberg Hospital's governing body. Of the many splendid citizens who have acted in that capacity, Mr. Cock should be named as a fine example. His heart has always been in the work and his enthusiasm for its welfare has been unbounded. It is with much pleasure that we note the action of the Board of Governors in making him an honorary member of that body.

CHILD-WELFARE.

From every section of the country, men and women having a common interest in the mental, moral and physical training of the youth of the land, will assemble in Boston on Thursday to participate in the seventeenth child-welfare conference of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Associations. The sessions will last for six days and among the eminent speakers will be Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the Federal Children's Bureau; Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education; Dr. G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark University; Joseph Lee, president of the Playground Association of America; Mrs. Mary S. Woolman, president of the Woman's Industrial and Educational Union; Mrs. Frederic Schoff, president of the National Congress of Mothers, and one who is known to us all here in Plainfield for his interest in the boy problem, Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of Scotch Plains, who by the way is secretary of Boy Scouts' library department.

Probably nowhere is there greater enthusiasm in the Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations than right here in our own community. In all probability these local organizations will be represented at this important conference. Planifield should send a large delegation and it is to be regretted that the municipal government can not legally bear the expense of our representatives.

School children ranging between ten and fifteen years in age are eligible to a prize essay competition arranged by Logan Waller Page, director of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. A gold medal will be awarded to the contestant writing the best essay on the repair and maintenance of earth roads. The winner, of course, will be "the greatest on earth."

Plainfield's musical lovers will have a rare treat tonight. Charity Circle of the City Union of the King's Daughters has engaged Madam Louise Homer to sing at the Plainfield theatre. For her appearance here, the world-famous soprano will receive $1,000, but as the house is likely to be packed the charity workers' investment should prove a profitable one.

Referring to a case in point in the Quaker City, the Philadelphia Record asks why a property is assessed at only $93,000 when $150,00 is offered for it and $175,000 is asked. The committee appointed by Mayor Stewart to perform the duties, for which the local assessors are paid and are supposed to perform, will probably find many similar cases here.

Our highly esteemed president of the Common Council, George Strong Clay, at a meeting of the city fathers last night commented briefly on the unsatisfactory appearance of the Councilmanic chamber. Surely a "clean-up" day is needed there and we feel sanguine that the needed brigtening effects will be supplied if called to the attention of the landlord.

It has remained for a Trenton justice of the peace to mete out the proper punishment to a New York autoist arrested in that city for violating the speed laws and failing to appear for a hearing. The culprit in question, a broker by the way, has been forbidden to run his car in this State.

MRS. GERTRUDE W. CATLIN IS DECLARED INCOMPETENT

Dr. J. H. Carman, Morris C. Van-Arsdale and William N. Runyon, who were appointed commissioners to examine into the sanity of Mrs. Gertrude Wendell Catlin, of DeKalb avenue, conducted a hearing in the case in the Common Council chambers yesterday afternoon before a jury of twelve men. Among the witnesses were Dr. Ellis W. Hedges and Dr. William H. Murray, who testified as to their examination of Mrs. Catlin.

Upon the strength of the testimony, the jury found Mrs. Catlin incompetent to manage her affairs, and a report to that effect will be made to Chancellor Walker, who will appoint a guardian.

Mrs. Catlin owns property valued at about $12,000. She has one son, her only heir, who has been adopted and bears the name of Edward Smith. Mrs. Catlin has been making her home with J. C. McCarthy, of De Kalb avenue.

NEGRO DOCTOR HELD ON A GRAVE CHARGE

Dr. James F. Lawson in Prison Cell, Unable to Give $5,000 Bail.

Dr. James F. Lawson, colored, of East Third street, was arrested this afternoon by Police Chief P. S. Kiely, on a complaint sworn out by the chief himself. The charge is a serious one.

Miss Karin S. Anderson, of this city, is lying at the point of death in Muhlenberg Hospital. It is not expected that she can live according to Union County Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein, who came here from Elizabeth this morning to have the physician taken into custody.

Lawson was arraigned before City Judge William G. DeMeza in police court this afternoon. The court advised the prisoner of his rights and accepted a plea of "not guilty." Judge DeMeza postponed the hearing until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. Bail was fixed at $5,000. As no bondsman appeared, Lawson was placed in a cell.

The prisoner is the son of Jesse Lawson, a Federal officeholder at Washington, D. C.

EDWARD R. GRANNATT DIES AT ATLANTA, GA.

Edward Grannatt, formerly of Plainfield, but who has been living at Atlanta, Ga., died today at that place, according to a telegram received by the young man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Grannatt, of West Fourth street. Mr. Grannatt since going to Atlanta was married to Miss Adelaide Elsberg, formerly of North Plainfield.

One telegram received early this morning stated that Mr. Grannatt was dangerously ill, and at noon a second telegram told of his death.

Mr. Grannatt had been suffering from a severe attack of neuritis. He was well-known in this city and before going south was a traveling salesman.

"JIM" SMITH'S VICTORY ON JURY REFORMATION

Trenton, N. J., May 13.—[illegible] jury reform bill which had the support of President Wilson and his followers was passed in the House of Assembly yesterday afternoon by the vote of 39 to 15 after it had been further compromised by tacking a referendum to it. It was the third disinct victory of the anti-Wilson forces in the jury reform fight, they having forced a referendum in two other measures during the last days of the regular session. By out-generaling the progressive Democrats, Martin, the reactionary leader, made good his declaration that no jury reform measure without a referendum could be passed.

RAILWAY EMPLOYES REFUSE TO ARBITRATE AT CINCINNATI

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Cincinnati, May 13.—Thirty minutes before the expiration of the time set on the mayor's ultimatum, President S. Kneal, of the Cincinnati Traction Company, notified the city officials that the company would agree to have the entire difficulty with the employes submitted to arbitration. The Covington street car men did not go out. No cars on any line in Cincinnati were running this morning. In the proposition submitted to strikers the Cincinnati Traction Co. agreed that all points at issue be decided by three arbitrators, each side to appoint a representative, and the United States District Court to name the third. The traction company made no attempt to run any cars today.

At a meeting of the striking motormen and conductors held later in the morning it was voted to refer to the executive committee of their union the question af accepting the arbitration proposal made by the traction company. The sentiment of the meeting was against the proposal and later it was decided that the strike continue, for the members of the new union in conference this afternoon voted to turn down the arbitration proposition of Mayor Hunt, which had been accepted by the company. The men insist that the company must first recognize the union

TORN PAPER GIVES CLUE TO TRAIN VICTIM'S IDENTITY

Metuchen, May 13.—A receipted lumber bill, badly mutilated, saved George R. Squires, a negro, from a grave in Potter's grave. Pennsylvania Railroad men found his body east of the passenger station. The remains were removed to the Pennsylvania freight station and Coroner Harding sent for.

Being unable to find anything to identify the man the coroner ordered burial. In preparing the body the undertaker, James M. Pettit, came upon a small piece of pink paper with the name George written on it.

Recollecting that the lumber firm of Manning, Freeman & Son used that kind of paper for bills and the handwriting looking like that of Bookkeeper John W. Breen, Mr. Pettit investigated. He learned that Squires, a colored employe of Walter Williams, had damaged some woodwork in working about the place and had called at the lumber yard, buying and paying for the material to make good the damage.

Patrolman Willard B. Hutchinson met Squires about 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning getting off a Philadelphia express. That was the last seen of him alive. Squires is survived by a widow and six children. Recently he had built a modest little home and within the last two weeks had been negotiating for a mortgage on the property.

TRIAL FOR MURDER.

Tulsa, Okla., May 13.—The case of Mrs. Laura M. Reuter, under indictment on a charge of conspiracy in the murder of her husband, is on the docket for trial tomorrow in the district court at Bartlesville, to which place it was transferred from Tulsa. Charles T. Reuter, a well known lawyer, formerly of Peoria, Ill., was killed in his bedroom in his home in this city on the night of May 5, 1912. Valuable diamonds he wore and a large sum of money were missing. The next day Guy D. Mackenzie, Joe Baker and Bud Bellew were arrested on the theory that Reuter's murder was the result of a conspiracy, with robbery as a blind to conceal the real motive. Mackenzie and Baker have been tried and convicted and are now serving life terms in prison. Mrs. Reuter is charged with having been an accomplish of the two men in the murder. She is an attractive woman of 27 years and the daughter of a former postmaster of Indianapolis, Ind. Since her first arrest she has been at liberty on bail.

Camden, May 13.—If the participants in the annual convention of the Grand Army of the Republic, Department of New Jersey, fail to have a pleasant time here Thursday and Friday it will be a source of much surprise to the residents, who have planned to make the visitors' stay comfortable. A. building Thursday night there will be a campfire. The council of administration and the committee on credentials will meet Wednesday at the Hotel Ridgway. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the G. A. R. will hold its annual meeting Thursday and Friday.

BUMPER BANANA CROP.

New Orleans, La., May 13.—After having chartered every vessel available, the United Fruit Company finds itself unable to handle the great banana crop in tropical America. Their liners are coming into port every day loaded to capacity with fruit. The present crop has matured without damage from storms or other causes and owing to the increased acreage the production this year is far above any previous yield. More bananas are now being consumed in Europe than ever before, though the consumption there is still far less than that of the United States. In New Orleans bananas form the chief food of the poor. Bunches too ripe to ship are selling as low as ten cents. The usual retail price here is from fifteen to twenty-five choice bananas for five cents.

Onions for Health.

"Eat onions in May, No doctor you'll pay"—is an old saw which time has proved to be true. Of course there are some persons to whom onions are never agreeable, and they should be avoided by such persons. But most of us can stand onions; and even those who find them indigestible when eaten raw find them beneficial when eaten cooked.

One of the most delicious onion dishes ever concocted is the following: Cut the tops off from small green peppers or else halve large one and parboil them. Then stuff them with forcemeat made with three Bermuda onions chopped fine and seasoned with salt, pepper and butter, and mixed with a few fine breadcrumbs. Bake until tender and serve hot.

Stuffed and Curried.

Stuffed onions are made from large onions, boiled in salted water, for about an hour. The water should be changed once or twice in the course of the cookng and the onions should not be cooked too long, but just until tender. When they are done, drain them and, after they are cool, remove the center of each one carefully. For each ten onions prepare a filling made as follows: Brown half a dozen mushrooms in butter for four minutes, chop them fine, add half a cupful of bread crumbs and moisten with cream. Season with salt and pepper. Fill the cavities with the mixture, press it down and put a small piece of butter in each. Put them in a buttered baking dish and bake them for about twenty-five minutes, moistening from time to time with hot water and melted butter.

Curried onions are an unusual delicacy. To prepare them, parboil a cupful of chopped onions for ten minutes and add a cupful of cold boiled rice a cupful of milk a half teaspoonful of curry powder and salt, pepper and butter. Keep adding butter to the mixture while it cooks for twenty minutes—slowly and steadily. When it is done add a few drops of lemon juice and dish on a platter which has a ring of mashed potatoes about it.

Rabbit.

Onion rabbit is a feast for true onion lovers. Bermuda onions are the sort to use for it. Slice four of them rather thickly and let them stand three hours in a little tomato ketchup. Then arrange them on slices of toast and season them with salt, pepper and a little mustard. Put a drop or so of Worcestershire sauce on each slice. Arrange the slices side by side on a platter, cover them with grated cheese and bake them for a little while in a hot oven. They should be baked long enough to melt with cheese, but not long enough to toughen it.

Some Cookery Suggestions

LETTUCE SALADS.

LETTUCE is one of the best spring salads. To shred lettuce use only the coarser leaves, reserving the cup shaped for the edge of the salad. Roll these large leaves tightly, then slice from one end with a sharp knife and shake up loosely. It is an economical and appetizing way to use the outer leaves, which are fresh and green and yet not as delicate as the heart leaves.

Nice With Cold Meat.

Lettuce and Endive Salad.—Take equal parts of endive, lettuce, heart of celery, sliced boiled beets and watercress. Wash and dry them all thoroughly, place in a clean salad bowl, dust with pepper and salt, add a little minced onion and oil and vinegar in the proportion of a spoonful of vinegar to two of oil. Mix very lightly and serve. This is a very nice salad for serving with any kind of cold roast or boiled meat or poultry.

Mixed Salad.—Take equal parts of lettuce, endive, sliced cold beets, watercress and the white part of celery cut in short lengths. Place in a clean, cold salad bowl and season with pepper and salt to taste. Pour the following sauce over the salad: Place the yolks of two hard boiled eggs in a bowl, add to them half a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of made mustard and a little pepper. Work all together with the back of a wooden spoon. Then add by degrees a large tablespoonful of double cream and, drop by drop, half a gill of salad oil. Finally add two spoonfuls of vinegar. Mix again and use as before directed.

Useful Salads.

English Salad.—Take two large lettuces, wash and dry them thoroughly and tear each leaf into two or three or more pieces. Place in a clean salad bowl and dust with salt and pepper to taste. Add a few leaves of fresh mint, a little very finely minced spring onion, a dessertspoonful of moist sugar and oil and vinegar in the proportion of two spoonfuls of oil to one of vinegar. Mix and serve. This salad is especially nice with cold roast lamb. If liked a few slices of cold boiled new potatoes may be added to it with advantage.

French Salad.—Take one or two lettuces, shred and wash them thoroughly and when dry place them in a cold salad bowl, add a little coarsely chopped tarragon, chives and chervil (about a teaspoonful of each) and pepper and salt to taste. Mix and then add half a gill of salad oil and a tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar. Mix and serve.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Poll'y Got Two Dishes Of Ice Cream.

The Lady Asked Polly to Have More.

"THERE are more ways of getting what you want than one," daddy said to Jack and Evelyn.

"Little Polly was a very obedient child, but she did love ice cream, especially strawberry ice cream.

"So when she was asked to Kitty Blossom's birthday party Polly's mamma told her she must be very careful to behave nicely.

"'And when they give you something to eat, eat slowly. Don't grab for anything, and, above all, don't ask for more when you have had one saucer of ice cream,' said her mother.

"Polly promised. It was her first party, and she was a little shy, so she did not care, although she was not chosen very often in the little games which the children played.

"The nicest part of the party was a moving picture show given right in the hall of the little girl who was having the party. Some of the pictures were very, very funny, and Polly laughed over them a great deal.

"After the moving pictures the children chose partners and marched about the rooms while some one played jolly music on the piano.

"Besides all these amusements, there was a phonograph, and Polly enjoyed very much a jolly piece in which a dog barked, a rooster crowed, pigeons cooed, a cow mooed, a horse whinnied, a cat meowed, a grasshopper squeaked, a cricket chirped, an owl hooted, and many other creatures to be heard about a farm made their funny kind of noises. And while the children were laughing at this a little silver bell tinkled, and that was to tell them that it was time for supper.

"Polly remembered what her mother had told her and ate slowly and did not grab for anything. There was no need to do so, for every plate was heaped with goodies.

"But when it came time for ice cream Polly's eyes almost popped out of her head, for they had strawberry ice-cream, and it came to the table shaped like strawberries, a huge berry on a plate for each child.

"I'm afraid Polly ate hers faster than her mother would have liked. The mother of the child who was giving the party, seeing Polly's empty plate, said: "'Polly, won't you have some more ice cream?'

"It was a hard moment for Polly, but she said very low so that she could not be heard, 'Thank you; not any more.'

"And the lady, not hearing what she said, told the waiter to give Polly some more. So, as Polly afterward told her mother, it would have been rude not to eat it."

HAS DAVE DRISCOLL SIGNED JOE HARTER?

Critics Claim That He Played Under the Name of Harrington in the U. S. League.

Rumor has it that Dave Driscoll has signed Joe Harter, who played centre field for the local baseball team last season, to play on his New York team of the United States League, which has just started operations. The New York team played its opening game of the league schedule in Newark Saturday afternoon and the centre fielder on Driscoll's team gave his name as "Harrington." This player is believed to be none other than Joe Harter, according to what appeared in the Newark Call of Sunday. Harter, it is believed played under this assumed title.

The Call said:

"Several familiar faces were spotted on both teams. There was Malay on the Newark division, a one-time star on the local team in the Eastern League. Then, too, there were a number of well-known semi-pros on the register of Jack Conlan's team. However, when these players gave their names to the official scorer they must have been afflicted with a bad memory, for they could not recall their own names, substitutes for which they kindly supplied.

"On the other hand, suppose a man like Joe Harter, who occassionally reports with the Ironsides, should have a chance to sign with a big league nine, who could prove that he once played with an outlaw team under the name of Harrington? Just the same, this very "Harrington" made the star play of the day in the eighth inning when he pulled down Copeland's line drive and prevented at least a tie score, as Newark had two on bases at the time. Harrington's catch sewed up the game for New York."

PRINCETON CREW WINS BOAT RACE

Beats Harvard to Finish by Four Seconds—Penn Four Lengths Behind.

The Princeton Tiger showed aquatic strength and skill yesterday by out-rowing Harvard and the University of Pennsylvania in a one and seven-eighths mile dash down the Charles River Basin at Cambridge, Mass.

It was a stern chase for the winners most of the way, for their start was a poor one. Pennsylvania was overhauled at the half-way mark and Harvard as the shells swept under the Harvard Bridge, one mile down the course. Then the Tigers gradually drew away, and they had a length to the good at the finish. Pennsylvania finished three lengths behind Harvard. The times were: Princeton, 10:18; Harvard, 10:22, and Pennsylvania, 10:34.

When Dr. Hugh Cabot gave the word at the Cottage Farm Bridge the Harvard men caught the water first. The Pennsylvania blades gripped a flash later, but Princeton was slow in getting under way.

All three crews churned the water with a thrashing stroke of forty to the minute. At the first quarter Harvard had a lead of ten feet over Pennsylvania, while Princeton was half a length astern.

It was a pretty race to the mile mark, Harvard Bridge. The Crimson shell was still to the fore, with Princeton five feet astern, when the boats disappeared in the shadows of the bridge. It was while the crews were in darkness that the race was won and lost, for when the shells reappeared Princeton had passed Harvard and led by three feet. The Tigers hit up the stroke as the finish flags loomed up ahead, and each successive drive of the oars meant a gain of another foot over the tiring Crimson rowers. When the finish line was less than a quarter of a mile away, Capt. Abeles called on the Harvard crew for the last spurt. The eight men bent to their work, but the Tigers met the dash before Harvard could gain more than a dozen feet.

From there to the finish Princeton increased the lead until there was not quite open water between Tigers and Crimson, with Pennsylvania, three lengths behind Harvard, as Princeton plowed over the line and drew up exhausted against the seawall.

The crews rowed as arranged when the race was postponed on Saturday. About 2,000 persons watched the contest.

The victory of the Tigers was the first success that has come to Princeton in a triangular contest since rowing was resumed there four years ago.

AUSTRALIAN TENNIS PLAYER ARRIVES

STANLEY N. DOUST
CAPTAIN, AUSTRALIAN LAWN TENNIS TEAM.

Mr. Stanley N. Doust, captain of the Australian lawn tennis team, which will compete with the American team for the privilege of playing the English team in England for the Davis Championship Cup in June, has arrived in America.

Captain Doust comes to America for the purpose of joining two of his teammates, who have been competing in California. They will take part in the preliminary contest to be held on the courts of the New York Tennis Club.

He declared that he hoped to be a victor in the elimination contests and felt certain, if he should prove successful, his team would be able to wrest the cup from the English players now holding it.

"MAC" SAYS

Bogardus in Distress.

The tears were rolling down the cheeks of genial Dunellen "Bob,"
And ever and anon he sobbed, a most distressful sob,
"Dost weep," I asked, "Because thy team was beaten Bob?"
"My team," said he, "has never cost a single moment's sleep,
'Tis not the thought of losing that causes me to weep,
I weep because Dunellen's near the bottom of the heap."

Cheer up, Bob, there are still a few games to be played and your young hopefuls are bound to rise out of the cellar ere long.

A severe shakeup is due to take place before the next Dunellen game, according to Bob, and when the team opens at home next Saturday afternoon, several faces will be seen in new parts of the lot.

Oh, what a terrible, terrible time we had in Scotch Plains—Ernest Dorflinger. Plainfield never was much on the Sunday ball stunt, anyway.

One consolation for the fans and manager comes in the fact that South Paw Frederickson was disposed of with comparative ease at the first meeting.

If Freddy doesn't get rid of that habit of flattening the pellet against ball players' frames in every contest he twirls, somebody will be taking a ride with a band in front and friends trailing behind. Nelson stopped a fast one Saturday and Frank Evans is still laid up as the result of a beaning the week previous.

If Billy Coyle ever succeeds in getting those errors out of his system he will no doubt be a great aid to his country (Dunellen). Four of the misplays on Saturday playing with Bogardus and two made in a Plainfield uniform Sunday is going some.

Query Who is going to stop those P. H. S. players in their wild rampages? Peacock's three base clout with the score tied sewed up another contest yesterday afternoon. A clean slate to date. Pretty good, huh?

Dave Driscoll does not appear to be a very great drawing card in the U. S. League. It is claimed that he is holding out for a bigger ante, ($15,000) maybe.

Some game between Hope Chapel and First Baptist Saturday afternoon. Herbert Stine, the star backstop of the Baptist aggregation, who had done some good sticking earlier in the afternoon, looked like a sure bet in bringing home the bacon when he came to the bat with the score tied and men on bases in the eighth. The rest is too sad to relate.

After Ty Cobb signed his contract and saved the nation, some noble critics claimed that Detroit was due to assume its old place on the map, but baseball appears to be on the toboggan slide in that city still. Some say that Ty's head became swelled over the big ante he received, but any man is worth all he can subtract from a baseball magnate.

Umpires in ice cream raiment may be tolerated, but we shall enter a frenzied protest if walking sticks are adopted. So there. Wonder if the Central League officials will be required to wear any special garb to perform their death defying work?

The New York Yacht Club is in a quandry, so to speak. It does not want to race and yet it is not in a position to tell Tom Lipton to get a reputation.

When the Yankees scored their third defeat over Detroit, they brought their total up to as many games won in three days in the West as they won in three weeks in the East.

Jack Johnson says that if he is freed by the Federal Court he will go to Paris to live. This is our chance to show our gratitude to the French for aiding us in the War of the Revolution.

DOYLE WILL MANAGE VIKINGS NEXT YEAR

Metropolitan Champions Have Secured the Services of Local Manager.

Manager of the Holy Cross football team of last season was landed to a surprise yesterday when Manager Jack Doyle issued his resignation to take effect at the opening of the 1913 season, having accepted a lucrative offer to pilot the Vikings Club, of Bayonne. The compensation offered by the Bayonne Club is understood to be $100 for the season, or just $100 more than Doyle received for his arduous labors in this city. The former Holy Cross manager is considered to be one of the best in this line in the state, his eleventh hour coaching of games last season when he was placed at orthodox positions by rise and fall of fortune having put him in a class by himself.

Although the Holy Cross club was extremely sorry to learn of Doyle's intention, it could not blame him for taking advantage of such a lucrative offer. His work at the head of the local eleven having been of the highest efficiency. Doyle is one of the most popular young men in local football and athletic circles, having served in many capacities as a sport promoter and Plainfield has one of its best amateur managers in all round.

"KITTY" LEAGUE STARTS.

Cairo, Ill., May 13.—The new season of "Kitty" Baseball League opens the season today with games as follows: Harrisburg at Vincennes, Owensboro at Hopkinsville, Henderson at Clarksville and Paducah at Cairo. Since the close of last season Evansville has been dropped from the circuit and Vincennes, Ind., Harrisburg, Ill., and Owensboro, Ky., taken in as new members. The schedule provides for a season of 140 games, with September 15 as the home date.

THERE'S QUITE A DIFFERENCE.

Jack Fritts, the local long distance runner, who started in the "Evening Mail" modified marathon last Saturday afternoon, finished 161st, according to official reports given out last night. Jack had the idea that he finished twenty-sixth and so informed a number of questioners yesterday, but any runner is liable to become confused after tramping thirteen miles trying to keep from stepping on the heels of 1,700 other entrants.

ANOTHER BEATTY SHOTPUTTER.

Clarence Lawrence Beatty, a brother of Rus Beatty, the intercollegiate shotput championship holder, appears to be following in his brother's footsteps in his record-breaking performance with the iron pill. In the dual meet between Lafayette and Swarthmore colleges young Beatty won the event competing under the colors of the former college. He is also an adept in the high jump which he also won with a leap of 5 feet 5½ inches.

MRS. N. P. ROGERS PLAYED.

More than sixty women golfers teed up in the first one day tournament of the season yesterday over the Englewood Country Club course, among them Mrs. N. P. Rogers, of this city. She returned a net score of 106, Mrs. W. J. Faith, of Wykagyl, having low net with a mark of 89.

LEALS AT MORRISTOWN.

Captain Fred Dickerson will lead the Leal School baseball team at Morristown tomorrow afternoon, where the local players are scheduled to clash with the academy nine of that place.

KOLEHMAINEN STILL LEADS DISTANCE RUNS

HANNES KOLEHMAINEN

Hannes Kolehmainen again proved in convincing style recently that as an amateur distance runner he is practically in a class by himself at present. Fifteen hundred athletes, among them the leading cross country men in the East, tried in vain to follow the pace set by the Finnish Olympic champion in a 12½ miles road race from Fordham, New York, to City Hall, New York city. Only a few, in fact, were able to keep Kolehmainen within sight at any time after the third mile. The Finn finished in splendid physical condition one minute ahead of his nearest rival, Harry Smith, the ten mile national champion, with Gaston Strobino, third in the Olympic Marathon, a close third.

In the nine innings Delaney did not allow a single hit and the opposing team's one run was scored on an error, a stolen base and a sacrifice. With [illegible] the local high school team [illegible] would have their work cut out for them, and should the school [illegible] bearing the South Orange [illegible] they would stand in a fair way to win the title. The game [illegible] High School, which comes [illegible] the latter part of the season, is another contest that will have an important bearing on the awarding of the State title.

One of the teams which P. H. S. is not scheduled to meet, and one that has been making mud of the strongest teams in the New Jersey title is Rahway High School. This aggregation has not lost a single game in the last five played, and a win over Trenton on the latter's grounds is included in this summary.

ANOTHER RUNAWAY FOR N. P. H. S. NINE

Boroughites Enjoy a Trip to the Country and Down "Hoe Weilders."

Following a wagon trip to Bernardsville, the North Plainfield High School baseball team, proceeded to clean up with the High School nine of that place on the latter's baseball diamond yesterday afternoon, turning the trick by a score of 12 to 1. A plentiful sprinkling of fielding errors, together with eight healthy swats, brought an easy victory to the visitors, the home team being held without a run until the last inning, when they pushed across their lone counter of the game. Arriving at Bernardsville after 4 o'clock the N. P. H. S. players did not get into action until nearly 5 and the latter part of the game took on the appearance of a twilight performance.

The boroughites started off with a rush and before the Bernardsville players had gathered their wits together, a collection of five runs was hung up, or just four more than the home nine got during the whole affair. Towley appeared in a come back role on the North Plainfield mound, putting up a stellar exhibition during the farce. He allowed but four hits and whiffed seven of the opposition, while his opponents on the mound were touched up for twice as many hits and between succeeding in fanning the same number.

A fusillade of errors at opportune moments enabled the boroughites to sew up the game in the early stages and pile up counters at will, the Bernardsville boys never displayed any inclination to play real baseball. Dunning led the hitting, as he has done in the last few games played by the N. P. H. S. nine, pounding out three of the safe variety during the afternoon and evening, two of which were two baggers. Burner was a bright factor in the N. P. H. S. lineup, getting two hits, one a double, and handled six putouts and two assists.

BY-LAWS DRAWN UP FOR CITY LEAGUE

Restrictions Placed on Selection of Players—Weekly Games to Be Played.

A committee appointed by the governing board of the City Baseball League has just finished its task of drawing up a set of rules and by-laws which will govern the league's playing during the season which is scheduled to open next Saturday afternoon. The new organization is composed of four teams, Spicers, Saurers, West Ends and Royal Giants and will play Saturday afternoon ball on the Fillmore avenue and Clinton fields. It will be composed of teams having as members, bona-fide members of the organization they represent.

The regular monthly meeting of the new league is set for the first Monday of each month and special meetings of the board may be called by the president, upon written request of three members of the board or upon his own discression. The players on the teams entered in the league must live or work in the territory bounded by Westfield on one side and Dunellen on the other side.

U. S. LEAGUE LOOKS LIKE A BIG FIZZLE

Driscoll's New York Team Now Thought to Be a Thing of the Past.

According to the New York Sun, Dave Driscoll is likely to lose his franchise in the new United States League, because he brought his aggregation of baseball stars to New Brunswick Sunday afternoon instead of showing up for the scheduled game in connection with the new league's race. If Dave did come to Brunswick he must have stayed indoors, for none discovered him roaming the streets of that village and his baseball team did not play at Amusement Park, for the only game at that place was played between the Hungarian Giants and the South River nine. The failure of Driscoll's New York team to show up in Newark Sunday looks as though the league team would soon be a thing of the past. Here is what the New York Sun has to say:

"Although the promoters claim that the baseball game scheduled with Reading on Wednesday will be played, the United States League in Newark probably is a thing of the past. The local club was to have met the New York team at Morris Park in Newark yesterday afternoon, but when the time came for the game to start the umpire walked on the field and announced that the New York club had gone to New Brunswick to play and not only forfeited to Newark, 9 to 0, but had also lost its franchise.

"Less than 100 people paid twenty-five cents to see the game and they got their money back. The Newark International League was playing in Montreal yesterday and the promoters of the new league club had been hoping for a large crowd. Now it is probable that the owners of the club will abandon the idea of remaining in Newark."

SCHENCK HITTING BALL HARD.

Harold Schenck, of West Front street, who is playing right field on the Rutgers College baseball team, has become one of the most consistent hitters playing on the team. A game seldom goes by but what he gets one or two of the safe variety and his long bingles have been the features of many of the intercollegiate clashes. In Saturday's game with New York University, Schenck chalked up two hits, one of them a home run, he also scored three runs, stole two bases, was passed twice and scored a putout.

CADORE ALLOWS BUT FOUR HITS

Leon Cadore, the husky twirler who performed for Plainfield last season, showed some real baseball ability when he adorned the mound for nine innings in a Buffalo uniform against Baltimore yesterday afternoon. In the nine innings he twirled Cadore allowed but four scattered bingles, got a hit and four assists and fanned four. He was taken out in the ninth when Gowdy was sent in to bat for him. The game was won by Buffalo by a score of 3 to 2 in the twelfth inning.

GAME AT HYDE OVAL.

North Plainfield High School has a game scheduled with Roselle High School at Hyde Oval tomorrow afternoon. It is understood that the Roselle manager has this game booked for the grounds at that place, but N. P. H. S. played the first contest there and there is evidently an error in the rival manager's schedule.

SIXTY-FIVE RUNS.

In a game of baseball played at Warrenville Saturday afternoon the team of that place defeated the Watchung A. C. by a score of 33 to 32. The game was called at the end of the fifth inning because of the cold.

LAWSON HELD UNDER BOND ON THE CHARGE

Negro Physician Out on $5,000 Bail to Await Action of the Grand Jury.

Arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning charged with a serious offense, Dr. James F. Lawson, colored, of East Third street, was held in $5,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury. He was released when the required bond was furnished by George W. Cole, who furnished a similar bond following the physician's arrest yesterday by Police Chief Kiely, the complainant, to assure his appearance in court this morning.

Although Miss Karin S. Anderson is still in a critical condition at Muhlenberg Hospital, the physicians at that institution report her as steadily improving. When taken to the hospital Monday night, on the order of Dr. F. J. Hughes, of Somerset street, her condition warranted investigation and when she became seriously ill yesterday morning, Chief Kiely communicated with County Prosecutor Alfred Stein, in Elizabeth. The latter accompanied by the chief went to the hospital where they secured a statement from the supposedly dying girl. Dr. Lawson's arrest followed. He was held at headquarters, but was not placed in a cell.

Dr. Lawson in an interview this morning through his counsel, William N. Newcorn, denied that his conduct as a physician had been unlawful.

SPORTS' EDITOR ARRESTED HERE

Hicks, New York Journal Man, Taken into Custody on Non-support Charge.

PAPER GIVES BOND

Husband Lives at Sister's Home in Somerville and Wife Here Cares for Their Five Children—Hearing Tomorrow.

William H. Hicks, Jr., sporting editor of the New York Evening Journal, who formerly lived with his wife at 719 Hobart avenue, but who has been making his home with a sister at Somerville, was arrested aboard the 8:02 o'clock train for New York, at the North Avenue station, this morning, on a charge of non-support, preferred by Overseer of the Poor Henry L. DeForest. The complaint was made by Mrs. Hicks. The arrest was made by Patrolman Hendershot, who after a search through the train, located Hicks in one of the rear coaches.

The prisoner was arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza and held in $500 bail for a hearing tomorrow morning. Later in the day Hicks was released, the required bail being furnished by the New York Evening Journal. It was learned today that the police had been looking for him for the past two weeks.

Hicks was married to Miss Florence Barrett, his first cousin, December 5, 1903, in Brooklyn, by the former's father, Rev. Cleveland Hicks. The couple lived in Brooklyn until 1905, when they removed to this city. Mrs. Hicks alleges that her husband left her January 31, last, and although according to the husband's statement, he contributed to the support of his wife until April 9 last, Mrs. Hicks asserts that the support ceased on that date. She says that she has been supported by friends since then. She has five children from one to eight years of age.

Since April, Hicks is said to have made his home with his sister, Mrs. Francis I. Weidener, of Somerville. His salary as sporting editor for the New York Evening Journal is said to me $70 a week.

MARSTON AND BADHAM IN FINALS OF TOURNEY

Max R. Marston, of Cranford, representing the Pingry School, was 1 up on his opponent, W. T. Badham, of Lawrenceville, at the end of the morning round of 18 holes, in the final of the Eastern Interscholastic golf championship, at the Plainfield Country Club today, and yet, according to those who have been following the play, it is a toss up as to who is likely to win out. Both Marston and Badham are playing fine golf. The other half of the 36 holes is being played this afternoon.

Philip Carter, the champion of Pawling, and winner of last year's tournament, was disposed of by Badham in one of the early matches, although he carried his man to the eighteenth green. The last hole of the local course is only 120 yards long and Carter's iron shot from the tee was sliced to the rough, so that he required four for the hole. Meanwhile Badham's tee shot landed within six feet of the pin and he ran down the put for a two. Yesterday afternoon the path of the Lawrenceville youth was obstructed by C. H. Ogden, a schoolmate, but Badham came out a winner by a 4 to 3 margin. Ogden had previously won from E. B. Grier, of Pawling, in a nineteen hole match. In the semi-final round yesterday afternoon, Marston beat Stearns, 2 up and 1 to play and W. T. Badham beat Ogden 4 up and 3 to play.

ATTENDING CONVENTION.

H. P. Greenwood, representing Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, is attending the annual convention of the Knights of Columbus being held this week at Atlantic City and yesterday he was made chariman of the committee on location of next convention. The reports showed that the Newark Council led all of the rest in membership, 485, which is the largest in the State. Trenton with 411 members is second and the Plainfield and Elizabeth councils showed a large increase.

MARK LEES' FUNERAL.

The funeral services of Mark Lees, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Naylor, of West Front street, Saturday night, were held at that place yesterday afternoon, the Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, officiating. Nephews acted as bearers and interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

EXPEL KENNEDYS FROM KORTCHA

Rev. Louis Bond's Daughter and Latter's Husband Ordered From Albania.

GREEKS BANISH THEM

Missionaries, Who Have Worked There for Six Years, Are Now at Salonika—They Are Well Known Here.

Rev. and Mrs. Phineas B. Kennedy, American missionaries at Kortcha, in Southern Albania, have been expelled by the Greeks and are now in Salonika, according to advices received by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions at Boston. Mrs. Kennedy is the daughter of Rev. Lewis Bond, of this city, and is well-known here. Her husband was formerly a Presbyterian minister at Easton, Pa., but for a number of years he and his wife have been engaged in foreign mission work.

The information that the Kennedys have been expelled came to the mission board from the United States Consul at Salonika. Secretary James L. Barton, of the mission board, said today that Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy were sent to Kortcha six years ago and had been conducting a school for Albanian girls there. They were in the city when the Greeks took possession of it.

"Mr. Kennedy," Mr. Barton added, "has given himself very fully to the work of relieving the great distress prevailing in the city and in the neighboring villages. In the last letters received from him he reports that apparently the Greek officials were suspicious of this, as a guard was placed in front of his house and the names of all those who came to the house were recorded."

The British cruiser Gloucester left Salomika yesterday at full speed for Smyrna after the receipt of an urgent summons from that city.

Disturbances at Smyrna are threatened.

Among the forty-three members of the class to be graduated from the International Y. M. C. A. College at Springfield, Mass., next month, perhaps the most popular and one who has achieved great success in all-around endeavor is Charles H. Line, of East Front street. "Charlie," as he is commonly known to a host of friends in this city, is vice president of the senior class, has been a member of the college gymnastic team for two years, having served as manager during the past year; has been a member of the class basketball, baseball and track teams and student instructor in gymnastics, one of the most important positions that can be gained by a student of that institution.

During his senior year Line has acted as coach of the Springfield Grammar School Athletic League, one of the biggest organizations of its kind in the country. He has also served in the capacities of a teacher in a Sunday-school class for two years, is at present the president of the McKinley Literary Society, the business manager of the "Stendent," the college literary organ, and is active in every social function held under the college's auspices. The "Massasoit," the senior class graduation issue, speaks of him in the following terms: "Above all a business man, a manager of men and money, a gymnast. Thoroughly earnest and sincere, with a heart as big as his endeavors. Never known to waste a second."

Line is a graduate of the Plainfield High School in the year of 1908 and served as assistant physical director of the local Y. M. C. A. previous to entering the institution where he will be graduated as a physical director. He is planning to enter a Western medical college in the fall and take a M. D. course.

WAYWARD GIRL.

Marie Lane, colored, fourteen years old, of East Third street, was arrested last night on a charge preferred by her step-mother, who claims she is incorrigible, associates with evil persons and was constantly running away from home. She will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

MISSIONARY TO SPEAK.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:45 o'clock when Miss Julia Craft, a returned missionary from India, will give a talk.

MADAME HOMER IS HEARD HERE

Charming Prima Donna Gets Great Reception at Plainfield Theatre.

SOCIETY FILLS HOUSE

Four of Her Seventeen Numbers Were Sung in German—Generous With Encores—Charity Circle, King's Daughters, Nets $200.

Madame Louise Homer's appearance in a song recital at the Plainfield theatre, last night, under the auspices of Charity Circle, of The King's Daughters, was the most notable musical event of the season. For nearly two hours the famous prima donna charmed her large audience with a variety of songs, everyone of which met with enthusiastic approval. Mrs. Homer was exceedingly generous and several times during the recital she gave an encore and in one or two instances where the selection was received with continued applause, she showed her appreciation by repeating the song.

Mrs. Homer not only expressed her great delight over the reception given her here upon her first appearance, but especially remarked about the elaborate stage decorations. Following the number, "The Song of the Shirt," composed by her husband, Sidney Homer, the singer was presented with several large floral gifts from admiring friends and she was obliged to re-appear several times and bow in acknowledgement. Both the singer and audience seemed to be in perfect harmony, the former being generous with her program, and the latter equally generous in its appreciation as shown by the applause.

The program comprised seventeen numbers, all being of the popular sort. The first four were sung in German, but after that she confined herself to songs in English. It would be difficult to say which selection met with the greatest favor, but judging by the applause, "A Ballynure Ballad," Old Irish arr. by Herbert Hughes, and "Wings," by B. Snerman-Merriman, struck the popular fancy to such an extent that Mrs. Homer graciously repeated them. The selections were all of such a character that the wonderful voice of the singer was heard to the best advantage showing its great possibilities. The success of the recital was in no small degree due to the work of the accompanist, Mrs. Edwin N. Lapham, who shared the honors of the evening.

Charity Circle will clear $200 from the recital, which will be used in the support of The Day Nursery and other allied interests.

GRANNATT'S FUNERAL WILL BE IN ATLANTA

Edward R. Grannatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Grannatt, of this city, who died at his home in Atlanta, Ga., yesterday, as told in the Daily Press of yesterday, was widely known here. At one time he was employed as a traveling salesman for the Armour Beef Company. Word was received by the parents today that arrangements had been made for holding the funeral and burial at Atlanta, in consequence the remains will not be brought to Plainfield but will be placed in a mausoleum at Atlanta.

Since going south some time ago, Mr. Grannatt organized the Southern Mausoleum Company. At the time of his death he was a promoter of the Georgia Mausoleum Company. Mr. Grannatt was married to Miss Adelaide Elsberg, of North Plainfield, since becoming interested in his southern ventures and she survives him; also his parents and three brothers, Harry Grannatt, of San Francisco; William B. Grannatt, Jr., of Los Angeles, Cal., and Charles E. Grannatt, of this city, and three sisters, Mrs. Bradley Hall and Mrs. Fred J. Harris, of this city, and Mrs. W. A. LaMott, of Elizabeth.

William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, president of the Men's League for Woman Suffrage, will preside at the meeting and will also have something to say about suffrage. He promises a genuine surprise. In order to cover the expenses for holding the meeting a nominal admission fee will be charged.

PUBLICITY IDEAS PRIZE WINNERS

Dunellen Man Gets $100 Offered for Best Advertising Scheme and Slogan.

TO BOOM PLAINFIELD

"The City-by-the-Hills" the Best Catch Phrase—Brooklynites Capture the Two Other Prizes Awarded.

Prize winners in the Chamber of Commerce contest for the best ideas for desirable publicity for Plainfield were announced by the Plainfield Chamber of Commerce committee today. The first prize, $100 for the best plan and best slogan, goes to Henry G. Tuttle, of Dunellen. J. Maynard Morgan, of Brooklyn, receives the second award, $50, for the strongest presentation of advertising suggestions, while W. E. Severn, also of Brooklyn, gets the third prize, $25, for his unique ideas presented.

The committee consisted of Paul Burns, Peter McDonough and H. N. McNenimen and the judges were Father Bogan, Rev. J. S. Zelie and Mayors Clark and Stewart.

Here is the first prize plan and slogan:

"I hope that the Plainfield committee will adopt as a slogan my suggestion of 'The-City-by-the-Hills,' and I take pleasure in handing you a complete plan for advertising the city.

"I advocate the subway and elevated for advertising the advantages of Plainfield. It is broad enough to cover all points of, and all classes of New York city and all its boroughs. To use magazines is out of the question. They cover the whole United States, and you cannot expect much return beyond a circle of one hundred miles. To use one or two newspapers would leave a great part of the field untouched, and create much jealousy. To use all the dailies of Greater New York would require an immense sum of money.

"A proper series of car cards would cover all that newspaper advertising could do—would reach three million people daily—be constantly reiterated—while the vital facts could be more completely and cheaply given in a small pamphlet sent to inquirers.

"Even if two newspapers were [illegible] combined circulation [illegible] would [illegible] be against three million passengers three times a week against every day—a few hours of life against day and night display; or about [illegible] the efficiency.

"The busy people of Plainfield generally rush from the ferries to the subway or elevated and there they see the advertisement of the leading firms of America.

"The busy people of the great city are the ones who ride on the subway or elevated, and if Plainfield's advantages are advertised there, these busy people will see them.

"If the busy people of Plainfield get together with the busy people of Manhattan, the advantages of your 'City-by-the-Hills' will be made known to the very class of citizens whom you are seeking.

"An advertisement of Plainfield in the columns of a daily paper would be like an ambassador sent to a mass meeting at Carnegie Hall. He might not be seen even if he carried a banner—and he would be less likely to be heard—but these subway and elevated cards stand separate and practically alone—they shout and they cannot be obscured.

"Completeness in advertising adds decidedly to its value. If every paper in Manhattan is used the effect would be telling—but the cost would be immense. If every car in the subway and elevated is used, the completeness is also perfect, and the cost would be about what one newspaper would charge for a reasonable space.

"You have the goods—the air—the room—shady streets—schools and churches—pure water—all within easy reach of the great city. You must make the points known to the people whom Plainfield wants—not to the sick and stay-at-homes and invalids, who may read the papers, but who are unfit to move about the city—although they might recover their health if they moved to Plainfield!

"Your committee should look after the customers, keep lists, co-operate with real estate agents, and mail the booklets when called for. The public spirited local press would undoubtedly do its part in publishing the news facts of the work as it progresses, and help to keep up the enthusiasm.

"If I did not feel certain that what is here proposed was the best, cheapest and most certain method of booming your city, I would not recommend it.

"I append a short summary of what would be done, and its approximate cost, together with some rough drafts of the cards with which the campaign would be opened.

Summary.

"For approximately $7,500 you can place a colored artistic card in every car, for three months, on the subway and elevated lines of Manhattan, and on the elevated and surface lines of Brooklyn, before three million passengers daily.

"These cards to be a series of ten. Each bearing the slogan of the City-by-the-Hills, and an invitation to address the Chamber of Commerce for maps and particulars.

"Each of the series to claim clearly and distinctly separate advantages for Plainfield.

"The printing of the 10,000 cards, in colors, will cost about $500. They will all be held up day and night, and will run about, over the two great boroughs, like living salesmen hunting out possible customers.

"This is to be followed for three months thereafter by posters on all stations costing about $3,500.

"You cannot beat it.

A Series of Ten Cards.

"Automobilists—Should take a trip to Plainfield—22 miles—good roads—any speed—on main road to Atlantic City, Princeton and the South—good public garages and ample room for private ones. Excellent roads—level or easy rolling in different directions, through fine scenery.

"Commuters — Should consider Plainfield as a place of residence. Frequent trains—many expresses—ample seating accommodations—no tunnels—direct connections to Liberty street or Twenty-third street—transports the city work in 20 minutes to our shady streets.

"Manufacturers—Should turn to Plainfield as a location—splendid railroad facilities—three main railroad lines—easy arrangements for sidings—many superior factory sites—ample and varied housing for employes.

"Retired Persons—Will find in Plainfield many advantages. An ideal place for people living on their incomes, who value shade and quiet and cleanliness—rents are reasonable—club facilities, golf, tennis, etc.—good theatres, and churches of all denominations—a fine library, and the ideal comfort of a garden patch.

"Professional Men—Will find Plainfield a convenient spot. Lawyers, especially, and a splendid home location, where the restful nights strengthen them for the weeks' work in the city. The rapid growth of our City-by-the-Hills also offers encouragement to first-class physicians.

"Parents and Children—Can secure in Plainfield a real life. Our city gives the children a chance for healthy growth, tempting excursions, and life in the open air. Schools are admirable and the social advantages of the best. Think of what 'a garden' means to children.

"Invalids and Elderly People—Seeking rest should try Plainfield. There are few more satisfactory places of residence than our City-by-the-Hills. Long droves on good level roads, varied if desired, with invigorating hill climbing. Well shaded streets—reasonable rents—easily accessible from New York or Philadelphia.

"Newly Weds—Take our advice and settle in Plainfield. Here's a chance for the first nest—plenty of trees—cheerful social surroundings—aways from the bustle of the great city—safe from the annoyances of flat living and janitors—full value for the first investment, whether it be rent or purchase.

"Traveling Salesmen—Should not pass Plainfield and its activities. Do not miss our active city. Good hotels and fine cafes—taxicabs and livery service at reasonable rates—a thrifty population of 20,000—splendid train service, giving easy access and equally easy exit.

"'Yourself'—Do you know Plainfield and its inviting hills? We try to talk to 'Everyman'—how about 'Yourself?' If you have a little money to invest—if you want a home—if you love peace, health, shade and quiet—come and see us. We will make you a home whether your stay is short or long."

This is the second prize winning plan:

Second Prize.

"This is in the nature of suggestions to the publicity manager and does not attempt to go into the details of the advertising 'copy' that would be used. Suitable copy could be prepared only by long and careful study of local conditions and minute advertising analysis which is obviously impossible in this paper.

"First of all, the publicity manager whom we will style 'the manager' must gather complete and minute data about the following conditions:

"First, Population — Quantity; growth by decades and annually in past 10 years; character, statistics of population subdivided into income classes, $15 weekly and under; $15 to $25; $25 to $50; over $50 weekly in active business, and retired wealthy or self-supporting residents. Mortality statistics. These statistics will show the character of the people and the town.

"Second, Real Estate—Detailed statistics about number and value of homes, owned and tenanted. Business properties, extent, value and character suitably classified. Available real estate sites for homes, residences, stores and factories. Tabular records of growth in quantities and values of each kind of real estate. Include herewith taxation and insurance statistics.

"Third, Health and Sanitation—Records showing climatic conditions, health reports, water supply and character, sanitary and municipal improvements. Facilities for care of sick, hospitals, etc.

"Fourth, Municipal or Public Service Improvements—Gas, electricity, water supply, trolley and railroad transportation, police, fire and health departments, parks, suburbs, etc.

"Fifth, Education and Culture—Statistics and descriptions of schools, public and private libraries, Y. M. C. A., literary, musical, civic and social organizations, public places of amusement for all seasons of the year. Opportunities for improvement and pleasure for all classes of people.

"Sixth, Manufacturing—Data descriptive of manufacturing conditions. Details of growth, present conditions and future opportunities.

"Seventh, Stores—Comprehensive description of number, kind and volume of business, retail and wholesale which will show the ratio of prosperity attending business ventures and amount of trade and competition that might reasonably be expected.

"Eighth, Financial—Statistics on banking and financial conditions of past and present.

"Ninth, Business Opportunities—Specific instances of successes achieved in past with their relation to opportunities still undeveloped. Suggestions to prospective residents as to fields of business activity worthy of consideration. Resources undeveloped or fields under-crowded. Also, opportunities for employment and character of renumeration, wages and salaries, with prospects that might encourage the efficient, conscientious workman or employe to move to Plainfield.

"Tenth, Churches and Charities—Descriptive data concerning the moral and spiritual and benevolent influence surrounding, and activities afforded Plainfield people.

"Eleventh—Cost of Living—Taxes and municipal expenses, detailed. Personal living expenses, rents, board, and supplies, past and present.

"Twelfth, Politics and City Government—Summary of political and muncipal history and eras of prosperity thereunder.

"Thirteenth, Moral and Physical Cleanliness—Matter pertaining to those conditions which make life worth living and promote happiness to prosterity. Liberal collection of photographs of all kinds, not omitting views of the bad conditions.

"Fourteenth, Accessibility—Proximity to centres of business, etc.

"With the above material gathered with care and completeness and properly compiled and classified, productive study can then be given to the "Advantages" of Plainfield.

"The next consideration is that of suitable literature exploiting the "advantages."

"First, Literature for Advertising—A general descriptive, profusely illustrated book on Plainfield enumerating in a general way the foregoing data. This book should be both attractive and alluring and expense should not be spared in its preparation or printing.

"Second, Individual Booklets—These should go into details about each particular group or classification or "Advantages." They should deal with concrete conditions and not generalities and each subject should be in a separate booklet.

"These are to be used as follow-up material for the mailing list and inquiries. Their value depends upon the straight-to-the-point hammer-one-thought-home idea and not serve as grapeshot ammunition.

"Third, Follow-up Letters—A carefully prepared and strongly edited series of letters (to be typewritten and not imitation) for mailing in conjunction with each individual booklet. Of course specific inquiries are to be answered by personal letters or visit by the manager where necessary.

"Having now fortified ourselves with ammunition we are ready for the actual advertising.

"Mature deliberation, and consultation with advertising writing and publicity experts should evolve 'copy' with strong pulling power.

"In a general way, every advertisement should carry an illustration or attention-compelling feature. Well balanced proportions of white space and display type are, to my mind, assets in attractions. One, or two at the most, lines of display are more compelling than the confusion of many display lines. Each advertisement must carry the slogan of the town, neatly displayed either in the border, the signature, or the illustration. Each advertisement should confine its argument to one central idea or 'advantage' and should contain all the essential arguments to make that 'advantage' convincing. Avoid the disastrous results of a strong advertisement or argument being nullified by the insertion of another dissimilar or additional unnecessary thought. Confusion of the reader's ideas results in no inquiry—and inquiries are what is sought, not mere general publicity.

"The advertisements should all be prepared in advance of the starting of the campaign, and each should dove-tail into the subsequent one in such a way as to present a systematic line of thought, which also has the effect of causing the reader to watch for or expect further news of Plainfield in case the particular advertisement before him does not clinch his desire to investigate.

"Every advertisement should close with the suggestion, sometimes positive, sometime tempting, sometimes merely suggestive—but never omitted—that the reader communicate with the Plainfield Chamber of Commerce and request information or booklet. This inquiry should be solicited in every advertisement in the most persuasive manner possible, making it both easy, desirable and profitable for the reader to look up Plainfield.

"The sizes and frequency is purely detail of management dependent upon cost, etc. It is advisable, however, that when once the campaign starts it should continue at such frequent intervals that there will be no interruption of effect or interest partially aroused.

"Plainfield's publicity success will be measured only in number and character of inquiries and the wisdom and promptness with which each is handled and followed."

Wetumpka Sentinels, Troop 5, Appeared in the "Round-up" Last Night.

Fifty-six uniformed boy scouts, under the direction of Scoutmaster Allen E. Beals presented the "Round-up," a thrilling western drama, in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church, last night, the occasion also marking the first public appearance of the boy scout fife and drum corps which has been recently organized. The lighting effects, which were the work of Scoutmaster A. V. Searing, Jr., added greatly to the success of the play, and the scenery, presenting a picture of the western plains at sunset, was most appropriate.

Martin A. Korff directed the music and the program consisted of selections played by the fife and drum corps, semafore signaling, first aid exhibitions in bandaging by J. Cartwright and Homer Scruton on George Walsh and Raymond Hansen; reviving a drowning person by LeRoy Western and C. E. Rice; knock together cradle stretchers by Harold Zeek, C. E. WORDS FROM HOME.

Statements That May Be Investigated. Testimony of Plainfield Citizens.

When a Plainfield citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can rely on his sincerity. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a Plainfield resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

Albert Naylor, musician, 256 E. Second St., Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I suffered from an ache in the small of my back and sharp pains when stooping or lifting. I took Doan's Kidney Pills, as I was told that they were good for such trouble and by the time I had finished two boxes, I was feeling better in every way. I have often recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to people I have heard complaining of kidney trouble."

AN UNIQUE ELECTION.

Denver's first election under a new charter will be held on Tuesday, May 20, and the event is looked forward to with eager interest by citizens who believe that the commission plan of government will destroy many of the political evils that have long flourished in the Colorado capitol. For the six offices to be filled there are more than 150 candidates.

The campaign now drawing to a close is in many respects the most unique in the history of Denver. Under the new charter no candidate is allowed to receive any assistance from any party organization, from any corporation or from any united organization of any kind. Neither is a candidate allowed to spend any money other than for the distribution of his own literature and the hiring of halls in which to make speeches. All candidates are nominated by petition.

The election will be conducted under the preferential system of voting. Each voter will register his first choice for each office, then his second choice and on the third choice he may vote for every other candidate if he so desires. The votes are counted for choice first, and if no one has a majority of all votes counted, then the second choices are added and if there is no one with a majority then the third choices are added and the persons having the largest vote are declared elected.

The objection of some in the Fourth ward to the Mayor's appointments for membership on the committee for tax assessment adjustments because that district is not represented is a silly one. It matters not where the men selected reside and the Mayor would have been perfectly justified to have gone out of the city were it necessary in order to obtain the right sort of timber for the purpose.

What Muhlenberg Hospital has long needed is desirable publicity and now it will get it for William Starr Bullock, a real "live wire" as a publicity man, has been elected a governor of the institution. Bullock will prove valuable in other ways, too, for he believes in doing things and he does them right.

A "paint-up day" to follow its "clean-up" day is advocated by the Trenton True American. Good idea. We need both here in Plainfield, and if the agitation started by the West End Civic Association brings results "The City-by-the-Hills" will be much more attractive.

So "The City-by-the-Hills" is the accepted slogan for Plainfield. It is a good one for the name, Plainfield, is most misleading. The city is nestled at the southern slope of the Watchung mountains. It is very charmingly situated and beautifully laid out.

For the purpose of organizing a league to advocate commission government for Plainfield, a meeting will be held at the new Public Library lecture room tomorrow night. All who are interested in the movement are invited to attend.

Prize winner in Chamber of Commerce contest for best means of advertising Plainfield states that "the rapid growth of our City-by-the-Hills also offers encouragement to first-class physicians. Great advertisement, eh?

William R. Hearst has declared war on Japan. As a trouble-maker the king of the yellows holds first place, but fortunately nobody takes him or his papers seriously.

After the luncheon tomorrow and the mass meeting on Friday night, Plainfiled people should be pretty well informed on the woman suffrage question.

The best proof of William E. Tuttle's popularity as a congressman is the fact that the usual early crop of candidates for the job is noticeable by its absence.

They say they never come back, but it is noticed that Mark Fagan has won a place on the commission election ticket in Jersey City.

Wilson's compromise was in reality a defeat and it is the first one of any consequence he has suffered since entering public life.

And James Smith, Jr., has "come back" too.

WILL MEET TO HEAR REPORTS PRESENTED

Statistics Compiled to Show Results of Netherwood Fresh Air Camp Work.

Reports showing the results of the work at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home during the past year will be presented at a meeting to be held in the interest of the Home at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Monday night at 8 o'clock. Charles W. McCutchen will preside and the speakers will include William D. Murray, who will tell of the work at the Home as he has known it, and Rev. Dr. John R. Henry, pastor in charge of the great East Side parish of the Methodist church, New York, will speak.

Special music has been arranged and a picked choir of twenty children will sing. The work is a most worthy one, and unique in many respects. While the aim of the work is to build up the health of both mothers and children, who otherwise might not have any opportunity to receive medical and the fresh air treatment, and to give relief to hundreds who during the trying days of the summer, swelter in the crowded conditions of the city, still in the heart and mind of Miss Sara Curry, the founder and mainstay of this work, there is an aim still more important in its effect upon these mothers and children, it is the making of character, uplifting the lives of the people. The temporal relief is a matter of second consideration. The success of the work in the past seasons has proven beyond a question of doubt that it is a work whose results are everlasting. For mothers have been literally made over and nowhere will you find sweeter and better children than those who have come under the influence of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home and its noble leader. It may interest friends of the work to know what has been accomplished at the Home and at the Missionary Day Nursery, New York, during the past year. The work accomplished at the Home last year is as follows:

Mothers and children received at the Home, 4,127; religious services held, 37; entertainments held, 17; average cost per child for ten days' outing, 83 cents; average cost per day for Home expenses, $38; total disbursements of Home for the season, $2,556.

The work accomplished at the New York nursery follows:

Children received, 45,135; poor families visited by Miss Curry, 8,129; poor sick people visited by Miss Curry, 6,890; poor sick nursed, cared for and given medicine, 5,525; Thanksgiving dinners provided for, 7,267; Christmas presents for children, 986; poor people helped with food, 2,754; poor people furnished with garments, 5,551; poor people buried, 9; work found for women, 194; work found for men, 141; work found for girls and boys, 157; money given to mothers at home during sickness, $541.

The concern will deal in fire detecting devices. The incorporators are Ernest A. Lowe, agent; William R. Townsend, Ulysses Grant Tingley, Charles S. Sturtevant and Frank W. Wendt, all of Plainfield, with the exception of Wendt whose home is in New Brunswick.

WED STENOGRAPHER AND TROUBLE ENSUES

Importer and Son at Police Headquarters Following Quarrel.

William Mitchell, a New York importer, living at 1345 Watchung avenue, and his only son, George Mitchell, were in police headquarters this morning as a result of a quarrel caused indirectly because the elder Mitchell took unto himself as his second wife, several weeks ago, his young and attractive stenographer employed in his office. When the Messrs. Mitchell were asked to make their complaints in writing, however, they declined and their differences were settled without any court proceedure.

According to William N. Newcorn, counsel for the elder Mr. Mitchell, his client signed his life property right to the Watchung avenue estate to his son and three daughters in the latter part of April. When Mr. Mitchell came home, however, with his second wife, who is said to be younger than any of his children, trouble began and last night the son attempted to put his father out of the house by force. Lively times followed and the police were called in, which resulted in the appearance in court of father, son and the young Mrs Mitchell.

Mr. Mitchell said he had planned to make his home in New York and when his son started hostilities last night, had his personal belongings packed and ready for shipment today.

Mr. Mitchell's children refused to discuss their father's marriage, which had been kept secret until today.

BRYAN HONOR GUEST OF PAN-AMERICANS

Cabinet Premier Chief Speaker at Big Banquet Tomorrow Night.

New York, May 14.—Secretary of State Bryan is coming to New York tomorrow to speak at the second annual banquet of the Pan-American Society of the United States. The invitation of the society to Secretary Bryan to be its chief guest of honor was extended some time ago by Director General John Barrett, of the Pan-American Union, and Henry White, president of the society. The banquet was to have been given the latter part of April, but was postponed until tomorrow night because of Mr. Bryan's trip to California.

It is expected that Mr. Bryan will, in his address, give further public intimations of the policy of the State Department in regard to the Latin-American republics, as the occasion of the banquet will be his first visit to New York since his appointment as Secretary of State.

The Pan-American Society of the United States was organized a little more than a year ago, with headquarters in this city. Its membership includes representative men from all over the country interested in Pan-American affairs. SHE LOSES SUIT TO RECOVER RENT CLAIMED

The third trial of the case of Isabella Hill, executrix of the Dyett estate, against Elliott Cutter, of East Orange, before Judge Vail at Elizabeth yesterday, resulted in finding of no cause for action. In the other trials the jury disagreed. The action was brought to recover $1,200 for the rent of a property on Belvidere avenue for the year 1909. S. S. Swackhamer represented the defendant and Raymond T. Parrott the plaintiff.

The plaintiff claimed an agreement for the leasing of the property and that the defendant left it on their hands without ever taking possession.

Mr. Swackhamer for the defendant claimed the latter did not take possession because several hundred dollars' worth of repairs which were to be completed by October 15 were not made, and because they gave a written lease which when tendered was not the agreement made.

The plaintiff further claimed that a written lease was not promised, but was only offered as a matter of convenience and that the repairs were voluntarily offered by the plaintiff, but were not a part of the contract of letting.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

By FRANCES MARSHALL

When to be Extravagant.

No one can economize all the time; and often enough an orgy of extravagance follows a time of stringent forced economy. But no one ought to want to economize all the time; and legitimate extravagance wisely indulged in makes necessary economy easy, and does much to prevent orgies referred to.

About Clothes.

For instance, it pays to be as extravagant as possible where children's shoes are concerned. Well-made shoes are really an economy, for they outwear the cheaper, more poorly made shoes long enough to pay for their extra cost. Street shoes for grown-ups, too, should be of as good quality and make as you can reasonably afford; house shoes, which receive much less wearing usage, may be "bargains" to pay for the expensive street shoes.

An extravagance which does not pay the woman who must buy her wardrobe for a small amount is the buying of many-so-called "novelties" in the way of neckwear, belts, blouses, fabrics and accessories of various kinds. These soon look out of style and, even if they do wear well, it is a hardship to have to wear them until they are worn out.

About Hats.

The French woman never feels that she can skimp on hats. She will wear a home-made gown of inexpensive material with grace, because she knows how to carry it off and she knows enough to buy appropriate and becoming accessories; but she will generally wear a hat which her American sisters would consider an extravagance. And perhaps she shows good sense in this extravagance. In a crowd of women—at a tea or in the street car or at any gathering where hats are kept on—is it not usually the hats which make the most impression? Few persons have time to notice the chain of beads, the expensive belt or the new-fangled purse which another woman has; but the well chosen, becoming hat, made of materials of good enough quality not to look towdry—this does show and attract attention.

In the House.

The same rules hold good about extravagance in the house as those governing extravagance and economy in the choosing of the wardrobe. The first rule is to pay as much as you can afford for the things which get the hardest wear; the next is not to get unnecessary nicknacks, so that you can afford to buy a few comfort—and beauty-giving objects for the house. For instance, a living room with one good picture, and a cheerful and beautiful lamp is much more attractive than one with many gilt-framed pictures of cheap make with scant and ugly lights.

For the medium sizes the skirt will require three and a quarter yards of material twenty-seven inches wide and one and three-quarter yards of flouncing for the drapery.

Some Cookery Suggestions

COOKED BANANAS.

WE eat bananas freely, yet very few people cook them. They are delicious when fried.

Peel as many as you require and cut them in two lengthwise. Fry them in a small quantity of butter and serve hot.

Banana tarts are also very nice. Cut the bananas into round slices and put in a custard. Place pastry round the pie dish in the same way as you would make a baked custard pudding.

Banana Puddings.

When making banana pudding peel the bananas and rub them through a colander. Mix with milk and an egg and bake as you would an ordinary milk pudding.

Another way of making a banana tart is to cut up the banana as you would apples and flavor them with a little lemon and sugar, adding a small quantity of water. Put a light puff paste over and bake in a quick oven.

Three oranges and four bananas make a large dish of fruit salad. Peel and slice both fruits and sprinkle sugar over them. Some people like to add a little ginger flavor. The addition of a nice, juicy apple might also be made.

Flavored With Lemon.

Banana Fritters.—Make a batter of one and a half cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder sifted in it, one egg, a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, two-thirds of a cupful of milk and a little sugar. Pare and cut in slices four bananas, squeeze over them the juice of half a lemon, add to the batter and fry in deep fat.

Combined With Nuts.

Baked Bananas.—Skin the bananas, cut in half lengths and then in half again. Brush a pie plate or earthenware dish with butter or bacon or ham drippings, place the bananas on the dish cut side down, sprinkle with a little salt and bake until light brown.

Banana Sponge.—Cover the bottom of a flat baking dish with small sponge cakes or lady fingers. Upon these place a layer of whole bananas. Sprinkle well with sugar and the juice of one whole orange or lemon, cover with chopped nuts or shredded cocoanut and bake in a medium oven about fifteen minutes. Serve with custard sauce or thick cream.

Daintily Browned.

Fried Bananas.—Skin, scrape and cut the bananas the long way, then across, cutting each banana into four pieces. Have the iron frying pan or griddle very hot, grease with bacon drippings or butter, put in the bananas and fry a nice brown. Dust with a little salt, take from the griddle with spatula or cake turner and place around the steak. Garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Tommy Found Only Fluffy In the House.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Rabbits That Went Out After Dark.

DADDY laid down his paper. "What is it?" he asked. "Another story?"

"Yes," replied Jack and Evelyn, "and please tell it to us right away, for mother says we must go to bed."

"Early to bed, you know," daddy answered, "and early to rise is said to make a man healthy and wealthy and wise.

"At any rate, that was what Mrs. White Rabbit said to her children. As long as they lived at home she could see that they did not stay up late or go out after dark. When Fluffy and Bun and Snow White went to live in the rabbit house in Tommy Tucker's yard it was very different. All Mrs. White Rabbit could do when they parted was to kiss them lovingly on their little pink noses and say, 'Now, my children, I hope you will try to do right and remember all I have taught you.'

"Fluffy and Bun and Snow White promised, but there were so many lovely things to be seen outdoors that often they were not a bit sleepy when bedtime came.

"One night they heard a scratching at the door of the rabbit house.

"'Who's there?' asked Snow White. But there was no answer.

"'I'm going out to see what that was,' Snow White said.

"'Oh, no; don't go!' the others begged. 'You know what mother said about going out after dark.'

"But Snow White said he was only going to take a weenty peep, and he opened the door very gently and slipped out.

"Fluffy and Bun waited and waited, but Snow White did not come back. In the morning they hunted for him, but they never saw him again.

"One night as they were sitting in the rabbit house Fluffy and Bun heard a soft purring outside the door.

"'I wonder what it can be?' said Fluffy to Bun.

"'I'm very, very curious,' Bun replied. 'Of course I won't go out, but I'm going to take a peep out of the door.'

"Bun went to the door, and then he went out and shut the door.

"The next morning when Tommy Tucker came out to see the rabbits he found only Fluffy in the rabbit house. By this time Fluffy had learned to understand human talk pretty well.

"'Oh, dear,' Tommy Tucker cried; 'that horrid gray cat has been here again and stolen another of my white rabbits!'

"And when Fluffy heard that he shuddered and went right into the rabbit house, although it was broad daylight and Ponto, who hates cats, was frisking about with his master."

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Then and Now.

In the early days of the suffrage movement—or perhaps I should say in the middle period—it was the custom to hold pleasant little parlor meetings from October to May, in which members of the Equal Suffrage League would congratulate themselves on having such enlightened views.

After May there would be a subsidence of interest in the subject. The "Fire Side" suffragists would return to their fire sides—that is to say to their hearths and homes; and the "Always Wisers" would return to the simple life, which consisted in being a suffragist—and in letting other people be whatever they might choose.

It is very different now. May brings no letting up of suffrage activities. Take our own vicinity for example. On May 2 Dr. Thomas Hall, is will be remembered, made a stirring campaign speech in the Plainfield High School. On May 3 the parade in New York enlisted many Plainfield women. On May 5 and 6 there was a very successful South Jersey conference on Woman Suffrage. On May 13 there was a yearly meeting of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Friends in Philadelphia and the President of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, Mrs. Edward F. Feickert, was invited to make the chief address. On May 15 there will be a luncheon at the Park Club in honor of Mrs. Everett Colby, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee of New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association. And on the evening of May 16 the Men's League for Equal Suffrage will hold a meeting in the Plainfield theatre at which some of the finest speakers in the country will be heard.

Elsewhere in the local papers will be found accounts of the local meetings but it is of interest to note the beginning of live suffrage sentiment in South Jersey.

On the afternoon of May 5, three towns, Millville, Bridgeton and Vineland united in a most enthusiastic conference at Millville.

On May 6 twelve towns were represented in the Camden conference.

Some North Jersey suffragists attended these conferences. Mrs. LaMonte, of Bound Brook; Miss Pope, of Jersey City; Mrs. Scott, of Montclair; Mr. and Mrs. Riley and Mrs. Edward F. Feickert, who presided at the meetings, as State president. Mrs. Scott took for the subject of her address "How to Use Our Friends the Antis." A novel suggestion came from a Cape May member. It was to take up "Sea Shore Work' at Cape May. A tent was immediately promised and this will be used as Suffrage Headquarters during the summer.

On the evening of May 6 in Camden, Mrs. Beatrice Forbes Hale made a powerful address. Other speakers were Mrs. Florence Howe Hall and Champlain L. Riley.

Outside of New Jersey the great suffrage cause is marching on.

Wisconsin suffragists were victorious on May 6, when the Assembly concurred in the Glenn referendum bill. The Senate favored it 17 to 15.

In Norway the Constitutional Committee of the Storthing decided unanimously on May 2 to introduce a bill bestowing the franchise upon women for all elections. The progressive majority in the Storthing assures the passage of the bill.

AND IT WAS SCOOP'S FAVORITE GRANDMOTHER, TOO

"MAC" SAYS

Who's Who In the "Pets'" Infield.
Who stands up sturdy behind the plate?
Who is the catcher the fans call "great?"
Who pegs to second never too late?
Walt Nelson.

Who is the "Iron Man" out on the mound?
Who makes a buck-shot out of the "pill?"
Who grinds batters like grist in a mill?"
Cliff Randolph.

Who grabs the balls as they ride the air?
Who pulls the plays that make rooters stare?
Who sweetly smiles when the umpires glare?
Garretson.

Who is the veteran tried and true?
Who breaks up ball games the season through?
Who does the things no one else can do?
"Bill" Stallings.

Who covers short like a streak of light?
Who digs in always with all his might?
Whose fielding is simply out of sight?
Williams.

Who is the wizard so grim and "lean?"
With baseball wisdom packed in his "bean?"
Who does the finest stunts ever seen?
Howard Craig.

With Leon Cadore twirling gilt-edged ball for Buffalo, Jack Martin playing like a wizard at short for the Rochester team, and Dave Driscoll making things hum for the other U. S. League managers, Plainfield fans can obtain plenty of "breakfast food" during the week, commenting on the stunts this trio pulls off.

P. H. S. baseball players have advanced the information that they are driving toward a State championship. It wouldn't surprise many of their followers to see them turn the stunt although they will have to take many other teams into consideration besides Trenton and Seton Hall.

A real test of their batting ability will be forthcoming at South Orange this afternoon, when they face a twirler having a no-hit game to his credit.

CHAMPIONSHIP BALL GAME.

Having put a damper on the aspiration of every junior aggregation in this vicinity with the exception of the Shamrock A. C. and the Monroe A. C., the Netherwood A. C., a fast local nine, will tackle the latter aggregation next Sunday afternoon in the hopes of disposing of one of the remaining contenders for the city championship. Denny will do the twirling for the Netherwood nine while Schinkle will hold his slants at the receiving end. The rest of the challenging combination will take the field as follows: Hoffmaster, first base; Luthman, second base; Moore, short stop; Trotter, third base; Mullin, left field; Henzel, centre field, Stebor, right field.

AMERICANS WHO WILL FIGHT WITH ENGLAND ON THE POLO FIELD

Here are shown some of the American players who will meet the Englishmen in the international polo match in June. The British team, which left London on May 7 for America, in order to be here in plenty of time to practice and get accustomed to the field, is said to be an almost even match this year for the home team, although the betting has gone as high as 6-4 in favor of the Americans. H. P. Whitney, captain of the team representing America however, has kept his recruits practising to the utmost of their capacity ever since the weather permitted, and the Britishers will have to have a very good team to take the trophy away from them.

"MATTY" ON TRAIL OF PERFECT CONTROL MARK

Running along with Walter Johnson in his efforts to pitch a record number of scoreless innings is Christy Mathewson, who is setting a mark for perfect control that may never be equalled.

The star twirler of the New York Giants finished his forty-seventh inning Monday afternoon without a base on balls. Matty has given only two passes this year. That was in the first game he pitched against Boston on April 17. His record since then follows:

Date	Opp.	Inn.	BB.	BH.	R.
Apr. 23	—Phila	0	0	5	1
Apr. 29	—Brooklyn	13	0	6	0
May 3	—Phila.	8 2-3	0	6	3
May 7	—Cincinnati	7 1-3	0	7	3
May 12	—Chicago	9	0	3	1
		47	0	27	8

Matty has won five games and lost one so far this season. He was beaten by the Phillies on May 3, the score being 3 to 2, two men being out when the winning run was scored.

SOME SAY CHASE IS "LAYING DOWN"

Once Popular, is Now Scored by Baseball Fandom—Once Great at First Base.

Hal Chase, the man who revolutionized the playing of first base, once among the most popular of ball players of the country, is now scorned by the fans. Why?

"He's laying down," bellowed ten thousand at his last exhibition, before the New York American League club, the Yankees, started on their first trip to the West this year.

They hooted and howled at him throughout the game. Chase was batting under .200, whereas he used to be over or close to the .300 mark. His brilliant playing at first base was a reminiscence. His services to the team were mediocre—perhaps no better than those of any other of the sixteen first basemen in the teams of the big leagues. Once he was the unquestioned premier.

Chase has not gone back. He is not old and stale. Occasionally he shows flashes of his form of other years. The fans were satisfied that he didn't want to play. The cause has not been determined. Some of those who pretend to know how Frank Chance, late manager of the wonderful Cubs of Chicago, now manager of the Yankees, handles his men, say he is brutal. They think this may have disgusted Chase. Others believe Chase would like to be sold to some other club of the American League.

While Chance doesn't talk about it, he knows that Chase is not playing up to form. He said in Detroit the other day he would trade his first baseman if he got an equivalent. Chase has sulked at other times—last year, when Harry Wolverton was manager and several years ago, when he quit before the end of the season and went to his California home. Any manager who can make him play up to his capability will have a good start toward winning a pennant.

DRISCOLL'S TEAM OUT OF U. S. LEAGUE

Dave's Aggregation Dropped at Meeting Held in Washington Yesterday.

At a meeting of the United States baseball league held in Washington yesterday two teams were dropped from the league. They were the Washington and the New York teams. The latter team is managed by Dave Driscoll, manager of the Brunswicks. Driscoll had some dispute with the manager of the Newark team on Saturday over a guarantee and Driscoll did not play a scheduled game Sunday.

With the dropping of these two teams the league now is composed of but six clubs. The schedule will have to be revised.

BASEBALL NOTES

As a "comeback" Otis Clymer, of the Cubs, is a whale. He is batting and fielding with the best of them.

Jim Scott's vacation last season must have been the right dose. Jim is pitching in wondrous fashion for the White Sox.

Winning 14 of their first 15 games has placed Jack Hendricks' Denver Grizzlies away out in front in the Western League race.

Now that catcher Johnny Kling has joined Cincinnati, Manager Tinker believes that his reds will be heard from soon.

Now the New York fans are roasting Hal Chase. They claim that Hal has not been doing his very best for Frank Chance.

Manager "Wild Bill" Donovan, of the Providence team, has given a pretty bunch of ball tossers for the International League campaign.

"King" Cole, the former Cub pitcher, now twirling for the Columbus team, won the first three games he pitched in the American Association.

"Spike" Shannon is finding tough picking his first season as manager. His Virginia (Minn.) team got a bad start in the new Northern League.

The new Georgia-Alabama League with clubs in Anniston, Talladega, La Grange, Newman, Gadsden and Opelika, takes the place of the old Southeastern League.

Even if they do try to get away with that "protested game" wrinkle now and then, the Phillies are playing excellent ball and will bear watching.

Miller Huggins has the Cardinals up on their toes and fighting every inch of the way. The Cards are liable to cause the Giants, Cubs and Pirates heaps of trouble before the curtain falls.

The way Bill Dahlen's Superbas have been performing of late, shows that William intends to worry National League teams not a little before the pennant is won.

That costly bobble of Fred Snodgrass in the world's series last Fall must have caused Fred to brace up a bit. He is playing great ball for the Giants this season.

The work of the Boston Braves' kid battery, Pitcher James and Catcher Whaling, is a delight to one George Stallings. The former Northwestern League stars have shown regular big league stuff.

It is probable that Harry Hooper, of the Red Sox, is the only man playing regular in either of the big leagues who wears spectacles. As Harry claims the glasses have helped his batting, Jake Stahl should stake the balance of the Sox with goggles.

That Summer Home of Yours —

Do You Know How Much GIMBELS Can Do To Make It a Little Bit of Paradise?

PEOPLE'S IDEAS differ widely as to what constitutes Summer comfort and happiness, with something like the poet Omar's book and bough as the minimum of requirement.

We care not a whit about these individual preferences, except as they involve the GIMBEL ability to satisfy them. And of that we are more than convinced, upheld in our belief by the approval of many friends, who have learned to look to GIMBELS for their needs.

You may be a "bungalowfer" with your cozy little habitation nestling among the wooded hills, or perching brazenly upon the sand dunes—or the possessor of a country house of stately mien with verdant lawns and sweeping driveways about it. In any case you can find in these rich housefurnishing stocks at GIMBELS whatever you are looking for—and much that you probably didn't know existed—to make your Country Summer a delight. The time for your migration is here—the furnishings you need, you need at once—GIMBELS is at your immediate service.

Quotes from the New York Times.

To decide a bet, a peddler stood all day on the Strand in London about a month ago offering gold sovereigns ($4.86) for sixpence (12c.)

He was only able to sell four.

Of the thousands who passed, ninety-nine per cent. had sixpence but they were skeptical and afraid the sovereigns were counterfeits.

Only four men were clever enough to know a real sovereign from a counterfeit, and to take advantage of the opportunity, and buy.

Ask yourself if you know a real opportunity from a counterfeit.

Are you clever enough—have you enough self-confidence—to take advantage of the real opportunity?

JEFFERY FAVORS UNIT VALUE PLAN

Trade Board President Urges Adoption of New York Idea in Assessing Property.

UNIFORM ASSESSMENT

Prominent Business Man Explains How the Scheme is Worked and Declares it is Most Equitable and Satisfactory.

From William Jeffery, president of the Board of Trade, has been received the following communication regarding his ideas as to how could be made more uniform and equitable the local assessments:

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

The proposed reassessment to be undertaken by the assessors assisted by the committee of citizens appointed by Mayor Stewart is a most important matter to all citizens and business men of Plainfield. We all know that if the property of one person is assessed at a higher rate than a similar property of someone else, the first man is paying more than his fair share of the taxes, with a consequent handicap to his business. The essential thing in assessments is, that they shall be equitable between different property owners.

In order to secure uniform and equitable assessments, it is necessary to find out the relative values of different parcels of property. And it is really easier to ascertain the relative values than it is to get the actual values in each case.

The unit value plan used in the city of New York has been adapted to revaluations made by a number of smaller cities and some such plan should be followed in this proposed assessment revision, and the revision should be extended to cover the whole city.

Everybody knows that the most valuable land in a city is in the business section and that the values, as a general rule, decrease toward the city limits. In order to have a standard of comparison it has been found most convenient to use the foot front method. That is to say, to decide what is the value per foot front for a lot away from corner influence in each block. If a foot front value for each block is decided upon and written in on a large map of the city and this map open to public inspection at a meeting of citizens, it will not be hard to arrive at the relative value of the different blocks. Any inaccuracies in the first attempt will be pointed out and can be corrected. It is obvious that the values along the different streets should, as a general rule, decline from the center of the city toward the city limits, and if those placed on the map do not run uniformly, it will either be because there are some local conditions that can be explained, or the figures will need to be corrected.

After these values have been decided upon by the public, it is only a matter of detail to work out the valuation for each property. Of course, allowance has to be made for lots of unusual shape or depth. There are several convenient rules in use in different cities, as in Newark and New York, for determining, with fair accuracy, the relative value of lots different in depth from the usual lot.

After the land values are determined, the building value can be taken up separately, following the plan used in New York of establishing a square foot value for different types of houses and buildings. Of course, the value of a building cannot be ascertained by rule as easily as the value of land, because buildings, while never worth more than the cost of construction, may even be worth less because it is no longer suited to the locality or is out of date for some other reason. These are all matters that should be allowed for and can be checked up by the experience of real estate men, builders and from recent known sales.

But the first essential, and one in which the public generally should be called upon to help, is to establish the relative value of lots in different parts of the city so that each section, or district or block will be placed on the same relative basis as others. When we have done this we can compel the rest of the county to do likewise and wipe out discrimination.

Yours sincerely,
WILLIAM JEFFERY,
President of Board of Trade,
Plainfield, N. J.

"PHONOGRAPH DANCE."

The first of a series of "phonograph dances" was given at the Plainfield Country Club, last night, and proved to be a popular function. There were about forty guests and the program included many of the latest musical hits. The dancing was continued until about 11 o'clock. It is planned to give these dances every Wednesday night throughout the season. A private subscription dance will be given at the club tomorrow night.

BIRD PRESIDENT OF N. J. MFG. ASSOCIATION

Plainfielder, Who Heads the Organization, Has Had Remarkable Career.

Manufacturers in New Jersey are congratulating themselves that at a time when there are so many important questions to deal with and political conditions are in a turmoil, that J. Philip Bird, of this city, has been chosen president of the Manufacturers' Association of New Jersey. Of Mr. Bird it is said that by his training and experience he is peculiarly fitted to head this organization. He knows problems of manufacturers, his friends say, from the ground up, having climbed the ladder of industrial success from the lowest round of apprenticeship through the various stages until finally, since 1908 he has held the position of general manager of the National Association of Manufacturers.

As a boy Mr. Bird served an apprenticeship in the machine trade at Boston and at the age of twenty-two he was made superintendent of the shops of the Leckie Manufacturing company, afterwards merged into the Hobbs Manufacturing Company, of Worcester, Mass., builders of box-making machinery. From factory superintendent, and salesmanager he rose to the position of managing director of the concern. Mr. Bird has invented and perfected machines for paper box-making as well as other lines of manufacture and has been made sole honorary member of the Western Paper Box Manufacturing Association. At present he is treasurer of the Watson-Stillman Company, of Aldene, and is interested in the Kupfer Bros. Co.'s paper mill at Riverside, Mass., and until January 1, last, was the treasurer of the company. He was treasurer of the Worcester branch of the National Metal Trades Association and a member of the National Administrative Council of that organization.

As a result of his election as president of the Manufacturers Association of New Jersey he becomes president of the New Jersey Employers' Liability Company. He is said to possess a remarkable ability to grasp the aspects of a problem from a business-point of view. He is said to be a ready speaker on inductrial topics. His wife is a strong rival for forensic honors, though more particularly along literary lines and Mr. Bird's daughter, Louise, a student at Smith College, has already demonstrated her lineage by winning honors in a written discussion of economic problems.

SONG DEMONSTRATION AT WASHINGTON SCHOOL

Under the direction of Charles L. Lewis, music supervisor of the public schools, a song demonstration was given by the pupils of the Irving School last night. There was a very large audience comprising the parents and friends of the pupils and all enjoyed the program.

Each grade with the exception of the kindergarten, sang a selection, and in addition there were solo and general chorus numbers. The pupils sang by note showing the progress made during the year in the study of music. The results were very satisfactory. The pupils of this school will give an exhibit of their year's work at the school on Thursday afternoon and evening, May 22. The exhibition of the pupil's work of the Jefferson School will be held this afternoon and evening.

ROBERT A. MEEKER IMPROVING.

State Supervisor of Roads Robert A. Meeker, of Belvidere avenue, is slowly improving from injuries received in an accident in New York on Saturday, when he fractured a rib. He was alighting from a trolley car, when he tripped and was thrown to the pavement breaking a rib. Mrs. Meeker accompanied her husband and assisted him in reaching a physician's office. After receiving temporary treatment he returned home. He will probably be detained at home for several weeks.

FUNERAL OF MRS. CHASEY.

The funeral service of Mrs. Mary A. Chasey, widow of Addison Chasey, who died yesterday at Muhlenberg Hospital, will be held at 402 Park avenue, this evening. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church, will officiate. Another service will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Christ's church, Shrewsbury, and the burial will be at Shrewsbury. Mrs. Chasey was born at Little Silver and was 62 years of age.

IS THIS FOR YOU?

Rev. Dr. Gabriel Reid Maguire will preach at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Sunday night on "Man's Restoration." Says the pastor: "The unregenerated are especially invited." He adds that there will be a question box as a prelude to his discourse.

ANTIS WILL FOLLOW IN SUFFRAGE WAKE

Opponents to "Votes for Women" Plan Mass Meeting to Be Held Here.

Following on the trail of the woman suffrage advocates, who storm Plainfield tomorrow night, the antis will invade this city on Tuesday night, May 27, when they will hold a mass meeting at the Plainfield High School auditorium. Miss Minnie Bronson, secretary of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, will be the chief speaker. Miss Florence Buck, of Trenton, will talk on "the working woman's side of the question." The meeting will be presided over by Mrs. E. Yard Breese, of Trenton, head of the New Jersey antis organization.

Miss Alice Carpenter, of Boston, and former State Senator Colby will be the chief speakers at the mass meeting to be held tomorrow night at the Plainfield theatre. Miss Inez Milholland, of New York, will answer questions. Dr. W. L. Saunders will preside.

LOCAL CONGREGATION TO ENLARGE EDIFICE

The building committee of the Congregational church, comprising Frank A. Weeks, chairman; J. M. Whiton, Dr. Frank T. Clawson, James McClymont, J. V. Beekman and Mrs. Caroline T. Lincoln, were authorized, at a meeting of the church society, last night, to go ahead with the plans for the proposed addition as soon as the necessary funds are in hand. This work has been delayed considerably by reason of the fact that according to the conditions under which the church acquired its property it is not allowed to mortgage it and any improvements must be paid for in cash.

Several bids were received for the work, the lowest being $15,500 presented by George W. Nolte. All of these figures were thrown on the screen together with the detailed plans for the new building giving those present an excellent idea as to what is proposed. The new building will provide Sunday-school and social rooms, a women's parlor, together with a modern kitchen with all the latest equipment. It will be so built that this part can be thrown into the church auditorium proper, making one large room for meetings requiring the additional seating capacity, or it can be shut off from the main room as required.

WILLARD M'KAY THE H. S. VALEDICTORIAN

Based on the scholarship standings of the senior class members during the four years' of work in the High School, Williard McKay has been selected as valedictorian of this year's graduating class and Miss A. Ayers has been awarded second honor or that of salutatorian. This is the first time in some years that the highest award has been secured by a boy, the girls having maintained the highest rank in scholarship as a rule.

The findings of the faculty, when they made their report of the senior class orators, were unusually close this year, and so near together were the highest five members in scholarship that it was decided to announce three pupils under the head of "honorable mention." They are Miss Neva Waldorf, Miss Gwendolyn Stanton and Miss Edith Brokaw.

The commencement speaker for the graduation exercises, which will be held on Thursday night, June 18, will be Rev. W. Warren Giles, of East Orange, pastor of the First Reformed church of that place.

LICENSE YOUR BOW-WOW.

All dog licenses expire and are subjected to renewal on or before Friday, June 20. Chief Kiely today began the serving of notices on all persons owning or harboring mongrels in the city. During the past year several persons have been fined following their arrest for keeping unlicensed dogs, but evidently due to the stringency with which the law is enforced, few recent violations have been recorded.

HICKS AGREES TO PAY WIFE $30 A WEEK

Sporting Editor Released Following Settlement Satisfactory to Court.

Awaiting arraignment on a charge of non-support preferred by his wife, to whom he has been married ten years, William H. Hicks, Jr., sporting editor of the New York Evening Journal, was released when the complaint against him was withdrawn following a conference between lawyers and City Judge De Meza. According to the verbal understanding arrived at, Mr. Hicks is to pay his wife $30 per week, for a period of two weeks, and at the expiration of that time, must make a report to the local magistrate stating his intended future relations between himself and wife. The ruling means that in a fortnight he must either become reconciled with his spouse or make permanent provisions for the support of her and their five children. The defendant was released in the custody of his counsel, Councilman Francis J. Blatz, of the law firm of Codington & Blatz, and the $500 bond, furnished by his employers for his appearance this morning, was returned.

The temporary agreement was arrived at following a conference between Councilman Blatz and V. W. Nash, Jr., who represented Mrs. Hicks. "My client," said Mr. Blatz, "has always paid his wife $30 a week for her support and only ceased payment to her when she refused to allow him to see their children. For this reason he wished to have the trouble thrashed out before a court of justice and a permanent settlement made. One son is living at present with Mr. Hicks, while the other children remain in the custody of their mother. According to the agreement just made, she will be at liberty to see her son any time she desires to do so, and the same privilege will be accorded to Mr. Hicks."

MATINEE PERFORMANCE OF P. H. S. SENIOR CLASS PLAY

Members of the Plainfield High School graduating class taking part in the annual senior class play which will be presented at the Plainfield theatre, tomorrow afternoon and Saturday night, held their final rehearsal this afternoon, everything now being in readiness for the matinee tomorrow afternoon. Samuel Howe, a member of the High School faculty, who has attained imminent success as coach of former school productions, has been drilling the cast for this year's play, "The Good-Natured Man," one of Oliver Goldsmith's foremost works.

The various characters were selected from a large field of senior class members who entered the tryouts and as a result the different roles are taken by characters particularly well adapted for the parts they have been assigned to. Rehearsals have been in progress under Mr. Howe's supervision both at the High School and at the theatre for sometime past and when the curtain rises tomorrow afternoon for the initial performance, the amateur thespians will without doubt acquit themselves favorably in the eyes of the matinee audience. The main performance will take place at the theatre Saturday night.

TO HEAR SOME MUSIC.

Members of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society will hold an entertainment and dance Saturday night in the township hall, which has been appropriately decorated for the occasion. The event will be the last of the season under the society's auspices. A feature of the affair will be the appearance of a local glee club which will render several selections. Other vocal artists and instrumentalists will also appear.

BANISHED ONES ARE HEARD FROM

Rev. Mr. Kennedy Tells of His Arrest in Albania in Letter to Father-in-law.

HE DENIED CHARGES

Accused of Doing Political Work—His Credentials From Prince Nicholas Wefe Unavailing — Gives Vivid Picture.

Rev. Lewis Bond, of this city, has received no word from his daughter, Mrs. Kennedy, who with her husband, Rev. Phineas B. Kennedy, has been engaged in mission work at Kortcha, Albania, regarding their expulsion from Kortcha, as reported in the Daily Press yesterday. In speaking of the matter today Rev. Mr. Bond said that he had expected to hear of their banishment. He got a letter from Mr. Kennedy writen April 16, while he and his wife were still at Kortcha. Among other things it states:

"We still live under Greek martial law with no regular mail facilities. Owing to political conditions here, I went to Salonica to interview our American consul and to get permission to do relief work. His excellency, Prince Nicholas, gave me a letter which he said would help me in visiting the villages to do this work.

"The governor of Kortcha appointed a committee for this work with the bishop as chairman. This committee asked me to sell the flour I had brought from Salonica saying the money would help the poor to buy corn. They obtained ninety liras for half of the flour. An Englishman, named Mr. Maynard, representing the Macedonian relief committee of England, was visiting Kortcha and gave this committee seventy-five liras, but as soon as he went away the committee discontinued holding meetings to distribute this money. However, there is much suffering in many parts of Albania. I sought permission from the Servians to go to Dibre, but they claimed that a state of war existed there and that I could not go. As we continued to hear of the imprisonment of our Albanian preacher in Elbasan, Gligor Tsilka, we decided we must go and see how matters stood with him and his family.

"It being impossible for Mrs. Kennedy and myself to both leave the station here and I having just returned from Salonica, she decided to brave the snow and ice and muddy mountain trail. Reaching Elbasan she was enabled to interview the Servian authorities in Mr. Tsilka's behalf. She was treated most courteously. To her great pleasure and to the joy of his family, Mr. Tsilka was allowed to return to his home. However, he was still in confinement as a guard was placed at his gate. The authorities intimated to her that this guard would soon be removed and Mr. Tsilka set free. There being no mail between here and Elbasan we do not as yet know whether or not he is released.

"Last Monday I started with Petro, one of the boys who lives with us, to go to his village in Colonia. As there is no carriage road all the way I went on horse back and took my stereopticon lantern. Petro thought he could use a bicycle he succeeded in borrowing. A heavy storm arose and it soon grew very dark. We lost the mountain trail and were necessitated to sleep out all night in the mud and the rain along a river bank. Early the next morning we went to Quafazezza. The people were very kind letting us warm and dry ourselves by the open fire-place. I learned of ten refugee families there and promised to return by that road. We were glad to meet some young men who had been in America. They had worked in the round-house of a railroad at Indianapolis. The little girls played cards in one corner of the room. The people are without much enlightening or uplifting influence. We gave some literature to the Moslems and Christians, but found they read it with difficulty. We proceeded to Gostibisht, Petro's village, with the bicycle strapped on over our baggage. The country is beautiful, but wild, having always been infested with robbers. However, I felt no fear, for the people know our American Mission and its work and our Lord said, 'Lo, I am with you always.'

"Petro's mother and old grandfather gave us a warm welcome and soon I was eating fresh boiled eggs and sweet village black bread. I slept at the home of the chief bey of the village. Owing to the political conditions the bey himself does not remain at home now. The fanatical Christians are cutting down his trees and taking possession of his store and other property and threatening him although Petro tells me the bey had always treated the villagers fairly well.

"I arranged to show my stereopticon pictures the next evening. But as the women and children in the "WAIT AND SEE," IS OPINION EXPRESSED ON FRIEDMANN CURE.

The above picture shows Dr. Frederich Franz Friedmann, the Berlin physician, whose results of the serum test for the cure of tuberculosis physicians are watching. They are divided on the question of efficacy of the new treatment. The general opinion expressed, however, by officers of institutions where the Berlin physician held clinics in the United States and Canada is:—"Wait and see."

The public is cautioned against hoping for too marvellous results and at the same time is told not to despair. All will be done to help the scientist.

Hailed at first as an almost certain cure for tuberculosis in cases not too far advanced, the serum treatment of Dr. Friedmann is at present the target of skeptics in the United States. The American public was inclined at first to believe that the Berlin physician would check the ravages of the white plague, and there was some adverse criticism of American medical societies, boards of health and the federal medical authorities for restricting the use of the serum.

bey's home wished to see them I exhibited them there the first evening. In the morning Petro and I visited the church. Later we were asked to see a fine young Moslem who had lost his maid owing to the strain and danger of the political conditions, he being a loyal Albanian.

"While visiting his home where I tried to give some helpful advice, we were told that soldiers were at Petro's home. We went over. The officer said I was summoned to Ersek, the military headquarters. I showed his Prince Nicholas' letter but it had no weight. I went to Ersek and Petro was also ordered to go with me. Naturally I left my baggage expecting to return but the commander at Ersek said I could not return. Petro then went back for my baggage. We slept with guards about us and were brought to Kortcha under guard. On the way we spent the night at Bezjan and I was given an opportunity of exhibiting my pictures on the life of Christ, views of America, etc., and quietly distributed some literature.

"On my arrival in Kortcha I was searched by the head military officer. He said reports had come to him that I was doing political work, writing lists of names of Albanians who wish autonomy, this in opposition to the large meeting convened here some days ago when even Moslems felt obliged to sign their names on the list of those favoring Greek occupation of South Albania. I denied the charges. I invited the official to visit my home and our school and understand more clearly the character of the work which our American Board carries on.

"I have telegraphed my consul for protection in my missionary duties. Our school is undisturbed, but a guard watches to see who attends our Sabbath services. It will be a relief to us when political conditions are settled. The Greek officer under whose care I was placed in Ersek is now visiting me with two other Greek soldiers. This experience shows me that if Kortcha falls within Albanian territory our work will be more free to advance. The opportunity to build up our girls school and to open a boys preparatory school will then be splendid. It is safe for our friends to plan with us for large things for we are ready to attempt great things for God and to expect great things from God that His kingdom may come and His will be done in all these parts."

MORRIS PARK TRACT AN AUCTION OFFER

Opportunity to Real Estate Investors Will Be Given at a Public Sale.

New York, May 15.—The decision on the part of the State Banking Department to sell the Morris Park race track at auction will serve among other things to emphasize the equitable workings of the law enacted a few years ago covering failed institutions. Until quite recently, a financial institution in difficulty was placed in the hands of a receiver or receivers. Without implying any irregular or dishonest action on the part of these receivers, it has been a notorius fact that many real estate bargains have resulted from their liquidation of the real estate among a bank's assets. The receivers' friends were likely to hear before anyone else that offers for the property would be entertained, and the receivers, doubtless eager to realize on the assets, were frequently none too energetic in seeking other offers.

Under the new plan, to be carried out in the Morris Park sale, if there are any bargains developed, the public will get the benefit of them, and with over 3,000 lots placed on the market at once, it is fully realized that many of them must be sold at low figures. Most people have been impressed by the fact that the Morris Park sale will be the largest event in the history of realty selling. Few probably have paused to consider what is likely to be the outcome of an attempt to put on the market at one time over 3,000 vacant lots. It has been estimated that that is about the number of lots marketed in Manhattan and the Bronx under ordinary conditions in three years. Heretofore, 300 or 400 lots have been regarded as a large offering and following the success of a sale of such proportions, there have usually been many expressions of satisfaction that the market could absorb so many lots at once.

What, then, shrewd market observers ask, is likely to be the result of an attempt to dispose of 3,019 lots? If bargain hunters heretofore have found "good picking" toward the end of a sale of a few hundred lots, what will be the possibilities during a sale covering as many thousand? The reply is obvious. In the case of the ordinary voluntary sale, the offering would probably be withdrawn when prices began to fall below the level of the owners' expectations. In the case of the Morris Park sale, the State Banking Department has only one alternative and that is to convert these 3,019 lots into cash.

"If the market will not absorb these lots, in the usual scense in which that term is used," said J. Charles Davies and Joseph P. Day yesterday, "the market has got to take them at whatever the market feels disposed to give."

Many instances have been afforded in the past of the development of an entire neighborhood being retarded by the fact that one large property has been in the hands of some owner who for lack of resources or for some other reason has been unable to develop and improve it.

QUINLAN FOUND GUILTY; HE MUST SERVE TIME

Paterson, May 15.—Patrick Quinlan, Industrial Workers of the World leader, indicted with William D. Haywood, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Carlo Treska and Adolph Lessig in connection with recent silk mill strike riots, was convicted on his second trial yesterday. The jurors yesterday were out only two hours and found Quinlan guilty of inciting to riot.

Quinlan was not present when the verdict was announced. His counsel promised, however, to produce him on the date fixed for sentence. As the convicted leader is still under $7,500 bond, Judge Klenert did not issue a bench warrant. Counsel announced that an appeal will be taken which will act as a stay of sentence. The penalty may be from one to seven years in prison.

Treska and Flynn, both yet to be tried on similar charges, in speaking of the Quinlan verdict last night declared that it was a "class verdict." Treska declared that the verdict would serve to bring the silk mill strikers closer together to continue the strike.

TOWNSHIP LOSES ORDINANCE FOR LICENSING OF PEDDLERS

Bernardsville, May 15.—The township has lost an ordinance. The measure was designed to license peddlers. The committee, at a meeting Tuesday in Basking Ridge, directed the township counsel to draft a new measure, in case the old one cannot be found, to be acted on at a later meeting.

Road and water main questions occupied much of the attention of the committee. Road Supervisor Vancleve Meeker was authorized to survey Claremont road, from the Mine Brook road to McWilliams' corner, and find out what it needs in repairs. He was also directed to do the same with the Coffeehouse road. The committee appropriated $25 toward the opening of Wesley road.

A committee of two was named to act with the supervisor in buying the pipe necessary to pipe Main street from Obert's corner to the brook near Claremont road. The cost is not to exceed $500. The committee accepted the offer of the Board of Freeholders to furnish pipe for drainage near the Basking Ridge School.

The committee decided to open West street and directed that notice be given to property owners to remove all trees and other obstructions before November 1.

WOULD-BE BRIDEGROOM IS ARRESTED FOR ABDUCTION

Long Branch, May 15.—Leon Hicks, nineteen years old, son of the late John Hicks, was Tuesday held in $500 bail to answer a charge of abduction.

The warrant was issued for young Hicks' arrest upon his return Tuesday from Montclair with Elizabeth Grimolizzi, aged fifteen. The boy declares he wants to marry the girl, and would have succeeded if he had found a minister who would perform the ceremony. The warrant was sworn out by the girl's father.

GAVE AN "AD" OF DENTIST IN CHANGE FOR $20 BILL

New Brunswick, May 15.—The jury in the case of Benjamin Wander, a Perth Amboy saloon-keeper, returned a verdict of guilty yesterday afternoon against him on the charge of cheating Joseph Luckick in changing a $20 bill.

Luckick alleged the saloon-keeper gave him a good $10 bill, seventy-five cents in change and some advertising bill, which resembled banknotes on one side and advertised a Perth Amboy dental parlor on the other. He was short $9 in change. Wander denied the charge.

ASKS $10,000 FOR INJURIES CAUSED IN FALL FROM CAR

Elizabeth, May 15.—John J. Shipley, of Newark, is the plaintiff in the Circuit Court in an action brough against the Public Service Railway Company to recover $10,000 damages for injuries received on the night of August 24, 1912. Shipley alleges he was thrown from a car in this city while on his way to Newark after a pleasure trip to Elizabeth. The case was continued yesterday before Judge Vail and a jury.

Shipley says he sat on the rear of the car and remained on it after it reached the end of the route at the Staten Island ferry. On the way back the car lurched, he alleges, and threw him to the pavement. Shipley says he was unconscious eighteen hours at the Alexian Brothers Hospital from injuries to his head.

CREDITORS SEEK COUPLE WHO RAN TWO STORES

Elizabeth, May 15.—Mrs. Jeanette Newman, who, with her husband, conducted two dry goods stores here, is being sought by several creditors, and is said to be on her way to either England or Australia. One store at 1117 Elizabeth avenue was visited yesterday by Sergeant-at-Arms Oliver Conlon, of the District Court, and the contents attached on orders of Louis Schloss, a New York wholesale clothing dealer. Other creditors swarmed about the store making demands on the court attaches that they be allowed to remove goods, but were turned away. A total of $6,000 is said to be owed by the Newmans.

A large moving van backed up to the Broad street store Tuesday night and all its contents were removed before they could be attached. The Newmans advertised extensively and Tuesday night posted a "special sale" sign in the window of the Broad street shop.

WIDOW OF MATE KILLED WITH VANIMAN JUST HEARS OF IT

Atlantic City, May 15.—After tracing her husband's movements throughout the United States, Mrs. Frederick Almas, of York, Pa., was shocked to learn that Almas was one of the crew of five killed July 2 when the dirigible balloon America exploded. The balloon, under the command of Melvin Vanniman, sailed from its hangar at the Inlet the morning of July 2 for a trial trip before an attempted flight across the Atlantic. It was a few minutes later, when 2,000 feet over the sea, that the big gas bag exploded.

Mrs. Almas wrote to the detective department here, requesting information of her husband's whereabouts, declaring she had been searching for him for nearly a year and had reason to believe he was living in Atlantic City. She stated he was an aviator, and Detective Charles Apple, to whom the case was assigned, remembered that a man of that name was on the Vaniman ship.

MAY 13 BRINGS 13TH CHILD.

Hackensack, May 15.—Mr. and Mrs. William H. Snow, of 56 State street, Hackensack, are not superstitious, but they are wondering whether the fact that their thirteenth child, born Tuesday, on May 13, in the year 1913, will result in any disaster for them or the baby. Some one said the baby weighed thirteen pounds, but Dr. G. H. McFadden said nine pounds was correct, spoiling a further combination.

Mrs. B. Swift, of New street, has returned from Peekskill, N. Y., where she attended the ceremony of the profession of her daughter, Sister Mary Philippa, of Mount St. Francis Convent. A large number of friends were present at the ceremony by special invitation.

"ROSE" GREW ON PEAR TREE.

Asbury Park, May 15.—Miss Emma van Gilluwe, instructor in botany at the Neptune High School, was appealed to yesterday to determine whether what appeared to be a perfectly formed white rose, picked from a pear tree on Charles R. Kraine's Whitesville farm was really a rose. Miss van Gilluwe said the flower was the formation of a double pear blossom, a decided rarity. The flower was picked ten days after the other blossoms had fallen from the tree.

ADOPT INSTALLMENT PLAN FOR TAX COLLECTION

Paterson, May 15.—The Board of Finance will try a new method in the collection of taxes. This is the installment plan. It is especially favored as giving owners an opportunity to redeem their property if it has been seized by the city for the nonpayment of taxes.

The decision is the result of a petition of a resident, John McBride, of 44 North Ninth street. His request was that he be permitted to make small payments to the city in exchange for a certificate of sale, which the city holds on the property.

"CLEOPATRA'S ANKLET" HAVE YOU SEEN IT?

Have you seen Fifth avenue's very latest? Not the slashed skirt—no, indeed, but something closely related to it! "Van" has 'em in his show window—by "Van" is meant M. C. VanArsdale.

Down the street comes one of the smartest of the smart set. Her narrow skirt is slashed to perfection and shows one trim ankle to the best possible advantage. But just look at that ankle a bit closer. Notice anything peculiar? Perhaps you think that miladi has absentmindedly clasped her bracelet around her ankle. Not a bit of it! She is simply showing you the very newest fad out—"Cleopatra's anklet"—the jewelled anklet of gold or silver, such as was worn by that long ago leader of fashions, Cleopatra, the beautiful!

If you choose you may have your anklet made of platinoid, thickly set with rhinestones, a most dazzling affair, to be seen from afar! Or, if you like, you may choose a dainty creation of gold plate and semi-precious stones. But if you wish to follow as closely as possible after the enchantress of the Nile, you will buy a real Cleopatra anklet, a reproduction of the Egyptian lady's own favorite ornament. This is a chainlike affair set with generous sized ovals of jade. The large shoe house that has introduced the anklet can give you any style you want.

There's one thing, however, that you must surely remember in buying anklets, and that is to purchase a pair of slipper buckles to match. Then you are complete. With your hat trimmed a la skyscraper, your waistlineless coat, your slashed skirt and your anklet—on the right ankle only, remember—with corresponding slipper buckles on your very high heeled shoes, you are perfectly equipped, whether Antony accompanies you or not, to stroll up and down the street to your heart's content. And you may be sure the air will be full of imaginary dotted lines running from the eyes of all beholders to your new adornment.

READING AND JERSEY CENTRAL.

Those Washington dispatches which announce that the Department of Justice is preparing to move against the combination of anthracite companies, and especially against the Reading Railway's control of the Jersey Central, doubtless refer to the dominating influence of the Reading in fixing the prices of anthracite and in maintaining the exorbitant rates now charged for its transportation. That these are inexcusably high, as compared with the rates both on soft coal and on other classes of freight, was brought out very clearly at the hearings held by the State Railroad Commission last winter. If this combination can be disrupted and competition be restored among the various producers and carriers the public will be sure to be a large gainer.

From the standpoint of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania, however, there could be no advantage in forcing the Reading to relinquish that operating control of the Jersey Central which it now exercises through the ownership of a large block of stock of the latter company. The two roads are not parallel and competing, in the sense contemplated by the law, but dovetail naturally in forming through lines, such as those between that city and New York and Scranton and other points. In this way the Jersey Central between Bound Brook and Jersey City bears the same relation to the Reading that the United Railways of New Jersey, between Trenton and Jersey City, bear to the Pennsylvania Railroad. For all essential purposes they constitute a single line, and it is greatly to the convenience and advantage of the public that they should remain so. Nearly all our larger Eastern railroads, notably the Reading, the Pennsylvania and the New York Central, are made of these separate links welded into a harmonious system. They can now no more be separated than eggs can be unscrambled, in the language of the late J. P. Morgan.

By all means let the Government tackle the Anthracite Trust and break it up, if possible. That would be a distinct public gain. To divorce the Reading from the Central in any other way would be a backward step. Control of the Central by the Reading rounds it out as a compact system, affording excellent facilities to Philadelphia and scores of other cities and towns, and this arrangement is so obviously in the public's interest that it should not be disturbed.—Philadelphia Record.

THE JAPANESE SITUATION.

A settlement of the Japanese matter seems farther off than it did when Secretary Bryan went to California. The matter is much more serious than many men think. The Japanese are a very proud and very sensitive people. They have now switched their position from mere claim of treaty obligation to one of a reflection upon their honor in the enactment of the California law. This is ominous. That is a matter which, of course, under the various peace treaties, is not a subject for arbitration. The national administration has a delicate situation before it, and we earnestly hope they may come out to the satisfaction of both nations, but we confess that we have doubts about it. Governor Johnson in deciding to sign the land bill has made the satisfactory solution a most difficult one.

THE CHICAGO CONFERENCE.

The conference of so-called Progressive Republicans, which was held at Chicago last week, had for its foundation object the reorganization of the Republican party in the hope that it would result in bringing the Progressives, which were for Colonel Roosevelt last year, back into the Republican fold; but in some way these gentlemen did not understand the Progressives.

The representative men in that party do not seem to care about what the organization is, but they do greatly care about who controls and what it stands for. Men like Senators Cummins, Bristow, Sherman and Gronna, and ex-Governor Hadley, are really representative citizens and should have much weight in the party councils, but they had little in the present Republican party. Men of their stamp are not in sympathy with the gang that runs that party, in the National Committee, at this time. Governor Hadley was right when he said that the thing to do, and the only thing, was to eliminate Penrose, Crane, Barnes and men like them. His statement that the people demanded this is undoubtedly true.

There can be no union or even co-operation between the Progressives and the Republicans with men of the Barnes class running the Republican party. It is a shame that this old party should be destroyed by such men, and it is more than surprising that the rank and file of the old Republican party submit to such leadership without rebellion. If the Progressives and Republicans could fight under one banner at the election in November next in New Jersey there would be little doubt about the result; in fact there would be an assured victory for the candidate for Governor who was supported by both these parties. If the Republican party would adopt the initiative and referendum and the recall and would stand for jury reform sincere and honest in character and for the general protection of popular rights, there would be no reason for any other party, but they will not do this. They still adhere to the old gang leadership and refuse to adopt these new political principles and yet ask the Progressives to come with them.

There could never be union without mutual concession, and there never can be any kind of union until the old gang is eliminated.

FRANK CHANCE DAY.

Saturday will be a red letter day in Chicago. Every loyal son of the Windy City will feel it a sort of sacred duty to go to the White Sox baseball park, for there the big demonstration will be held. The day is to be known as "Frank Chance Day," so named in honor of the "Peerless Leader," who successfully piloted the Chicago National League team for several seasons and now returns to the old home town as the manager of the New York Americans. Forty thousand enthusiasts are expected at the big baseball grounds for the celebration, providing, of course, that the weather man is on his good behavior.

Cub fans and Sox fans will forget their differences on that day just for the purpose of cheering the former leader of the Cubs, whose friends in Chicago number in the thousands. Added to the crowd will be delegations of baseball followers from cities and towns throughout the middle States and some from points as far distant as New York, Boston and Philadelphia. In the early afternoon an automobile parade headed by a police escort and a brass band will start from the down town district and move through South Side boulevards to the baseball park. Chance and his team mates will be in the parade, also the members of the Chicago team and numerous other notable figures in the baseball world. The celebration is to conclude in the evening with a banquet at which the "Peerless Leader" is to be the guest of honor.

THE NEW JERSEY DEMOCRATS.

Constitutional convention and jury reform and practically everything else that President Wilson came to New Jersey to have enacted has been killed by the Democratic Legislature in the present week. Whether by future conference the Democrats of the State can get tgoether is doubtful. If they do get together they may pass some of htis legislation. If they fail, it will be a repetition of the action of the people in 1910, when they repudiated the Republican party for failure to keep its political promises. They will do the same thing to the Democrats in November next unless they do better than they have this week at Trenton.

"There are tricks in all trades" and the poultry shippers practise one that for down-right cussedness is hard to beat. The poultry is starved for a day and then "loaded" causing its weight to be a fictitious one. Sand and gravel are mixed with the food in some instances, while it has been a common thing even to use cement. This is frankly admitted by the shippers, who actually believe that they are doing nothing wrong. City Sealer Bender, of Elizabeth, tells of cases where after starving the poultry they are fed with salt causing them to drink a large quantity of water. Men who are responsible for this sort of thing are the meanest type of thieves.

The contributing editor for Saturday will be the head of a movement which has for its purpose the training of boys to make them finer men both morally and physically.

JAPAN OPTIMISTIC THO GOV. JOHNSON WILL SIGN

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Tokio, May 15.—The Japanese Foreign Office is optimistic as to the outcome of the controversy over the California alien land ownership. In reply to an inquiry a high official said: "The negotiations between Japan and the United States are progressing satisfactorily. We expect to reach a friendly and permanent solution of the trouble."

Sacremento, Cal., May 15.—Expressing his determination to sign the Alien Land bill recently passed by the Legislature, Governor Hiram W. Johnson, of California, yesterday telegraphed to William J. Bryan, Secretary of State, a long explanation of the action taken by the Legislature. The message was in answer to the request telegraphed to the Governor by Secretary Bryan at the direction of President Wilson that the bill be vetoed.

TO ADD 150 CONVICTS TO NUMBER AT WORK ON ROADS

Trenton, May 15.—Acceding to a request from State Road Commissioner Edwin A. Stevens the Board of Prison Inspectors have decided to place at work 150 additional men on public highways. Of this number fifty will be put to work June 1, fifty more June 15, and the remaining fifty July 1. This adjustment was made in order not to interfere with the execution of prison labor contracts now in force.

It was also decided that the State road commissioner should assume responsibility for the expenditure of forty-five cents a day for the maintenance of each man taken from the prison. It was further stipulated that a charge of fifty cents a day for th emen already at work should be made. It was estimated that when the men are sent out in larger gangs the cost of maintenance will be slightly decreased.

MARRIAGE SERVICE ONLY FOR HEALTHY

PRESBYTERIANS IN HARMONY.

Atlanta, Ga., May 15.—With nearly 5,000 guests within her gates Atlanta is doing her best to be an ideal hostess to the great gathering of Presbyterians which opened here today. The occasion is the first in the history of the Presbyterian denomination that the four branches of the church have met at the same time and place. The joint meeting of the general assemblies represents the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America, northern branch, the Presbyterian Church of the United States, southern branch; the United Presbyterian Church and the Associated Reformed Church. The sermons of the retiring moderators and the elections of their successors occupied the time of the general assemblies today, following the work of organization. That the joint gathering is regarded as a gaint stride toward the union of all Presbyterians was indicated in the tone of the opening addresses. The Southern Presbyterians and the United Presbyterians are to combine into one organization before the end of the present assemblies. While there is no expectation that the Northern and Southern branches of the church will be united in the immediate future, the hope is expressed on every hand that this end may be accomplished within a very few years.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

"The Family Cupboard," latest of the new "thrillers," will be produced at the Plainfield theatre Monday night, May 19th, by William A. Brady, for the ushers' benefit. The cast—an exceptionally large one—will be headed by Miss Madge Kennedy and William Morris, both well known here. The story of the play concerns the family of Charles Nelson, a New York man of wealth. Through the desire on the part of his wife to become a social leader, the husband finds himself robbed of the companionship he knew before the "society bee" had poisoned her nature. Eventually, the absence of his comradeship drives the husband to distraction and he seeks elsewhere for his happiness. The revelations that follow bring to the surface a most unusual family skeleton, with both the father and his young son entangled in the tangle. Throughout the four acts of the play there are many startling scenes, and the climaxes follow in such rapid succession that from the rise of the curtain until the final scene there is an abundance of thrills. The complete cast, in addition to Miss Kennedy and Mr. Morris, will include Olive Harper Thorne, Elsie Hitz, Teresa Deagle, Ray Bowden, Gertrude Siebold, Lena Duer, Rodney Hickok, John Bowers, George Pauncefort, Ned A. Sparks, Charles Stanley, Sidney Macey and Tom Lemonier.

Last year's budget was $69,597. A communication was received from the Rahway Y. M. C. A. stating that the directors had decided to offer the use of the gymnasium to the board in furtherance of any plans they may have for the physical upbuilding of the scholars. The communication was laid over for action at the next regular meeting.

Inexpensive Touches for the Graduation Frocks.

The making of graduation frocks is always difficult; they must be simple, they must be becoming and, in many cases, they must be so made that they will be useful for many occasions beside the one for which they are planned.

Many schools require a certain simplicity of this frock. In some of the high schools the girls have been pledged to make their own frocks and have been limited to expenditure of a dollar or so for materials. Even where no stipulation is made beforehand, it is expected that the girls will dress simply on commencement day.

A few years ago at a certain fashionable convent school several of the girls had wonderful frocks sent to them for graduation day. When the sisters saw these gowns, at the last minute—literally only a few minutes before the girls were due at the exercises—they absolutely refused to permit the girls to wear them. The girls wept and protested and stormed all to no purpose. The fact that they had no other gowns on hand did not help them in the least. The sisters said they could not wear the chosen gowns. And the result of the matter was that the girls were graduated in frocks made up of petticoats, simple corset covers, and sleeves, yokes and collars, improvised the simplest lawn.

Simple Fabrics.

Many of the fine cotton crepes are lovely in their simplicity and so are the marquisettes and voiles. Muli and batiste and fine lawn, now, as always, can also be used for graduation frocks.

Perhaps one of the prettiest frocks possible for the young girls, one, too, which can be worn through the warm weater, is made of embroidered batiste. The dress is cut with a two-piece skirt, closing at the left front, and with a waist with lowered armholes and tucks at the shoulders, also closing at the left side. A deep sailor collar and a peplum, attached to the waist under the sash, give the appearance of a Russian blouse to the front. The front closing, which extends to the hem, is scalloped, the bottom of the peplum is scalloped and the collar and sleeves are edged with scalloping. The light-colored sash worn on graduation day can be later replaced by a gayly striped ribbon sash. A transfer pattern for the scallop may be bought for ten or fifteen cents and the marking cotton, of which three or four skeins must be allowed for every yard of scalloping, costs a cent or two a skein.

Wide embroidered flouncing or material bordered with insertion and tucks, can be effectively developed by a pattern for a surplice dress. A little chemisette or vest of fine net and lace and a sash knotted at one side would finish a dress of this sort.

White net, if simply made up, with bands of wide lace and a pink or blue sash for decoration, is suitable for a graduation frock.

Cotton ball fringe, Cluny insertion and edge, not wide enough to be elaborate, imitation Valenciennes, a little real baby Irish, net or wash tulle, allover lace, especially of the shadow variety, folds of satin and soft velvet and medallions and motifs of lace and embroidery—all these forms of trimming are effective and in good taste for the graduation frock.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, Mrs. Jos. Smith, Mrs. Wm. M. Sandford, Jr.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

The Mothers' Association has planned to take the responsibility of providing school lunches at low cost provided the Board of Education gives its approval and co-operation. At the meeting held last Friday Mrs. F. G. Munro, president of the association, and Mrs. O. H. Smith were appointed executive officers of the lunch committee. Much enthusiasm was shown and approval of the plan as suggested by the lunch committee which reported at this time. Several contributions of money and canned fruit were voluntarily offered. Mrs. George Wean was appointed temporary chairman of the finance committee. This is a subject which should interest every father and mother in the city. The effect of wholesome food on school children has been demonstrated in other cities, increasing efficiency mentally and physically. At present there is no place near the schools where the children can buy wholesome food at a low cost and the provisions of such lunches would undoubtedly be greatly patronized by the school children.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the High School held its last meeting May 6. Since the reorganization in February an acquaintance party for committee members and teachers, several executive meetings and two regular meetings have been held. An innovation was tried at the last meeting which was most successful. The faculty being in their class rooms from 8 to 8:45 for the purpose of conference with parents especially invited by them to discuss the work of the pupils, replies were requested that the teachers might plan the time accordingly, nearly all the parents invited, especially many fathers, expressed their appreciation of such an opportunity to meet the teachers at an appointed time. After the conference a meeting was held in the auditorium with William S. Tyler, president of the Board of Education as speaker, the subject was the High School addition, as ground had been broken that very day for the building, the subject was specially interesting and parents expressed their interest in the subject and appreciation of the work of the board. A very interesting and instructive program has been arranged for next year and delegates were appointed to the International Congress to be held in Boston. Many new members were added to the association and the prospects are bright for a successful new year.

The Parent-Teacher Association of Franklin, Whittier and Stillman Schools elected the following officers at its last meeting on Monday evening: President, Mrs. J. Hervey Doane; first vice president, Miss Noel J. Bullock; second vice president, Miss Anna M. Day; secretary, Mrs. Boyd Fullerton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. George Moore; treasurer, Miss Catherine Beebe.

"Shall We Punish Our Children?"

The punishment that will make one child repent of a wrong act will have absolutely no effect upon another who has been naughty in exactly the same way.

Yet there is hope. For generations wise people have been trying to find the solution and today some are sure they have found it. They admit that their system is not always successful, but they say that it is a good general rule.

It is: "Never to punish children at all but to let them take the consequences."

Here is an example of the way their system works:

The children in a certain family always say that breakfast in their house is as good as a party. It is not what would be called a dignified meal to be sure. There are guessing games with father and story telling and there have been songs. But sometimes the children waken too early in the morning and begin to romp and make a noise and sometimes even to quarrel when father and mother want to sleep a little longer. And then the children "take the consequences." For, of course, if father has had to listen to those loud little voices for hours before breakfast, he is tired and needs a rest before his busy day begins. So the children sit through breakfast in silence, while father and mother discuss things quite over their heads.

Try something like this on the children you know and see if they do not say, as a litle girl in this family did, "Consequences is the worst punishment I ever had."—The Woman's Magazine.

Some Cookery Suggestions

EARLY ASPARAGUS.

ONE of the most attractive vegetables available at this season is fresh asparagus. It never tastes so good as in the spring and in combination with other vegetables may be made into many wholesome dishes.

Excellent With Sauces.

There are many ways of treating cold asparagus, all of which are appetizing.

With just a French dressing it is dainty. With a little mustard added to the dressing it has an agreeably pungent taste.

With a mayonnaise or sauce tartare it is delicious. Lemon juice or simply salt is used on chilled asparagus.

To be eaten cold asparagus must always be well drained and perfectly chilled.

A Sustaining Dish.

Asparagus and Eggs.—Take the tender portions of asparagus stalks and cut into half inch lengths. Boil them in salted water for ten minutes or until tender. Beat the yolks and whites of six eggs separately. Stir into the yolks one tablespoonful each of cream and melted butter, seasoning with salt and pepper. Drain the asparagus and mix with the yolks of the eggs, turn into a saucepan well buttered, stir in the whites, heat through and serve. Garnish with croutons.

Vegetable Combinations.

Turnip and Asparagus Salad.—Take new turnips and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and cut out centers and form in cups. When cold sprinkle them with oil and lemon juice, let stand for half an hour and just before serving arrange the cups on lettuce leaves and fill them with cooked and chilled asparagus tips that have been mixed with French dressing.

With Mashed Potatoes.

Asparagus and Potatoes.—Steam a quart of tender new potatoes and two bundles of asparagus. Mash the potatoes, turn on a hot platter and place the asparagus tips around them. Make a dressing of the yolks of three hard boiled eggs rubbed smooth with half a cupful of melted butter, the juice of a lemon and a saltspoonful of salt and a dash of cayenne. Mix over boiling water and pour over the vegetables just before serving.

Tom Would Watch Fritz Eat Oats.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Tom and Fritz Were Faithful Friends.

DADDY had been telling Jack and Evelyn about old Tom, the horse that they had at home when he was a boy.

Besides being a smart horse, Tom had been a great horse for making friends. His particular chum was old Snooks, the family cat. Snooks slept in Tom's manger at night.

"Horses do not like rats and mice," daddy said. "That may be one reason they are generally fond of the stable cat. But it is not the whole reason. Cats and horses seem to take naturally to one another just as boys and girls do.

"I think you will be very much interested in hearing about old Fritz, a horse who belonged to a gentleman who lives in Bayonne, N. J.

"Fritz was seven years old. When he first came to live in that comfortable stable he was a very young horse and Tom was a kitten.

"Perhaps Fritz was lonesome and homesick, and the kitten that played about the stalls and curled up in his manger at night was company.

"Fritz would call his furry friend with a low whinny, to which, if Tom was about, he would reply with a friendly meow.

"When Fritz was getting his oats Tom would sit up over the manger and watch him with a funny little frown on his furry face as if to say:

"'Dear me, I do hope Fritz isn't sick after eating that queer food! I should never dare to touch it. I do wish Fritz would drink milk as I do.'

"Sometimes Tom would bring a mouse over and lay it at Fritz's feet, and, though Fritz would whinny his thanks, he never would eat a mouse. No doubt this was a great disappointment to Tom.

"Thus the two friends passed their lives for seven years. They were only separated when Fritz went out to draw his master's carriage or Tom went off on a rat or mouse hunt or a midnight stroll.

"One moonlight night not long ago Tom started out on one of his rambles. He was gone so long that Fritz became uneasy. At last the cat came back, but poor Tom would catch no more mice. He was torn and bleeding, and he laid down at his old friend's feet to die. A bulldog had hurt him.

"Poor Fritz seemed to understand, and he whinnied his grief as poor Tom gasped his last.

"They laid the cat in a grave in the stable yard, and from that day Fritz would take no food. His grief was so deep that even the presence of his beloved master did not seem to rouse him.

"And soon Fritz, too, died. His sorrow for his lost friend had led him to starve himself to death, and they laid the two friends together. Their good master said that in death they should be reunited."

Here is a charming little coat that the small girl will love to wear these spring days. It is laid in tucks that give a childlike effect, and it is loose enough to slip on and off easily.

The wide belt arranged at the low waist line is being much used this season and gives the Balkan suggestion. In the illustration the coat is made of tan colored broadcloth.

In one of the other cuts it is carried out in white serge, with belt and trimming of blue ratine. This treatment is very smart. For the twelve-year-old size the coat requires four and three-quarter yards of material twenty-seven

A PAYING BUSINESS.

Authoress Who Does Not Neglect Home Duties For Literary Work.

"I am aware," said Mrs. Rinehart, author of popular plays and novels, in a recent interview, "that foolish imagine Mary Roberts Rinehart is an old maid, with a lean, wrinkled face, spectacles, a dress that doesn't fit and perhaps a parrot, or that she is mannish in her garb and yearns for a vote, or that she talks of art and the wonders of Bohemia. I know they do, and it hurts me.

"I'm a regular person, with a home and a husband and three children, with all the desire of my sex to wear the best gowns I can have and wear them as well as the next woman. I don't yearn for a vote. I don't talk about art, because I'm busy with my household and my writing. As for Bohemia, I have no part or parcel of it.

"We have a Pomeranian and an Airedale terrier and a Persian cat. We have a lot of chickens—Orpingtons, Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes, all white—and a few turkeys.

"I have a very pleasant library in our home at Sewickley. It is equipped with all the books, pictures and desks that any author's heart could desire, but—I can't write in it. The only work I can do in our house is running the house. In a Pittsburgh office building I have a small office, with a plain table and chair in it. There I do my writing. I consider five hours' work a good day, and then I go back to Sewickley and take up my household duties and pleasures again.

"So you see literature is more of a business than a passion with me. I like to write, but it doesn't take up all my thoughts. There is a demand for what I turn out, and I produce it as carefully and conscientiously as any manufacturer would produce collars or candy.

"It has had its rewards like any other business. There were lean years and fat years. The leanest of the lean years brought $1,200, and in the fattest of the fat I earned $50,000. I once made $5,000 in three weeks."

The Velvet Waistband.

Black or colored velvet ribbon of excessive width forms sashes for new lingerie frocks.

One of these new models is made of white batiste, all over hand embroidered with a rather large and cold floral pattern, and inset between the garlands with small squares of creamy lace. About the waist at its normal line is a girdle of flame colored velvet ribbon, which at the back is tied in a butterfly bow.

The loops of the bow are drawn upward and caught against the shoulder blades, while the long ends fall over the demitrain of the skirt.

NEW AND CHARMING COSTUMES FOR COMMENCEMENT DAY WEAR

PRETTY GRADUATION GOWNS.

VERY sweet and girlish are the designs for the young girls' graduation gowns illustrated here. The one to the left is of white voile adorned with imitation cluny lace and with a little yoke of machine embroidered batiste. The sash is of pompadour silk ribbon coquettishly arranged at one side. With the gown is worn a pretty hat of lace and chiffon. The other frock is of handkerchief linen decorated with hand embroidery. Crochet buttons add to the effectiveness of this severely simple dress. A sash of white satin ribbon is folded about the waist and knotted behind. White buckskin shoes were worn with this costume. Simple white slippers accompanied the other.

BOUDOIR GARMENTS.

Negligees and petticoats matching are everywhere to be had in pink crepe de chine. One perfectly plain one unlined, with very scant elbow length sleeves, is finished with the border of white eiderdown.

Another model is of pink charmeuse, draped with white chiffon and trimmed with a revers effect in shadow lace, which is caught in with a rosette of the chiffon at one side of the skirt. This gown has a satin girdle.

For those who care to dress a little out of the ordinary there is a boudoir gown of greenish yellow, nearly of mustard tone. Its material is crepe de chine and, of course, stockings of silk and garters of satin, and the petticoat is to be had matching. Almost all the boudoir slips are of clear white lace.

WHITENING HANDS.

For softening and whitening the hands there is a simple home remedy that has the great merit of being far quicker in its effects and less trouble to use than cold cream. It is just the mixture of cornmeal and kerosene.

Take a handful of the meal, as one would take soap, moisten this with the kerosene as with water and rub the hands as though they were being washed. After this wash them in warm water. The results, particularly if one must do housework, by which the hands are always coarsened, is very satisfactory.

No odor of kerosene is left after rinsing, and, strange as it may seem, the effect is excellent on the tiny cuts and bruises which come from housework.

THE FLUFFY GIRL IS FASHION'S FAVORITE FOR THIS SEASON

NEW EPONGE COAT.

AIRY effects in lace, sheer fabrics and in flowers are popular for summer wear. Frills at her fingers and frills at her throat has the pictured summer girl. This very modern maid is clad in full outdoor regalia, showing a belted coat of striped eponge decorated with a plaited lace ruche and sleeve frills in which nestle artificial nosegays. These eponge coats are considered very smart.

SPECTACULAR FINISH WON FOR LEAL TEAM

Two Double Plays and Timely Hitting Broke Down the Morristown Defense.

When Leal School baseball players win a game of ball they have a habit of putting a sensational climax on the affair as a means of making their achievements more impressive, and the contest which the local youngsters won at Morristown yesterday afternoon was no exception. Putting up one of their best fielding games of the season behind Shepherd, their one reliable twirler, the visitors saved their energies until the last moment and then uncorked a spurt that was good for a victory. Contented to run along on even terms with the Morristown aggregation for eight innings, and then to make it interesting by allowing the home team to tie things up in the ninth, and then advanced two runners across the plate in the tenth making the final score 6 to 4.

Both aggregations hit the pellet hard at times and good fielding was the only thing that prevented a volley of runs from being registered in every frame. The hitting of Dickerson and "Peanut" Stewart of the Plainfield nine, and that of Wouster and Toothe of the home team, were conspicuous features of the contest.

With the score standing 4 to 3 in favor of Leal's in the ninth inning and victory appearing to be a certainty for the local boys, the Morristown captain sent in one Durtalis to bat for Heyburn and this was the player who started what looked like sure disaster for the Plainfielders. Choosing the first ball Shepherd threw to him, Durtalis weilded the wagon tongue with a telling effect, slamming the ball over the heads of the fielders for a circuit clout which tied up the game. Two more hits followed the home run and with a man on second and third a squeeze play was worked which killed the man on third, and a flashy double play from Lyon to Stewart retired the side leaving the score tied up.

In the extra session Dickerson singled and stole second, and Nash followed with the same routine, Dickerson going to third on the former's hit. Dale then obligingly flied out, but Lyon got in the usual display of spectacularism, when he singled scoring Dickerson and Nash. The score was thus brought up to 6 to 4 in favor of Leal's and Morristown went in to once more retrieve the score but once again a double play came to the front, in which Stewart was once again a figure. After one man had flied out and a second one had walked, the double play sent from Schneider to Stewart tallied two more outs and victory for the visitors.

BELATED COURT GAME WON BY TRENTONIANS

Plainfielders Outplayed by Experienced Y. W. C. A. Title Contenders.

In a game which presented many opportunities for additional pathetic ruminations about the magnificent caducity of the one time invincible Nonpareil basketball team and amid climatic conditions which favored the small boy in his wild delight over the fact that the Buffalo Bill circus was playing in an adjoining lot, rather than the indoor sport dubbed "basketball," the team of Plainfield girls gracefully relinquished all claim to the New Jersey State feminine title at Trenton, last night, presenting the play-off to the Y. W. C. A. girls of that place, returning a count of 18 to 16. Hardly had the two teams started the championship tilt than it was plajnly evidenced, to the satisfaction of the Plainfielders at any rate, that the local contingent had been grossly deceived by the Trentonians when the latter aggregation dispersed information to the effect that they had never been formally introduced to the Wilbur Y. M. C. A. court, on which the battle was supposed to savor of neutral proceedings. A thorough acquaintance with the court seemed to have been gained by every one of the rival players, and some reluctantly admitted that they had "seen" the court once or twice in the past. Under the espionage of Miss "Dot" Hayes, who was the stellar performer throughout the whole thirty minutes of play, the Trentonians were contented to let the Plainfielders lead the scoring until the last two minutes, and then flashed their brilliant eleventh hour spurt which has won game after game for this little quintet. The contest was one of the kind pleasing to the eye of a spectator and the constant din kept up by a crowd of basketball-mad Trentonites coupled with the frequent selections from Buffalo Bill's wild animal orchestra lent an atmosphere of real enthusiasm to the hot weather affair and served to break up the monotony to some extent.

As was the case at the previous two meetings of these two contenders for the State title, the scoring resolved itself into a battle for individual high marks between Miss Helen Hummel, captain of the Plainfield five, and Miss "Dot" Hayes, the versatile little Trenton forward. Miss Ida Hummel and Miss Ryan ably upheld their running mates at forward, however, and the scoring of their teammates was generally the result of a snappy pass coming from them. Twelve points were credited to the Plainfield captain, four to her sister, and Miss Hayes topped all by rolling up a grand total of thirteen.

Trenton, by virtue of its win of last night, is the acknowledged State champion in feminine circles for the past season, having won the first and third game of the series, the second being annexed by the local girls who came out ahead on an overwhelming score.

GOLF "PROS" AT SOMERVILLE.

Professional golfers will have another try at the links of the Somerville Country Club on Saturday. In a four-ball affair there last fall, when the course was young, visiting "pros" placed their stamp of approval on this attractive eighteen-hole circuit, and conditions have been vastly improved since then. Lawrence Anchterionie, recently returned to America after more than a year abroad, will team up with Jack Hobens, of Englewood, against Alex Smith, of Wykagyl, and Ed Eriksen, of the home club. They will play thirty-six holes. Former Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen was responsible for arranging the match.

U. S. LEAGUE BLOWS UP.

After existing three days, the much-talked-of United States Outlaw Baseball League has proven a bubble and is now a thing of the past. At one time this organization threatened to make trouble for organized baseball but the eight that were entered have all died away and nothing but a few stranded players remain. Nineteen leaguers are at present swarming the baseball park at Reading, Pa., making a demand for their money which does not seem to be forthcoming.

Catcher George Gibson, of the Pirates, wearing a plaster cast on his broken ankle, has gone to his home near London, Ont. George will be out of the game for a couple of months at least.

FORTY-TWO ENGLISH POLO PONIES, WORTH $100,000, ARRIVE

BRITISH POLO PONIES BEING TRANSFERRED FROM THE STEAMSHIP MINNEAPOLIS TO THE SAGAMORE

The above picture shows some of the English polo ponies as they were being driven off the boat which brought them from Great Britain to America, where they will take a most prominent part in the international match in June. There were forty-two ponies in all that were landed in New York, and they are valued at $100,000. Twenty-four belong to the Duke of Westminster, but the rest are the property of the English polo team. All, however, will be used for the practice games and the match.

All the ponies are in fine condition and stood the ten day voyage well. They were in the care of thirty-two grooms, all wearing red jackets and under direction of G. W. Naylor, for twenty one years stud groom of the Duke of Westminster's stables.

Six of the ponies have been in this country before. They are Pretty Boy, Tiger, Kilkenny, Machine, Energy and Nutmeg. Energy is valued at $5,000 and was ridden in the test matches three years ago by Captain Hardness.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

Sporting Editor:

Query—Has the "Cincinnati hit" been accepted by the National Commission and what does it consist of? —A. J.

Answer—Presidents Thomas J. Lynch, of the National League, and Ban Johnson, of the American, have officially recognized this new scoring point, and they have adopted it in their scoring departments. The "Cincinnati Base Hit" is a hit by which the batsman is credited with a hit instead of a fielder's choice, when a base runner beats a play at another base.

Sporting Editor:

Query—In Monday's issue of your paper you state that Plainfield High School has a "clear slate to date." Does that mean that the P. H. S. team has not lost a game? In my opinion the local school boys met defeat several times in the early part of the season.—J. G. C.

Answer—The only diamond contest lost by Plainfield High School this year was the one won by Camp Bowser and the reference to a "clean slate" means that they have not been beaten in any of their scheduled games. The Camp Bowser contest is always played as a preliminary and is not figured in with the season's resume. You are mistaken when you think that the team lost several contests earlier in the season.

NEBRASKA LEAGUE.

Grand Island, Neb., May 15.—Under conditions that are regarded as of a most favorable nature, the Nebraska State Baseball League started today on its championship season of 1913. Each of the eight clubs is reported in good condition. In five of the eight towns of the circuit Sunday ball will be played this year. In the opening games Superior lined up at Fremont, York at Kearney, Seward at Columbus and Hastings at Grand Island.

N. B. H. S. MAY STOP ATHLETICS.

There is a possibility that athletics at New Brunswick High School will be discontinued because of a deficit in the treasury and the baseball team may be forced to call off the rest of the games scheduled, according to an announcement made public yesterday afternoon. If this is so both Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools will lose a close contender in all branches of sport.

THIRTEENTH GAME WON IN THE NINTH

P. H. S. Ball Tossers Lucky to Get Away With Game—Held to Four Hits.

Following the announcement that they intended to annex the New Jersey High School baseball championship this summer, the Plainfield High School players went to South Orange, yesterday afternoon, and while being held to four hits by Heine, the veteran Seton Hall "Prep" School twirler, managed to roll up a total of 7 to 4, scoring one of their greatest victories of the season. Seton Hall being considered one of the chief obstacles in the way of the title. While the Queen City boys did little hitting, they were helped materially by the ragged fielding of the home players, who chalked up nine miscues behind their twirler. Heine pitched a remarkable brand of baseball, but was accorded miserable support by his teammates who went to pieces in critical stages of the game.

While Plainfield expected to encounter a "jinx" in their thirteenth game and the local boys were primed to make it thirteen straight on the credit side of the ledger, they did not contemplate running into a stonewall defense such as Heine put up single-handed. The general opinion prevailed after the game that the Plainfielders were lucky to get away with the contest, as Coughlin's delivery was touched up for a total of nine bingles and spectacular fielding was the only thing that prevented the South Orange delegation from scoring frequently. Of the four clouts that went in safe territory from the bats of the Plainfielders, two were credited to Coughlin, the little P. H. S. twirler, while Good and Sminck came to the rescue with one apiece.

Up to the sixth inning the score stood a 3 to 4 tie, Seton Hall having come up after five runless innings, scoring two in the sixth and another pair in the seventh. When P. H. S. went to bat in the ninth, a succession of errors which the home players got out of their system in one grand spasm helped the visitors to push a trio of counters across the pan which won the game.

A LATE RALLY WINS FOR N. P. H. S. TEAM

Two Runs in the Ninth Pulls Boroughites From the Rear Into Victory.

With the score 3 to 2 in favor of Roselle High School in the ninth inning, the North Plainfield High School color bearers came to the fore in their half of the last stanza with a brace of counters and won out with a tally card of 4 to 3, in their second game of the season with Roselle which was played on Hyde Oval yesterday afternoon. A stirring finish, in which a pretty bunt figured prominently, won the game for the boroughites, thus chalking up ample revenge for the thirteenth inning victory Roselle secured on their home grounds at the hands of the Canadians.

Benedict, the star moundsman of the visiting nine, was never in better fettle than yesterday afternoon, and while the home team touched up his delivery for seven bingles they were all well scattered and did not prove disastrous to his team's chances of winning.

QUERY DEPARTMENT WILL NOT BE CONFINED TO SPORT TOPICS

A department for the settlement of all controversies directly affiliated with athletics has been inaugurated on this page today and the fact that queries have been received and answered the first day after the announcement was made indicates that the new feature is filling a long felt need. Requests have been made, however, to make the question box a general one, and hereafter the queries will not necessarily have to be confined to sport topics.

Any question relating to sports, travel, history, etc., submitted with the sender's name affixed will be answered in this new department as soon as a complete answer can be compiled. All queries and suggestions should be addressed to the Sporting Editor, written legibly on one side of the paper.

"JACK" JOHNSON PROBABLY WILL NOT FIGHT FOR SOME TIME NOW

"JACK" JOHNSON.

The above is one of the latest photographs of "Jack" Johnson, world's champion prize fighter, taken a short time before his trial for violation of the Webb "white slave" law, at which he was found guilty in all points. His penalty, under the law, is five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

TORPEY EXPECTS TO COP THE BUNTING

Somerville Pilot Hot on the Trail of Plainfield—Good Players Collected.

Since the fine showing made by his team in the opening game of the Central Jersey League Saturday, Manager Jack Torpey is telling Somerville fandom just to keep an eye on the club which he has collected together. Torpey intends to make a hard fight for the pennant in the league this season and Plainfield and the other clubs will have to go some to win over the Somerset county seat nine. Torpey has collected together some of the best ball players in this vicinity.

He has drawn on Bound Brook, Raritan, Scotch Plains, Somerville and other places for his troupe, but has rounded up a good team. Manager Torpey handed in the names of at least two players that Bound Brook expected to use—Red Grimes and Frank Hickey.

Torpey is playing behind the bat, with Kraft in the box. With a catcher and manager with the league experience Torpey has had catching him Kraft, who is one of the cleverest young pitchers around the Raritan, should have a banner season.

Lou Wiltse, former player in Baltimore, Scotch Plains and other places, a brother of the renowned George "Hooks" Wiltse, of the New York Giants, is signed with the team. Frank Hickey at second, Ed Grimes at short, and L. Contion third. The outfield consists of Cunningham, Freddy Nolan and George Frentz, with Porter, Matto and Metzler in reserve.

NEW BRUNSWICK MAY YET ENTER CENTRAL LEAGUE

Dave Driscoll has announced his intention of making another try for a franchise in the Central New Jersey Baseball League and before the next series of games are played, Driscoll's New Brunswicks may be entered in the organization. Although the Outdoor Amusement Company, of New Brunswick, was not represented at the meeting held Tuesday night, Driscoll is understood to have discussed the matter with some of the directors of the amusement company but has not come to a final agreement.

In the event of the admission of Brunswick, another team will have to be secured in order to make the organization an even one and Hopewell has been suggested as a possible sixth team.

WAND HAS TO RETIRE.

"Lanky Al" Wand, the wel known Woodbridge High School athlete, who played basketball in this city during the past season with the High School of that place against the Y. M. C. A. Ajax and Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools, has been forbidden by doctor's orders to indulge in any form of athletics during the next two years and probably three. Wand is one of the best athletes in Middlesex county and it was only two weeks ago that he appeared on Hyde Oval, pitching against the N. P. H. S. baseball team. He was the pivot man and mainstay of the Woodbridge High School and Parish House basketball teams last season. According to his physician, Wand's retirement was brought about by an over-indulgence in athletics, he being developed above the normal for a youth of eighteen years.

The semi-finals in the women's singles and doubles in the Morristown Field Club tennis tournament were reached yesterday, Miss Edna Wildey, of this city, working her way into the semi-final heat with Mrs. Miles as her partner in the women's doubles by defeating Miss Handy and Miss Pouch, 6-4, 8-10, 6-3. Miss Edna Wildey and Mrs. Miles defeated Miss Alden and Miss Beste in the first round by scores of 6-1, 6-0. The finals will be continued today and the winner will probably be decided in this afternoon's play.

Duffy Lewis was the only member of the Red Sox to take part in every game the Red Sox played in 1912, and up to the time he turned his ankle, he had played in every exhibition and regular league combat this year.

MAX MARSTON WINS THE GOLF TOURNEY

Pingry Student Champion in 36-Hole Finals at the Local Country Club.

Max R. Marston, of Cranford, representing Pingry School, who won the medal with a score of 77 in the qualifying round of the Eastern interscholastic golf championship, at the Plainfield Country Club on Monday, was the winner of the championship event in the thirty-six hole final yesterday, defeating W. T. Badham, of Lawrenceville, 5 up and 4 to play. At the end of the morning round the players were very evenly matched, and Marston was 1 up on his opponent after completing the first eighteen holes.

Marston looked like a winner from the first, because he played such a consistent, steady game. He was especially strong on his long drives, as was shown when he drove the sixth green both morning and afternoon. The hole is 275 yards long and a little up hill. On his first round he took three puts, but in the afternoon he missed a try for a two by the narrowest margin.

The pair was all square at the turn and the first three holes of the homeward journey were halved in fours. Marston then gained an advantage which he never lost by winning the fourteenth and fifteenth holes in five and four. Afterward Marston played almost perfect golf, reaching the turn in 36, only one stroke below par. The card for the final follows:

7TH-DAY ADVENTISTS IN TENTED CITY AT PRESENT

Washington, D. C., May 15.—A great tented city accommodating 5,000 persons has sprung up on the campus of the Washington Foreign Missionary Seminary, in Takoma Park, where, beginning today and continuing for three weeks, the world conference of the Seventh-Day Adventists will hold forth. The gathering is one of the largest of its kind ever entertained in the national capital. In addition to the delegates from almost every State and from Canada, the attendance embraces leaders of the denomination in Europe and Australia, as well as those of the mission stations in Africa, Asia and other parts of the world.

The three weeks' program provides for daily sessions and religious rallies, together with conferences of the missionaries, ministers, educators and representatives of the young people's societies of the denomination. One of the principal problems to be discussed at the conference will be that of planning to increase the missionary forces in all parts of the world. Another matter to come up for discussion will be a proposal to divide the world into six divisions in order to work out the problems that the denomination has taken unto itself on more systematic lines.

The summer schools at Phillipsburg and Collingswood will be conducted at the High Schools in those cities. Work at the three new institutions will begin on July 7 and continue until August 15, a period of six weeks. The Rutgers school will open June 30 and end August 8, and the Cape May school will commence July 7 and continue until August 2. An appropriation of $6,000 was made by the Legislature for carrying on the summer schools. The purpose of the schools is to enable teachers to secure scholarship in certain methods of teaching. The subject offered will be under certain conditions and also enable teachers to obtain credit for elementary certificates.

SLAYER TO HANG.

Washington, D. C., May 15.—Sentenced to be executed in the district jail tomorrow for one of the cruelest murders in the criminal annals of Washington, Tony Milano's only hope of escaping the gallows lies in the remote possibility that President Wilson may grant an eleventh-hour stay. Milano, an Italian shoemaker with a little shop at Fourth and H streets, was convicted on a charge of having killed twelve-year-old Harry Smith with blows of a hammer the night of September 9, 1911. It was alleged that the boy went to the shoe shop to get change and that Milano, who had been annoyed by other boys, thought the boy's stammering was a method of making fun of him. Early on the morning following the alleged murder Milano set fire to his shop, it was contended for the purpose of destroying evidence of his crime. A sister of his victim, driven frantic by the death of her brother, later took her life.

field theatre tomorrow evening. An unusual case of mistaken identity affords much of the humor of the play. Those in charge have used every endeavor to stage and costume the piece appropriately. A final rehearsal was held yesterday afternoon in full costume and this afternoon a matinee performance is being given in order that those who will be unable to attend the evening play may not miss seeing this comedy.

"Croaker" desires to marry off his son, "Leontine," and his ward, but the former has already lost his heart. The identity of "Leontine's" charmer, "Olivia," forms the chief mystery of the play. Fred Krom as "Honeywood," gives a capable representation of the good hearted spendthrift; "Ned" Jukins is the life of the play in

PLAN EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN FOR "C. M."

A Large Committee to Be Named to Promote Movement Here.

Plans for furthering the interest of the campaign in behalf of commission form of government for Plainfield were discussed at an informal meeting of those interested held at the Public Library last night. While the attendance was not large those present expressed their hope and confidence in the ultimate success of the movement. Howard H. Williams, as chairman of the general committee, presided.

It was the sense of the meeting that a campaign of education should be inaugurated and that no attempt should be made to hold an election until the people of Plainfield become thoroughly familiar with the new form of government. To that end it was suggested that a committee of one hundred or more men be named to conduct this campaign. Sub-committees will be appointed for the purpose of showing how the new government plan would meet the city's needs.

Among those who addressed the meeting last night were Howard H. Williams, Frank L. Holt, G. W. V. Moy and Daniel J. Courain.

INSPECT WORK OF JEFFERSON PUPILS

Many Gather to See Eighth Grade Exhibition Which is Unusually Good.

The annual exhibit of work by the pupils during the year attracted more than 350 parents and friends to the Jefferson Public School, yesterday afternoon and evening. The exhibit was probably the best in the history of the school and reflected credit on both pupils and teachers. Pupils from all grades exhibited work, while the eighth grade gave a practical demonstration of cooking and sewing. Other work included drawing, painting and manual training.

Visitors to the exhibit were impressed with the fine display of framed pictures in the different rooms. These were secured by the teachers and pupils through the sale of chocolate and peanuts during the year and excellent judgment was used in the selection of the pictures. Both teachers and pupils were congratulated for the work as shown at the exhibit.

GROCERY CLERK FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN CELLAR

Found by a fellow employe lying on the basement floor of the grocery store of J. A. Smith & Brother, West Front street and Madison avenue, and bearing every appearance of being dead, Thurlow Chamberlain, of 239 East Second street, was restored to consciousness by Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, of 411 West Front street, today. The ambulance was summoned and Chamberlain was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where it is said he will recover.

Chamberlain, who has been employed at the grocery store for several months, went to work this morning as usual, apparently in good health. Shortly after 9 o'clock he went to the basement to unpack several boxes of canned goods. It is thought that while lifting a case, the exertion caused an attack of heart trouble.

WOMEN LISTEN TO SUFFRAGE TALKS

Luncheon at Park Club in Honor of Mrs. Everett Colby Attended by 250.

TEN SPEECHES MADE

Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, of New York, Makes Chief Address—Mrs. M. E. Perkins Reads An Original Poem.

The luncheon given by the Equal Suffrage League at the Park Club yesterday in honor of Mrs. Everett Colby proved to be such a popular affair that the league found it impossible to accommodate all who desired to attend. There were about 250 guests and between fifty and sixty others had to be turned away. They were admitted to the gallery of the club house later, where they heard the speeches.

The clubhouse was decorated with greens and spring blossoms, dogwood predominating. Mrs. H. C. White was in charge of the decorations. Ten speakers were on the list, but the planning was so well done that everyone was interested and entertained to the very last moment and many little yellow slips representing new members of the league were signed at the close of the luncheon.

The hostesses of the various tables with their associates were as follows: Hostesses, Mrs. Russell R. Dorr, Mr. Allan Cowperthwaite, Mrs. F. E. DuBois, Mrs. A. B. Jones, Mrs. Henry C. 29 "FIRST-AIDERS" GET CERTIFICATES

Local Y. W. C. A. Class Graduates Hold Final Exercises.

Twenty-nine members of the Y. W. C. A. class in "First-aid-to-the-injured" instruction received their diplomas at the concluding exercises of a successful season of work last night, Dr. Clara Krans, teacher of the class, having charge of the program. The class was composed of seventy-one students and the twenty-nine represent those who passed the prescribed examination for a "First Aid" certificate. The graduates received an invitation from the American Red Cross Society and National Guard of the Y. W. C. A. bearing the signatures of former President William H. Taft, and Miss Grace Dodge, to affiliate themselves with the work being carried on by that body.

Miss Georgia Ricker, one of the graduates, gave a clever toast upon the "First Aid" work and the other members of the class responded with an original song explaining the progress of inspections and inspectors. In appreciation of her services during the term of work just ended, Dr. Krans was presented with a large bouquet of cut flowers and a vote of thanks was offered to the local physicians who have interested themselves in this particular department of the Y. W. C. A. work. Miss Howes, superintendent of Muhlenberg Hospital, gave a short talk. Refreshments were served.

Those who received degrees were Miss Katherine Ball, Miss M. Brown, Miss Mildred Brown, Mrs. Walter Cahoone, Miss A. Christie, Miss Katherine Leahy, Miss Mary L. Line, Miss Edna McIntyre, Miss Ada Mulheim, Miss Georgia Ricker, Miss Katherine Sullivan, Miss Agnes Vail, Miss Sarah L. Vail, Mrs. Harry Weber, Miss Edith Wickepp, Mrs. Edgar W. Williams, Miss C. Cubberly, Miss Irene Day, Miss Ellen K. Doughty, Miss Tressa Blummer, Miss Mabel Edmunds, Miss Esther Edgarton, Mrs. S. Englehardt, Mrs. Stephen Haff, Miss Lillian B. Hammond, Mrs. H. R. BABY IS RUN DOWN; ONLY SLIGHTLY INJURED

An eighteen-months-old son of Ginlo Riganti, of 310 Liberty street, while playing in the street in front of the parent's home yesterday afternoon, was knocked down by a horse owned and driven by Benjamin Woodruff, of Westfield, and received minor injuries about the head and body. Dr. C. B. Lufburrow was summoned and after examining the child decided that the injuries were not serious.

Mr. Woodruff gave his name to several witnesses of the accident and to Police Chief O'Neil, of the Westfield department, in case any question should arise concerning the accident. It is said that Mr. Woodruff was not to blame for the injury to the child, not seeing him until too late to prevent the accident.

GERMAN REFORMED FOLK ENJOYED ENTERTAINMENT

A variety entertainment was given by the members of the German Reformed church in Saengerbund Hall last night, the affair being largely attended by members of the congregation and their friends. The program was composed of musical, gymnastic numbers and recitations.

A team of "turners," under the direction of Bert Hansen, gave a tumbling exhibition and the performers did a number of thrilling stunts which was the feature part of the program. A quartet of women sang a number of selections, Herman Kinsman and John Wolf recited and other members took part in violin, vocal and piano selections. Following the entertainment the cast and their friends used the spacious floor for dancing.

TO MERGE CIVIC BODIES.

The executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting last night made further progress in the plans for combining all of the civic associations of the city into one organization. These various associations have been requested to send two or three representatives to a general meeting, the date of which will be decided upon later, when the proposed merger will be discussed. It is understood that some of the civic bodies favor the amalgamation while others do not.

CITY BONDS SOLD, $230,000 ISSUE

Interest But Four and Half Per Cent., $35,000 Being Thereby Saved.

ARNOLD GETS CREDIT

The Money Will Be Used in Building Large Addition to the Present High School Structure—Terms of Sale.

The Common Council, at its adjourned meeting last night, sold the $230,000 issue of 4½ per cent. school bonds to Rhoades & Co., of New York, at par with accrued interest, in spite of the fact that in the opinion of many it could not be done. This belief was based on the fact that Elizabeth, Hoboken, Paterson and Passaic had not been able to do better than 5 per cent. As a result, Plainfield will save about $35,000 in interest through the efforts of City Treasurer W. F. Arnold in being able to dispose of the bonds at 4½ per cent.

According to law the city was first obliged to offer the bonds to the State, which it did, and the latter refusing to take the bonds, the city was then privileged to dispose of them at private sale. This was arranged by Mr. Arnold. The life of the bond will be 31½ years, and will bear interest from the date of issue, which will be January 1, 1913. They are to be retired in 1964. The bonds will be passed upon by Longfellow & Delafield, experts in bond issues. A. Willis West is the local representative of the firm of Rhoades & Co. The money received from the sale of these bonds will be used to erect the large addition to the Plainfield High School and make other improvements.

The oath of office of J. Fred MacDonald, Daniel J. Courain and F. H. Andrews, commissioners in the matter of opening Kensington avenue, was filed, as was also the agreement between the city and Muhlenberg Hospital for the care of indigent patients.

Councilman W. W. Wilson presented plans and specifications for the extension of the sewer system and a resolution was adopted fixing Monday night, June 16, when bids will be received for doing the work.

BOROUGHITES SEEK ROAD IMPROVEMENTS

Walter C. Linbarger and other residents of the borough are interested in securing signatures to a petition to be presented to the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, seeking road improvements. It is desired that Watchung avenue from Mountain avenue to Johnston's drive and Johnson's drive from Watchung avenue to its end and the road from Johnston's drive to Stirling and Warrenville roads at Watchung, be made county roads. It is especially desired that Somerset street, from Watchung avenue to Johnston's drive be widened.

Already a large number of signatures have been secured and it is expected that the freeholders will be willing to make improvements asked for the residents of the borough. If they are made it will open up a fine country for future development and will afford people attractive drives and means of reaching certain points more readily.

THOMAS HASKARD DIES IN EIGHTY-FIRST YEAR

Thomas Haskard died at his home on West Third street, last night, following a short illness, having suffered a stroke of apoplexy last Sunday afternoon, from which he did not rally. He was eighty years old and was one of the best known men in the West End of town, which he had resided for the past fifteen years, coming to this city from Elizabeth in 1898. He was one of the trustees of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

Mr. Haskard was a veteran of the Civil War and had the distinction of being one of the first six to enlist in this State when the first call for troops was sounded. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Haskard. The funeral services will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon and interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

CONCLUDE WILL CASE HEARING.

Elizabeth, May 16.—The hearing in the William Gabagan will case was concluded before Judge Connolly here yesterday and decision was reserved. It is the contention of the children of Mr. Gabagan that undue influence was used in the making of a codicil to the will in favor of a Mrs. Eugene Homan, of Jersey City.

ASSESSORS' HELPERS FORMALLY ORGANIZE

John G. MacLaughlin Chosen Chairman of Body Named by the Mayor.

John G. MacLaughlin, Frank J. Hubbard, DeWitt C. Ivins, Armstrong Mulford and Thomas Hughes, appointed by Mayor Percy H. Stewart as a tax commission to assist the Board of Assessors in making a revision of the tax assessments, held their first meeting last night with Mayor Stewart and Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, when the work of the commission was outlined and an organization was effected.

Mr. MacLaughlin was chosen chairman and Mr. Hubbard secretary. Mr. Stewart informed the commission of its duties and Mr. Reed advised it as to what could be done under the plan of assessment revision. It is proposed to assist the Board of Assessors in every way possible and arrangements were made to hold the first meeting with the assessors on Tuesday night, May 20.

It was the expressed opinion that great care should be exercised in revising the assessments with a view to bringing about as equal a taxation as possible. That will be the aim of the committee.

ENJOY "AT HOME" AT WARREN CHAPEL

Unusually Interesting Because Date Marked 19th Wedding Anniversary.

The "at home" given at Warren chapel last night, by Mr. and Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, proved to be of a couple interest to the fact that it was known that it date marked their twenty-second wedding anniversary as the pastor and his wife. A feature of the "at home" was the old-fashioned picture gallery, in which was displayed about 200 photographs, many of them nearly one hundred years old. They were all arranged about the pictures of Mr. and Mrs. McKelvey, which occupied a central position.

There were pictures of the old and new chapel, the first Sunday-school superintendent under the present pastorate, that of the late Branley S. Lovell, and the present superintendent, J. W. Gavett, together with other officers of the church and their families. Excellent pictures of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Honeyman, and Mrs. [illegible], who is now [illegible] and a miniature of Mrs. Fa[illegible] cousin of Mrs. President Grover Cleveland.

The girl, whose parents say she is incorrigible, was taken to the county jail this morning where she will be held pending her arraignment in the Juvenile Court.

CONFERENCE HELD ON CITY LIGHTING

Council's Committee, Corporation Counsel, P. S. C. Men and Citizens Meet.

NO DECISION MADE

Charles A. Reed and L. D. H. Gilmour Disagree as to Effect of Free Lights Clause on the Franchise Tax Payment.

When does free electric lighting cease to be free lighting? was the perplexing question discussed at an open conference last night of the Councilmanic lights committee and L. D. H. Gilmour and Harry P. Chandler, representing the Public Service Corporation. For more than one hour Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed and Mr. Gilmour engaged in a lively argument, and while Mr. Reed clearly had the best of the argument, the two lawyers were unable to agree as to the effect of the free lighting clause in the city's lights contract.

The important point was developed through remarks by Winfield S. Angleman, that the city could use any kind of a lamp it desires for street lighting for the purpose of improving the service, without effecting its present agreement, and yet the Public Service Corporation maintains that it has the right to deduct the free lighting it gives the city from the amount of the franchise tax imposed.

Mr. Gilmour frankly stated that in no event the city could not demand nor collect the full franchise tax if it insisted on receiving free lighting. The amount to be deducted would be [illegible] per cent. of the gross revenue obtained here. The company's legal representative was questioned closely by Mr. Reed and others as to certain features of the lighting system, [illegible], etc., but he declined to give an opinion on many of these questions, claiming that he was not familiar with the details of the commercial department. At the outset he said that he was not present to encounter anything, but simply to explain any points in the contract.

In answer to Mr. Reed's question, Mr. Gilmour said that the company stood ready to keep any contract made and in the case of Plainfield is satisfied to carry out the provisions of the contract. Mr. Reed stated that he did not consider that the contract is being lived up to, but Mr. Gilmour thought it is, and beside he claimed that there is not one person in a thousand who can tell within two or three candle-power whether a lamp is up to standard. He added, "the lights here look good to me," to which Mr. Reed replied: "Quite naturally they would."

Mr. Reed questioning Mr. Gilmour said that he had been quoted to the effect that the company would not have to pay its franchise tax if free lighting was continued, to which the latter replied that he gave an opinion advocating a deduction of the free lights from the franchise tax, but declined saying that the company would not have to pay the tax.

Mr. Reed strongly disagreed with Mr. Gilmour on this point, claiming that there is no law that would support him in his contention. If for instance the company carried the [illegible] and school children free it could not deduct money due the city from the franchise tax, and he [illegible] the same thing applicable regarding free lighting. In further answer to Mr. Reed's questioning, Mr. Gilmour said that it would be up to the company to furnish sufficient feed [illegible] standard lamps and remedy the lamps construction, and as to [illegible] Mr. Gilmour said that the company had no "bargain counter," [illegible] policy paid the same rate.

Mr. Gilmour admitted that the cost per light was a very small part of the cost and that it practically "cuts no figure," and yet he pointed out that the life of a Tungsten lamp is shorter than the lamp now used, more fragile. He said that the company considered a lamp giving 80 per cent. service well up to the standard, which led Mr. Reed to remark that the company thought that by giving 80 per cent. service it was equivalent to 100 per cent. Mr. Gilmour would not concede that point and yet it was plain to all present.

Mr. Angleman went over certain points in the light contract in an effort to show that the city could use any style of lamp without breaking its contract and could insist on free lights, and this brought out the statement from Mr. Gilmour that he did not consider that that feature had anything to do with the contract insofar as the company's right to deduct free lighting from the franchise tax.

R. Henry Depew, formerly president of the Plainfield Protective Association, who instituted and conducted a campaign here for better street lights, recalled some of the conditions

Miss Dorothy Cameron is a lovable "Olivia." "Joe" Carty contributes a funny "hit" in the part of "Twitch," a Bow street runner, and is well aided by his pal "Flanigan," in the person of Silas Guttridge. Rutgers Neilson acts the part of an old English servant to perfection and Miss Gwendolyn Stanton is a dear little maid servant. The genial "Mrs. Croaker," Miss Ethel Mehl; the impetuous lover "Leontine," Edward Parker; the stately government officer, "Sir Wm. Honeywood," Charles Fay; the tipsy butler, James Small; the engaging French valet, "Dubardlew," Esty Foster; meek "Jonathan," a footman, Arthur Stout; the engaging landlady of the "Talbot Inn," Miss Edith Brokaw, and the loudish post-boy, Abraham Sachar, all contribute important hits.

The entire cast is admirably balanced and i[illegible] by Samuel

VETERANS' GRAVES WILL BE DECORATED

Gen. Drake to Supervise and 1,290 Graves in Union Co. Will Be Marked.

Elizabeth, May 16.—In accordance with a law passed by the State Legislature in 1910, which makes it the duty of county supervisors of soldiers' and sailors' monuments throughout the State "to decorate or cause to be decorated, the graves of all soldiers and sailors," General J. Madison Drake, supervisor of monuments in Union county, has arranged to carry out the provisions of the act on Memorial Day. The total number of graves to be decorated in Union county this year is 1,290, thirty-seven more than last year.

Each year the number of soldiers' graves is increasing. In May, 1867, there were only fifteen graves of soldiers in Evergreen Cemetery. Now, more than 500 soldiers and sailors are buried there. The graves were decorated for the first time in 1867 by General Drake and his Veteran Zouaves, Governor Marcus L. Ward being the speaker of the day.

Plans are being made by the members of Ulric Dahlgren Post, of this city, to place flags on 590 graves in Evergreen, First Presbyterian, St. John's and St. Mary's cemeteries. Judson Kilpatrick Post, of this city, as usual, will decorate the graves of soldiers buried in Mt. Olivet cemetery. Camp William J. Sewell, of this city, will perform a similar duty at Evergreen and Mt. Olivet cemeteries.

Winfield Scott Post, of Plainfield, will use 216 flags and pots of flowers in the four cemeteries of that city and Scotch Plains. Barry Post, of Rahway, will have charge of the decoration of 300 graves in three cemeteries.

General Drake is making arrangements for the decoration of forty-two graves at Springfield, sixty at Westfield, twenty-six at New Providence; six at Union; twenty at the Rosedale and Linden Park cemeteries and eleven at Rosehill.

As usual, Henry M. Looker, superintendent of Evergreen, will attend to the graves of the 387 soldiers who are buried in family plots in the cemetery.

The Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel will meet this afternoon at the chapel to plan for the annual picnic.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will preach at Warren chapel Sunday morning, in exchange with the pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey.

MITCHEL'S APPOINTMENT PUTS HIM IN MAYORALTY RACE

JOHN PURROY MITCHEL

The recent appointment of John Purroy Mitchel as Collector of the Port of New York was regarded by politicians as a double barrel shot fired squarely into the ranks of Tammany Hall and aimed at the leadership of Charles F. Murphy.

His selection as the personal choice of President Wilson for the most important post in the federal service in New York makes Mr. Mitchel the leading candidate in the race for the Mayoralty nomination. Mr. Mitchel declared he was not out of the contest for the Mayoralty and his stock went soaring upward in the fusion ranks. Special effort was made to have this understood clearly.

By his action President Wilson also has given great impetus and strength to Governor Sulzer and the anti-Tammany forces in the battle for reforms now centring in Albany, N. Y. By picking Mr. Mitchel, openly and positively an anti-Tammany man, the President has lent the moral support of the national administration to the State fight against the organization. Tammany men have accepted the appointment of Mr. Mitchel as a damaging shot and while trying to keep a brave front they admit that it would go far to bolster up the Governor's fight.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. A. B. Wilkes and children, of New York city, are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Heflin.

William Stewart, of this city, who is known professionally as "Musical Stewart," has been meeting with great success in the middle west with his new musical act. He is at present playing through Michigan and will return to Plainfield in two weeks.

William Gaub, connected with No. 1 fire-house, is the first of the firemen to take a vacation. Next week he plans to visit his sister at Wellsville, N. Y.

"ROCKS" HAVE TROUBLES.

On Sunday the Jan[illegible] Juniors will play the Shamrocks, the fr[illegible] game of the season. The "Rocks" have so much respect for the prowess of the Juniors that Kennedy is trying to secure the services of some good pitcher for Sunday's game. Smith, the former "Rocks" pitcher, has resigned, leaving them with only one pitcher, Hamilton, and he has a sore arm. The "Rocks" will have the same line-up as they had against South Plainfield. Will leave the post office at 10:10 a. m. Sunday.

Rothberg Gives the Most In Order to Get the Most

Wendell Phillips once remarked that all that is valuable in the Constitution of the United States is ONE thousand years old.

Rothberg can go him one better by saying that all that is valuable in the policy of our business is TWO thousand years old.

The Constitution can boast of that ripe old age, yet even today it is an "instrument" very seldom used by clothiers.

When Rothberg's price their

Spring Suits at $10, $12, $15, $18 & $20

Price of from $3 to $5 more it is because we believe in crowding in a bit more value than other stores deem necessary.

The more you GIVE the more you GET in return. It's a law as old as the world itself.

Just come in to look at the "manners" of our garments. There is nothing to equal them anywhere. They're real metropolitan clothes with their many "cleverisms" that are bound to catch your fancy.

SOME ITEMS OF INTEREST TO SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS

The Men's Club of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will hold its annual dinner on Sunday evening, May 18, at 7 o'clock. The committee of the Woman's Society, of which Mrs. O. S. Rogers is the chairman, will provide the dinner. Officers will be elected for the next year and reports will be received. Mr. McGrail, of the Sheldon School at Evanston, Ill., will be the principal speaker of the evening. The president of the club, Orra S. Rogers, will preside as toastmaster.

CAPTOR OF JEFF DAVIS ATTEMPTS TO KILL SELF

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)
Philadelphia, May 16.—Caspar Knobel, the last surviving member of the band of fourteen cavalrymen who captured Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, attempted suicide this morning at his boarding house by inhaling gas.

Knobel was found by his landlord and removed to the hospital, where it was said that owing to his advanced age his recovery was doubtful. He is seventy years old.

BLINDED SHERIFF WAS BADLY HURT 'TIS FOUND

Belvidere, May 16.—Sheriff Henderson, blinded by an escaping prisoner, who threw red pepper in his eyes Wednesday night, is more seriously injured than was at first supported. He suffered greatly yesterday from pains in his head. At times he was delirious, and it is feared the blow on his skull may have depressed the bone, causing it to press on the brain.

Frank Sullivan, the Indian, who attacked the sheriff and fled from jail, has not been captured. George Foster, the other prisoner who took part in the attack on Henderson, but was overpowered by the sheriff and Miss Carrie Sutton, the matron, is in the jail hospital. The sheriff beat him into submission with a club. Miss Sutton left the hospital yesterday.

Sullivan, a former inmate of the Rahway Reformatory, was awaiting trial for robbery. Foster was held for a minor offense.

INCOME TAX LIST.

It is estimated by the Congressional ways and means committee that the income tax will net $70,125,000 and that this sum will be derived from assessing 424,000 individuals. This tax will cover not only the several states, but our possessions, including Hawaii, Porto Rico, Alaska and the Philippines.

According to the figures of the committee, New York State will provide almost twice as much as any other State. Pennsylvania will be the second largest contributor with Ohio third. Our own State, New Jersey ranks seventh in the list, which is here detailed:

New York, $15,309,294; Pennsylvania, $8,079,574; Illinois, $7,448,041; Massachusetts, $3,652,298; OOhio, $4,545,593; Alabama, $324,500; Alaska, $12,617; Arizona, $109,023; Arkansas, $245,299; California, $3,232,591; Colorado, $783,854; Connecticut, $1,416,167; Delaware, $131,402; District of Columbia, $394,875; Florida, $268,590; Georgia, $696,724; Hawaii, $375,874; Idaho, $92,150; Indiana, $1,058,548; Iowa, $643,008; Kansas, $890,658; Kentucky, $620,374; Louisiana, $477,340; Maine, $438,910; Maryland, $933,508; Michigan, $1,760,000; Minnesota, $2,240,000; Mississippi, $160,000; Missouri, $2,103,760; Montana, $196,000; Nebraska, $378,180; Nevada, $120,260; New Hampshire, $125,900; New Jersey, $2,793,920; New Mexico, $56,680; North Carolina, $393,564; North Dakota, $123,816; Oklahoma, $271,328; Oregon, $159,536; Rhode Island, $598,168; South Carolina, $206,505; South Dakota, $102,978; Tennessee, $589,932; Texas, $1,256,734; Utah, $242,222; Vermont, $110,645; Virginia, $1,024,141; West Virginia, $448,925; Washington, $641,830; Wisconsin, $1,120,760; Wyoming, $74,140.

This foots up $69,790,769, outside of Porto Rico and the Philippines.

While other municipalities have been compelled to pay five per cent. or more on bond issues recently floated, Plainfield has been fortunate enough to dispose of a $230,000 issue at four and a half per cent. at par with accrued interest. This means a saving of some $35,000 and the credit for it is due to City Treasurer William F. Arnold. Knowing that Elizabeth, Paterson, Hoboken and Passaic had been forced to pay a higher rate, it was believed by those familiar with such transactions that Plainfield would be forced to do the same. The result of Mr. Arnold's negotiations was an agreeable surprise.

One of the brightest and best of weekly newspapers that comes to our desk is The Washington Star, published at Washington, Warren county, New Jersey. It covers a large district made up of many very small communities and the editor very wisely uses a news letter from each of these places. These letters are composed mostly of personals and thereby they attract general attention. One excellent feature of the paper is the column conducted by Major Frelance for it is filled with genuine humor.

The contributing editor announced for tomorrow's issue will have charge of our editorial columns one week later and in his stead, William S. Tyler, president of the Plainfield Board of Education, will serve in that capacity. As our contributing editor Mr. Tyler will discuss a matter of great importance to the people of this city. The public generally, particularly the taxpayers, will find it profitable to read what he will have to say.

When L. D. H. Gilmour, assistant counsel of the P. S. C. left the Common Council chamber last night after the conference on the lighting problem, he must have been impressed with the fact that Plainfield has a corporation counsel of a type that the P. S. C. lawyer does not run across every day in the week. Senator Reed was more than a match for him.

It is proposed to divide California and thus add another star to the flag. What will the new one be, another state of turmoil?

UNION CO.'S JUDGE EQUAL SUFFRAGIST

Connolly Delivers Argument for "Votes for Women"—Dislikes British Militants.

In speaking before the Women's Alliance of All Souls' church, Elizabeth, Judge James C. Connolly, of the Court of Common Pleas, declared that if the world would continue its progress it must give the ballot to women. Women suffrage is the next spoke to be inserted in the wheel of the world's advance, he said, and if that is not done, the progress will not be complete.

In answer to the contention of some who declare that woman practically will usurp the power and offices held by men if they are given the ballot, Judge Connolly sets forth that the same cry was raised years ago when there was introduced into the State Legislature a measure providing for the extension to women of the privilege of practicing at the bar and in medical circles. Although there was strenuous opposition the bill was passed and women were allowed to study and practice law. In spite of this, he asserted, there now are only five women attorneys in the State. This is a direct repudiation of the remonstrance expressed at that time, he said, and exemplifies the fact that women will not cause the elimination of men as the ruler in municipal affairs.

He then dwelt upon the fact that taxation without representation is tyranny, as expressed by the colonists before the days of the revolution. As the thirteen States at that time were taxed without having delegates in the parliament of England, so the women of today are taxed without having a voice in the deliberations of a municipality's governing body. The women today are in the same situation as the colonists were in the early days of this country, he said.

There are many women today, he set forth, who pay heavy taxes and yet are denied franchise. This was not proper, he contended, and not in keeping with the policy advocated by our forefathers. In the early days of this country a person who did not pay a large sum to the English government was not allowed to vote. He had to be a large land owner before being allowed to express his convictions at the ballot box. Today, the judge said, women own property, pay large taxes and still are prohibited from voting.

Judge Connolly extolled women. He declared that he is a firm believer in the equality of sex because women have played an important part in the world's history. He referred to Catherine of Argon as a great woman, and he said that Elizabeth was the greatest of the Tudors. Queen Victoria was a brilliant woman, as was Catherine, the greatest empress of Russia.

Man's suffrage has been established, and why not universal suffrage? was asked by the speaker. The world is progressing, he said, and it will continue as long as mortality and righteousness exist. But that advancement never will be complete until woman is allowed to step to the ballot box and cast her vote.

Referring to the time when the complaint was expressed that women would not be able to understand the legal and medical technicalities. Judge Connolly averred that those who practice law now are fully conversant with the details of the profession, and this same fact may be applied to the matter of politics, if they are given the privilege of voting. He declared that years ago a woman was thought not to have a soul, but now these opinions have been changed.

FALL FROM TREE PROVES FATAL TO AN AGED MAN

As the result of a fall from an apple tree last fall when he sustained serious injuries which had since incapacitated him from work, John Peney, eighty-six years old, of Metuchen, died at his home yesterday afternoon. Although Mr. Peney had never fully recovered the use of some of his faculties his death came as a surprise to his many friends in that vicinity where he had lived for the past forty years. He was the owner of a place near South Plainfield and did farm work on a large scale, making frequent trips to this city where he was well known among the merchants.

He is survived by two sons, John and Silas Peney, and one daughter, Mrs. Hansen, all of South Plainfield. The funeral services will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon and interment will be made in Evergreen cemetery, this city.

RAILWAY CHANGES FROM TELEGRAPH TO TELEPHONE

New York, May 16.—The Lehigh Valley Railroad yesterday inaugurated a system of dispatching all trains by telephone, and within a short time all telegraph instruments will be eliminated both in regard to the dispatching of trains and the transaction of all business of the company. The Lehigh Valley mangement decided on the change after tests lasting over three years and which are said to have proven conclusively the superiority of telephone transmission over telegraph.

The management states that no improvement in recent years has done so much toward preventing accidents and giving greater speed and accuracy as the installation of telephone dispatching. Nearly two hundred telephones have been installed in freight houses and small booths along the right of way, enabling inspectors and track gangs to get into instant communication with division superintendents without going to a station where a telegraph operator is employed.

Train crews have been provided with extension poles and telephones and are now able to report promptly derailments and conditions of track or equipment which interfere with traffic.

confined themselves to from three to five minutes' time.

At the speaker's table, from left to right, sat, Miss Alice Lakey, of Cranford, prominent in the pure food movement; Miss Alice Carpenter, of Boston, delegate of the Progressives at the Chicago convention; Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey State Suffrage organization; Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, daughter of Mrs. Julia Ward Wowe, an early organizer and president of Equal Suffrage in New Jersey; Mrs. Everett Colby, guest of honor; Mrs. James Lee Laidlaw, chairman of the Woman Suffrage Party of Manhattan who organized one-third of the recent parade, as chairman of the Five Boroughs of the Suffrage Party. Mrs. Laidlow also organized the meeting at the Metropolitan Opera House on May 2, carrying it through with great success and raising about $10,000 by sale of seats and subscriptions. Next to Mrs. Laidlaw came Miss Louis Connolly, whom Mrs. Riley introduced as the "best superintendent of schools Summit ever had." Mrs. Frank Warner Smith, president of the Woman Suffrage Party in Westfield, finished the line, Mrs. Maxwell Perkins and Mrs. VanWyck Brooks sitting amongst the other guests.

After a few words of welcome to Mrs. Colby, Mrs. Riley, presiding, introduced Mrs. Perkins, who read original verses of welcome to Mrs. Colby whoch are given below:

"In Honor of Mrs. Everett Colby."

The Senate of New Jersey
By the nine gods it swore
That the little bill of suffragettes
Should bother it no more.
By the nine gods they swore it.
"We'll stand in line," they said
"And block the door so hard and fast
"The bill will give up getting past
"And this will kill it dead."

Up spake Mrs. Colby then,
With charming gracious air,
"Dear Senators, please let me see
"What are you making there?"
She found that just to stop the bill
They'd built a barricade
Of prejudice and mouldy thought
Of platitudes that come to naught
And sentiment third grade.

With pointed well-aimed arguments
She knocked that structure down
The dust rose up in perfect clouds
And sprinkled o'er her gown.
She built another structure there.
She made it firm and high.
The startled men then tested it.
They found it good and strong and fi
So let the bill go by.

But next came men who stood like rock
She saw their two hands clinch.
They said, "We're hard as adaman
"We will not move an inch!"
But Mrs. Colby merely smiled
They said not one word more.
That smile, so sunny, warm and bright,
They fought against with all their might,
But melted on the floor.

And so through all that steady line
Of Senators she went
And conquered those by lovely smiles
Who withstood argument,
And when she made an opening,
Without much more to-do,
With all its banners flying free,
And music playing merrily,
The little bill skipped through.

Now some of us are suffragettes,
And some of us are not,
And some of us don't really care,
And some of us are "hot."
But all of us can't be but proud
To think we won't own
One privilege that selfish man
When he has done the best he can,
And all our rights have flown

Can never tear away from us,
Down-trodden though we be.
Dear Mrs. Colby's sex is ours.
We're in fine company.
So here's to her who's done so much
To help our cause ahead.
Oh, let us in the Hall of Fame
Erase some big male hero's name
And write her's there instead.

Mrs. Henry Wells was chairman on place cards and table decorations Credit is due Mrs. Russel R. Dorr chairman of the ticket committee. Mrs. A. B. Jones, chairman of table arrangement and seating, and Miss Harriet French, chairman of the entertainment committee.

ACKERMAN GIVES TALK ON A WORLD TRIP

Former Senator E. R. Ackerman delivering an illustrated lecture entitled "A Trip Around the World," entertained a large audience last night in the Park Avenue Baptist church, where he appeared under the auspices of the Men's Club. New scenes of the Panama Canal, many of which were taken by the speaker himself, made that part of his talk highly instructive. Other views shown and described were of the Sphinx and Pyramids, the wilds of India, the great structures of the world, the wonders of Yellowstone Park and the mountain scenery of the Western States.

BROTHERHOOD JUNIORS WILL BE INSTALLED

The service at the Church of the Holy Cross Sunday evening will include the installation of the members of the new Junior Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. Franklin H. Spencer, the Metropolitan district secretary, and J. W. A. Smith, the National Council member for the Central New Jersey Social Assembly, will make addresses. The service promises to be of especial interest to men and boys, whether Episcopalians or not.

The Junior Chapter was organized under the direction of the rector, Rev. William S. McCoy, and J. Wesley Hegeman, president of the New Jersey Social Assembly. The officers of the chapter, which received its charter April 4, are: Director, Duclos VanMater; vice director, John Sinclair; secretary, Guy D. Peck, Jr., and the other members are Estes Small, Harold Noble and Charles Roll.

Charles Wood, of North Plainfield, is at Muhlenberg Hospital under treatment.

TWENTY-TWO ADDED TO TEMPLE C. E. ROLL

Twenty-two persons were elected to membership in the Christian Endeavor Society of the Temple Baptist church last night. Over seventy-five members were present and enjoyed violin selections rendered by Miss Lucy McCauley, of Scotch Plains; interesting games and refreshments, all of which followed a lively business meeting.

During the latter session it was voted to increase the society's subscription to the fresh air camp work by an additional sum of $5. It was also decided to send $1 to aid the work of relieving the destitute, as a result of the Turkish-Bulgarian War.

The newly elected members are Misses Verna Stewart, Anna Carson, May Touchon, Helen Carson, Ethel Neilson, Esther Taggard, Blanche Taggard and Anna Hill; Mrs. Bertram Waldron, Mrs. Demarest, Mrs. Christian Meyers, Bertram Waldron, Fred Demarest, Jocylyn Mead, William Jennings, Arvid Johnson, Roy Hafner, Monroe Gullberg, George Huff, Harold Wahlig, Henry Jaeger and Miss N. Neilson.

The social committee on refreshments consisted of Mrs. Charles Gullberg, Mrs. Henry Jaeger, Mrs. Edward Baker, Jr., Mrs. C. L. Jeter, Mrs. P. H. Moore, Mrs. Harry Bouton, Clarence Erhlich and William Crow. They were assisted by the Misses Elizabeth and Helen Carson.

Games Tomorrow.

Plainfield at High Bridge.
Somerville at Dunellen.
Bound Brook at New Brunswick.

Beginning tomorrow afternoon, the Central New Jersey Baseball League will have a six-team circuit composed of teams stationed in the towns of Bound Brook, New Brunswick, Plainfield, High Bridge, Dunellen and Somerville. The admission of Bound Brook and New Brunswick during the past week makes it necessary to schedule a third game at the eleventh hour, these two new entrants playing at New Brunswick tomorrow afternoon. Dave Driscoll will manage the Brunswick team and many of his old time following and stars will be in the game. Manager Charlie Newhouse, of the Bound Brook aggregation, has signed up a team of notables who will be able to put up a good battle against any of the other five contenders in the race, and Newhouse says he will make the national pastime the biggest ever in Bound Brook this season.

PLAINFIELD GOES TO PLAY HIGH BRIDGE

Plainfield baseball fans, looking forward to a good game of baseball with two Central New Jersey League teams as contenders, including the team from this place chaperoned by Manager Ernest Dorflinger, are planning to go to High Bridge tomorrow afternoon where the Pets lineup against the same team they met and defeated last Saturday afternoon in a close and interesting contest by the score of 5 to 4. Several new players have been signed up by Dorflingegr and some shifts will probably be made in the local lineup before the team takes the field tomorrow afternoon. Frederickson will once more serve his slants to the Plainfielders and he is hot on the trail of revenge for the beating he got last Saturday afternoon.

The fact that Plainfield is now on top in the league standing, and because of the fact that two new organizations have been admitted to the league, makes the race doubly interesting for some kind of a shakeup is bound to occur before the third games are played.

NEW LEAGUE TEAMS TO MEET AT NEW BRUNSWICK

With admittance of New Brunswick and Bound Brook into the Central New Jersey League, a third game has been necessitated for tomorrow afternoon, and the recently entered nines will meet at New Brunswick. Although no definite lineups have been divulged, both managers claim to be the possessors of some choice stock and will make things lively in the league from the time they enter.

This is the second week of play for all of the teams with the exception of the newest arrivals but they will catch up in the race by running a double header later on in the season

Y. M. A. A. LEAVING TIME.

Manager Conger, of the Y. M. A. A. baseball team, wants all of his men to be on hand at the North Avenue station tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock ready to leave for Somerville.

OPENING DAY PLANS FOR DUNELEN TEAM

Bogardus Shifts Players—Another Wolf Signed to Play Short.

Dunellen—Giddes, 3b; J. Wolf, ss; Dixon, c; G. Wolf, cf; McLaughlin, p; Lindbloom, lf; Martin, 2b; Montross, Coyle, Frezza, Barnes.

Somerville—Cunningham, lf; Hickey, 2b; Torpey, c; Wiltse, 1b; Grimes, ss; Porter, rf; Nolan, cf; Centi, 3b; Kraft, p.

Manager Bob Bogardus, of the Dunellen baseball team, has made some wonderful preparations for the opening of the Central New Jersey League race in Dunellen, tomorrow afternoon's game with Somerville being the first time the Dunellentes have performed on their home grounds this season. Bogardus has issued a new lineup, in which appears Jim Wolf, a brother of Dunellen's heavy hitting centre-fielder. The new player will play at short in place of Billy Coyle, and it lies between Coyle, Frezza, Barnes and Montross for the right field and first base.

A special twelve piece band has been chartered for the occasion and the teams will play on the new Dunellen field. For the benefit of the large number of Plainfielders who will go to Dunellen to see this contest, there being no league game here tomorrow, the best route to take in reaching the field is to trolley to Dunellen, getting off at Washington avenue and walking toward the mountain, a distance of two blocks.

RITTER PLAYING INDEPENDENT.

Fred Ritter, a former pitcher of the Plainfield baseball club, who was taken on the training trip by Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics, has been released by that team and is at present playing independent ball. He pitched for Atlantic City against the York team of the Tri-State League yesterday, being defeated by a count of 9 to 8.

TRINITY PLAYS TOMORROW.

The Trinity baseball team will play the Watchung A. C. on Hope Common tomorrow afternoon. Frequent practises have been held by the Trinity players during the past week and they entertain high hopes of adding another victory tomorrow afternoon, this time at the expense of the Watchungs.

PARK AVENUE LINEUP.

Manager Edward Mosher, of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school League team has submitted the following lineup for the game with Hope chapel tomorrow afternoon: F. Mills p, R. Mosher lf, Tice rf, Wilson cf, Ricketts 2b, Weber 3b, E. Mosher ss, Gage c, Doane and Van Arsdale 1b, R. Mills ss and p, Gullberg c.

TY COBB WILL STARVE TO DEATH IF HE IS INJURED

If Ty Cobb, the hard hitting outfielder of the Detroit Tigers, is injured while under contract he would be entitled to only $10 a week compensation, according to information received yesterday.

President Navin has notified the industrial board of his intention to place all his players under the provisions of the State workmen's compensation law.

Cobb is supposed to draw a salary of about $2,000 a month, or $500 a week. If injured, he ordinarily would receive his full salary while on the bench. But under the State law Cobb's salary would not be paid.

The law provides that when an employe is disabled he must be paid "an amount equal to one-half his weekly wage, not to exceed $10 a week."

CIVIC ASSN. TEAM WANTS MATHEWSON AS ITS COACH

The West End Civic Association is about to enter the field of sports by having a representative baseball team. This was decided upon at a meeting of the executive committee held last night at the home of Dr. P. B. Cregar on Grant avenue. Thomas F. Hylan was chosen manager, and Christy Mathewson, the star pitcher of the Giants, who is a brother-in-law of Dr. Cregar, will be asked to coach the team. Other civic associations in the city will be challenged for games in the near future. There is lots of good material in the association and it is confidently expected that a strong nine can be formed.

W. W. Robison, of Grant avenue, a New York lawyer, was made chairman of the tax and assessment committee in place of John J. Praed, resigned, and Walter F. Manning and Rolland D. Rice were appointed as members of the health committee, of which Dr. Cregar is the chairman, and Barton K. Davis was named as press representative.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

Sporting Editor:

Query—Will you kindly publish a route leading to Greenwood Lake, N. J., also comment on the fishing afforded at that place.

Answer—To reach Greenwood Lake, which is in the northern part of the State, take the Central Railroad from here to New York city, and the Erie to New Milford. The latter station is situated within a stone's throw of the lake and motorboats are there for the convenience of those who want to cross the lake. Greenwood Lake is one of the best fishing places in the State, bass and pickerel running abundantly. Trolling is a popular method of landing these fish at this lake and good catches are generally the result of a day's work.

Query—Did Warhop, the New York American League Club's pitcher, ever appear in this city and if so in what year.

Answer—Warhop never twirled a game on a local diamond at any time. You are probably thinking of the instance when he was hired by Bound Brook and knocked out of the box. This was in 1910 and he played under an assumed name.

Query—I am at present catching for a local school nine and want to get a chance with some semi-professional or fast amateur team in this city or vicinity during the summer. Will you please tell me the best way to secure a tryout?

Answer—There are a number of local managers looking for good men at the present time and I will keep your name on file in case any of the latter wish to look you up. The best thing for you to do, however, would be to communicate with some manager, anyone of whom would be glad to give you a chance.

Query—I says that Jeffries, the loser of the fight for the world's heavyweight championship at Reno two years ago, received more money after the fight than did the winner, Jack Johnson, while B contends that Johnson received the most. Which is correct?

Answer—A is correct. Jeffries won a total of $192,065, while Johnson got $145,000. The reason for this was that the loser's exhibition tour and sale of motion picture rights yielded him more than those of Johnson.

TWO NEW LEAGUES START OPERATIONS IN THIS CITY TOMORROW AFTERNOON

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LEAGUE.
Monroe M. E. vs. First Baptist.
Hope Chapel vs. Park Avenue.

Seldom does it happen that a city is treated to a double league opening on the same day, but that is what will happen within the confines of Plainfield tomorrow afternoon, the City Baseball League getting under way in its season's race together with the start of the Sunday-school organization. Everything lies in readiness for the opening of the new 18 formed city league, which promises to be one of the fastest of its kind in the State, amateur material having been local sand lots being cared for. The four contenders in the league race, Spicers, Saurers, Royal Giants and the West Ends, will all be on deck for first honors tomorrow afternoon, and all four will get into action on local fields at that time.

Four of the five teams entered in the Sunday-school Baseball League are also due to clash, the First Baptist playing the Monroes and Hope Chapel team playing Park Avenue. Both of these contests should be hummers as the quartet of combinations have been practising during the past five weeks, during which time many practise games have been played which show the relative strength of the various contenders.

NEW BRUNSWICK PLAYS HERE.

Owing to an error in the Plainfield High School baseball schedule, the baseball team of the local school was announced to go to New Brunswick tomorrow to play the High School nine of that place, but instead the Brunswick aggregation will come to this city for the game.

CHEAPER MEAT TO COME HERE FROM ARGENTINA

Reduction of meat prices in the United States has been suggested as a result of the Argentina beef trust. Packers of Argentina are expected to take advantage of protection in tariff and transfer their fight from England to the United States.

Latest government reports say that in Argentina about half of the packing industry is controlled by natives and that the other half is in the hands of United States packers and natives. Armour & Co. have the largest interests in South America, and Morris & Co., Swift & Co. and Sulzberger & Son also have a hand in the business. It has been charged that these packers, aiming to gain control of the industry there, are cutting prices in the English market. Now, say officials, if this fight were to be transferred to America, as seems likely, the people will receive the benefit of cheaper meat.

Strawberry Dainties.

Strawberries simply freed from sand and served on the stems are better, say some lovers of strawberries, than strawberries served in any other way. But in spite of them and their ideas, there are many who tire of even the finest strawberries and who are glad to serve those which are not of the sweetest, juciest sort disguised by some sort of cooking.

Perfect Berries.

Perfect berries—large, luscious and bursting with juice and flavor—should always be served in a way to preserve all of the delicacy of flavor which they possess. One way to do this is to mould them in orange jelly. Fill small individual moulds—either in fancy shapes, or else in the form of lemonade glasses—with large strawberries, carefully cut in halves. Pour in just enough orange jelly to hold the berries in place. The jelly can be colored pink with a little berry juice. When the jelly is hardened turn out on lettuce leaves and serve, as a salad, with French dressing.

This salad is a good suggestion for warm days, when salad and dessert can frequently be combined by serving a fruit salad, with crackers and cheese.

Strawberry cup is an easily prepared dessert which makes use of sweet berries in a delicious way. Line a glass dish or individual dishes with split lady fingers, and fill in the center with the sweet berries and whipped cream. Serve very cold.

When berries are perfect, they can be served with pink whipped cream, colored with a little berry juice after it is whipped and sweetened.

Another strawberry and whipped cream dish is made in the following way: Mix two cupfuls of powdered sugar and two stiffly beaten eggs. Add half a teaspoonful of lemon extract and color with strawberry juice. Drop the mixture on buttered paper and place in a very cool oven to dry. Use these little cakes to line sherbet cups, and fill the cavities with chilled strawberries and whipped cream.

Strawberries and rice make a wholesome dessert. To prepare it cook half a cupful of rice until tender in milk enough to keep it moistened. Add a tablespoonful of granulated sugar and mix it in lightly with a fork. Heap strawberries in the center of a large glass bowl and arrange the hot rice around them. Serve at once with powdered sugar.

Strawberry nests are troublesome to make but well repay the woman who likes to prepare dainty desserts for her trouble. To make them soak half a boxful of gelatine in half a cupful of cold water for thirty minutes. Add a pint of boiling water, a cupful of sugar and the juice of two lemons. Then add the beaten whites of two eggs and stir over the fire until the gelatine is dissolved. Color light green with a little spinach water and pour it in finger bowls. Mold it in the form of nests by placing a tumbler in each bowl and allowing the gelatine to harden around the tumbler. Remove it by brushing the inside with a brush dipped in hot water. Fill the nests with strawberries and whipped cream, well sweetened.

Some Cookery Suggestions

FOR THE CHILDREN.

THE juniors of the family are almost always enthusiastic for puddings. Some simple recipes are given here that will be wholesome and satisfactory.

Cereal Puddings.

Graham Pudding.—Take two cupfuls of graham flour, one cupful of sweet milk, one cupful of sirup or molasses, one egg, one teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt, one cupful raisins. Warm the raisins to prevent them falling to the bottom. Steam three hours. Eat this with sugar and cream. Some may prefer a sauce.

Eggless Indian Pudding.—Scald one quart and a half pint of milk, mix with three-fourths cupful cornmeal, one large tablespoonful flour, one-half teaspoonful salt and one cupful molasses. Pour scalded milk over the mixture, stir thoroughly, then add one cupful of cold milk and one cupful of raisins. Bake two hours, stirring frequently the first hour.

Fruit Puddings.

Lemon Pudding.—Wash about a third of a cupful of the rice and cook it in a sirup made as follows: Peel a lemon and slice the pulp, putting it in a saucepan with a third of a cupful of sugar and a little water. When boiling add the rice. When soft put it in a baking dish with three cupfuls of milk, a little more sugar if necessary and half a teaspoonful of salt. Bake, allowing it to brown slightly at the last. The pulp of the lemon should be removed from the sirup before the rice is added. Serve hot or cold.

A Cold Dessert.

Prune Pudding.—Wash half a pound of prunes and add two cupfuls of cold water. Cover and let stand two hours; then cook in same water until soft. Remove stones from prunes, crack and add meat from stones to prunes. Then add one cupful of sugar, one inch piece of stick cinnamon and enough boiling water to that in which the prunes were cooked to make one and one-third cupfuls. Bring to the boiling point and let boil ten minutes. Dilute one-third cupful of cornstarch with cold water until mixture will pour easily, add gradually while stirring constantly to prune mixture and let simmer five minutes. Remove stick of cinnamon, turn into a pudding dish and chill. Serve with sugar and cream.

DANIELS TO VISIT JERSEY CITY ON NAVY YARD SITE

If no hitch occurs to cancel the program, it is probable that Secretary of the Navy Daniels will visit the shore of the Greenville section of Jersey City, the proposed site for the navy yard now located in Brooklyn, on June 1. Representative Townsend, who has been one of the most active workers on behalf of the project, received this assurance to-day.

On Friday, May 30, Decoration Day, Mr. Daniels is scheduled to visit the Brooklyn Navy Yard. According to the plans as now formulated, June 1 will find practically the whole of the New Jersey delegation in the House, together with members of the New York and New Jersey Joint Harbor Line Commission, and members of the New York Dock Commission, on hand to point out to the Secretary the advantages of the Jersey shore for a navy yard.

The Greenville basin, it is contended, would be better than the present site, because of its accessibility and the longer shore line. Besides this, practically all of the great railway terminals are nearby, so that lightering all materials, as is the case in Brooklyn, would be unnecessary.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Dear Little Flower Fairies And Their Work.

Each Plant Has Its Fairy.

IT was a nice moonlight night, and as Jack and Evelyn glanced outdoors the latter said sadly:

"The fairies must be just getting up now."

Evelyn wanted to sit up late, but mother did not think it was best.

"The fairies work at night," daddy said reprovingly.

"Why," spoke up Jack, "we thought the fairies danced all night in the grass."

"Sometimes they do, and perhaps some of the fairies dance, but lots of them are just as busy as can be."

A big moth went hurrying by the window.

"Look!" exclaimed daddy. "Perhaps a little fairy was riding on that yellow moth's back, hurrying off to work, you know."

"Tell us about the working fairies," Jack and Evelyn demanded.

Daddy smiled as he glanced out at the garden.

"There are so many of them I couldn't tell about all of them, but I might mention some of the things the little flower fairies are doing.

"You see the little plants standing tall and straight in the flower beds.

"I have heard that every little plant has its own fairy that sleeps in its flower and takes care of the plant. It is the fairy's duty to see that night bugs do not come to live on the leaves or make their homes at the roots of the plant, where they might do it much harm.

"When the warm night mists come down the fairy goes out and shakes the dewdrops out of the mist so that the plant may be kept fresh.

"If the gentle shower comes pattering down the fairy takes care that his plant gets its share of water at the roots so that it has plenty to drink.

"They whisper to the bees and the butterflies that honey and nectar may be found in their plant's flowers, and these come buzzing up with the yellow dust that is needed to make the seeds grow.

"They listen, and when they think they hear a mole nibbling at the roots of the plant they go hurrying down to chase Mr. Mole away.

"When the big storms come along they try to hold them up and keep the wind from blowing them over.

"The fairies stir up the perfume in the flowers so that it is wafted abroad to let all the friendly insects know that it is time to come to the flower's party and sip honey or eat the dainty flower pollen.

"They paint the leaves and the flowers and do many other services for the flowers. I'm sure no one could honestly say that the flower fairies are not busy these days."

$3.95 for $7.50 to $12.50 Dresses

There may have been many important sales of wash dresses in the past, but don't think there's one—not even at the most sweeping reduction sales—that can begin to equal the values that you'll find here tomorrow. And they are not the ordinary kind of dresses, mind you, that you generally see offered in so-called "Sales," but dresses that are positively worth $7.50 to $12.50 and think of it: They can be bought at $3.95. Isn't this news of vital importance to have you hurrying here? Isn't this news worthy to stir every woman into instant action for the dresses are offered at less than the cost of the materials.

Tissues, Eponges, Ratines, Linens, Voiles and Crepes

Only the most fashionable styles, too, for we wouldn't sell a garment if we did not think the transaction would make you a permanent customer; dresses that are as near perfect as the tailor's craft can make them; dresses so beautiful and so charming style that the most particular woman will be proud to wear them; and as for a selection, judge by the fact that there are 750 dresses to choose from; sizes for women and misses; on sale second floor; see window display; choice at

MORTON BEGINS 90TH YEAR.

New York, May 16.—Levi P. Morton, former Vice President of the United States and for nearly half a century a leading figure in American banking and financial circles, entered upon the ninetieth year today, having been born May 16, 1824. There was no observance of the anniversary, owing to the state of Mr. Morton's health. For many weeks past the venerable banker has been confined to his bed and for days his condition was reported to be extremely critical. Of late there has been some slight improvement in the condition of the patient, though the physicians in attendance do not hold out any hope of a complete recovery, owing to Mr. Morton's advanced age and the nature of his illness.

CONFERENCE ON LIGHTING

found a few years ago. He said that it was discovered that while the city was supposed to get 25 candle power light in a great many cases it was as low as 4 candle power. Lamps were found to be in bad condition, the voltage was low. The average candle power was found to be between 12 and 13 candle power.

Replying to this, Mr. Gilmour said that that condition was found at a time when the general construction was poor, but since then the whole system has been rebuilt.

Dr. Depew said that investigation showed that after a lamp had been burned 300 hours its efficiency drops 50 per cent. and in his opinion lamps should be changed seven or eight times a year. Mr. Gilmour said that the lamps could not be changed every week or few weeks, and yet according to his own statement that the standard schedule was 4,000 hours a year, that would support Mr. Depew's contention that seven or eight changes of lamps should be made a year.

Mr. Depew recalled that the practice has been to turn the lights on after dark and turn them off before daylight, saving a couple of hours a day. Replying, Mr. Gilmour said that the standard practice or rule is from "dust to dawn." Mr. Depew did not agree with this rule. He was of the opinion that it would be better to adopt a card index system, such as he used when engaged in the light campaign, and thus keep tabs on the poor lights, than to employ an electrical expert for $500.

In answer to questions, Mr. Gilmour said that new contracts are based on the use of the Tungsten lamp on rates approved by the Public Utilities Commission, and as a parting shot he told the city officials that they could not quarrel with him about bad service for he did not believe in it.

Councilman P. J. Reville, chairman of the lights committee, who presided at the conference, accepted Mr. Depew's offer to render any service possible and thanked both Mr. Depew and Mr. Gilmour for being present.

Paterson, May 16.—At a convention of the Progressive party of the Sixth Congressional District, held in the Passaic County Progressive headquarters at 175 Market street, Herbert M. Bailey, of Hackensack, was unanimously nominated as the party candidate for the Congressional post left vacant by the death of Lewis J. Martin. The Sixth District includes Bergen, Warren and Sussex counties and West Milford and Pompton township of Passaic county. More than a hundred delegates attended the convention.

ONE KILLED, ONE HURT AS MOTORCYCLE HITS AN AUTO

Trenton, May 16.—Oliver Weiss, thirty years old, was instantly killed, and John A. Grimes was badly injured, yesterday, when Weiss' motorcycle, with Grimes on the rear seat, crashed head on into an automobile owned and driven by Harvey G. Reed, of Mercerville, on the Mercerville road, near Hamilton Square.

There were six passengers in the automobile, but, aside from being shaken up, none was injured.

According to Grimes, Reed suddenly turned from the middle of the road to the left side, instead of the right, and crashed into the motorcycle. An inquest will be held next Tuesday.

INDICTED FREEHOLDERS ENTER NOT GUILTY PLEAS

Mt. Holly, May 16.—The nine indicted freeholders, charged with obtaining from the county an average of about $50 each not justly due them, and Joseph L. Hilton, whose alleged differences amount to $2,250 while county supervisor of roads, pleaded not guilty before Judge Horner yesterday. Bail in the sum of $400 each was given by the freeholders, and in the case of Hilton $2,500 security was furnished.

The cases may be tried Thursday, May 22. In the cases of Hilton, William A. Wilkins and Joseph P. Lemmon, Prosecutor Samuel A. Atkinson made application for a struck jury. An order to that effect was made by the court.

SCORE OF WORKMEN FALL INTO SEA WITH SCAFFOLD

Atlantic City, May 16.—Twenty men were cast into the sea Wednesday when the scaffolding at the end of the Earle Pier at New Jersey avenue callopsed under the weight of an engine.

Rescuers, swung down on ropes, saved all the imperiled men. Seven were unconscious when hauled to the pier.

Michael Burke, an iron worker, was killed in the collapse of a derrick on the same pier four weeks ago. Richard Nealing, a foreman for the Oswego Bridge Company, sustained a broken back at that time, and is making a fight for life in the City Hospital.

NEW YORKERS LEASE OCEAN PARK FROM LONG BRANCH

Long Branch, May 16.—Ocean Park has been leased by the city to the B. Z. S. Company, of New York, for five years, with the privilege of a five-year renewal. For the first year the rental will be $2,500, the second year five per cent. of the gross receipts will be added and for the rest of the period the rental will be increased by ten per cent. of the park's income.

A. V. D. Story, representative of the lessees, announced that the work of preparing the park for the season will begin Monday. Under the terms of the lease the company must spend $4,500 in improvements to the buildings, maintain a band of fifteen pieces and a free gate.

OCEAN GROVE BEATS NATION IN BROTHERHOOD RACE

Ocean Grove, May 16.—The race for the largest charter membership list among the Methodist Brotherhood chapters in the United States, numbering more than 1,400 organizations, has been won by Ocean Grove.

The charter list of this chapter has been closed with 240 names, or forty more than the chapter in Adrian, Mich., which occupied first place in the brotherhood statistics. The Los Angeles chapter was a close second.

The Ocean Grove chapter is further distinguished by having the greatest number of ministers—fifteen. The officers are President, Lot R. Ward; vice presidents, Frank G. Mount, T. Lloyd Lewis, George C. Pridham, Joseph C. Jackson; secretary, George W. Matthews; treasurer, Samuel G. Butler.

The national officers in New York say the Methodist Brotherhood is stronger in New Jersey than any other State.

FIRE COMMISSIONER HONORED.

Elizabeth, May 16. Democratic friends of Fire Commissioner John J. Collins gave him a dinner Wednesday night at Turn Hall. Governor James J. Fielder was present and made an address after being applauded and boomed to succeed himself. He complimented the Democracy of Elizabeth in having such a loyal supporter as Mr. Collins. Recorder Hugh Mars, of Bayonne, and Assemblyman John A. Matthews also spoke. A gold chain and charm were presented to Mr. Collins. John R. Connolly, secretary of the Union County Board for the Equalization of Taxes, presided. In introducing the Governor Mr. Connolly said that the affair had "no political significance." However it is understood it was held for the chief purpose of showing Mr. Collins' political strength, with what object is not known. He has been considered the only man who could bring the General Collins-Nugent factions of the party together, and in a small measure he has succeeded. Many of the anti-Collins men did not attend Wednesday night. Politicians think that friends of Mr. Collins are planning to boost him for some political office in the near future.

Her father is Michael Stahovski, who is employed at the State House. Young Mrs. McEldowney alleges that her husband's father has separated her husband from her and sent him to Europe.

BICYCLIST COLLIDES.

JUST AS GOOD AS THE 'MOVIES' ARE

Cops Lined up as Train Stopped and Capture of Desperate Negroes Follows.

AS CROWD LOOKS ON

Three Gun-play Prisoners Taken to County Jail One for Grand Jury and Others to Begin to Serve Time Now.

The sight of more than a dozen policemen lined up along the Jersey Central Railroad tracks at the North Avenue station shortly before 8 o'clock last night, attracted a large and curious crowd which witnessed the capture of two negroes on a freight train bound for Allentown, who had figured in a gun-playing escapade at Elizabethport with Railroad Detective Barney Rosenthal. They were arrested by Patrolman George Muir as they hopped from the cars. A third negro, Herbert Smith, made an attempt to escape but was overtaken by Patrolman Martin Flatley hiding in a hedge at the corner of Church and East Second streets. As Flatley approached him the colored man drew a .38 calibre revolver, fully loaded, from his pocket, but the "copper" had his gun out first and the negro submitted to arrest.

Smith, arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and trespassing on the railroad, was held in $500 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. He said his home is in Hagerstown, Md. The other prisoners, who described themselves as George Perkins and John Shivley, 21 years old, also of Hagerstown, pleaded guilty to the charge of trespassing and each was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and to spend fifty days in the county jail. All three prisoners were committed to the county jail.

The beginning of the exciting events dated back an hour prior to their arrest. The scene was the railroad yards at Elizabethport. As the time approached for the freight express for Allentown to leave the yards, Barney Rosenthal, a special detective hired by the Central Railroad authorities, noticed the three colored men about to board one of the string of cars. Approaching Smith, he asked, "Where are you fellows going and what are you doing here?"

For reply he felt the muzzle of a .38 calibre revolver pressed against his breast, with the curt rejoiner, "Don't ask foolish questions." As the train moved out of the yard, Smith, according to the detective, kept the revolver leveled in his direction. As the engine gained speed, the trespassers "ducked" from view behind one of the cars.

Rosenthal immediately notified headquarters at Jersey City and the latter in turn telephoned to Captain Frederickson, who was in charge of the local police station. Receiving advice that the train would be stopped at Plainfield, so the arrest of the trio could be effected, Frederickson lost no time in gathering a force of men at the railroad station. As the train approached the station, it stopped suddenly. The negroes, evidently realizing what was about to take place, jumped from their hiding place in a box car. Patrolman Muir nabbed Shivley and Perkins and Flatley, as related, succeeded in capturing Smith, as he attempted to escape.

HELD FOR ASSAULT.

Mark Sundae, of Cottage place, arrested on complaint of Joseph Daniere, of North avenue, who charged him with assault and battery, was arraigned befort City Judge DeMeza this morning and held in $200 bail for the grand jury. Both are employes at the plant of the Spicer Manufacturing Co. Following a quarrel at the factory, the defendant, it is alleged, hit Daniere on the head with a piece of iron pipe, knocking him unconscious to the floor. Sundae was released this afternoon when bail was provided by Michael O'Mango. The defendant was represented in court by Francis J. Blatz, of the law firm of Codington & Blatz.

HOPE CHAPEL CONCERT PROVES DRAWING CARD

The first annual concert under the auspices of the choir of Hope chapel given at the chapel last night proved a success and was largely attended by members and friends of the chapel. The concert was in charge of Thomas M. Jones, organist, and the assisting artists were Harry O. Jones, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., tenor; Miss Anna Jessen, of Orange, violinist, and Miss Elizabeth Goddard, of this city, soprano soloist.

The program was an attractive one throughout and comprised popular numbers. The artists were generous with encores. The work of the choir showed careful training by Mr. Jones, while the singing of Miss Goddard was especially pleasing. Her selections were excellent, particularly the Scotch songs, which gave her a fine opportunity to display the fine qualities of her voice.

Mr. Jones, the tenor, is a Welshman about seventy years of age, and his singing was a revelation to the audience. Miss Jessen, the violinist, was also well received in the rendition of several numbers. The proceeds from the affair was for the benefit of the choir.

The choir is comprised of the following: Sopranos, the Misses Edna Eckert, Lona Becker, Mary N. Mortimer, Elizabeth T. Becker, Jessie Duncan, Elizabeth G. Doig, Alice E. Rimmer and Mrs. Marcus W. Clark; altos, the Misses Eunice Eckert, Elizabeth Slorah, Mabel E. Hunter and Mrs. Thomas Llewellyn; tenors, James Fanton, John B. Slorah, Harold A. Brownell, Howard Parry and Rev. Frederic L. Greene; bassos, Thomas Llewellyn, Charles Pfleger, Charles Vincent and David Wardrop. Miss Ivy Mead, the blind violinist, who was expected to take part in the entertainment, was prevented by illness.

CEREMONIES AT ST. MARY COLLEGE

Statue of Blessed Virgin to Be Crowned at Roman Catholic School Tomorrow.

IMPOSING EXERCISES

Commencement Events Begin Week Later—Bishop McFaul Will Deliver the Address on Graduation Day, Wednesday, May 28.

Amid the songs and prayers of the children of Mount Saint Mary College, an imposing ceremony will be witnessed tomorrow afternoon on the steps of Gabriel Hall, the new college wing, when the statue of the Blessed Virgin will be crowned. The statue, arranged on the steps, will be artistically set in a bower of dogwood and greens. Although the crowning takes place each year during the month of May, this year it is coupled with unusual pleasure because of the elaborate program.

The pupils, as pilgrims, march in procession from the main building, singing the Litany of the Blessed Virgin. When they arrive at a little distance from the shrine they burst forth into a hymn to the Blessed Virgin. In font of the statue has been hung a curtain, which two children, acting as guards, keep drawn so as to hide the statue from view. As the music dies away, the guards appear in front of the curtain and go forward to meet the procession, which, headed by the queen and her attendants, is slowly advancing. When the attendants tell the intentions in coming to the shrine, the curtain is drawn aside, leaving the statue in full view.

The queen is then crowned and proceeds to crown the statue, after which the presentation of flowers is made. There are violets, daisies, carnations, roses, lilies and bleeding hearts. As each in turn steps forward to present her floral tribute to the Blessed Virgin, she accompanies her gift with the recitation of a short verse. When the carnations are presented a rosary is formed by twining smilax on light wire and interspersing carnations, red for Aves and white for Paters. Two children then carry this forward and place it on the steps before the shrine.

Lastly, Faith, Hope and Charity appear, represented by three girls dressed in colored robes, blue, green and red, and carrying in their hands their symbols, a cross, an anchor and a heart of flowers, respectively. They place their emblems in front of the shrine and the ceremony closes with the recitation, by all the pilgrims, of the Act of Consecration to the Blessed Virgin.

Those representing the principal characters will be: Miss Irene Smith, Queen of May; crown-bearer, Miss Marcella Vooz; attendants, Misses Mary McCallion, Mary Connelly and Mary McSorley; guards, Misses Katharine and Frances Fagan, Eleanor Convery, Kathleen Brown, Mildred Barrett, Emily McCloud, Margaret Caullett, Catharine Gannon, Anita McGuire, Clare Getzinger, Margaret Weinman, Ruth Miller, Pauline Watts, Frances O'Hara, Helena McHale, Katherine Horan, Annabelle B. Jones, Isabella Mullen, Grace Rafferty, Dorothy Day, Inger Peterson, Sadie Lee, May Duchesne, Florence Greasheimer, Minnie Taylor, Helen Babel, Marie Tobin, Elizabeth Brown, Orfilia Lorentz, Margaret Donegan, Margaret McGowan, Margaret Herron, Mary O'Gara, Clare Miles; faith, Miss Kathryn Griffin; hope, Miss Agnes O'Connor; charity, Miss Margaret Ribsam; flower girls, Misses Johanna Koblenzer, Maud Peterson, Eleanor Tracey, Dorothy Shirley, Helen Murray.

Candle bearers, Masters Harold Leonard, Otto Keller, Gervase Morrison, Emanuel Gerli, Jack Gannon, Charles Reynolds, Carl Lorentz, George O'Neill, Allyn Peterson, Lester Peterson, George Sprague, William Rodgers, Hugh Philip Treacy, Louis Downs.

This tribute to Mary, under whose patronage the college has been placed, is indeed a fitting introduction to the commencement exercises, which will begin with the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, May 25.

An attractive program of exercises has been arranged for commencement week at the College of Mount Saint Mary. Throughout the week church dignitaries and others will have a prominent part in the pro-

ASSOCIATION GIRLS ENTERTAIN FRIENDS

Variety Program Presented by Y. W. C. A. Club Yesterday Afternoon.

Members of the North Plainfield High School faculty and students of that institution were treated to a delightful program of entertainment in the parlors and on the lawn of the Y. W. C. A. yesterday afternoon, the affair being arranged for their benefit by Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, president of the Y. W. C. A., assisted by Miss Eva Terry, a borough teacher. A variety program consisting of vocal and instrumental music, games and recitations provided entertainment for the 250 guests present. The parlors were appropriately decorated with bunting and cut flowers, rose and white, the colors of the Sigma Gamma Kappa club, an organization that took an important part in the affair, predominating.

The festivities were in charge of the club members who served on the various committees of arrangement, and their work was complete in every detail. Prominent features of the afternoon were the recitations of Miss Mary Martin and that of James Goodwin, North Plainfield High School pupils. Miss Martin appeared in a monologue containing numerous laugh-provoking sayings. Mr. Goodwin also recited a humorous piece which was well received. A chorus composed of N. P. H. S. pupils appeared twice on the program singing appropriate selections. Miss Jubilee Rowley was the accompanist. Randolph Douglas played a number of popular selections on the violin.

The entertainment committee was composed of officers of the club, Miss Lucy Douglas, the vice president, acting as chairman, and she was assisted by Miss Dorothy Martin, Miss Margaret Currin, Miss Marion Mair and Miss Edna Green. Miss Clara Smith was chairman of the refreshment committee and she had as her helpers, Miss Anna Hull, Miss Lucy Douglas, Miss Marion Dunham and Miss Irene Giddes. Miss Marjorie Burtis supervised the decorating and the zealous efforts of this individual and her little band of helpers evidenced itself on every hand.

These are the officers of the club: President, Miss Anna Hull; vice president, Miss Lucy Douglas; secretary, Miss Marion Dunham, and treasurer, Miss Irene Giddes. Among the guests present were the following members of the North Plainfield High School faculty: Principal Benjamin J. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Early, Miss Roxana Love, Miss Eva Terry and Miss Montague.

THE MEAN THINGS.

Just because the Franklin School baseball team sent in one Todd to do the pitching for their team against the Hartridge School nine in the sixth inning of their game yesterday afternoon, the private school boys refused to play. Muttering dire threats about Todd and speaking of his wanting to play with babies instead of men his own size, the Hartridge team picked up their belongings and left the field. This is the information advanced by the Franklinites who claim the game by a score of 9 to 0, although the private school sluggers were ahead when the crisis came. Harold Condict was the umpire and he escaped unmarred by cutting through a back lot and hurdling several fences.

MURDERED WHILE ASLEEP.

Elizabeth, May 17.—An autopsy on the body of Mrs. Louise Merson, a Cuban, who was found dead in bed yesterday morning, disclosed the fact that she had met death by a bullet which pierced her brain. Prosecutor A. A. Stein and Detective John Gallatian have been working on the case and facts seem to indicate that the woman was murdered while asleep. A twelve years old colored girl employed as a servant by Mrs. Merson found her dead and since the discovery has related several conflicting stories to the Elizabeth police.

A SMALL BLAZE.

Fire that started in a trunk behind the kitchen stove did damage to the extent of $40 in the house at 239 Cottage place early this morning. A call from box 52 brought the East End fire department to the scene of the blaze and it was quickly extinguished.

BRIDE IS TAKEN ILL ON THE WEDDING TRIP

Mrs. Francis Mortimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Cuming, of Putnam avenue, who was recently married at the home of her parents and who with her husband had planned an extensive wedding trip to Colorado Springs, has been ill with appendicitis in a hotel in Chicago since last Friday. The physician who was called advised an operation, but Mrs. Mortimer decided that she would rather return home for the operation, and as soon as she can be removed she will be brought to Plainfield.

Mrs. Mortimer was Miss Lillian Cuming. She and Mr. Mortimer were married here on Tuesday, May 6, and the following day they left for the west. A newly built home here awaits their occupancy.

ARRESTED AS ACCOMPLICE OF DOCTOR, OUT ON BAIL

Holter Christensen, 27 years old, of this city, was arrested this morning as an accomplice of Dr. James F. Lawson, the colored physician, who is under $5,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury, on a charge of illegal practice. When arraigned before City Judge De Meza he was held in $2,000 bail for the grand jury. Miss Karin S. Anderson, whose condition has been considered critical by the authorities of Muhlenberg Hospital, where she was taken last Monday, has improved to such an extent that her recovery is practically assured.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE GIVEN FOR JOHN DONALDSON

John Donaldson, of Stebbins place, was given a surprise party at his home last night when twenty-five friends dropped in on him unawares to help him celebrate the anniversary of his birthday. Features of the evening were dancing and a program of vocal and instrumental music furnished by a number of the guests. There were graphaphone selections by John Beattie, while the guests enjoyed many Scotch dances to the pleasing music of the violin played by William Carmichael, of Fanwood.

Refreshments were served during an intermission. The dancing was continued until about 3 o'clock this morning, after wishing Mr. Donaldson many happy returns of the day.

UNITARIANS TO MEET.

Boston, Mass., May 17.—One of the features of Unitarian anniversary week, which will be opened tomorrow morning with special services in all the Unitarian churches of Boston will be the festival meeting in Tremont Temple next Friday evening, at which former President William H. Taft will preside and deliver an address. Mr. Taft is expected to be heard at one or more of the other meetings of the week. These meetings will include those of the Sunday-school Society, he woman's Alliance, Lend-A-Hand Clubs, the temperance societies and other organizations connected with Unitarianism.

ALFONSO 27 YEARS OLD.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Madrid, May 17.—King Alfonso, who was born May 17, 1886, celebrated his twenty-seventh birthday anniversary today. The people's admiration for the coolness and bravery displayed by the young king on the occasion of the latest attempt on his life was reflected in the birthday celebrations, which were more enthusiastic and more general throughout the kingdom than for some years past. During the day hundreds of congratulatory messages were received at the royal palace, together with many valuable presents from the sovereigns of Europe and personal friends of the king.

GOTHAM'S GREAT SHOW.

New York, May 17.—The annual Municipal Street Pageant, intended to illustrate how Father Knickerbocker expends millions of dollars yearly for the benefit and welfare of the people, was given today and was voted a huge success by the tens of thousands of spectators who lined the route of the procession. The centre of attraction for the youngsters was the Park Department division, which included a number of regulation circus cages containing animals from the Zoo. Hattie, the talented Central Park elephant, marched proudly at the head of the menagerie.

SERMON FOR FIREMEN.

Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson will preach to the firemen tomorrow night at the First M. E. church. Paid firemen, volunteers, call men and exempts are invited together with their families.

JEAN SQUIRES.

Jean Squires, aged two years daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Squires, died this morning at the home of the parents, 732 Dixie lane. The funeral will be private.

CROWD LISTENS TO SUFFRAGISTS

Alice Carpenter, Helen Robinson, Inez Milholland and Everett Colby Talk.

REMARKABLE MEETING

Hundreds Paid Admission to Hear Arguments for "Votes for Women"—Prominent Pioneers Are Seated on Platform.

Fully 1 200 men and women listened attentively last night at the Plainfield theatre while Equal Suffrage "spellbinders" told why the woman should have the vote. It was not a political meeting of the "hip, hip, hurrah" kind but decidedly one where people had come to learn and not to make a noise and unquestionably it was a big success, especially so when it is most difficult at this season of the year to arouse public interest in mass meetings whatever their purpose, and the most remarkable part of it all was that the hundreds present all paid an admission fee.

Miss Inez Milholland, a New York lawyer and student of sociological matters; Miss Alice Carpenter, of Boston, Mass., a delegate to the Progressive National Convention and a member of the Bull Moose National Committee; former State Senator Everett Colby, of Llelwyn Park, a Gubernatorial possibility, and last but by no means least, Senator Robinson, a member of the Colorado legislature, were the speakers. Others on the platform were former Governor John Franklin Fort, of East Orange; former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth; former State Senator William C. Gebhardt of Hunterdon county, now clerk of the New Jersey Supreme Court; Mrs. Edward F. Feickert, of Plainfield, president of the New Jersey Equal Suffrage League; Mrs. Champlain L. Riley, of North Plainfield, president of the local league; Percy H. Stewart mayor of Plainfield; Oberlin Smith, of Bridgeton; C. L. Riley and the chairman, William L. Saunders, president of the New Jersey Men's League for Woman Suffrage, under whose auspices the mass meeting was held. Every seat in the house was taken when the meeting began and among the audience were delegations from Elizabeth and other parts of Union county. There were some "Antis" on hand too, but they maintained a dignified silence. Dr. Saunders delivered a lengthy address before introducing the speakers of the evening.

Miss Carpenter, the first speaker, who was characterized by Mr. Saunders as "a splendid representative of her sex," commanded the close attention of her hearers from her opening words in which she challenged their approbation. She dealt with the academic side of her subject and elicited considerable applause when she quoted from a New York State judicial decision, an opinion to the effect that a law prescribing certain conditions, hours of labor, etc., for the factory girls of that State was unconstitutional in that it tended to treat women as "wards of the State" —"when in the eyes of the law, the adult female is entitled to and may assume, all the responsibilities and privileges which are open to men."

Miss Carpenter was a very pleasing speaker. She was a delegate to the National Convention of the Progressive party at Chicago last year and served on several committees there.

Mrs. Robinson, of Colorado, a tall, fine looking and becomingly gowned woman, proved herself an eloquent and convincingly sincere speaker. She announced that she would anticipate any query as to the withdrawal of woman suffrage in Colorado, reports of which seemed to have circulated during the past week, by quoting a letter from her husband in Denver saying that such action was not contemplated. Senator Robinson also convinced the audience that at least one Colorado suffragist possessed militant potentialities when, in level, smooth, but deadly earnest tones, which recalled Frank Keenan, as Sheriff Jack Rance in Belasco's "The Girl of the Golden West," she predicted that the women of Colorado would, if such action were ever taken, resort to "methods which would make London in the grip of the militants, seem like Sleepy Hollow."

Miss Milholland, the last speaker, was announced as "the one who answers questions." She did. It is highly probable that her comprehensive and logical manner of dealing with all queries presented frequently give the hostile questioner good reason for repenting his or her curiosity.

Miss Milholland is not a trained orator. She is naturally eloquent with the eloquence due to deep rooted conviction seeking expression in forms of speech which shall raise no cloud of doubt or misunderstanding in the minds of her auditors, but she either lacks or disdains to use the glibfluency employed by the seasoned political speaker in advancing his arguments. She is that most dangerous type of speaker from the viewpoint of an opponent—the sort that possesses and utilizes good sound common sense and she is an enthusiastically sincere believer in her subject.

For the better part of an hour Miss Milholland stood to her guns and made good her title of "the one who answers" in the face of a shower of written queries all but two of which were hostile. It was as close an approach to the British privilege of "heckling" a platform speaker as any Plainfield audience has ever enjoyed, and it demonstrated the young woman's complete ability to keep both her temper and her wit. In this latter respect and in a keen cleverness at rapid-fire analytical reasoning Miss Milholland shows the possession of the best qualities of the able lawyer without his proneness to sarcastic comment.

Particularly was her exposition of present conditions in the British situation and the causes contributing thereto, received with deep interest. These points were dealt with in the first question handed up and Miss Milholland asked to be allowed to answer it last in order to give it sufficient time. Her detailed story of British governmental refusal to give consideration to and permit a vote to be had in Parliament on the question of suffrage for women was enlightening to a degree.

Some who heard her tell how Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman challenged the suffragists of three years ago, after the movement had been for forty years conducted along peaceful lines, "to kick up a row as the men do when they want to raise an issue;" and how Hobhouse, denying the validity of their claim to the support of popular sentiment, challenged them last year to "burn and destroy as did the men of 1848 in their demand for manhood suffrage," seemed to share her indignation as she told of the treachery of Asquith in twice pledging his word that the measure should be given the test of a vote in both houses and allowed to stand or fall on its merits, only to have the session of Parliament to close without putting the matter through. The fact that a suffrage measure has passed the House of Commons on its first and second readings by a majority of one hundred and ten votes was startling news to many present.

Miss Milholland laid stress on the unwillingness of the women to resort to violent methods until compelled to by the causes cited and on the additional fact that while property has been destroyed as was the property of innocent merchants by the Boston Tea Party in 1775, there has been no attempt to endanger the lives of any.

Having stated that the Anti-Suffrage League is endorsed by and has in several instances accepted financial support from the National Brewers' Association, Miss Milholland was questioned from the audience as to details.

In reply she cited circular letters sent to retail liquor men in Oregon by the organization of brewers urging them to work against the suffrage amendment to the State constitution and also the employment of similar tactics in Ohio, where the Anti-Suffragists were charged with having used literature which the Brewers' Association paid for and holding meetings at which speakers took part who were paid by the brewers and where the charges have never been contradicted.

Senator Colby's talk was in part an arraignment of the British laws on the score of the social injustice done to women by a judicial code in the framing of which they have no voice. He was accorded a flatteringly cordial reception by the audience but apparently he derived as much satisfaction from the remarks of the other speakers as he did from the applause which greeted his own remarks.

Mr. Saunders' speech follows:

"At the railway station this morning I was told that a Plainfield lady whom I hold in high regard was asked if she was coming to this meeting tonight. She said no, she did not believe in suffrage and would rather stay home and sew. Now sewing is one qualification which distinguishes the sexes. It is a very admirable accomplishment on the part of any woman. I should be sorry to discourage it, because like many other men I lose buttons, but the thing that impresses me most is that sewing is plainly secondary to a great many other things in life which are of such vital importance. I am taking this remark of my excellent friend as a key-note for what is to follow at this meeting because it touches a very important and serious point in the record of experience hereabouts. It suggests in a very practical way the fact that woman needs something more than indirect influence in order to safeguard and protect woman in industry.

"Several years ago Bob Van Wyck was mayor of New York. Now Bob was a very practical mayor. He was a good fellow. It has even been said that he was a good fellow for revenue only. He looked at things with a practical eye. He was not overburdened by chivalry. On several occasions while administering the affairs of the City of New York he was called upon by deputations of women who petitioned him to appoint some women on the Board of Inspectors of New York city, whose work was to care, through inspection, for the welfare and safety of factories where women are employed. It was pointed out to this mayor that girls were working in lofts, sewing for a living, under conditions where the atmosphere was foul, where the hours of service were long, where the compensation was low, and most serious of all, where there were not proper or sufficient safeguards against fire. After the usual polite reception of these women, telling them that he would give the matter attention, the mayor was finally driven to show his real self when in a moment of business congestion he told a delegation of women who called upon him repeatedly on this subject that they had better not bother him any more, that they had nothing to do with the government of New York, 'for,' said he, 'there is not a vote in the whole lot of you.' A few years later there occurred one of the most serious and inexcusable disasters that New York has ever witnessed—the shirt waist fire. I need not describe its horrors, for they are still fresh in the minds of this generation. Had the women of New York gone to the polls instead of staying home to sew their prayer for factory inspectors would have been granted and the lives of these poor sewing girls might have been saved.

"In the published advertisements of this meeting the following statement is made:

"'Come let us reason together on this, the most interesting question which is now before the people of the United States.'

"Even an anti will admit, I think that the subject is interesting. I shall go further and say that woman suffrage is the most vital question of the day. Lest some one should dispute that statement and think that the tariff and the currency questions are more vital let me remind you of the fact that those questions must be settled by our representatives in Congress and that if they are not settled right we men, through our votes, have the power to give further instructions to the next Congress. It is very important what laws these men pass in Congress, but it is more important to lift the moral standard of the voter by education and by making the privilege not only respectable but popular, a subject that should be discussed at the breakfast table, a responsibility that should be shared by each adult member of the family. As Dr. Lyman Abbott has said: 'The builders of this nation are the fathers, the mothers, the teachers.'

"The root of a tree is more important than any of its branches, the foundation stones of a building are more important than any part of the structure, no river can be greater than its source. The root, the foundation, the source of all free government lies in the vote. Bad government is the direct result of bad voting. Can anything be plainer than this?

Now what is this important thing called a vote and how successfully do we men carry this great responsibility? To vote is to express an opinion on a subject. Suppose I should ask this audience to vote whether Senator Colby or Senator Robinson should be the next speaker—would anybody in the audience, who is old enough to think, raise the question as to whether the women in this audience should have an equal right with the men to express their opinion on this subject? Suppose you attend a parish meeting of your church tomorrow night and a question is raised as to whether or not there should be a large or a small choir in the church, does any one deny the right of a woman to pass on this question? Suppose you have stock in the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. and a meeting of the stockholders is to be held to elect a board of directors, must you and your rights, through your stock, be sacrificed because you happen to wear skirts instead of trousers? Suppose the people of this city desire to express their opinion upon the question whether or not a new school or better school accommodations should be provided, do the men know more about this subject than you women? Now these are very simple, elementary illustrations, but you can hardly say that they are not practical. To vote at a public polling place for a candidate for office is only doing the same thing in a different way and doing the thing that is of tremendous importance in the health, happiness and prosperity of the people. As President Wilson has said: 'Politics enters into every part of our life.' It concerns the welfare of the whole people, it marks the beginning for good or evil.

"If politics in America were a great success, if things political were going well there might be no cause for agitating woman suffrage, but things are not going well. Graft is common political practice, neglect is everywhere. I need not dwell upon this point. The State of New Jersey is sandwiched between Tammany Hall and the corrupt Republican organization in Philadelphia, so that any one who reads the newspapers knows that the American political system is bad.

"I am not so sure that women can make it very much better. Mr. Dooley when asked if he believed in woman suffrage said: 'I wuddent min dat all havin' a little soap and wather, a broom an' duster applied to pollyticks.' I do know that the introduction of women in politics cannot make it any worse. I know from personal observation that where women do vote the atmosphere is cleaner. I have also learned that women excite more interest in politics, that there is more independent voting and that in a great many places substantial good has resulted. Is not a thing which after a trial of nearly fifty years has done no harm and has done some good somewhere worthy of approval and support? Women have had full suffrage rights in the State of Wyoming for forty-three years, and for the last twenty years there has been a standing challenge issued inviting the Antis to find in all the State of Wyoming two respectable men who will assert over their own signatures and addresses that there have been any bad results whatsoever. So far there has been no response to this challenge. In California they have only had woman suffrage about two years. At the luncheon in the Park Club yesterday a lady, whose husband is a Professor in the Leland Stanford University, stated some good things that have been done since the women have voted. Among them was the improvement of the milk supply, through proper inspection, and another, which I give for the benefit of certain calamity howlers, who think that equal suffrage will produce dissension in families, is the quiet statement which this lady made that she and her husband recently went to the polls and peacefully voted for different candidates.

"We know that beginning with Wyoming there has been a gradual extension of woman suffrage through surrounding and adjoining states, until today women have full suffrage rights in Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Colorado, Washington, California, Kansas and Arizona. Is it likely that suffrage had done any harm, or even is it likely that if suffrage had not done any good, that one state after another, located as a neighbor, should take it up and establish it? We must also remember that wherever it has once been established it has never been recalled. Some of you may have heard that it once existed in New Jersey, but this was about 125 years ago and it was a mere accident. In addition to the localities I have mentioned full suffrage rights exist in Scandinavia, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland and Iceland. It also exists in that new world of the Southern Pacific—Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, and I want you to bear in mind as practical people, that this thing which we propose to put into effect in New Jersey has been tried during the past forty-three years in three sections of the world and it has grown in each locality where it was first planted and that those three sections of the world are inhabited by intelligent, progressive people.

FACTS AND COMMENT ON NEW YORK NEWS

New York, May 17.—According to figures submitted to the Sinking Fund Commission by Controller Prendergast, New York city is the largest holder of real estate within the limits of its jurisdiction. It owns 5,500 parcels of property aggregating in value about $1,300,000,000. The funded debt of the city on Jan. 1 last, according to the Controller, was $1,122,000,000. Deducting from this the value of the securities of the city held in the sinking fund, $302,000,000, there is left a funded indebtedness of $820,000,000, as against city owned real estate of $1,300,000,000, leaving the city an equity of $400,000,000. This is exclusive of the value of street pavements and sewers, and of the valuable equipment of personal property of its various departments. Inventories of these items now being made probably will show that this equipment is worth more than $40,000,000.

The year book of Trinity church parish just issued, gives some interesting figures. The report shows that the assessed valuation of Trinity's productive property upon which taxes are paid, is $15,171,024, an increase of about $466,924 over the previous year. During the year about $579,000 was expended on new buildings out of funds borrowed or realized from the sale of real estate. Trinity's liability for notes payable has increased about $600,000 during the year and now amounts to $3,500,000, incurred mainly for the erection of new buildings and improvements. Trinity now owns 366 houses with accommodations for 882 families, or between 3,000 and 4,000 persons. There are now nearly 9,000 communicants reported in the parish, and during the year more than 8,000 religious services were held. During the year there were 449 baptisms, 440 confirmations, 315 marriages and 302 burials.

Has anyone ever heard of such a thing as a chain of cake? Well, that's the thing the Woman's Suffrage Party of Greater New York wants to use as a help to success. In its efforts to raise money for the cause, the party is conducting a cake shop at its headquarters at East Thirty-fourth street. The cakes sold at that shop are such as "Mother used to bake" and as they are quite toothsome, there is a great demand for them. The shop has been doing a thriving business and would have done even more business, if it could have procured enough of these home-made cakes. To remedy this Mrs. Martha Wentworth Suffren, who put the "Suffr" into "Suffrage," conceived the brilliant idea of an endless chain of cake. Every day five of the best cake makers from one of the Assembly Districts in Manhattan and five from a district in Brooklyn will be assigned by the leader of the district to bring to the shop a loaf of cake. This will supply the shop annually with about 3,000 cakes. The women selected for Sundays of the year will not have to bring cakes but will be let off with a few glasses of home-made preserves.

The pestiferous boys bent on mischief were investigating things in general at the Erie freight yards in West Orange, N. J., the other day, when they came upon a car the sliding door of which had not been securely fastened. They pushed open the door, but did not remain in that part of the county very long, for a fierce looking big lion leaped out of the car when the door slid open. In their mad flight the boys spread the news of the lion's escape and in a few minutes the King of the Beasts had the whole freight yard to himself.

The presence of the lion completely paralyzed all work in the freight yards and the situation became unbearable. A police officer bravely approached within half a mile and from that distance began to fire bullet after bullet from his revolver in the direction in which he supposed the lion to be. Finally Pete Amento, a former Mexican cowboy, who lives in West Orange, was appealed to. Armed with a lariat he approached the lion and a shout of delight from the hundreds of spectators went up when he deftly threw the noose over the lion's head, pulled it tight and fastened the end of the lariat to a fence post. While everybody was wondering what would be done next, a woman walked into the yard. With quick strides she made straight for the lion who was by that time feeling quite uncomfortable. "Why, old boy, what have they been doing to you!" she said to the lion, while she removed the lariat from his neck. Then she led the lion back to his car, made him jump in and closed the door on him. The woman was a lion tamer and the lion her pet.

The feud between the various criminal gangs in this city continues and assaults and murders of gangsters are a common occurrence. It is not surprising, therefore, that one of the gangmen, who had been instrumental in bringing about the arrest of "Lefty Louie" and "Gyp the Blood," two of the Rosenthal murderers, wishes himself safe behind prison walls. He was arrested for picking pockets the other day and when his case was heard, the judge, in consideration of the service the prisoner had rendered to the District Attorney, suspended his sentence. The prisoner protested and asked the court to send him to prison for a good long term. He explained that his life was in constant danger and he felt sure that the friends of "Lefty Louie" and Gyp the Blood" would eventually murder him.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Laurette Taylor has passed her two hundredth performance in New York in Olive Morosco's production of J. Hartley Manners' tremendously successful comedy, "Peg O' My Heart," at the Cort theatre. Every indication points to this attraction remaining at John Cort's beautiful playhouse throughout the summer and into next season. Every performance of the play finds the house sold out completely. The original cast remains, including H. Reeves-Smith, Hassard Short, Clarence Handyside, Reginald Mason, Peter Bassett, Christine Norman, Emilie Melville and Ruth Gartland. This delightful play is one of the really solid successes of the present season.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, MAY 17, 1913.

The editorial columns of this paper are conducted on Saturdays by representative citizens who are free to express their own views. William S. Tyler, President of the Board of Education, is the Contributing Editor for today.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND THE TAX RATE.

The school budget fixing the amount which will be asked for this month by the Board of Education for the current expenses of the schools next year, amounts to.....$211,435
The budget for this year was..... 194,175

Increase for next year .....$ 17,260

Being eight per cent. increase over this year.
Last year's budget amounted to.....$175,095

Increase for this year 19,080

Being ten and eight-tenths per cent. increase over last year.

The average increase from year to year during the last nine years (i. e., since the School Law of 1903 was enacted) has been nine per cent. a year.

This year's increase is, therefore, two and eight-tenths per cent. less than last year's increase, and one per cent. less than the average of the past nine years. The unusual strain in other departments of the city tax rate made it seem wise to postpone certain items of repair work and improvements in the schools until another year.

Less than one-half of the foregoing amounts are raised by local taxation, the larger share being paid by the State.

The increases of school expenses from year to year are due to three principal causes:

First. Teachers' salaries are about two-thirds of the whole expense of maintaining the schools. It is an American boast that wages have gone higher from year to year in this country. It is a regret that the cost of living has gone higher. The increase of teachers' salaries is part of the American boast.

Secondly. Better education from year to year is another American boast. State laws require better teachers, wider opportunity for all kinds of children, better buildings, better equipment, fire proof construction, better light and ventilation and working conditions, better supervision and care of the health of the children in school, and purchase at public expense of all school books and supplies. These results are every year the evidences of American good faith in making good the national ideals.

Thirdly. The largest item of all is the direct because of the foregoing: More children go to school; more children want to stay on longer in school; so that there are larger and larger numbers all the time to be educated. The records show that for many years the rate of increase in school attendance from year to year has been much larger than the rate of increase of the population.

In a word, the plan to educate more of the children of all the people and to educate them better is succeeding. The laws of New Jersey have kept pace fairly well, every year, with the leaders in this national movement. The increased tax rate is the price of a big harvest of future American citizens.

P. H. S. GIRLS LOST TO CRANFORD ELEVEN

Local Hockeyists Defeated by a Score of 3 to 0 at Cranford.

Playing their third game of the season the Plainfield High School girls' hockey team was defeated by the girls of Cranford High School at the latter place yesterday afternoon by the score of 3 to 0. The local team was crippled to some extent by the absence of Miss Marjorie Biedelman and Miss Celia Cottrell, and hope to get revenge when the Cranfordites appear next Thursday afternoon at Parker Field. Owing to the pressure of other school activities the P. H. S. maidens have had very little practice since their last game which was played early in the fall and the bad condition of the rival team's field was another of the impediments they had to overcome.

The teams lined up as follows:

SEEKING SERUM FOR PNEUMONIA

Rockefeller Institute Physicians Are Making Rapid Progress.

CURE IS NOT YET PROMISED

Experiments Show That Disease Is Caused by Several Related Organisms Instead of by a Single Germ, as Many Others Are—Antitoxin May Soon Be Perfected.

Pneumonia may soon cease to be one of the most terrible of acute diseases if success rewards certain promising experiments conducted recently at the Rockefeller Institute For Medical Research, in New York. Important knowledge concerning the disease has been revealed, and a serum is being perfected, according to reports which still lack the confirmation of the institute officials.

While it is yet too early to determine definitely how far the new antitoxin will reduce the death rate, it is known that excellent results were obtained during the winter at the hospital connected with the institute.

The serum is based on the discovery that pneumonia, like a number of other germ diseases, is not produced by a single organism, but by several closely related organisms, or "strains." The experts of the institute have succeeded in isolating about eight of these strains and have developed serums which have been found to react on two of them.

Authorities Interested.

Dr. Walter Bensel, sanitary superintendent of the health department of New York city, said recently that the department was keeping in touch with the institute's experiments along this line and that he had every reason to believe its efforts would ultimately be crowned with success.

When the serum is ready for distribution, he said, it would doubtless be placed in the hands of health departments all over the country and dealt out by them to local physicians, as is done in the case of diphtheria antitoxin in some cities.

Henry James, Jr., manager of the institute, when asked for specific details regarding the serum said nothing definite could be given out by the institute at this time.

He admitted, however, that experiments were being carried on with a view to developing a pneumonia antitoxin. Full details would be published when it had been perfected, he said.

He would give no idea as to when that would be, but it is understood the directors are preparing to issue an announcement on the subject this summer.

Method of Preparation.

The process followed at the institute, it is understood, is approximately the same as that used in the preparation of most other serums. A horse is inoculated with one of the strains, mildly at first, but with gradually increased doses until he becomes immune. A preparation of his blood is then injected into the veins of the patient.

The only difficulty to be solved in the case of the new antitoxin is the determination of the particular strain which has caused the disease in the patient. It has been found that the serum produced from one strain has no effect upon any of the others.

So far the method adopted has been to inoculate several mice with the sputum of the patient to be treated. The mice are then in turn given an injection of the sera prepared from the various strains. At the end of twenty-four hours or less one of the mice will be found in a healthy state, while all the others will have developed symptoms of pneumonia. It only remains to inoculate the patient with the same serum as that used on the well mouse.

This method has so far proved infallible in the case of only two of the strains, according to the information obtainable at present. Those familiar with the work of the institute are confident, however, that it is only a question of time before sera are developed for the other strains.

No one can tell yet, of course, whether the eight strains found represent all those into which the pneumococci are divided.

The bacilli responsible for blood poisoning, for instance, are said to exhibit twenty varieties, and other bacteria are almost as diversified.

Only patient study and long experimentation can succeed in isolating the mysterious strains, it is said, since at present they are rarely distinguishable under the microscope.

Among the greatest of the institute's recent medical discoveries is the transplantation of living organisms, for which Dr. Carrel is largely responsible.

It has also succeeded in isolating the germ of infantile paralysis and in developing a serum for the treatment of cerebrospinal meningitis, both of which diseases have baffled the profession since time immemorial.

Long Aeroplane Flight.

Gustav Hamel recently flew in an aeroplane from Dover, England, to Cologne, Germany, a distance of 245 miles without a stop. He carried a passenger. The trip was made in 238 minutes. Hamel and his companion passed over four frontiers and encountered five rainstorms on the journey.

Brady, for the ushers' benefit. The story of the play concerns the family of Charles Nelson, a New York man of wealth. Through the desire on the part of his wife to become a social leader, the husband finds himself robbed of the championship he knew before the "society bee" had poisoned her nature. Eventually, the absence of this comradeship drives the husband to distraction and he seeks elsewhere for his happiness. The revelations that follow bring to the surface a most unusual family skeleton, with both the father and his young son enmeshed in the tangle. Throughout the four acts of the play there are many startling scenes, and the climaxes follow in such rapid succession that from the rise of the curtain until the final scene there is an abundance of thrills. The complete cast, in addition to Miss Kennedy and Mr. Morris, will include Olive Harper Thorne, Elsie Hitz, Teresa Deagle, Ray Bowden, Gertrude Siebold, Lenna Duer, Rodney Hickok, John Bowers, George Pauncefort, Ned A. Sparks, Charles Stanley, Sidney Macey and Tom Lemonier.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

By FRANCES MARSHALL

Upkeep Expense.

One of the biggest flaws in most household budgets is that no allowance is made for the expense of upkeep; and yet furniture has to be reupholstered and mended and varnished and painted, floors have to be redressed, walls have to be repapered and the outside of the house has to be repainted from time to time. Whenever these things have to be done, the whole household economizes rigidly to save enough to pay for them—provided the household is not over supplied with wealth.

Of course, the ideal budget for household expenses provides a certain percentage of each year's income for a sinking fund. What this percentage should be can only be determined by individuals, according to surroundings and local conditions. In an old Italian castle, where the same furniture is in use today that was in use two hundred years ago, the furniture upkeep bill would not be much, for furniture built as that was, is built to last. If the furniture is of a cheap sort, it will need more money spent to keep it in order than if it is more expensive make and quality.

Economy of Upkeep.

Of course, the whole difficulty may be overcome by not having furniture and walls and floors and house walls attended to when they need be to be renovated; in time the furniture will fall to pieces and the house will fall down, and that is the trouble with this solution of the problem.

More than that, furniture which is always kept in shape—which has the missing castor promptly put on before the castorless leg has scratched the floor and before the springs have broken because of the uneven weight which they have to bear—wears much longer than that which is put in order periodically. Walls, of course, cannot be patched and mended piecemeal; but the paper can be kept clean, and stained places can sometimes be covered and furniture can be kept in order, instead of put in order, at a great saving of energy, time and money.

The Upkeep Bank.

The housewife who finds it difficult to apportion her income for household expenses could resort to some means of tricking herself into saving for household upkeep. She could, for instance, have a bank wherein she put spare change from time to time. Of course, when enough money has accumulated in the bank to make it worth while, she should transfer it to a savings bank, where it can accumulate interest until such time as it is needed to pay upkeep bills.

Some Cookery Suggestions

WAYS OF COOKING LOBSTER.

TO open a lobster first boil it, then separate the tail from the main part of the lobster and shake out the liver.

Draw the body from the shell, freeing it from the stomach, which is situated near the head, by pressing the meat near the head close against the shell with the first and second finger.

Split the lobster through the center and take out the meat. Cut the underside of the tail shell open with a sharp knife or scissors and remove the meat in one or two large pieces.

In taking out this meat look on the upper part near where the tail joined the body proper and lift up the small piece of flesh. Underneath will be found a vein running the entire length. Remove this.

The easiest way to remove the meat from the claws is to crack the shell with the broad side of a hammer.

A Lobster Pastry.

Vol-au-vent of Lobster.—Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter over the fire and stir into one and one-half ounces of flour. When thoroughly mixed dilute gradually with one pint of boiling white stock. Add the juice of half a lemon and a seasoning of salt and pepper, the yolks of two eggs beaten up with a spoonful or so of milk or cream. Then put in the flesh of two small cooked lobsters, cut into dice, stirring these all together over the fire. Have ready a vol-au-vent case, fill with the mixture, put on the cover and serve at once as hot as possible.

Lobster Stew.—Take a three pound lobster, remove the meat from shell and chop finely. Place one quart of milk in double boiler. Scald. Mix two tablespoonfuls of flour, punch of salt, dash of pepper with enough cold milk to mix well. Add this to scalded milk and stir well for three minutes. Add a piece of butter the size of a walnut and the lobster. Cook for five minutes. Serve with crackers.

Piquant Viands.

Broiled Lobster.—Cut a cooked lobster in half lengthways, removing all the uneatable parts. Open it out flat, dot from one-half ounce to one ounce of butter broken up small all over it, dust it with pepper and place the halves of the lobster just as they are on a gridiron and let heat slowly over a clear fire. When quite hot serve on a hot dish garnished with parsley and seasoned with lemon juice and a dust of cornaline pepper.

Buttered Lobster. Remove the meat from a freshly boiled lobster, mince it up finely and put in a casserole with one and one-half ounces of butter rolled in flour. Stir it all over a slow fire until quite hot. Then add a grate of nutmeg, a dessertspoonful of chili or ordinary vinegar, to which a grain or two of cayenne and half a saltspoonful of white pepper have been added and two tablespoonfuls of good gravy. Heat it all again and when thoroughly hot serve in the halved shells. Sprinkle with breadcrumbs.

Lizzie Brought In a Fried Egg.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Little Jane Wanted a Flat Egg.

JACK and Evelyn stilled their busy tongues. Daddy was going to tell them a story.

"In a city which is said to be very smoky, but which is really only smoky in the busy part where mills and shops pour out clouds of black smoke and which is not smoky at all away on the outside of the town where there are trees and flower gardens and nice houses, lives a little girl named Jane," said daddy.

"One evening your daddy dined at little Jane's house, and they had pineapple ice and a delicious ice cream cake that was so nice daddy almost forgot his manners and asked for a second helping. Little Jane said she wouldn't have any of this cake because it was not her kind. Jane's kind is a certain maple sugar cake which she likes and which her mother thinks is wholesome for little girls. You know, very rich cakes are apt to make little folks ill.

"At last, because daddy begged her to try it, she did nibble a little of the ice cream cake with her sharp white teeth, and that was all she would do. She still wanted her maple sugar cake.

"And, having a little boy and girl at home who like any kind of cake, daddy was surprised.

"'Oh, Jane takes notions about her food!' Jane's mother said. 'What do you think of a little girl that doesn't like eggs?'

"'She likes flat eggs,' Jane's brother suggested.

"'So she does,' the little girl's mother agreed.

"'Flat eggs?' asked daddy. 'What are they? We never seem to have had that kind at our house.'

"'Oh, yes, you have!' Jane's brother spoke up. 'They're—but mother will tell you.'

"'We had never heard of flat eggs, either, until one morning after Jane had paid a long visit to her grandma and grandpa,' said the lady.

"'One morning soon after she came home she asked for a flat egg.

"'"My dear," I said, "there are no flat eggs. All eggs are round."

"'But Jane insisted the kind she wanted was quite flat.

"'We all tried to guess what she wanted. Then we called in Lizzie, the cook. Lizzie and Jane are great friends, and when we can't make out what Jane means Lizzie always knows.

"'Jane told Lizzie that she wanted a flat egg, and Lizzie seemed to understand. She went out into the kitchen and after a few minutes came in with a fried egg. Yes, that was what she wanted, and now we never think of speaking of fried eggs. Like Jane, we talk about flat eggs.'"

HINTS ON FASHIONS IN THE METROPOLIS

Some Suggestions to the Woman Who Would Be Gowned Correctly.

New York, May 17.—Now that provident women are busy with preparing their outfits for the summer they are confronted with many intricate problems, chief among them the question as to the style of frock it would be best for them to chose. It may be said that skirts of wash material are either plain, flounced or with tunics. Some attempts have been made to produce draped skirts in the tub frocks, but the results are singularly unattractive in most cases. If they do not please before the dress is washed and ironed, what can be expected of them after they have been submitted to those always disturbing processes? The tunic is capable of an almost infinite variety of treatment, and it makes possible the general silhouette required by fashion. For the lighter materials it is unquestionably the best idea on which to work. In the case of the slight and girlish figure, the flounced skirt is an attractive rival of the tunic. In the heavier materials, such as linens, ratines, and their allies the plain skirt is best for more reasons than one. But in these cases the plainness can be broken by a deceptive treatment of lapping seams which give the main lines of drapery skirts without any undesirable bunchiness.

Collarettes, or ruffs, are being urged on women by all classes of dealers, and the women are responding with alacrity. They seem to have taken most kindly to the full ruching of malines, tied with a bow of satin ribbon to match. These are becoming to some women, and, of course, are rather a necessity with the present collarless, or next to collarless styles.

Quite practical as an accessory is the separate white collar to be worn with the coat. A few years ago girls and younger women wore embroidered white collars over their coat lapels, but the present renaissance fashion is in a different form. The collars now worn are much more attractive and elaborate. They come in all the modifications of the square or rounded out and very often end in the long ruffle or pleating which is so great a fad just now. Others are in the shape of a modified fichu. These are both becoming and practical, as they protect the waist underneath. Especially with a collarless blouse they are almost necessary. Otherwise the hard line of the coat is very trying both in appearance and in feeling.

Frills of the most engaging charm are the conspicuous feature of the separate blouses which have appeared in a perfect flood of grace and beauty. Almost every blouse displayed in the numerous shops and fashion establishments in New York has some kind of frill in its makeup. Yet, the variety in the forms of these frills is so great that they do not impress one as being too common. Handsome models are, of course, quite expensive, but a woman clever with the needle, can easily make for herself a charming frill at very small cost.

The change from the plain French backs and the plain fronts, with only one tuck at the shoulder seam, which have characterized the shirt waists of recent years, to the present styles is a radical one. The latest designs, especially in the crepe de Chine and the voile waists, have deep yokes into which the lower part is gathered with considerable fullness. The yoke runs down in many cases on to the arm, sometimes even as far as the elbow, and the sleeve is gathered into it. The yoke and the armhole are finished with a cording of the material.

All this is very well in theory, but the average woman, arrayed in one of these waists, certainly suggest a meal sack. The front shirring is all right. But viewed from the back the effect of this arrangement is by no means always attractive.

Buttons are used extensively at the present time and crystal buttons and those covered with material, seem to be in the lead. The colored crystal buttons are used on many of the tailored suits, even those in heavy, dark materials. But they also ornament the sheerest of blouses and lingerie frocks. As for the covered buttons, they are of all kinds. Some are so tiny that when they are set in a row they look, at a little distance like an irregular cord or braid. Others are flat and larger than a silver quarter. Buttons of several different sizes but of the same material and shape are used on the same dress. On white waists or dresses, trimmed with color, crystal buttons with a rim of the same color are sewed on with silk to match.

The ways in which color is combined with white in waists and lingerie frocks are endless and generally most attractive. Cheruit is to be thanked for giving us the flesh-colored net lining of transparent waists. This faint undertone of rose is very alluring. One finds it not only in the thin waists but also in wraps and blouses of exceedingly white satin.

The fancy for fastening some of the trimmings to the lining bodice, where they show through the outer bodice of net or chiffon or lace, is firmly rooted. One lovely bodice of white finely pleated chiffon shows a band of cerise ribbon drawn across the back, under the arms, across the front and emerging to tie in a loose bow on the chest. Similarly, ribbon is bound about the elbow under the chiffon, on the thick silk under bodice and emerges to tie in a bow on each sleeve.

Brocaded etamine is combined with lapin eponge in many interesting ways. One summer frock shows a skirt of white eponge, banded at the bottom with yellow and white brocaded etamine. The bodice cut with a peplum, is made of the etamine and opens over a vest of white net with plaited frills running from the waist to round the neck. The girdle is of folded ribbon in violet, yellow and dull blue colors harmoniously blended and softened.

Wash silk petticoats are a useful addition to any wardrobe, be it limited or not. They are made of somewhat heavy silk. Silk and cotton, so-called tub silk, is almost as durable as heavy all-silk material and is more durable, for petticoats, at least, than cheap all silk. The petticoats are made in striped patterns with scant bias flounces at the bottom. They can be worn with any light street costume. One of violet and white in narrow stripes could be worn with tan, green or violet outside skirts; one of tan and white would find many uses, and more decided colors would be useful to wear with a few frocks.

White silk stockings laced with black silk cord instead of the instep to the knee at the outside of the leg are worn over foundation stockings of bright color—green, cerise or blue. The colored stockings are worn to match the accessories of the whole warm weather costume, parasol, hat, handkerchief and hat and gown trimming, and are worn with white shoes.

Now that black and white combinations are said to be out of date black is used in startling contrast to some of the bright colors in vogue. A parasol of black satin is bordered with cerise and a purple one is edged with a deep scallop, a black band of watered silk.

FLORENCE FAIRBANKS.

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

The draped tunic makes an important feature of summer fashions. This one is combined with a most becoming waist that includes bretelles that give a pretty drooping shoulder line.

As illustrated it is made of flouncing, with lace making the front portions of the waist and collar, but there is no set limit to its possibilities.

The waist is a simple one with the sleeves sewed to the armholes, and when a high neck is wanted the center portions are cut to the neck and a stock collar is added. For a very handsome costume lace could be used over a satin skirt. The tunic consists of one piece held by a band.

TEACHERS MUST ABANDON HEELS AND HOBBLES AT GARDEN SCHOOL

TEACHERS LEARNING GARDENING.

Teachers who have been profiting by the chance to take a course in gardening at the New York University, where Henry Griscom Parsons shows them how to plant vegetables and flowers in small plots, are satisfied thoroughly that they can't be adept and speedy with the spade and the rake unless they abandon highheeled shoes and hobble skirts.

Mr. Parsons, who is secretary of the International School Garden League, has made a success of his classes and teachers from all over the State have hastened to the spring term, which opens in the middle of April and lasts until the end of May. The summer term begins about July 1.

The women stake out their plots in the vicinity of the Hall of Fame of the New York University buildings. Some have flower gardens and others plant vegetables. Mr. Parsons teaches the women how to make a vegetable garden look attractive.

WED TO RESCUER WHO SAVED HER FROM SEA

MISS MAUD LALLY

A romance which began in a heroic rescue of a pretty girl swimmer from the undertow at Atlantic City and which is to culminate in the wedding of the rescued girl to her rescuer became known to their friends when it was learned that Miss Maud Lally, of Albany, N. Y., is to become the bride of Philip J. Bernstein, of New York.

Miss Lally is seventeen years old and until she met Mr. Bernstein entertained ambitions of rising to an important position on the stage.

Miss Lally and Mr. Bernstein, then strangers, were bathing at Atlantic City last summer, when the young woman was caught by the undertow and was carried seaward. Her cries for help brought Mr. Bernstein to the rescue, and with his aid she was enabled to reach the beach in safety.

DOWN TO END TURKEY TROT AND THE TANGO

MISS GERTRUDE PHILLIPS.

As an offset to militant suffragettes turkey trotting and the tango, Miss Gertrude Phillips, the seventeen-year old daughter of Richard Phillips, a wealthy lumber and paper pulp man of Hartford, Conn., recommends that young girls keep on playing with dolls and reading fairy tales.

Miss Phillips is so sure that this will divert girls from the "kitchen sink" and other fashionable dances that she said recently, as she started for Europe with her father, that she intends to try to found a "Doll and Fairy Society," with branches all over the world. As an aid to her crusade she took with her a trunk full of dolls dressed up in some of the latest fashions, although harem trousers and slit skirts are barred from her dolls' wardrobe.

DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT'S CONTINUED ILLNESS STILL SHADOWS SOCIAL EVENTS

LADY HAIG FROM THE SKETCH

LADY EDMUND TALBOT FROM THE TATLER

The continued illness of the Duchess of Connaught, who is as well known in America as she is in England, has overshadowed social events at the British Court. Quiet affairs are being given, however.

During their stay at Aldershot, one of England's popular resorts, the principal hostess of the King and Queen was Lady Haig, wife of General Sir Douglas Haig, who is in command there. As Miss Doris Vivian, one of the beautiful twin maids of honor in the last reign, Lady Haig already is well known to the monarchs and all members of the royal family.

Another quiet function shortly after this was given by Lady Edmund Talbot, at which only a few special guests were invited.

STAR BATTERS FAIL TO SOLVE DELIVERY

Walter Johnson a Terror to American League Stickers This Year.

During the first month of the American League season fifty players had the misfortune to be compelled to bat against Walter Johnson, who seems bent on shattering to infinitesimal smithereens every pitching record extant.

Of these fifty men less than half, to be exact, 21 were able to procure hits off the marvelous Washington hurler. Their safeties numbered 31 and the total of bases obtained on the hits was 35. Bill Carrigan secured the longest extra bag wallop off Johnson—a triple, and Clyde Engle and Jack McInnis got to him for doubles.

Of the twenty-one men who touched the Washington speed merchant for hits, eight were New Yorkers, seven were Boston players, four drew salary from Connie Mack and two are employed by Charley Comiskey. A White Sock and a Highlander just now enjoy the enviable distinction of owning .500 batting averages against Johnson, who looks as if he would be an easy winner of the automobile annually given by Hugh Chalmers, of Detroit, to the American League's most valuable player.

The Johnsonites who have found Sir Walter easy (?), are Joe Benz and Jack Lelivelt. Each man has batted against Johnson twice and each man has torn off one single.

Three men have hit .429 against Johnson, the trio consisting of Clyde Engle, Bert Daniels and Ed Sweeney. Tris Speaker's percentage against Johnson is .400, while Olaf Henriksen, Eddie Murphy, Jack Barry and Bill Carrigan have hit at a .333 clip against the Shut Out King.

The bating averages of the other players who made hits off Johnson from April 10 to May 10, inclusive are as follows:

.250—Heinie Wagner, Charley Sterrett, Pep Young, Frank Baker, Jack McInnis and Harry Lord.

.166—Steve Yerkes and Harry Hooper.

.143—Hal Chase.

.125—Roy Hartzell and Birdie Cree.

Here are the men who have failed to get safties off Sir Walter:

Boston—Duffy Lewis, Larry Gardner, Ray Collins, Charley Hall, Harold Janvrin, Forrest Cady, Buck O'Brien, Neal Ball and Thomas.

New York—Harry Wolter, George McConnell, Bill McKechnie, Ezra Midkiff, Ray Keating and Schulz.

Philadelphia—Rube Oldring, Eddie Collins, Eddie Plank, Jack Lapp and Pete Daley.

Chicago—Walter Schaller, Morris Rath, Jacques Fournier, John Collins, Chink Mattick, George Weaver, Ray Schalk, Ted Easterly and Frank Lange.

EXCITING PRACTICE GAMES BEING PLAYED BEFORE INTERNATIONAL MATCH.

DRIVING TOWARD THE SOUTH GOAL

CAPTAIN R. G. RITSON

CAPTAIN CHEAPE

FROM THE ONLOOKER

SPORTS GENERAL, PHOTO

MR. F. M. FREAKE

MR. EDWARDS

The top picture shows the American polo team in action on the Meadow Brook field practising for the international match in June. This photograph was taken the day the English team, which is shown below, arrived. The American players were badly beaten during this scrimmage by a scrub team. The view was photographed just as the ball, which can be seen in the left lower corner of the picture, is being driven down to the south goal by the "minor polo lights," who beat the "first team" by a bad score.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

The increasing popularity of this column is evidenced by the increased number of queries turned in every day and it has already tended to fill that long felt need. This column is being run for the benefit of the readers of the paper and the queries or comments do not necessarily have to be confined to sport topics, questions being answered concerning historical, civic and other current subjects immediately upon receipt of the same. Comments on all subjects are also solicited.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What was the cause for the sudden discontinuance of the United States League in 1912 and of what teams was it composed at that time?—A. G.

Answer—Added to all of the natural handicaps in starting such an undertaking, the organization encountered bad weather and chilly public indifference, only two of the eight clubs, Pittsburgh and Richmond, enjoying attendance sufficiently large to warrant hope of permanent establishment. The other teams were Chicago, New York, Reading, Washington, Cincinnati and Cleveland.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is it necessary to secure a license to keep a stand on the carnival grounds during the week of festivities and if so where can the same be taken out? Also please name the cost of such a certificate.—E. T.

Answer—It certainly is necessary to secure a license for sales made on the carnival grounds. The necessary permission can be obtained from George O. Stevens, owner of the grounds, and he will fix the price accordingly.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is the publication "Sporting Life" issued monthly or weekly and to what particular line of sport does it cater?—J. T. M.

Answer—It is a weekly paper devoted at this time of the year particularly to baseball. It also comments on every other sport.

Sporting Editor:

Query—With none out and a runner on first base, the batter hits a slow grounder, which is fielded and thrown to second base, too late to force the runner. Is it a hit?—C. M. E.

Answer—This is one of the matters official scorers have been squabbling over for years trying to decide whether it should be a hit or a fielder's choice, and recently it has been decided that it should be a hit. President Barrow, of the International League, has ordered his official scorers to score the play as a hit for the batter for the past three years. The scientific name for such a hit is the "Cincinnati Base hit," which was explained in these columns yesterday.

Sporting Editor:

Query—A says that Greater New York has a larger population than the entire State of New Jersey. B does not agree. Which is correct?—M. C.

Answer—The population of Greater New York is 5,173,064, and that of New Jersey 2,537,167. Draw your own conclusions.

JUNIOR SUNDAY GAME.

Denny and Schinkle will form the battery for the Netherwood A. C. baseball team in its game with the Monroe A. C. on the Clinton avenue grounds tomorrow afternoon. They will be opposed by Smith and Morley in Monroe uniforms.

GOOD BALL GAME ON 'PLAINS DIAMOND

New Brunswicks Due to Appear There Tomorrow Afternoon.

South Plains will be treated to another stellar exhibition of baseball tomorrow afternoon, when Tamaqua Alberts pitt his cors against the fast New Brunswick semi-professional nine, and the contest promises to be another of the thrillers such as have been run there on two previous occasions this year. New Brunswick will, as usual, have a star combination of baseball tossers on deck to do battle against Alberts' crew and the latter combination will have to hustle some to keep in the running this trip.

Otto Frederickson will do the mound work for the Plains team and will endeavor to duplicate his feat of last Sunday, as far as earning a victory is concerned, at any rate South Plains has not been defeated this season to date, having annexed two fine victories on the Plains diamond before large crowds of spectators.

MRS. N. P. ROGERS CAPTURES GROSS PRIZE IN TOURNAMENT

More than fifty women golfers took to the links yesterday afternoon at the Apawamis Club to compete in a one-day tournament held under the auspices of the Metropolitan Golf Association. The course is an exceedingly difficult one and for the most part, the contestants had to be contented with a score under 100.

However, Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, Plainfield's foremost woman golfer, representing the Baltusrol Club, once more topped the list with a mark of 89 and captured the gross prize for the tournament. Mrs. Rogers had a handicap of three and returned a net score of 95.

LOCAL ATHLETES IN PRINCETON EVENTS

Plainfield High School Will Be Represented in Annual Track Competition.

Members of the Plainfield High School track team are planning to open the outdoor season at the Princeton University athletic field Saturday, May 24, competing in an athletic meet being run under the auspices of the Princeton Club. Indications seem to point to the most successful meet yet conducted under the direction of the orange and black alumni association, and judging from the list of entries that have been received to date, nearly every High School of any size in the State will be represented.

About fifteen events will constitute the program with the "cream" of High School and "prep" athletes as contestants.

The Princeton meet is greater in a way than the New Jersey Interscholastic League field day, which will take place on May 30. Only four schools namely, Barringer, Montclair and East Orange High and Stevens "Prep" compete in the latter games, while in the Tiger meet nearly all of the larger High Schools in Northern New Jersey will probably enter. Central High and Newark Academy will be represented by strong teams, as will the N. J. I. A. A. members, and probably Pingry, Battin, Jersey City High, Orange and a number of other well known institutions.

MANY FREAK IDEAS IN GAME OF GOLF

Montclair Tightwad Association Never Gives nor Accepts Putt of Any Kind.

Now that the average golf club has completed plans for improvements, or the improvements themselves, more attention is paid to the work of the committee delegated to arrange a schedule of events. Thus far only those competitions which may be listed for some time in advance have been arranged, but the clubs are rapidly completing this task and are announcing their schedules for the season, so that the committees have time to plan and put into effect something off the beaten track.

The craving that seems to exist in American life of the present day for something different, something new, has even made itself felt in golf. A stimulent is wanted and in the course of a golfing season it is remarkable how many of these little impromptu affairs are arranged. Practically every club has some special coterie of its members who strive to attain a certain thing, such as the Tightwad Association at Montclair, where a number of the members have agreed neither to give nor accept putts of any length.

As variety is the spice of life so the unusual becomes attractive even in a game with such traditions as golf. There are several tournaments in various parts of the United States each year which are open to teams composed of father and son, likewise mother and daughter. Occasionally brotherly matches are arranged. Last year some of the Chicago golfers held a tournament to which only left-handed players were eligible.

Moonlight golf, straight away golf, golf through city streets, driving from roofs, or over wagons, putting on the parlor carpet and a thousand and one similar varieties of the game are constantly practised for the purpose of driving away dullness. Down in South Jersey they have a nine hole putting course lighted by gas. There are competitions for youngsters, for men of age and for every other conceivable division of humanity, it would seem.

This class of golf acts as a brake upon the tendencies of those who desire something else besides simplicity and dignity, something that there is life to, as it were—something odd. Particularly in the United States, where individuality enters largely into any phase of sport, such competitions are evolved. Not long since a Western golfer wagered something like $4,000 that he could play a ball over four and a half miles of city streets in 150 strokes, and succeeded in winning, despite the fact that it cost him upward of a thousand dollars for the damage that resulted. A number of Pittsburgh golfers once started at Ormond, Fla., and ended at Seabreeze, four miles away. The entire match was played along the beach which at points reached a width of three hundred feet and was hard as a rock.

"TILLY" SHAFER GOT SORE AND QUIT N. Y.

Young Giant Star Supposed to Have Gone to His Home in California.

Arthur J. Shafer, known to the fans as "Tilly," jumped the Giants yesterday and is supposed to be now on the way to his home in California. Notice of his suspension was sent yesterday to President Thomas J. Lynch, of the National League, the charge being that "he left the club without permission."

The departure of the speedy player, who earned a regular position on the team this year, is clouded in mystery. According to officials of the club Shafer made no mention of a desire to return home, neither did he appear dissatisfied with conditions. He played regularly at shortstop from the opening of the season until last Saturday, when he was sent out to centre field. The change was made because of his poor fielding, but he was too valuable a batsman and base runner to be kept on the bench.

Shafer has been a member of the New York team since 1909, when he was taken without any previous professional experience. He attracted attention as a member of the Santa Clara College team in California. He was substitute infielder during 1909 and 1910, but failed to join the Giants in 1911. He returned to the fold again at the beginning of last season and was again used as substitute infielder. This year he was a holdout and did not join the Giants until two weeks after they arrived at the training camp at Martin.

Shafer is one of the most promising players in the major leagues. He is wonderfully fast, a clever performer in the infield or outfield and a natural batsman, being able to bat from either side of the plate. He left the team in mid-season last year and returned to California, but that trip was made with the permission of Manager McGraw owing to illness in his family.

ONE GAME CALLED OFF.

One of the many baseball games scheduled to be played in this city this afternoon was called off by the mutual consent of the managers yesterday afternoon and as a result the First Presbyterian team, of the Sunday-school League, and the Saurer team, of the City Baseball League, will not meet this afternoon. The reason for the last minute cancellation was the opening of the City League, of which the Saurers are members, and the First Presbyterians being members of the Sunday-school organization, which also opens today. The Presbyterians are not scheduled to play a league game but they do not wish to interfere with the opening date of the other contenders.

STATE WILL HAVE PART IN EXPOSITION

New Jersey to Have An Effective Display at San Francisco Show.

Jersey City, May 17.—The New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce will soon have a special committee at work on plans for an effective New Jersey exhibit at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. The trustees have approved the idea and have proposed that the commitee co-operate with the State commission in presenting the splendid facilities of New Jersey to those who attend the exposition.

The department of commerce and industry of the State chamber is to present a broad and comprehensive plan of industrial development for the consideration of manufacturers, shippers and transportation companies, according to the preliminary report of Ernest Biardot, of Jersey City, chairman of the transportation committee. Mr. Biardot believes that a closer acquaintance on the part of producer, shipper and carrier will make possible a businesslike plan of promoting growth. The department, through its State wide representation, will endeavor to overcome the obstacles which at present keep the manufacturers and jobbers of New Jersey from markets which they otherwise would enjoy if less time were required to make delivery. The chamber will co-operate as well with local boards of trade in an effort to locate new industries in cities where an economy in the cost of manufacture can be effected.

MEMORIAL STATUTE IS READY FOR DEDICATION

Princeton, May 17.—The statue which is to be unveiled on the Princeton campus May 30 by Dr. John R. Mott in commemoration of the founding of the Intercollegiate Young Men's Christian Association has been set up between the university library and the Murray Dodge Hall. It still remains veiled.

The figure represents an athlete carrying a cap and gown over his arm and with the "light of religion" in his face. It is the gift of Cleveland H. Dodge, '71, and is being erected on the spot where East College stood when it was the big dormitory of the university. On the top floor of East College was started the movement which led to the founding of the Intercollegiate Y. M. C. A. and the World's Student Christian Federation.

EDITS SCOUTS' BOOK.

William D. Murray, of West Ninth street, is the compiler of a handbook for scoutmasters which has just appeared. It contains information regarding the employment by the scoutmasters of the material in the Boys Scouts' handbook. Mr. Murray's work has been done in connection with the organization of the Boy Scouts of America and the new publication will answer the many questions which have heretofore been submitted to the office of the National Headquarters for settlement.

7TH-DAY BAPTIST MEN ENJOY DINNER

Following a Fine Repast Speeches Are Made and New Officers Chosen.

Excellent addresses on live topics, together with a fine dinner prepared and served by a committee from the Women's Auxiliary, combined to make the annual meeting of the Men's Club of the Seventh Day Baptist church, held last night, an enjoyable affair. There were about fifty members and friends of the club present.

O. S. Rogers was the toastmaster. The speaker of the evening was William McGrail, of Maine, an efficiency expert, who spoke on the subject of "Service." His remarks were along all lines of activity, social and otherwise, and the speaker emphasized especially the service of man to man, whether paid for or gratuitous, and he offered many helpful suggestions which will be of practical value to the club.

David E. Titsworth gave a toast to the women, in which he complimented them for the fine dinner and for their helpful co-operation in making the club a success. Dr. H. M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield Public Schools, spoke on "Efficiency," showing just how the men could become more efficient in their work for the church and their fellows.

Stephen H. Voorhees, who has just returned from Porto Rico, spoke on "Men's Clubs in Porto Rico," bringing the latest information concerning the progress being made by these organizations which is practically a new feature in Porto Rico.

Rev. Edward Shaw, the pastor, took for his subject, "Pictures," in which he referred to photographs as representing the past, pastels as representing the present and paintings as representing prophecy or the future, each one of which he developed in an interesting way. During the evening there were vocal duets by Charles P. Titsworth and Roy E. Titsworth and vocal solos by Theodore G. Davis.

At the business session these officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Raymond Burdick; vice president, Irving Hunting; secretary, George M. Clarke; treasurer, Roland Davis; executive committee, O. S Rogers and Charles P. Titsworth.

INSTITUTE CHAPTER OF A BROTHERHOOD

Juniors of Order of Saint Andrew Formed at Holy Cross Church.

Services of an especially interesting character were held at the Church of the Holy Cross last night, when the new Junior Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the first in this section, was instituted by the rector, Rev. William S. McCoy, and addresses were made by officers of the Metropolitan district. The services followed evensong. The members of the new chapter were presented by J. Wesley Hegeman, of the borough, president of the New Jersey Social Assembly.

Following the formal institution the rector placed a button of the order on each member of the chapter and then made a short address in which he told the boys that they were now the King's messengers and that they should count every day as lost when they failed to perform some good deed, and something for the advancement of Christ's Kingdom. Brief remarks were also made by Mr. Hegeman.

J. W. A. Smith, the National Council member for the Central New Jersey Social Assembly, addressed the congregation, speaking from the text: "No man putting his hand to the plough and looking back is fit for the Kingdom of God." He gave the boys some helpful suggestions along the line of Brotherhood work.

Franklin H. Spencer, the Metropolitan district secretary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, spoke on the relationship of the boys to the church, showing how they can render incalcuable service among their fellows in the interest of the church.

During the service the choir, under the direction of Charles Davis, organist, sang the "Magnificat," and William Smith sang a solo. The rector, in speaking of the new chapter, remarked upon the fine work being done by the boys of the parish especially in securing a larger attendance of boys at the Sunday evening services, which he said was most encouraging. Although Mr. McCoy has not fully recovered from his injuries he was in charge of both services yesterday.

These are the officers and members of the chapter: Director, Duclos Van-Mater; vice director, John Sinclair; secretary, Guy D. Peck, Jr., and Estes Small, Harold Noble and Charles Roll.

HURT IN A RUNAWAY IS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Giles Onley, of Cranford, an employe of G. C. Kuehn, a local painter, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital late Saturday afternoon, as the result of injuries sustained when endeavoring to stop his runaway horse which had become frightened by a passing automobile. The horse, pulling a light paint wagon, became frightened while standing in front of The Homestead at Fanwood. At the first plunge, the reins dropped from their position on the wagon, leaving Mr. Onley powerless to bring the animal to a stop from his seat. He climbed along the shafts of the vehicle, however, to grasp the lines, but as he mounted the horse's back he was thrown to the ground. He was kicked in the side as he struck the ground, and received numerous bruises about the head as a result of the fall. The horse was halted near the Westfield line.

POLICE ON GUARD IN QUARANTINED STREET

Scarlet Fever in Four Families and Health Board Taking Precaution.

In an effort to prevent any spread of scarlet fever in that locality, Health Officer Randolph Chandler has caused a strick police surveillance to be maintained day and night on McCrea place, between Terrill road and Wiley avenue, seven cases of the disease having been found in that block. The cases have not been confined to a single household but have spread along McCrea place from Wiley avenue to Terrill road and three special policemen have been stationed along the block to keep people from going either in or out.

When the first case was discovered in the Merrill household the children did not remain within the territory quarantined and it is likely that the other three families that have been stricken caught the disease by coming in contact with one of the infected household. Four members of the Merrill family have been afflicted. Wilhelmina Merrill, aged five years, died last week and her sister, Nora, and the mother and father are all suffering from the disease at the present time. The parents are said to be well on the road to recovery but the other child is still critically ill in the hospital, to where she was removed. Dominic Pomerine, aged five years, is also in the hospital, and his condition is said to be critical. Josephine Delvela, aged two years, died at the hospital Friday afternoon, and Carmelia Venezia, aged four died at that institution Saturday.

WAR ON MOSQUITO IS BEGUN IN COUNTY

Chief Inspector Gies Gives Advice to Householders on How to Get Rid of Pest

As chief inspector of the Union County Mosquito Commission, Russell W Gies has issued the following open letter:

"The co-operation of the householders of Plainfield is earnestly requested by the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission during the coming season, and particularly during the next few weeks. The house mosquito is coming out of the cellars and other places where she has been in hiding during the winter and is seeking out suitable collections of stagnant water to deposit the two to four hundred eggs which are laid at one time.

"The commonest places where such stagnant water collects is in small pools, rain barrels, tubs, cans, pails, cisterns, open cesspools, etc. If these are done away with entirely or properly covered or screened, the number of breeding places will be greatly reduced and far fewer mosquitoes trouble the inhabitants of Plainfield during the coming summer.

"Cover your rain barrels, therefore, with a tight wire, wooden or cloth cover, or oil with a cup of kerosene once a week, bury the tin cans and broken dishes that have accumulated on your property, tip over your pails, tubs and buckets, and fill in any depressions in your yard holding water more than a week. Cover tightly or keep oiled regularly the cistern, open cesspool, manure vault or open drain, and you will have far fewer mosquitoes indoors summer nights than ever before, as most of these mosquitoes were hatched in your back yard or your neighbors.

"The County Commission has the salt marsh problem well in hand and with the co-operation of the citizens of Plainfield the problem of the house mosquito will be well taken care of."

COLUMBUS KNIGHTS TO HOLD A CARNIVAL

Johnny J. Jones Shows the Attraction Under Watchung Council's Auspices.

Plans are about complete for the carnival and al fresco fete to be held here May 26-31 under the auspices of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus. The council has engaged the Johnny J. Jones Shows as the "Midway" features with its many free attractions. This is said to be the largest oragnization of its kind in the country, a sort of Coney Island on wheels.

The feature attraction with the aggregation is the trained wild animal show, including Captain Curly Wilson, America's fearless trainer, who picks up a 500-pound lion and carries it about the arena. The entire program of animal acts show excellent work on the part of the male and female trainers. Lions, tigers, polar bears, black bears, leopards and pumas are among the exhibits.

The aggregation is composed of twenty shows, including the animal show, the Dixie Land minstrels, the society circus, the Motordrome, the 10-1 show and other popular amusements. The Motordrome is the amusement sensation of the season. Three professional motorcyclists will perform every afternoon and evening, the performance including a seventy-mile an hour dash on a wooden roadbed built on an angle of 45 degrees. Oscar V. Babcock in Loop-the-Loop and Flying Flume and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quincy, high divers, will be among the free attractions each day.

P. H. S. THESPIANS GAVE ANNUAL PLAY

Senior Play of This Year Given Saturday Night Was a Great Success.

As the result of the two performances of Oliver Goldsmith's "Good Natured Man," presented in the Plainfield theatre by the senior class of the Plainfield High School, the class will net nearly $150, and at the same time establish a precedent in High School theatricals, this being the first incident where a High School class has attempted to produce one of Goldsmith's works. The play this year required unusual talent to produce, and the success of the production as evidenced during the main performance last Saturday night indicates tat the necessary material was forthcoming from the student body. The final show went off without a single hitch, the smoothness and excellent production of the play being due, to a large extent, to the efficient coaching of Samuel B. Howe, of the Plainfield High School faculty.

Chas. Fay, as a government official, played his difficult part to perfection, assuming the personnel of a once wealthy man who has lost his fortune through helping his friends who are in distress. Miss Pauline N. Gates, as "Miss Richland," an heiress, capably upheld the mark she has already established appearing in amateur theatricals and her work was the subject of much favorable comment on every hand. Rutgers Neilson, as "Jarvis," young Honeywood's confidential servant, was admirably fitted to the difficult part to which he was assigned and the awkward position in which he was forced to hold himself made his acting all the more commendable.

The other characters were taken as follows: "The Good Natured Man," Fred Krom; "Phillip," Honeywood's butler, James Small; "Jonathan," Honeywood's footman, Arthur Stout, "Mr. Croker," rightly named, Willard McKay; "Mrs. Croker," his opposite, Miss Ethel Mehl; "Olivia," supposed to be Croker's daughter, Miss Dorothy Cameron; "Leontine," Croker's son, Edward Parker; "Garnet," Miss Richland's maid, Miss Gwendolyn Stanton; "Dubardieu," Lofty's courier, Esty Foster; "Lofty," prodigio in his own esteem, Edward Jenkins "Mr. Twitch," a bailiff, J. Gregory Carty; "Mr. Flanagan," his assistant, Silas Guttridge; "Mrs. Dawkins," a landlady of the Talbot Inn, Miss Edith H. Brokaw; "Bill," a postboy, Abraham Sachar.

Much of the credit for the success of the affair is due to the untiring efforts of John Heron, who served in the capacity of business manager, for it fell to his lot to compile the elaborate program and stage the play. He has been working on the production for the past six weeks and the commendable way in which the financial end of the affair was taken care of was due to his efforts. Samuel B. Howe, of the High School faculty, was presented with a purse between the acts by Edson B. Woodhull, president of the senior class, for his assistance in the coaching.

GIVEN A VARIETY "SHOWER."

Mrs. Violet Truell Johnston was given a variety "shower" at the home of Mrs. Edwin Smalley, on Central avenue, Friday afternoon, the affair being arranged as a surprise by Miss Isabelle Randolph and Mrs. Smalley. There were about twenty-five guests and Mrs. Johnston received a large number of useful gifts. Her marriage to Noel G. Evans, of Truell Hall, will take place during the coming summer.

COLORED COUPLE'S ROWS.

Mrs. David Hunt, colored, of West Fourth street, appeared at police headquarters this morning to make a complaint against her husband. Both husband and wife told conflicting stories regarding their sixteen years of married life. Judge DeMeza advised the couple to separate and ordered the man to pay his wife $2 per week for the support of their only child.

Lawson, who is under bonds of $5,000 for his appearance before the Grand Jury on a serious charge, was released Saturady, when $500 bail as required was produced. Miss Karin S. Anderson is still in Muhlenberg Hospital, where it is said she is steadily improving.

WM. W. ST. JOHN DEAD, LONG ILL

Well Known Newspaper Man Succumbs After Battle With Tuberculosis.

MARTINE'S SECRETARY

Once Editor of Daily Press and Later of Elizabeth Times—He Established News Bureaus at Trenton and Washington.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Bath, N. Y., May 19.—William W. St. John, well known throughout the State as a newspaper man, died this morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. Charles Tate, in this place. Mr. St. John was secretary to United States Senator James E. Martine, but owng to his serious illness had not been able to be at his post in Washington for many months. The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

Mr. St. John came to Plainfield in February, 1894, from Pen Yan, N. Y., and took a position as reporter on the Daily Press, under the editorship of Walter Irving Clarke. In May, 1895, he succeeded Mr. Clarke, which position he held until 1900 when he severed his connection with this newspaper and became a Democratic candidate for Councilman from the Fourth ward. At the same time he continued his correspondence work for New York newspapers. In 1901 he established the Elizabeth Evening Times, remaining with that newspaper for two years.

Disposing of his interest in the Times, Mr. St. John established the New Jersey News Bureau in Newark, which was short lived. During the winter of 1904-05 he and Mrs. St. John went to Florida.

Returning to Plainfield, Mr. St. John made the deal whereby the Courier-News was sold by its editor, Frank W. Runyon, to George H. Frost, and for two years he was editor of that newspaper. In the spring of 1906 he went to Denver in the hope that he would regain his health. Remaining there a year he returned to Trenton. Mrs. St. John died in 1910.

On leaving the Courier-News he organized the New Jersey News Bureau, a news gathering agency in Newark. From there he went to the Trenton True American. After being there a few months he went to Denver to try to recuperate his health, but later returned to Trenton, not much improved. Fully five years ago physicians said that he would not live for six months, but his indominable will power kept him up.

At Trenton, St. John established the most comprehensive Legislative and State House news service ever developed for the smaller dailies and weeklies in the State, and he enjoyed a reputation for integrity, honesty and uprightness which won for him the confidence of every man of prominence in New Jersey. During Governor Fort's term of office there were several occasions when he might have had minor political positions which would have made it possible for one in his weakened physical condition to live comfortably, but he always declined saying that no unbiased newspaper man could hold a political position.

It was he who planned for James E. Martine to make the run at the primaries for the Senatorial nomination and after the Democrats had carried the Legislature Mr. St. John was largely responsible through his writings for the creation of public opinion in favor of taking the preferential choice seriously and not as a joke, as former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., tried to do. When Senator Martine was chosen to the office he now holds, St. John was finally persuaded to accept the secretaryship which he held until his death, although for months past he had been unable to do any work.

During the past year he left Trenton and went to New York where he entered a private hospital. A few months ago he went to Bath, N. Y., where he died this morning at the home of his sister.

ARMORED CRUISERS TENNESSEE AND WASHINGTON ORDERED TO STEAM HOME

THE U.S.S. WASHINGTON

THE USS. TENNESSEE.

The armored cruisers Tennessee and Washington have been ordered home at once from Turkish waters. Sensational newspapers have it that the reason for this is that in case of war with Japan both these ships would be caught by a superior force and captured or destroyed. Another reason is held forth for the recall of the boats. This is that Japan will soon receive from English shipbuilders the huge battle cruiser Kongo, which weighs 27,500 tons, has a battery of eight 13½-inch guns, and a speed capacity of twenty-seven knots an hour. The Tennessee and Washington weigh 14,500 tons each. The main battery of each is four 10-inch guns and the speed of each is 22.16 knots an hour. It is asserted that the Kongo's superior strength could destroy the Washington and Tennessee.

To Have the Confidence of Every Man & Woman Who Lives in This Vicinity

That is the goal of our ambitions—to have everyone feel that whatever monies you spend in this store—ARE WELL SPENT, and that you get in return the fullest values possible. We knew that we could not gain that confidence from you when we first commenced business here unless we dealt with you in an honest, straightforward way and that is what we have done and will do—just as long as this house exists.

Dealing with the public in this honest, straightforward, truthful way has been the store policy by which our earlier enterprises at Selma and since in New Brunswick have been made so successful, and our business here is steadily going ahead and will continue to do so, because we feel certain that those same methods which have won success elsewhere could not fail to do so here. Our latest enterprise in Elmira, N. Y., is another example of the policy of the "Tepper" Stores, as we are having results there far beyond our greatest hopes.

And here in Plainfield we will always strive for your unbounded confidence in the only way possible—by dealing with you in an honest manner, giving you absolute value on every purchase, giving you the best service possible, courteous treatment, and one price to all; and in all other little details that crop up in the management of a public institution, because we want you all to have sufficient and merited confidence in us that will prompt you to say

VIEWS FOR AND AGAINST POLICY OF A BIGGER NAVY

Some Authorities Favor a Fleet Second Only to Great Britain's.

Secretary Bryan's World Peace Plan Would Halt Further Armament.

ONE of the pending questions of national prominence is the naval policy of the United States with respect to the size of its fleet. A decided conflict of opinion is apparent, some authorities favoring a big navy, capable of holding its own against that of any nation in the world, and others arguing that little, if any, increase should be made in the present rate of battleship building.

Coincidental with recent discussions of the problem came the announcement that Secretary of State Bryan had perfected a new plan for the promotion of world peace, having as its most original feature a proposal that a temporary limitation be put upon the armament and war preparations of disputing nations.

Secretary Daniels of the navy department is a "big navy" man. His views were expressed recently at the annual dinner of the Navy league of the United States.

"Preparedness," he said, "can be had only by rounding out and completing the navy and making it large enough to be the strong right arm of the republic and to do the work for which the right arm is intended, not for punishment, not for injury to others, but for protection of oneself and one's country. Let us have done for once and forever with the silly boasts of the stripling that we are able to lick any nation on earth. Let us have done with threats, but let us have done with the underestimating of our strength, the minimizing of our naval esprit de corps—of that spirit which would deny that our naval heroes of today are potentially as famous as the men whose names are on every tongue."

In conclusion, Secretary Daniels declared that there must be co-operation between naval experts and the people if the latter are to be given correct information concerning the development of the navy.

Secretary Bryan, speaking at the same meeting, declared his conviction that, like himself, his auditors were unanimous in their desire for world peace.

"But while you are working hard for more battleships," he said smilingly, "I shall work equally hard to eliminate the necessity for more battleships during the next four years."

The secretary paid high tribute to Secretary Daniels and said he would support him as a brother cabinet officer. He added quizzically that he would withdraw that support, however, the moment he felt the secretary of the navy was seeking to increase the navy unduly.

Congress stands in the way of efficient control of the navy, according to Colonel Robert M. Thompson, chairman of the executive committee of the league.

Younger Admirals Necessary.

"Younger admirals," he declared, "also are necessary to make an American fleet effective in time of war.

"For some reason," said Colonel Thompson, "congress has always had a strong prejudice against giving high rank to officers in the navy and has persistently refused to provide for the situation which confronts it.

"Under the present law," he declared, "our admirals are too old when they reach the flag rank and they have had too little experience in command to be properly qualified for handling the fleet in time of war."

Use of Airships.

According to Captain W. I. Chambers, U. S. N., neither the dirigible nor the aeroplane will ever supplant the modern battleship as a sea fighting force. He said the aeroplane, however, would be of great value in an auxiliary capacity.

Democratic members of the senate on first learning of Secretary Bryan's peace plan regarded the scheme as more or less visionary and impracticable, but as they talked it over with him they came to look with greater favor on his views.

The Bryan plan aims at the same end that the Taft scheme of general arbitration treaties had. In fact, Mr. Wilson's secretary of state seems to be imbued with the desire to pick the Taft movement up where it was wrecked and by avoiding the features to which the senate objected and by adding a few new ones of his own to carry it through to a successful conclusion.

Mr. Bryan, like Secretary Knox of the Taft administration, hopes to promote world peace through setting up international machinery which will open the way for nations to cool off in times when passions are running high and will afford an opportunity for a second thought. In fact, the Bryan policy already is being referred to as that of "the sober second thought."

Court of Inquiry.

Mr. Bryan's plan contemplates the negotiation of arbitration treaties which will provide for the reference of all questions of dispute, including those of vital interest and national honor, to an international court of inquiry. The findings of this court, as members of the senate understand the plan, are to be merely findings of fact and are not to be binding on either nation.

But pending the arbitration the disputing nations, under the terms of the proposed treaties, will be bound to make no change in their military strength or status—not to increase their armament, mobilize troops or in any way alter the military policy as it existed at the beginning of the controversy.

The entire groundwork of the Bryan plan seems to consist in the idea that if contesting nations only have the opportunity for a calm second thought and are relieved from the incidental irritation that comes from war preparations the chances are that armed conflict will be avoided.

In some of its details the Bryan plan clearly resembles that outlined by Secretary Knox and embodied in the fragmentary remains of the general arbitration treaties ratified by the senate.

The Knox plan provided for the appointment of a joint high commission, to be composed of nationals from each of the disputing governments, which should investigate controversies and report on them with recommendations. The findings of this commission were not to be regarded, however, as an arbitral award.

The Knox plan provided that in cases where the disputing nations were unable to agree as to whether or not a controversy was arbitrable the question should be referred to a joint high commission whose decision should be binding.

It was this feature of the Taft-Knox program that the United States senate resented. It contended that the proposed treaties took from the senate the power of deciding whether or not questions were arbitrable and lodged that power in a commission to be made up partly of Americans and partly of foreigners.

Plans of Other Nations.

Captain John Hood of the general navy board in appealing for a bigger fleet drew a comparison between the naval plans of the United States and those of other powers.

He urged a naval policy which would provide for a fleet second to none excepting that of Great Britain.

"Not counting the British fleet, with which no conflict need ever be feared," he said, "in 1920 Germany can put to sea forty-one battleships, of which twenty-five will be Dreadnoughts, and also fifteen battle cruisers. France will have thirty-eight capital ships, of which twenty-three will be Dreadnoughts. Japan will have thirty-six, of which seventeen will be Dreadnoughts or Dreadnought cruisers. Nothing short of the general board's policy of forty-eight battleships for the United States can even approach adequacy, and a fleet inadequate is a burden without protection.

"Take as the basis of our naval policy a building program that will give us by 1925 a fleet of forty-eight first line battleships, with the lesser units and auxiliaries that go with them, since it is hopeless to attain that result by 1920, the date originally called for by the general board policy.

Policies to Defend.

"We have inherited from our fathers no entangling alliances, but we have the Monroe doctrine. As the nations of Europe and Asia become overcrowded with their ever increasing populations this doctrine promises to be a fruitful source of contention and challenge, and it is no stronger than the American fleet. There is the principle of Asiatic exclusion, the principle known as the open door policy, and there is our determination to assume military control of the Panama canal territory and its contiguous waters. I do not believe the nation stands ready to modify or abandon any of these principles, and only a lack of knowledge by the people at large is responsible for keeping the country in a state of unreadiness to maintain them with reasonable surety of continued peace and honor."

An efficient navy, large and powerful enough to maintain the nation's prestige, is the policy of the new administration, as outlined to the members of the league by Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy. His statement created enthusiasm.

Mr. Roosevelt called on the members of the league to aid in popularizing the naval establishment and declared that as effective work could be done outside the navy as within it.

To Avert Conflicts.

Opposed to such views are those of men who would like to see Secretary Bryan's world peace plan made the basis of all policies of armament.

Members of congress who have maintained a general idea of Mr. Bryan's ideas say that he believes that most armed conflicts between nations could be avoided if the means were afforded for nations to withdraw with dignity from situations into which they have been plunged through passion and prejudice.

Undoubtedly the feature of the Bryan scheme that will attract the greatest attention abroad is that relating to a temporary limitation upon armament.

ADVERTISE All Your Wants, To Let, For Sale, Boards, Personals, etc., in The DAILY PRESS. 1c A WORD

HOME

The average man spends half his life at Home. That takes into account the nights at the club, at lodge, at the theatre, or sitting up with a sick friend. It also takes into account the fellow who sees home often enough only to establish a voting residence. He is balanced off in averaging up by the man who spends a good deal more than half his life at Home. The Newark Sunday Call has figured this all out and says that the statement that more than half of life is spent at Home cannot be disputed. If there is any doubt about it, keep a time schedule for a week or so. The Average Women? Bless you, three-quarters of her life is spent at Home! And that includes the working woman, too, the real NEW WOMAN.

Home shapes up as a pretty big proposition, considering all that. The world realizes it, too, for most of the world's efforts go toward providing homes. Right down at the bottom of things, you come up against that great big reason for it all—"Home."

There was a poet who said that Home was not merely four square walls. That was the absolute truth. Home is what you make it, whether you call it palace, villa, flat, cottage or hut. Some people can make a hall bed-room more homey than others can with a $300,000 marble mansion. It is wholly up to the individual. But as half a life time is to be spent at Home, it is worth trying to make it a success. A real homey Home is life's biggest success.

The poet's four square walls idea, however, should not be taken wholly at its face value. Most truths should not. There is always that little exception to the rule lurking in the background. Accept the truth, but also dig out that little exception and digest its meaning. Then you will get the full value out of the truth. Four square walls do not make a Home. But they help. The better those same walls are the better chance of making a successful Home. Be careful in choosing a setting for the jewel—the home jewel. Remember that you must use that setting half your life. Pick some thing that will wear. See that it is good. That means be careful in choosing your abode. Whether it be a house, a flat or a room, choose it carefully. Whether you buy or rent, remember you are selecting a setting for the biggest thing in life—Home.

The Plainfield Daily Press

thinks a lot about Home. That is natural, for Homes form its destination when it leaves the presses ready for distribution among its thousands of readers. The Daily Press likes to take part in home making and it does all it can to further that end in what it prints. It can aid you in selecting your setting for your Home—the dwelling, whatever form it may take.

The owner of a house who wishes to sell or rent the house goes to an agent—if he be wise and wants results. The agent gives publicity to the owner's desire, attends to the troublesome incidental business, and accomplishes the desired results.

The agent has the assistance of another agent—a very powerful agent for this sort of work. This other agent is the RELIABLE NEWSPAPER, the newspaper that reaches the kind of people the owner would want to sell or rent to. The DAILY PRESS is such an agent. It reaches this desirable clientage and is used by responsible agents. Look at the names of the agents who advertise real estate for sale or to let and note the high character of these advertisers. their agent because it reaches the kind of people They, in turn, have chosen the DAILY PRESS as they want for clients.

Choose your home setting carefully. Study the For Sale and To Let advertisements in the DAILY PRESS. Make notes of what appeals to you, write to the agent or the owner, and inspect the property. You are dealing with established business concerns who can aid you in this big work of Home-Making. They, the agents, are seeking your patronage because you are the kind they want dealings with—the kind who can be reached through the DAILY PRESS.

1898—William E. Gladstone, famous statesman and premier, died. Born Dec. 29, 1809.

Plainfield, N. J., May 19, 1913.

After putting up a most heroic fight against the progress of tuberculosis, of which he had been a victim for many years, William W. St. John died today. At least six years ago, physicians told him that his end was but a matter of a few months, but with a courage and optimism that was astonishing he fought on though gradually his system was becoming undermined by the ravages of the dread disease. His death at no time would have been a surprise and how he lived so long in the weakened condition was a mystery to all save those who knew St. John's nature.

St. John was not only one of the best known newspaper men in New Jersey, but he was one of the best men in the business. He could build up more good "stories" out of a few bare facts than nine hundred and ninety-nine out of of a thousand newspapermen. Moreover, he had an intimate knowledge of New Jersey's politics and was an exceptional judge of men in political life. A man of firm convictions, he was always frank and most outspoken in his opinions. A Democrat of the most devout type, he was a great admirer of the radical progressive leaders and to him more than to any one else James E. Martine can give thanks for his seat in the United States Senate. St. John brought Martine out as a candidate and after insisting on his running waged a press agent campaign that really was responsible for his success at the primary polls.

All who are interested in charity of the genuine sort should attend the annual meeting of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tomorrow night. Charles W. McCuchen will preside and among the speakers who will tell of the good work being done at that splendid institution which will shortly throw open its doors for the annual summer season will be William D. Murray. Hundreds of poor children, and some mothers too, from New York's densely populated East Side, each year, are cared for at the home. There they enjoy a couple of weeks vacation amid the most healthy and delightful surroundings and there they receive the food and attention that they would otherwise not know. The Netherwood Fresh Air Home is deserving of hearty support.

It is a blot on the fair name of New Jersey to tolerate within its confines such anarchistic labor leaders as Haywood, Quinlin and the Flynn woman. Jersey justice is usually swift and although it has overtaken Quinlin, who, however, is still at large, it has not given the others in the gang the dose of punishment they deserve. These enemies of law and order thrive on the ignorance of the masses of unintelligent foreign-born workingmen whom they easily deceive in their appeals of passion. They are a curse to society and the only place for them is behind the prison bars.

The United States is bound to enjoy close friendly relations with the Republic of Cuba during the administration of General Mario Menocal, who will be inaugurated as its President tomorrow, for not only is the successor of Jose M. Gomez a graduate of an American college, but most of his life has been spent within our borders and he has always been a warm friend of the American Republic. Menocal is a remarkable man. He holds high ideals and has gained and merited the respect of the masses of his countrymen.

Plainfield has heard the arguments of the pro-suffragists and next an opportunity will be given to listen to the claims of the "antis." At least 1,200 people attended the mass meeting last Friday night and undoubtedly there will be a large crowd present a week from tomorrow night when the opposition will present its case.

Some of our older residents will recall when Plainfield was referred to as "The Colorado of the East" and later as "The Queen City." The old Board of Trade dubbed it "The City Beautiful." Now the Chamber of Commerce bestows upon it the title of "The City-by-the-Hills." But then, "What's in a Name?"

Have you ever observed that the man who shouts most for improvements necessitating the expenditure of large sums is the one who kicks the hardest when the tax rate goes up?

Haywood says he wants an "eight hour day" for labor. So far as his labors are concerned it would be better to have a no-hour day.

President Wilson has earned the undying hatred of the yellow press. He actually won't bring on a war.

Mrs. Lyons-Burke to Devote Life and Fortune to Convicts.

"There is something I want more than property," she said. "That is the respect of the good people. Maybe I can get some of it by showing that I am not all bad and am sincere."

Mrs. Lyons-Burke will publish a book, "Why Crime Does Not Pay," which she will attempt to put into the hands of every convict in the United States as an educational effort to induce lawbreakers to mend their ways when they are released. She is sixty eight years old and is the wife of Billy Burke, now in a Swedish prison.

KANSAS CITIZENS FACE "BUG CALL"

Forgotten Law May Soon Be Invoked.

CROPS ARE THREATENED.

Every Citizen Between the Ages of Twelve and Sixty-five Years May Be Called Out to Fight Pests—City Residents Also Subject to Law, but May Be Excused.

An old, forgotten law, enacted by a Kansas legislature at a time of great need and never used, is to be called into action after lying dormant in the statute books more than a third of a century. It is the old "warning out" law, made to fight the grasshoppers after the disastrous raids of the locusts in the early seventies.

There never has been a time when it was needed heretofore, but Governor George H. Hodges has been petitioned to invoke its use in central Kansas to fight the chinch bugs, which threaten to do great damage to growing crops this year.

Under this law every man, woman and child between the ages of twelve and sixty-five years of age may be called out to fight the bugs. The entire state may be included, although it is probable only a small part of the great wheat growing section of the state may be made into the "warned out" district. Refusal to answer the summons will send the culprit to jail and assess a fine of $3 a day and the court costs.

Bugs Destroy $10,000,000.

The farm experts at the Kansas Agricultural college have been making an investigation of the chinch bugs and have found the crops of 1912 were damaged to the extent of $10,000,000. The college has asked the governor to invoke the warning out law for the purpose of avoiding equal or greater damage to the 1913-14 crops.

J. W. McCullough, assistant in charge of chinch bug extermination at the college, wrote to former Governor Stubbs as follows:

"I would like to suggest that you issue a proclamation calling on the people of Kansas for a certain date to join in a general campaign against the bugs. Many farmers are already burning their grass, but the work is not general and lacks co-operation.

"Fall and winter burning has been thoroughly tested by the agricultural college, and it has found that on an average 98 per cent of the bugs are destroyed, and the crops are uninjured the following year. The only requisite to make burning a success is to make it thorough."

Governor Stubbs did not act on the matter, but left it for his successor, Governor Hodges.

Grasshopper Peril Caused Law.

The warning out law was enacted by the legislature of 1877 and is known as chapters 119 and 120 of the session laws of 1877. The law provides that when the township or county officials or the governor believe there is imminent danger of a visit of grasshoppers or other noxious insects all the inhabitants, both of the cities and the country districts, may be warned out by the governor's proclamation or by orders of the township or county boards.

The order may affect the whole state, one or a dozen counties or only a single township.

When the warning out notice is posted it must show the tools and implements of warfare to be used in the campaign. Each person from twelve to sixty-five years of age must provide himself with the necessary tools and meet at a designated place to begin the battle.

May Exempt City Residents.

The campaign is to be carried on according to a general plan for the entire township or county and under the direction of the local officers.

It is not likely that residents of Kansas cities will be called out to fight the chinch bugs. The warfare is to be carried on by burning, and there are sufficient farmers to do the work. Under the law the residents of the cities may be called out and compelled to fight the insects the same as the farmers.

WATER AIR SPORT POPULAR.

Many Orders Given For Hydroaeroplanes In Chicago.

Flying hydroaeroplanes is a water sport that probably will have a number of followers along the lake shore in Chicago this summer. Half a dozen of the air water craft have been ordered for delivery early in the summer to sportsmen of that city.

The waters of Lake Michigan usually are placid enough for the machines, and elimination of danger, with promised speed of from sixty to seventy miles an hour, has attracted wealthy yachtsmen to give the new game a trial.

FIGHTING THE FLY.

Any flies that come into your house may have come straight from a person who is sick with some contagious disease and possibly cause the death of yourself or some member of your family. Kill every fly you see in your house. Get a screen door. You can better afford to pay $2 or $3 for one than to get sick and lay off for a month.

Keep all food covered up. Boil all the water you drink. Keep your privies screened.

THE LIFE OF A FLY

By GLADYS E. NORTON, aged eleven of State street school, Topeka.

"Won't you come into my parlor?" says the spider to the fly. "No," says the fly to the spider; "I will bring you all kinds of diseases, such as typhoid fever and tuberculosis." "Well, I'll take the risk," says the spider. "No; I'll not come in, but if you will listen I will tell you my history, and then I am sure you'll not want me," replied the fly.

"Well, my mother told me this much. She said I came out of a little egg laid with many others in a manure pile. When I was hatched I didn't have any legs or wings and was called a maggot by our worst enemies, men. I stayed in that form for five days. Then I had a thick brown coat and went into a sleeping stage which was called a pupa. When I shed that I was like I am now, a full fledged fly.'

"You have often wondered why I did not get in your web or get caught by you. Did you know I had many eyes that are put together to make one? With these I can see on all sides, and so I am very hard to catch.

"My worst enemies are you and your family, some beetles and a little reddish mite.

"I always lay my eggs in manure or other filth. The people are screening it and burning it and burying it. They try to kill us by carbolic acid and sticky fly paper, where so many of my friends have ended their days.

"People have some stuff, too, that they put in water and put in their bedrooms. They call it formalin, but I keep away from it, as it is sure death.

"The worst trouble I have is where the people screen their houses and keep their yards clean so we can't get anything to eat.

"Our worst danger is not the carbolic acid or fly paper and such things, though, for after we are once hatched they can never kill us all off, but if they start out to destroy our breeding places the manure pile and other filth—we will soon be gone from the earth. I hope men will never find that out, but I fear they will some day."

THE WINGED PERIL

The deadly peril to life and health wrought by the housefly and the stable fly has never before been so fully understood as now, and the experience of Cleveland in her notable antifly campaign, initiated and conducted by Dr. Jean Dawson, enforces this lesson—that the work must start at or before the opening of spring because flies breed so rapidly; hence there is now no time to lose, and hence the strenuousness with which you should urge immediate action.—W. H. Hale.

PASTOR HAS PRAISE FOR FIRE FIGHTERS

Lauding the work of firemen in this city and telling his hearers that the sight of Fire Chief T. O. Doane, who recently celebrated his seventieth birthday, leading a brigade of fire-fighters in the work of saving life and property thrilled him with pride and admiration for the men who follow this work as means of gaining a livelihood, Rev. Charles M. Anderson spoke before the congregation of the First M. E. church, last night, taking as his subject, "Heroism." In the audience was Chief Doane and many exempt firemen and members of the local fire department, who had received special invitations to be present.

The pastor continued saying that the work of the firemen is not appreciated according to its value and urged that more ample provision be made for the maintenance of men who serve in the fire department until old age or disability cause their resignation or suspension from service.

"FALSE ALARM" WAS REALLY A BLAZE IN A RESIDENCE

A call from box 146 at 10 o'clock Saturday night, brought the North Plainfield firemen to Greenbrook road and Stone street, but when they arrived at the location of the box it was deserted, none knowing who had sent in the alarm. After searching the neighborhood for signs of a blaze the borough smoke-eaters were called back to headquarters by Chief McCullough, who thought he had the mystery solved when he registered it as a false alarm.

It was learned this morning, however, that there was a fire in the house of Mrs. Charlotte DeMeza, at 71 Duer street, but members of the family succeeded in subduing it while the firemen were hunting for something to direct a stream on. The fire was started by an overturned lamp and was put out with little damage resulting.

TARIFF SITUATION.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, May 19.—No move will be made in the open regarding the tariff bill until the administration forces in the Senate feel assured that their lines are intact and that a majority is at hand to resist amendments with success. The bill will not be reported back from committee until the party leaders feel thus assured. Well posted senators are still naming August as the probable date for closing of the tariff legislation.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

One of the dramatic treats of the season-end in Plainfield will be William A. Brady's production of a new play called "The Family Cupboard," with Madge Kennedy and William Morris, late stars of "Little Miss Brown" and "The Concert," heading a cast of exceptionally fine players, at the Plainfield theatre tonight for the ushers' benefit. The story of the play concerns the family of Charles Nelson, a New York man of wealth. Through the desire on the part of his wife to become a social leader, the husband finds himself robbed of the companionship he knew before the "society bee" had poisoned her nature. Eventually, the absence of his comradship drives the husband to distraction and he seeks elsewhere for his happiness. The revelations that follow bring to the surface a most unusual family skeleton, with both the father and his young son enmeshed in the tangle. Throughout the four acts of the play there are many startling scenes, and the climaxes follow in such rapid succession that from the rise of the curtain until the final scene there is an abundance of thrills. The complete cast, in addition to Miss Kennedy and Mr. Morris, will include Olive Harper Thorne, Elsie Hitz, Teresa Deagle, Ray Bowden, Gertrude Siebold, Lenna Duer, Rodney Hickok, John Bowers, George Pauncefort, Ned A. Sparks, Charles Stanley, Sidney Macey and Tom Lemonier.

WOOD'S TRIAL FOR CONSPIRACY STARTS

American Woolen Co. Head Charged as a Party to "Planting" Dynamite.

Boston, Mass., May 19.—William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company; Fred E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins were placed on trial in the second session of the criminal branch of the Suffold Superior Court today, charged with conspiracy in connection with the "planting" of dynamite in Lawrence for the purpose of inflaming public opinion against the striking mill operatives in that city during the strike of January, 1912.

District Attorney Joseph C Pelletier and Assistant District Attorney Abraham Webber, who will represent the prosecution, are confident that the trial will make rapid progress. In view of the great wealth, industrial importance and social standing of Mr. Wood, the principal defendant and of the sensational nature of the charges the case is attracting country-wide interest and attention.

During the riotous days of the textile workers' strike in Lawrence in January of 1912, the police authorities of that city found explosives in several inhabited tenement houses, etc., and arrested the occupants of these tenements for violating the law against storing explosives in such fashion. In most cases the prisoners cleared themselves from the charges against them and were discharged. It was believed that the explosives had been "planted" and when John J. Breen, a member of the Lawrence School Board and engaged in the undertaking business, was arrested on suspicion, he admitted his guilt and was fined $500, which he promptly paid.

District Attorney Pelletier made a thorough investigation to ascertain the inside facts of what he believed to be a conspiracy. Ernest W. Pitman, the head of a large building firm, inadvertently betrayed some of the secrets of the alleged conspiracy and committed suicide on the day before he was to start on a trip to Europe with his family. Then followed the indictment by the grand jury of Wood, Atteaux, Collins and William H. Rice. The latter was indicted separately upon the charge of having carried dynamite through the streets illegally.

William M. Wood, who is alleged to have been the originator and head of the conspiracy, is undoubtedly the most strikingly interesting figure in this case. The story of his life and how he developed from a poor boy to the millionaire president of the greatest textile corporation in America, reads like a fairy story. William M. Wood was born in a little cottage at Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard, April 5, 1861. His father, Jacintho Silva, was a poor and sickly Portuguese cobbler, born in Fayal, Azores, who came to this country as cook's helper on a sailing ship. Following the example of some of his countrymen he Americanized his name by calling himself William Jacintho Wood. The captain, who had brought Jacintho to this country, befriended the man and set him up in the fishing trade at Edgartown. Jacintho married and William M. Wood, their firstborn, first saw the light of day in the little fisherman's hut.

About the time of the close of the Civil War the family moved to New Bedford, where Jacintho found work. His little son showed such exceptional brightness that the agent of the steamship company for which Jacintho worked, took great interest in him and sent him to school at his expense. When William M. Wood was eleven years of age, his father, who had always been sickly, died of consumption, leaving his widow and a family of three children practically penniless. The boy, who had hoped to go through High School, was compelled to give up his studies and go to work. He obtained a position as messenger boy in the office of the Wamsutta Mills and showed such ability and ambition that when he expressed a desire to learn the technical branch of the work, he was given an opportunity. After six years in the mill he obtained a position in the bank of J. A. Beauvais. When he was offered a position as assistant superintendent of some mills in Fall River, Mr. Wood accepted the offer and soon gained a reputation for his ability in mill management. Six years later he became superintendent of the Washington Mills, then owned by Dr. Frederick Ayer, of patent medicine fame, and in due time he married the millionaire's daughter. Backed by the wealth of his father-in-law, Mr. Wood began the organization of the gigantic corporation known as the American Woolen Company, of which he became the president and controlling manager. He also has valuable interests in other industrial enterprises and financial institutions.

Economy of Oven Cooking.

Oven cooking brings economy both in food and in coal bills; for much of the nutritive value usually lost is preserved to food cooked in the oven, and so the food goes farther; and much heat which usually goes to waste when the oven is heated for one dish can be utilized when a whole meal is prepared in the oven—and so fuel goes farther.

If a gas stove is used, oven cooking will be found no economy unless it is planned to cook a whole meal or supplies of many kinds in the oven at the same time; for it requires more gas to heat the oven than it does to burn a burner on top of the stove.

Beef in a casserole, baked potatoes and stuffed tomatoes might be cooked for one dinner which had as dessert a cottage pudding baked while the rest of the dinner was cooking. Another menu might include stuffed cucumbers, scalloped potatoes, lamb chops (broiled if the oven is heated by gas, cooked in a casserole if it is not) and strawberry pie. The strawberries for this pie should be ripe, fresh berries, not cooked, but piled in a shell cooked when the potatoes first go in the oven, and sufficiently cooled before dessert time. The fruit should be added at the last minute, with sugar and whipped cream.

Another way to make oven cooking economical is to cook bread, cake, cookies and other supplies at the same time. It is sometimes difficult to regulate the heat for bread and cake at the same time; but the cake could be cooked when the oven is first heated, and by the time the cake is done the oven will be just about cool enough to begin the bread.

Meat Cooked in a Casserole.

The original use of the casserole was for the cooking of meat but now many vegetables are also cooked in this valuable oven dish. Meat of any kind, almost, can be so cooked. Veal cutlets, for instance, cut in convenient strips, can be put in a casserole, well buttered, and moistened with a little stock, and cooked in a steady, rather slow oven for an hour, then thickened with a little flour and water, and cooked for fifteen minutes longer. Lamb chops should be well buttered before they are put in the casserole and they, too, can be moistened with stock. Spanish beafsteak is a steak an inch thick from the upper part of the round, and weighing, for a family of six or seven, two pounds. It should be well covered with flour, laid on a board and beaten with a potato masher, or meat pounder, and then cooked in the casserole with tomatoes and sliced sweet green peppers and a little stock for a couple of hours. All kinds of stews can be cooked in the casserole. They should first be cut in neat pieces and then the meat should be rolled in flour. This flour generally serves to thicken the gravy sufficiently, but if it does not, a little more thickening can be added ten or fifteen minutes before the dish is taken from the oven Chicken, too can be cooked whole or jointed, in a casserole, and this method of cooking it keeps it juicy and well flavored.

Paper Bags in the Oven.

The fad of using paper bags for cooking seems to have passed by; but whether it has or not there are some things which can be so much more easily cooked in this way than in any other that it is strange there is not a pile of paper bags on every pantry shelf.

Fish, for instance, can be deliciously cooked in the oven in a well greased paper bag, and comes out juicy, plump and tender. And the cook has only to throw the charred paper bag in the fire or waste basket and has no sticky utensils to wash when the fish is done.

Spinach, washed and put damp in a buttered paper bag and cooked for an hour, scalloped potatoes, put sliced raw in a bag with cream, butter, pepper and salt, boiled parsnips sliced and buttered and then browned in a bag—all these vegetables can be more easily prepared in this way than in any other

MRS. WILLIAM CUMMING STORY.

Mrs. William Cumming Story of New York city was recently elected president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution on the third ballot after a turbulent and prolonged contest. The vote was 600 for Mrs. Story to 449 for Mrs. John Miller Horton, the administration candidate. The result, which was reached after three days' balloting in a triangular fight, was received with tremendous applause by the delegates and visitors.

The election resulted in a partial victory for the old administration, as more than half of the general officers and all of the new vice presidents general are known as supporters of Mrs Scott, the retiring president. The latter was elected honorary president general, an honor only held by five former presiding officers of the society.

The new president has taken a prominent part in the affairs of the Daughters of the American Revolution for ten years. She was elected regent of the New York state chapter on April 22, 1908, after a factional struggle. In 1909 and again in 1911 she made an unsuccessful run for the president general. Mrs. Story formerly was president of the Federation of Women's Clubs. She will live at the national capital.

If You Have a Feather Boa.

If you have a feather boa that has become rather limp looking because it has been out in damp weather try this means of freshening it. It is best to try it, too, as soon as you come in. Take a bowlful of boiling water, sprinkle into it a handful of ordinary white salt and then when it is dissolved shake the feather boa over it.

Lime In Curtains.

When washing new curtains you will generally find that they are full of lime. A great deal of trouble may be saved by soaking the curtains overnight in water in which a little salt has been dissolved. The salt draws out the lime and makes the curtains quite easy to wash without too much rubbing and soap.

New Cotton Fabrics.

The semi-military Balkan styles lend themselves well to development in the new cotton stuffs. Belted jackets of ratine or eponge are mounted over skirts of cotton crape or harmonica crape with a thickened thread in the weave which gives the effect of pin tucks or broken stripes. Buttons are the first requisite of the Balkan costume, and the buttons must be gay enough to make themselves heard, so to speak, on the costume or their effect will be lost. With such frocks are worn hats of a smart semi-tailored character and buttoned boots of white buckskin.

Some Cookery Suggestions

EAT ORANGES FREELY.

ORANGES should be eaten freely. If the blood is sluggish the fruit acid will act as a tonic. A nicely prepared orange or small glass of grapefruit and orange juice will prove an excellent appetizer if taken before breakfast. Oranges placed on the table in a fruit dish are usually passed by. Busy people who have to hurry through that meal will not take the trouble to prepare an orange for themselves, but if served in an acceptable form oranges are generally partaken with relish.

Nice For Breakfast.

Powdered Oranges.—Score the outside of a sweet orange in strips from end to end. Then remove skin and inner white covering. Divide into sections, removing fiber and seeds. Roll in powdered sugar and lay in tiers on a pretty dish. Place on the table and let each person help himself to a few sections as a relish.

Orange Cups.—Halve oranges, allowing one-half orange for each person. Scoop out the pulp into a bowl, add a little shredded pineapple, preserved or canned cherries or strawberries. Sugar to taste and fill the halved oranges that have been scraped clean. The edge can be cut into little points with a pair of scissors.

Two Novel Delicacies.

Orange Custards.—Add to one cupful of orange juice and pulp a tablespoonful of lemon juice and the grated rind of one orange. Beat to a cream one tablespoonful of butter and one cupful of sugar. Add the yolks of two eggs, well beaten, the orange mixture and two tablespoonfuls of cracker crumbs that have been soaked in a half cupful of milk. Add the whites of the eggs, beaten slightly, and bake in custard cups set in a shallow pan of hot water.

Served Hot or Cold.

Orange Pudding.—Put into the upper part of a double boiler one cupful of soft breadcrumbs, one tablespoonful of butter and one pint of milk. Let soak a little while, then bring to the scalding point. Beat the yolks of two eggs and add the grated rind of one orange, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a pinch of salt. Pour the hot mixture over the second, put in a buttered pudding dish and bake in a medium oven until firm. Beat the whites of the two eggs with a fork or wire beater until stiff, adding near the last three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, and heap lightly on top of the pudding. Set back in the oven, which should be cooled off as much as possible until the meringue puffs and takes on a golden tinge.

To Unscrew a Glass Jar.

It is often very difficult to unscrew a tin cover from a glass jar. A very simple and satisfactory way to get it off is to take a knife handle and tap the top of the cover all around the edge. This widens the thread of the screw of the cover and enables one to turn the cover very easily.

Weather Signs.

A rainbow in the morning gives the shepherd warning—that is, if the wind be easterly—because it shows that a cloud is approaching the observer.

A rainbow at night is the shepherd's delight. This is also a good sign provided the wind be westerly, as it shows that the rain clouds are passing away.

Evening red and next morning gray are certain signs of a beautiful day.

Greetings of Many Lands.

It is common in Arabia to put cheek to cheek. The Hindu falls with his face to the dust in greeting a superior. The Chinaman never remains mounted in the presence of a great man. A Japanese removes his sandals, crosses his hands upon his breast and cries out the equivalent of "Spare me!"

Polly Spry's Trial.

Polly Spry has been summoned to court.
Awaiting her are cats of every sort,
Each with a terrible tale of woe.
Poor Polly quakes from head to toe.
"Guilty or not guilty?" cries the judge in awful tone.
"Not guilty," says Polly, ashamed her sins to own.
Oh, Polly, those twelve jurors know!
Look at this poor little pussy with red ribbon bow.
That girl pulls her tail to make her meow
And rubs her fur the wrong way too.
She gives her lots of twists and twirls
Indeed, there's many such little girls.
Oh, Polly Spry, what will the cats do
To such a naughty girl as you?

Daddy's Bedtime Story—When Ruthie Polished Her Shoes.

The Blacking Would Not Come Off.

SOMETIMES Jack was not very particular about keeping his shoes shined.

"It isn't nice to wear muddy shoes in the house," daddy said soberly.

"Yes, he had on the most horrid shoes at school yesterday," said Evelyn, "and I saw the principal looking at them. She stands at the head of the stairs, you know, as we march into the hall from outdoors."

"I trust, Master Jack," said daddy, "that after this you will go to school with neat looking shoes, so that the teacher will not need to look at them reprovingly.

"You are not nearly so particular as our little friend Ruthie. She is very careful to keep herself looking nice. Her hair is always neatly tied with a bright ribbon, her little frock clean and fresh and her shoes and stockings all they should be.

"There are different ways of shining shoes, you know, but the way Ruthie's mamma does it is to polish them with some black stuff out of a bottle.

"Ruthie has often watched her mother brightening the shoes by dipping the sponge, which is fixed to a wire, one end of which is fastened in the stopper of the bottle.

"When Ruthie asked to be allowed to polish her own shoes her mother would always say, 'Wait till you are a little older.'

"One morning Ruthie's mother was ill, and she had to get ready for school alone. Her sister Hannah buttoned her dress and combed her hair, tieing the ribbon in place, but hardly suiting Ruthie.

"Then Ruthie looked at her shoes. She went into the bathroom, where the bottle of polish was kept, and took it down from the shelf. Then she began to blacken the shoes.

"It was not so easy as it looked. Ruthie got too much of the liquid on the sponge, and it ran all over the shoes and dripped off on to her dress.

"Just then Ruthie's papa came along. 'Whatever are you doing?' he asked.

"'Blacking my thoes,' Ruthie answered, with her funny little lisp. 'The teacher is going to expect them today.'

"Ruthie meant that the teacher would inspect the shoes. Her father was so much amused that he begged Ruthie's mamma not to scold her for soiling her frock.

"And when she went to school Ruthie had soiled hands, because, scrub as hard as she would, the stain of the blacking would not come off.

"And what do you think? The teacher did not inspect the shoes that day at all, but she did look very hard at Ruthie's black hand."

BURMAN IN FAST LAPS AT SPEEDWAY.

"BOB" BURMAN AT THE WHEEL OF KEETON SPEEDWAY ENTRY

"Bob" Burman, holder of the world's automobile record for one mile, was the first of the racing drivers to reach Indianapolis for practice in preparation for the five hundred mile race to be held there on Memorial Day. In several trials last week he completed circuits of the two and a half mile course at a rate of speed more than eighty-seven miles an hour.

Burman's car, a Keeton, which was constructed under his personal supervision, has attained a rate of speed of 110 miles an hour on a straight course.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is Jack Martin batting in the International league?—D. C. E.

Answer—If you refer to his percentage it is .281 for the eight games he took part in up to last Saturday afternoon, but if your question refers to what he is really "batting" it is the horsehide, of course. He scored seven runs, nine hits, two stolen bases and one sacrifice hit.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Could a team make twenty-eight assists in one game?—L. M.

Answer—Not unless it was an extra inning game.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What will be done about the Central New Jersey League games that are postponed on account of rain?—G. L. D.

Answer—They will either be played off after the season closes or a double header will probably be staged on one of the holidays.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Will you please inform me where I can enter my name as a contestant in the coming Decoration Day races to be held in your city?—H. H.

Answer—Jack Horner, of Somerset street, this city, will furnish you with the necessary entry blanks and also enlist you as a contestant.

Sporting Editor:

Query—By whom are the game wardens of this State paid? Are the fish and game wardens and their deputies protected by the State?—W. H. F.

Answer—The fish and game wardens are protected by the civil service but their deputies are not. They are paid from the State treasury.

Sporting Editor:

Query—With three men on bases the batter hits to an infielder, who throws the ball over the first baseman's head. Men on second and third bases scored. I understand when the bases are full each man must advance a base, when the ball is hit fairly. According to the ground rule the runner is entitled to an additional base, if he makes it. The opposing team claims that the man on second should have stopped at third. Furthermore, no protest was made during the game, but several days later. Therefore, I would like to know if a game can be protested on a point which was not questioned during the game.—D. F. M.

Answer—Of course, both runners are entitled to score. It is not customary to protest games two days after they have been played, and, as a rule, protests are consigned to the waste basket anyhow. Win your arguments and your ball games on the diamond, boys.

"TILLY" CAME BACK.

Arthur Shafer, better known as "Tilly" Shafer, centre fielder of the Giants, whose absence from the Polo Grounds Friday led to his suspension by President Thomas J. Lynch reported for play at the clubhouse Saturday afternoon. Shafer said that business affairs had upset him temporarily, but that he had no intention of deserting the team and returning to California to resume his position of automobile salesman. The temperamental young Giant said that, after a talk with President Stempstead, he was anxious to resume his position in the Giants' outfield. Apparently he had made peace with Manager John J. McGraw, for he was in uniform, but the suspension imposed on him by President Lynch acted as a bar to his participating in the game against Pittsburg Saturday. Club officials stated that a request would immediately be made to the National Commission for Shafer's reinstatement and the incident closed.

FROM THE OLD HOME TOWN.

"Keating Day," in honor of Pitcher Ray Keating, of the New York Americans, will be celebrated at the Polo Grounds on Saturday, June 7, by the Bridgeport friends of the young pitcher, who has proved one of the sensations of the American League during the first month of the present season. On that day a crowd of fans, which the advance reports place at from 500 to 700, will come to New York by special train and give the youngster a demonstration such as Troy furnished for Johnny Evers there a week ago.

The Dubuque team, of the Three-I League, has two fine pitchers in Harry Jasper and Guy Gregg. Billy Sullivan, of the White Sox, has been taking a slant at Jasper.

LEAL'S ONE SLUGGER WINS SINGLE HANDED

Does About Everything Plausible During the Game with Cartaret Academy.

A homer, two doubles and a single, fourteen putouts and two assists and a half dozen stolen bases, etc. Yep, Jim Nash is all in, he's going back to where he was before he started. Das ist alls. This is the kind of stuff that revived the Leal School boys hope of getting into the running in the race for the Interscholastic League bunting, after the great game that was played by this contingent at Cartaret Saturday morning, the local boys, through the efforts of one Nash, described in brief form above, winning by a score of 4 to 3. Nash's homer was the only barrier between a tie in the ninth and the victory for the Plainfielders, and his hits brought in two of the other three runs, he having scored the other two himself. Some morning for one who has been referred to as a has been, or criticized as being one of the kind that are hitting the backward trail.

The victory Saturday morning is the third of the season for the private school boys of this city, two of their victories having been scored at the hands of the Cartaret Academy nine. The first game was just such a victory as the second. Leal's having won the first battle when Schneider came through with an eleventh hour hit (he hasn't made one since) and spoiled the chances of the Cartaret nine by driving two runs across the platter. Schneider was in the game again yesterday and the Cartaret pitchers evidently looked upon him as a world beater for they put extra stuff on the ball every time he went to the plate, with the result that he was held hitless. As far as fielding was concerned the losers had an edge on their conquerers, they making but one error during the whole nine innings of play, against five credited to the local youngsters. Stewart and Dickerson were the only two Leal players to connect for singles, besides Nash, and the rest of the aggregation did not get a whiff of the pellet.

Second only to Nash in prominence during the morning's setto was Shepherd, the reliable little beaver of the Leal team, and his work was some of the best that has been evidenced on the part of the Leal pitcher in sometime. Besides holding the opposing sluggers to five hits, he disposed of ten along the strikeout route and his control was well nigh perfect.

FREDDY WIELDS THE WHITEWASH BRUSH

Local Heaver Gets Fifteen Strikeouts and Wins for 'Plains 3 to 0.

One of the greatest games ever waged on the Scotch Plains diamond was played there yesterday afternoon, between the New Brunswick Stars and the Scotch Plains baseball team, the latter winning after a gruelling nine innings of play by a score of 3 to 0. From the time the first ball was pitched the game resolved itself into a pitchers' battle, the two little twirlers who faced each other pitching a stellar article of ball, with Otto Frederickson just a trifle in the lead on real statistics. During the nine innings the Netherwood youngster allowed but four hits and fanned fifteen of the opposition, always holding the situation at his fingers' tips.

Johnston, the Brunswick moundsman, yielded but four hits and three of these were garnered by Henry Alberts. This player appears to be following in the wake of a hitting record this season, for in all three of the 'Plains games to date he has clouted the horsehide like a demon. Yesterday afternoon one of his three bingles was a double and the other two were healthy singles. The visitors put up a sterling exhibition of fast and snappy fielding, although handicapped by the slow condition of the diamond, and many spectacular catches were made during the nine rounds of play which brought the large crowd of spectators to their feet.

Scotch Plains got a run in the first on a wild throw and another in the third via the same route, and Henry Alberts pushed the final count across the pan in the sixth with his two-base wallop.

Score by innings:

Scotch Plains	1 0 1 0 0 1 0 0 x	3

NEW BRUNSWICK BOOKED FOR A RETURN TO 'PLAINS

Following the 3 to 0 game played at Scotch Plains yesterday afternoon between the New Brunswick Stars and the team of that place, in which the 'Plains aggregation was victorious, Manager Joe Alberts, of the winning crew, booked the defeated combination to appear on the same diamond next Sunday afternoon. The second meeting of the two rivals is due to be an even more interesting one than the excellent contest of yesterday, for the visitors' playing was somewhat slowed up by the wet condition of the field following the recent rain and they could not show to their best advantage.

Manager Alberts will have the field put in good condition for the game next Sunday, however, and he will also have an umpire hailing from Rahway to do duty.

PARK AVENUE MANAGER WILL HOLD TWO PRACTICE NIGHTS

Manager Edward Mosher, of the Park Avenue Baptist baseball team, entrants in the Sunday-school Baseball League, has issued a call for two practices before the next league games, one to be held tomorrow night and the other Thursday night. A number of the positions will be filled with new faces next Saturday afternoon when the first games are played. R. Mills playing short and catching some of the time while Fred Mills will be the regular pitcher with George Gage to receive him. Nathan Wilson is still laid up with a sprained wrist and will not be able to get into the first games.

Fred Mills is in top notch form at the present time, according to reports coming from the Park Avenue training camp, and a duel is expected between him and Carlton Smith when the Parks play First Baptist next Saturday afternoon.

"Uncle Cy" Young, who is managing the Cleveland Federal League team, will try out his arm in a week or so and if the old whip can stand the gaff he will get back into the game.

"MAC" SAYS

J. Pluvius saved some team from falling out of first place at any rate. If it happens regularly Plainfield is bound to finish on the top rung in the Central New Jersey League race.

The main streets were alive with ball players Saturday afternoon and evening. It's funny what an off-day will do, isn't it?

Strange as it may seem, when on the diamond most ball players act like everyone else. Look in the windows and everything.

If Dave Driscoll and his Brunswicks pass Plainfield after entering the race late, we will agree with the Socialists, "Down With Everything."

We hear this of Josh Devore. Every morning on his way to practice at the Polo Grounds Josh met a certain youngster with a dog. One A. M. the youth appeared minus the canine. "Where's the dog?" inquired the inquisitive Giant. "Oh, I had to shoot him," responded the boy. "Gee, was he mad?" said Devore. "Well," replied the youngster reflectively, "he didn't seem to like it much!" S'enough!

If we had two Wagners, two Millers, three Keatings, four Ruckers and six Mathewsons, with some Klings, Speakers, Cobbs and Jacksons thrown in, why it would revive hope again. Otherwise, we have little of the stuff that springs eternal in the human breast.

The batting averages for the first month of the season show Ty Cobb, the Detroit slugger, leading the American League with a percentage of .488 for the twelve games in which he has taken part. Five American Leaguers are batting better than .400—Henriksen, of Boston with .471; Schaefer, Washington, .414; Collins, Philadelphia, .432, and Jackson, Cleveland, .423. Lajoie is next, with .356.

There has been a lively run of herring at the Deal Lake flume on the beach front between Asbury Park and Allenhurst during the last two weeks. They have afforded a lot of good sport.

Kingfish are coming along in better numbers than had been expected so early in the season at various points on the New Jersey coast. They were caught last week from the piers at Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Belmar. It was not generally known that the kingfish had arrived and were biting and as a result only a few men tried their skill or caught any.

Flounders are plentiful in the surf and offshore at various points along the New Jersey coast. Good catches have been made at and near Asbury Park.

Much fine sport has been obtained during the last week in the marshes along the coast. One gunner got sixteen English snipe in an hour of early morning shooting near Manasquan last Tuesday, and other excellent bags have been made. The birds are remarkably fat and plentiful.

A REAL ROMANCE INTERWOVEN ABOUT A BEAUTIFUL PRINCESS AND A CHARMING PRINCE DELIGHTS THE PEOPLE OF SEVERAL NATIONS.

PRINCESS VICTORIA LUISE IN THE UNIFORM OF HER HUSSAR REGIMENT, THE FAMOUS "DEATH HEAD HUSSARS"

THE GERMAN EMPEROR

THE GERMAN EMPRESS

PRINCESS VICTORIA LUISE AND PRINCE ERNST-AUGUST, DUKE OF BRAUNSCHWEIG AND LUNEBURG

Never has there existed in Germany such widespread interest in a royal romance as there is expressed in the courtship of the Princess Victoria Luise, favorite daughter of the Emperor, and Prince Ernst-August, Duke of Braunschweig and Luneberg, whose marriage will take place May 24.

To follow this "course of true love" from the beginning would read like e modern Romeo and Juliet romance, which, happily, however, has taken a different denouement and not only has healed a family feud of long standing but has changed the political map of Germany by restoring a ruler to the long vacant throne of the Duchy of Brunswick.

A royal wedding is necessarily of a spectacular character—not from any desire for ostentatious display, but because of the pomp and circumstance which hedges in the movement of royalty and furnishes a pictorial environment to any state function.

A castle of hoary antiquity, upon every stone of which is written a chapter of Hohenzollern history; an atmosphere hallowed by memories of the long line of rulers who have helped to bring Germany to her present proud position among the nations; monarchial traditions expressed with the splendor which can come only from possessions acquired by the cumulative process all this, and more, will contribute to the effective background upon which, on May 24, will be projected a picture pulsing with life and color one which will have as its central figures the daughter of an Emperor and the grandson of Kings.

A splendid pageant will pass through the long lines of spectator guests to distinguish them from the real elect assembled in the chapel who receive cards of invitation for the picture gallery and are allowed at least a foretaste of the ceremony which is to convert the young Princess into a future Duchess of Brunswick. To an onlooker from a land where tradition is settled at and history is still in the making it is a never to be forgotten spectacle.

"Make way for three emperors, four kings and numberless grand dukes and minor sovereigns!" the House Marshal and Chief Master of Ceremonie Count Eulenburg, could cry out as he appears in the doorway leading to th picture gallery accompanied by the heralds of the court, who are men o gigantic stature and look as if they had stepped out of a mediaeval canvas.

Walking with the Kaiser at the head of the cortege will be the Duches of Cumberland, who on this occasion will have precedence by courtesy of th Queen of England and the Tsaritza. The burden of her heavy train will b lightened by the court pages in their picturesque pink coats and big lac cravats. They are charming boys taken from the cadet corps at Potsdam t serve at state functions as trainbearers and cupbearers to the monarchs.

After this comes the Kaiserin, regal in her robes of state and agleam wit jewels, who passes trying to make her companion, the dour Duke of Cumber land, feel at ease under the Hohenzollern roof. One has only a vague impres sion of the mistress of the robes, the silver haired Countess Brockdorf, an the younger ladies in waiting, who attended the Empress as every eye is turne upon the approaching bride and bridegroom. According to German etiquett they walk in together and are unattended, as the customary bridesmaids wit their cavaliers are omitted from a royal wedding, and their places supplied b members of the family. Then will pass a long line of European monarche sovereigns of the German federated States and numberless princes and prin cesses of Hohenzollern and Cumberland who have been traditionally hostil for centuries.

After a simple ceremony a wedding dinner will be served and then th young couple will depart on a honeymoon.

The honeymoon will be at Hubertusstock, a royal hunting lodge, only short distance from Berlin. It was here that the Crown Prince and Crown Princess, as well as Prince and Princess Eitel Friedrich, spent this idylli period—in fact, a Hubertusstock honeymoon has come to be one of the Hohen zollern traditions.

BLACK BASS SEASON WILL OPEN JUNE 15

New Laws Enacted to Govern This Branch of the Sport.

Fishermen have been studying the acts of the recent Legislature as they thus approaches for the date of the opening of the fresh water bass fishing season to find whether new laws have been passed affecting this sport. They found that there has been a change.

This year the opening date on which black bass, Oswego bass, white bass, calico bass, crappie or pike perch can be taken legally is June 15. The season will run to November 30, both dates being inclusive. The open season for pike and pickerel will be from May 20 to November 30, both dates being inclusive.

For many years the opening date for the bass-fishing season was on Memorial Day. It was subsequently set back to May 20. The change which has now been made is for the purpose of overcoming the fact that both May 20 and May 30 found the bass still on their spawning beds. At that time their capture was easier than at any other season. Owing to the fact that they remain close to or actually on the spawning beds for a considerable period they become hungry and so varacious that they will jump at artificial lure that may be thrown within their range of vision or within easy reach. It is said by experts with intimate knowledge of the habits of bass that these fish, under such conditions, will even spring at and take a bare hook dropped near them on the spawning beds. It was therefore possible for fishermen who knew and cared to take advantage of these facts to get all the fish they wanted merely by locating the spawning beds of the bass.

By the taking of a considerable number of bass during the spawning season each year much harm was done in two ways. The large fish became depicted in numbers in any given water at a [illegible] their destruction, thus [illegible] before they had [illegible] on the beds, [illegible] of the natural [illegible] of the [illegible] by their capture, the remaining [illegible] their species were [illegible] spawn. This result also [illegible] plete given waters of bass in [illegible] and even stocking at regular periods. [illegible] of the State Fish and Game Commission [illegible] sion did comparatively little good in the face of the destructive influences of the work, and legally permissible under the old laws making the open season begin on May 30 or May 20. It is believed by the State Fish and Game Commission that the difficulties [illegible] encountered will be overcome by carrying forward the date on which bass can be first legally taken to June 15.

Y. M. A. A. PRACTICE NIGHT.

Manager William Conger of the Y. M. A. At that time he intends to put his men through a drill that will help to straighten out the infield and eliminate the erratic playing so prominent of late.

FACTS AND COMMENT ON NEW YORK NEWS

Some of the leading society folk of New York are planning to establish a French theatre in this city, a genuine French theatre, with French actors and actresses, producing French classic and modern plays. According to the present plans the enterprise will be highly exclusive and no effort will be made to make the theatre self-supporting. The theatre to be erected is to have a seating capacity of only 300, just enough to accommodate the founders and supporters of the theatre and a few of their chosen friends.

The subject of eugenics is evidently attracting growing interest in this city, especially among the clergymen and several noted ministers have made the announcement that from now on they would refuse to officiate at a marriage ceremony unless th persons intending to marry, submitted to them medical certificates attesting to their good health and perfect physical condition. There is a great chance for some unscrupulous practitioner to sell bogus certificates for men and women belonging to the society of "Damaged Goods."

BUSINESS MGR. COULD RUN CITY

Calkins Would Prefer High Salaried Superintendent to Commission Gov't.

VIEWS OF COUNCILMAN

Walsh Act, He Believes, Applies Business Principles Only in Makeshift Fashion—Fears Its Adoption Would Eliminate Commuter.

Setting forth his objections to a change from the present form of administration to the commission plan of government, Councilman Leighton Calkins in a letter to Howard H. Williams, chairman of the commission government committee, suggests another scheme for conducting the affairs of the city. His idea is practically that in force in Sumpter, S. C., and some other small cities, where a high salaried business manager is in charge.

Mr. Calknis says:

"My study of the commission question so far as it applies to Plainfield leaves me in the greatest doubt whether it is advisable, in view of our local conditions, to hurry into an adoption of the Walsh Act. I believe in the principle of commission government because it is a step in the direction of simplified government; and I think it is the complexity of governmental systems and of political machinery which at bottom has been the cause of bad government, national, State and local. But I do not think that commission government under the Walsh Act necessarily will eliminate politics, and in my judgment it is only a partial application of real business principles and has a number of serious defects.

"I am inclined to think that the kind of voluntary service which it has been possible to secure in Plainfield in the long run will produce better results than to turn over the affairs of a business involving the expenditure of half a million dollars a year to five clerks at small salaries with full power. I do not think any private enterprise would manage its affairs in that way. I have had the benefit of conferences with experts in New York connected with commission government movements, and they are frank in saying that communities in New Jersey which are fairly well governed would do better to let the communities which need reforming try out the Walsh Act; and this rather appeals to me, because changing your organic law is a serious matter, and unnecessary experiment seems to me inadvisable. For personal reasons I should be very glad indeed to see commission government in Plainfield, and the sooner the better. From the viewpoint of what is best for Plainfield, I am not at all convinced that experimenting is wise. The Walsh Act is only two years old, and has been a marked success only in a few communities where reform waves turned out wasteful and inefficient governments.

"I attended the recent public meeting and was much interested in Mayor Donnelly's address. It demonstrated clearly that commission government is a success in Trenton, but it did not demonstrate that good results could not have been accomplished by any honest and efficient administration under the old system. Aside from that fact, the conditions in Plainfield are very different from those in Trenton, in that we have a native population and a commuter population, both of which have worked together in the management of local affairs, and the interest and active co-operation of the commuter element must be retained. The tendency, I think, would be to eliminate this influence under commission government, perhaps not in the first commission elected, but ultimately.

"If business principles are really to be applied, it seems to me that Plainfield should have the power to elect as commissioners a Board of Directors without salary, but with power to employ a chief executive at a high salary, in order to get high class executive ability. This executive could be called general superintendent, or general manager of the city of Plainfield, or anything else. He would, of course, give his entire time to the work, would be put over all the departments, and would introduce reforms in running the business so as to eliminate all unnecessary expense, co-ordinate the work of departments, etc., and would be in a position to present detailed recommendations and reports to the directors at every meeting. They would decide matters of general policy but would necessarily rely for results on their chief executive office, just the way a corporation would do for a very large private business enterprise.

"The Walsh Act seems to me to apply business principles only in a

DUTCH ARMS ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Following Speechmaking Trinity Men's Club Band Plays Selections.

Genuine enthusiasm marked the annual meeting of the Dutch Arms of Trinity Reformed church last night in the lecture room of that edifice. The session was made inspiring by the religious and patriotic program presented

The meeting was opened with devotional services led by F. E. Smith, following which three new members were added to the roster of the society. In a brief address the president, A. B. Cole, thanked the other officers and the various committeemen for their support during the past year. He stated that the society now ranked among the foremost religious organizations in the city, having a membership of 150 active workers.

With F. E. Smith presiding, the election of officers followed, resulting in the unanimous selection of these: President, A. B. Cole; first vice president, T. E. Cutter; second vice president, L. M. Leek; secretary, Charles Beiter, and treasurer, George Volk.

The Dutch Arms band played several selections and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held on September 15.

ENGINE SENDS STREAM OVER TALL BUILDING

Over 500 persons witnessed the public test made with the Nott auto fire engine at Front and Duer streets yesterday afternoon and the demonstration caused favorable comment. The engine which was tried out had a pumping capacity of 900 pounds per minute and threw streams of several different lengths, one of which soared ten feet above the Babcock building, in the rear of which the tests were made. Members of the local fire department and many of the city's officials witnessed the demonstration.

Four lengths of hose, each 400 feet long, were laid from the hydrant to the engine and the water coming from the mains flowed through the engine and out of one nozzle, the pressure being eighty pounds. Two streams registered a pressure of 130 pounds and four lines, two from each of the engines, all soared over the top-most point of the Babcock building.

DR. JOSEPH TOMLINSON DIES IN PHILADELPHIA

Dr. Joseph Tomlinson, a brother of Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, of East Seventh street, died yesterday in Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, from a complication of diseases. Dr. Tomlinson was born in Bridgeton, where he spent his early life. He practiced medicine in Plainfield for one year about twenty-five years ago, and then removed to New York, where he continued to practice for some time.

Later he returned to Bridgeton, where he practiced up to the time of his recent illness. He is survived by a wife and two sons and two brothers, Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, of this city, who is the dean of the medical profession here, and Horatio Tomlinson, of Bridgeton. The funeral will be held at the late home Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and the burial will be in Bridgeton.

NEWSBOYS A NUISANCE.

Frances Gerrilla, twelve years old, of 244 West Second street, one of the "army' of newsboys who flock about the Babcock Building in West Front street every afternoon, Sundays excepted, was warned by City Judge DeMeza this morning to keep away from that vicinity. "The paperboys around the postoffice," remarked the court, "are becoming a nuisance to pedestrians and I intend to put a stop to the annoyance." George L. Babcock, the owner, who was in court, agreed with the judge and told of several pranks played by the newsies which he said were decidedly annoying to merchants in his building.

ASK SUPPORT FOR FRESH AIR HOME

What Summer Vacation Camp for Poor Children of New York's East Side Means.

ENCOURAGING TALKS

Clifford Braider, William D. Murray, William Montgomery, James F. Parker, Rev. Henry Zelie Among the Speakers.

Interesting phases of the work of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home were presented at a meeting held in the Crescent Avenue church last night, preliminary to opening the Home on June 6 for the summer months. The scope of this work which is being supported by many Plainfielders, was perhaps more fully realized than ever before, in the reports presented and the several addresses.

Charles W. McCutchen presided at the meeting and he bespoke for the Home the hearty support of all interested, adding that such a work for children could not fail to arouse the deepest interest and sympathy of everyone. He said that many people who make their living in New York are just simply giving back a certain per centage to help care for and train the children who are identified with the Home.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, conducted the devotional exercises, during which a picked choir of girls from the Home, under the able leadership of Clifford A. Braider, who was at the piano, sang a number of their songs. Their singing was a revelation to the audience, many of whom had never heard the chorus before. It was frequently commented upon by the speakers. Mr. Braider read an encouraging letter from George A. Chapman, an ardent supporter of the work, who could not be present, owing to illness. Mr. Chapman is stopping at Atlantic City for the present.

Among the other speakers of the evening were William D. Murray, who gave his hearty approval of the work and evidenced his deep interest in work for children. Rev. Dr. John R. Henry, pastor in charge of the great East Side parish, also brought an interesting story of what Miss Sara Curry, the matron, is doing in her mission in St. Mark's place, New York, as well as at the Home here. He related many personal incidents showing the value of this work, telling how lives are saved through Miss Curry's efforts.

William Montgomery, of New York, who is chairman of the work being conducted by Miss Curry in that city, addressed the audience emphasizing the need of greater support and the interest of the people. Miss Curry was called upon for a few words and as usual she held the close attention of all as she again told her story of the work she is endeavoring to carry on successfully.

James F. Parker presented statistical figures to show just what has actually been accomplished both at the Home and the New York nursery.

The work accomplished at the Home last year is as follows:

Mothers and children received at the Home, 4,127; religious services held, 37; entertainments held, 17; average cost per child for ten days' outing, 83 cents; average cost per day for Home expenses, $38; total disbursements of Home for the season, $2,556.

The work accomplished at the New York nursery follows:

Children received, 45,135; poor families visited by Miss Curry, 8,129; poor sick people visited by Miss Curry, 6,890; poor sick nursed, cared for and given medicine, 5,525; Thanksgiving dinners provided for, 7,267; Christmas presents for children, 986; poor people helped with food, 2,754; poor people furnished with garments, 5,551; poor people buried, 9; work found for women, 194; work found for men, 141; work found for girls and boys, 157; money given to mothers at home during sickness, $541.

SURPRISED WILLIAM ADDIS.

William Addis, of Orange place, was given a surprise party at his home, last evening, in celebration of his birthday anniversary. There were guests from Boston, New York, Roselle Park, Cranford and Plainfield. Mr. Addis was presented with a handsome rocker. The evening was spent playing games and enjoying a program of music, after which refreshments were served. The affair was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Van Doren, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. Addis.

HUGH FOX REPLIES TO INEZ MILHOLLAND

Her Story About Brewer's Association Supporting Anti-Suffrage Refuted.

In reply to the charges made in her address at the Plainfield theatre last Friday night, when she alleged that the Brewers' Association has been giving financial support to the anti-suffragists, Hugh F. Fox, secretary of the national organization, has this to say to Miss Inez Milholland.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

In the published reports of the Equal Suffrage meeting held in Plainfield on the 16th inst., Miss Inez Milholland is quoted as having stated that, "The Anti-Suffrage League is endorsed by and has in several instances accepted financial support from the National Brewers' Association."

The lady is absolutely misinformed in both particulars. The Anti-Suffrage Association has never been endorsed by the United States Brewers' Association (to which of course she refers). We have not contributed any money directly or indirectly to their cause, nor have we been asked to do so, though we have had appeals from the other side.

The following is a statement made officially by the president of this association at a recent National Conference of Brewers:

"The charge is constantly being made that 'the liquor interests' are offering the only organized opposition to Woman Suffrage. The Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia, made such a statement recently in its editorial columns, and I replied to it as follows:

"'The editorial in your issue of December 21st seems to take it for granted that the brewing industry is against woman suffrage, and implies that brewers are directly an active and organized opposition to it. The United States Brewers' Association, which comprises in its membership over two-thirds of the brewers of the country, has taken no part or position in the matter. In 1900 Miss Susan B. Anthony sent a letter to the association at its annual convention, charging that the association had 'from year to year adopted resolutions declaring against woman suffrage,' and appealed to us to reverse our action. Thereupon Mr. Obermann, of Milwaukee, made the following statement: 'Miss Susan B. Anthony is entitled to the respect of every man and woman in this country, whether we agree with her theories or not. I think it but fair and courteous to Miss Anthony that the secretary be instructed to answer that letter and to inform Miss Anthony that this is a body of business men; that we meet for business purposes and not for politics. Furthermore, that she is mistaken and misinformed regarding her statement that we have passed resolutions opposing woman suffrage. We have never taken such action at any of our conventions or on any other occasion. I submit this as a motion.' The same was unanimously carried.

"Our association has studiously refrained from taking any position in the matter, both because it is not within its provincec and also because its own members are divided in their personal opinions regarding it, just as they are about other political questions. It is, I believe, true that the liberal interests in Ohio cast their weight against woman suffrage. Indeed, Mr. Percy Andreae, who is connected with the brewing industry, made the following public statement after the election:

"'Woman suffrage owes its defeat to the Anti-Saloon League, which made of it a 'wet' and 'dry' issue, and thus alienated from it the sympathy of the liberal forces of the State, which stand sternly opposed to prohibition, no matter what guise it may masquerade in.'

"'In Michigan an analysis of the vote shows that nearly all of the 'dry' counties voted against woman suffrage; while some of the 'wet' counties voted in favor of it. Incidentally, we may say that the large vote cast by the women of Colorado against prohibition, and by the women of San Francisco and Los Angeles in favor of the continuance of the license policy, indicates that women can be trusted to use good judgment on such issues when they are discussed fairly upon their merits.'

"'The editors of the Post courteously acknowledged receipt of this statement, but failed to publish the same.

"'I do not believe that this is a subject with which we should concern ourselves as a trade. It is a political question and one in regard to which every man is entitled to his own individual opinion.'"

Yours very truly,
HUGH F. FOX,
Secretary.

DAY NURSERY TO OPEN ON JUNE 9

City Union of The King's Daughters Arranges for Summer's Work.

PHYSICIANS WILL AID

Baby Camp on Mountain to Be Abandoned—Daily Press is Asked to Solicit Funds as is Its Annual Custom.

The executive committee of The City Union of The King's Daughters and representatives of the Nursing Bureau mantained by the Charity Organization Society held a conference yesterday afternoon, when it was decided to open the diet kitchen at The Day Nursery on Monday, June 9. This work will be conducted by The King's Daughters with the co-operation of the Nursing Bureau. It was announced that twenty-six physicians in the city and borough have approved of the plan and five physicians have offered to give their services whenever necessary in caring for the children and mothers.

In conducting this diet kitchen it will be the work of The King's Daughters to see that sanitary foodstuffs and milk is provided, which will be a considerable item. Miss Plummer, the city nurse, will assist in this work with the aid of an undergraudate pupil nurse from Muhlenberg Hospital.

The Day Nursery will be kept open all summer and in this way The King's Daughters will not feel compelled to open the camp on the mountain. The children will be cared for on the large porch and rear yard at The Day Nursery. If any children are so ill that they cannot be cared for there, arrangements have been made with Dr. M. P. E. Groszmann, whereby one of the smaller buildings on the mountain near Herbart Hall can be used.

The expense for this work is naturally heavy, and as in past years The Daily Press has been requested to open its columns for contributions in support of The King's Daughters' work. Last year a large sum was raised through this newspaper which assisted materially in meeting the expenses incurred, and it is believed that there are many people who will again be glad to help this most worthy charity. Contributions sent to The Plainfield Press will be acknowledged and forwarded to the proper authority. Mrs. Charles A. Reed, the newly-elected president, succeeding Mrs. F. W. Jones, has taken up the active duties of the office with the full co-operation of the board of officers.

PREFERENTIAL PRIMARIES SUBJECT FOR DISCUSSION

The matter of preferential primaries will be discussed at an open meeting of the Plainfield Democratic Club tonight. E. C. Pearson will introduce the subject and those present will be invited to express their opinions.

It is expected that the following resolution will be offered for adoption:

"Resolved, That the provision in the Sundry Civil Bill prohibiting the use of any of the funds appropriated by the bill for the purpose of prosecuting combinations of laborers and farmers liable to prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law, discredits the intelligence and honesty of the Congress passing the bill as well as the intelligence and sense of justice of the laborers and farmers; that it is mere clap-trap legislation; that in the language of President Wilson we do not "want a system under which it is possible to choose when the hand of the law shall be withheld and when it shall not."

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

A birthday party was given in honor of Miss Ursula Johnson by her parents at their home on Park place, yesterday afternoon, marking her third birthday. Games and music featured the afternoon's entertainment provided for the little ones, among whom were Margaret Galloway, Lillian Fleming, Alice Johnson, Helen Selby and Oscar Johnson.

VAUDEVILLE SOLELY AT PROCTOR THEATRE

All-star Second Act Bills—Motion Pictures at Plainfield Theatre.

Patrons of vaudeville and motion picture entertainments will be interested in the announcement made by Proctor & Sanderson, proprietors of Proctor's and the Plainfield theatres, that commencing about June 1, Plainfield is to have a theatre devoted exclusively to vaudeville and one devoted exclusively to motion pictures. This will be the first time in the history of the city that it will have a theatre presenting a continuous bill of vaudeville exclusively.

It has been the policy of Proctor & Sanderson to combine vaudeville and motion pictures at Proctor's theatre on West Front street, this program of amusement being popular with the patrons, but the firm believes that the time has arrived for changing its policy, and about June 1 an all-star vaudeville bill of seven acts will be offered at this house, there being two shows in the afternoon and two in the evening. It is planned to present only the best acts obtainable and the high standard of entertainment will be maintained.

In changing the policy at this theatre, it has been decided to use the Plainfield theatre exclusively for motion pictures and three attractive features will be presented, the black and white pictures, the Kinemacolor pictures and the famous Edison talking pictures. There are theatres throughout the country offering these attractions separately, but the Plainfield theatre will be the first one to give its patrons all three features. Great improvements have been made only recently in the Kinemacolor as well as the Edison talking pictures and they will be shown with the highest point of efficiency possible. As in the case of Proctor's theatre, two complete performances will be given in the afternoon and two in the evening.

Before the new policy goes into effect, many changes must be made at both theatres, and the work will be started at once so that everything will be in readiness by June 1. Believing that their many patrons appreciate their efforts to give only the best in vaudeville and motion pictures, Proctor & Sanderson feel warranted in changing their policy whereby at popular prices amusement lovers will be able to enjoy entertainments equal to those given in the largest cities.

THREE DAYS' FESTIVAL OPENS AT ST. JOSEPH'S

A three days' festival to be held under the auspices of the societies of St. Joseph's church was begun in the old church edifice last night, the place being packed to its capacity on the opening night. Elaborate plans had previously been made by the committees in charge of the affair to entertain the pleasure seekers and each of the three nights will be devoted to a particular line of entertainment. The festival opened with a euchre, sixty tables being needed to accommodate the guests, and appropriate prizes were offered for competition. The winner of the event was Miss Gussie Boylan.

The old church building which will be torn down immediately after the festival, was decorated with a profusion of cut flowers and bunting, and etables of various kinds were on sale at the booths. Following the euchre a program of dancing was enjoyed by those present, music being furnished by members of the church. An entertainment will be presented tonight followed by a dance.

C. E. FIELD SECT'Y WILL SPEAK AT LOCAL RALLY

The annual rally meeting of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union will be held on Thursday night at 8 o'clock at Warren chapel. Rev. J. O. McKelvey will conduct the devotional exercises and Frank Stewart president of the local union, will be in charge. The speaker will be Rev. Edgar Strothers, the field secretary for Christian Endeavor in China. He will present a message of interest at this time, inasmuch as the so-called "yellow peril" is now absorbing so much of the attention of the American people.

Mr. Strothers will discuss the problem from the Christian standpoint. His wife will be present and will probably speak. Among the matters of business will be the election of officers for the ensuing year. The new Christian Endeavor banner will be awarded to the society having the highest percentage of active and associate members present. All persons interested are invited.

SAUCY YOUNG COMPLAINANT ORDERED FROM COURT

John Sorenson, of West Fourth street, came before City Judge DeMeza this morning to make a complaint against sixteen-year-old William Taynor, of Grant avenue, whom he said laughed at him; called him vile names and "pulled" a gun on him yesterday afternoon. But before the court had finished questioning him the positions were changed and Sorenson was made to appear more like a defendant than a complainant. He was finally ordered from the court room when he attempted to tell the judge what he was going to do to the next person that annoyed him. Taynor was represented by William N. Newcorn and two witnesses testified that it was Sorenson who called the vile names, and that the only thing he "pulled' from his pocket was a watch. The defendant denied ever carrying a weapon of any description.

The property now consists of a tract with a frontage of 200 feet on Raritan avenue and seventy-five feet deep. Most of the members have been attending St. Peter's church in this city. They now propose having a chapel of their own in the borough.

NO FIRE THERE.

MOTT WON'T TAKE THE CHINESE POST

He Regards That Billet as Most Important in Diplomatic Service.

San Francisco, May 20.—Dr. John R. Mott, the Y. M. C. A. official to whom President Woodrow Wilson has twice tendered the port-folio of American minister to China, has just arrived here from the orient. He was seven months away from the United States, during which time he attended a chain of conventions and delivered a series of lectures.

"I regard the Chinese post," he said, "as the most important in the diplomatic service. The man sent there will have wonderful opportunities if he is of the right sort, to do a big work for the commercial benefit of his country and the cause of civilization. I appreciate the honor that President Wilson conferred when he asked me to take the post. I declined because of other work that I had undertaken and which I could not turn over to anybody else. He asked me to reconsider my decision, and it was with deep regret that I had to remain firm in my refusal."

Doctor Mott learned upon his arrival here that the United States had recognized the republic of China and that this was the first of the big powers to do so.

"The best thing that America ever did," is the way he expressed his opinion of the step. "The big history of the world is going to be made from now on in the far east, and China's friendship will yet prove of even greater value to America than America's recognition will be to the Chinese republic.

"All over the far east," he continued, "I fine a strong feeling of respect for the United States and it would be well for us to appreciate our responsibility toward the orient."

The man who twice refused one of the biggest jobs in the gift of the United States Government is one of the busiest men in the world, which is his work-shop. He started his career by annexing a Ph. B. from Cornell University, an A. M. from Yale and an LL. D. from Princeton and Edinburgh.

Here are a few of the jobs he now holds down: He is chairman of the continuation committee of the world's missionary conference, general secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation and senior secretary of the foreign department of the international committee of Young Men's Christian Associations. He has found time to write half a dozen books and he looks as if he didn't have a care on his mind. He thinks President Wilson is the greatest American.

ALLEGED MURDERER WAS AN INSANE MAN

Weigand, Accused of Killing Mrs. Shrimpton, Was Once in Mad House.

Elizabeth, May 20.—As a result of the discovery yesterday that George Louis Weigand, who is in the county jail on a charge of murdering Mrs. Louisa Nelson-Shrimpton by shooting her in the head at her home, 13½ Washington avenue, last Thursday night, was an inmate of the State Hospital for the Insane at Morris Plains for nearly a year, it is believed that he will never be convicted of first degree murder, for which the present Grand Jury may be asked to indict him.

Weigand was committed to the asylum on December 26, 1905, following an investigation of his case by the Rev. Dr. Henry Hale Sleeper, rector of Grace Episcopal church, this city, who has since had his name changed to Henry Hale Gifford. He was discharged from the institution in October, 1906. Dr. Gifford became interested in the case because Weigand's wife, who has since divorced him, was a member of his church.

The murdered woman's funeral was held yesterday afternoon from a local undertaking parlor. The arrangements were looked after by her son, Edwin Nelson, of Albany, N. Y., and her daughter, Mrs. Blanche Dean, of Hunterdon street, Newark.

JOE TUMULTY MAY FACE PRESIDENT'S MENACERS

Newark, May 20.—Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, may be called as a witness in the trial of Jacob Dunn and Seeley Davenport, wood choppers, charged with sending threatening letters to President Wilson. The trial opened here yesterday with United States Attorney John B. Vreeland in charge of the case.

It is charged that Dunn and Seeley sent letters to Wilson soon after the election, demanding that he leave $5,000 in gold for them in a deserted cabin in the mountains. The letters did not reach the then President-elect, but were opened by Tumulty.

NO REAL STYLISH WOMEN HERE, SAYS PRIMA DONNA

Miss Caroline White, who, when not singing in the Chicago opera company, is Mrs. Paolo Longone, started for Paris not long ago on board the France, of the French line, "glad to be going to a land where women know how to dress," she explained as she was leaving. Miss White was so garbed that she might well delve deep into the subject of feminine raiment without running the risk of having any of her remarks reflect.

"American women dress disgustingly," she said. "They have no sense of time, it would seem, for one sees morning gowns at half-past four in the afternoon and evening dresses for garden parties. I have seen," Miss White emphasized the location of this sight as Chicago, "women wearing evening gowns for luncheon, and such evening gowns as they do wear, out there." In Chicago, remember.

It was morning when Miss White made these remarks, and she was delightfully clad in a plain blue tailored suit set off a bit at the neck by a white and very filmy collar piece. And her hat! "Just a mere hat," she exclaimed indiferently, but that hardly covered the creation, demure though it was.

AGITATORS TO SPEAK.

Elizabeth, May 20.—"Big Bill" Haywood, Miss Elizabeth Gurley Flynn and Patrick Quinlan, the I. W. W. leaders who have been conducting the Paterson strike, will be the speakers at a mass meeting to be held under the auspices of the Socialist party in Turn Hall, this city, tomorrow night.

E. H. Putnam, of Woodland avenue, has been called to Rochester, N. Y., where his mother is dangerously ill.

HUGE MASS MEETINGS TO PROTEST STRIKE LEADERS' INDICTMENT

I.W.W. LEADERS ADDRESSING PATERSON STRIKERS

The keynote to a widespread extension of the silk strike by calling out transportation and electric employes and thereby "plunge the city of Paterson in darkness and force the residents to work" was sounded at a mass meeting of 5,000 strikers held in Paterson, N. J., recently.

The threat was made by Adolph Lessig, local organizer for the Industrial Workers of the World, and himself awaiting trial on an indictment charging him with unlawful assemblage. Despite the presence of a score of policemen and detectives, Lessig's speech was described as a command to the strikers to do all in their power to harass the electric and transportation companies in retaliation for the conviction of Patrick Quinlan, the first of the five leaders to be placed on trial, who faces a prison sentence of from three to five years and $2,000 fine for inciting riot

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. REWZILLIA RANDALL

The funeral of the late Mrs. Rewzillia Randall, wife of Thomas Randall, formerly of Plainfield, took place on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at her home, No. 164 Crescent avenue, Glendon Heights. The services were conducted by Rev. E. R. Tilton, pastor of the First Baptist church, Phillipsburg. A quartet consisting of Miss Edna Stewart, Miss B. Viola Harrison, John F. Brader and Forrest Bisbing, sang several hymns. Interment was made in the South Easton cemetery. The pall-bearers, who were chosen by deceased before she passed away, were her brother-in-law, D. J. Randall, L. S. Brick, T. R. L. Jones and H. D. Randall. Friends were present from Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Nanticoke, Phillipsburg, Broadway, Washington, Springtown, High Bridge, Plainfield, Passaic and Garfield. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful.

PROGRESSIVES TO HEAR THEODORE ROOSEVELT

New York, May 20.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Gifford Pinchot and Jane Addams will be among the leading Progressives in the two-day National Progressive Conference to be held July 7 and 8 in Newport, R. I.

Plans for the conference have been completed after several weeks' work, and Dr. Paxton Hibben, director of the Bureau of Education of the Progressive National Service, who arranged the program said the conference will be one of the most important held by the Progressives since the national convention.

TO LAY CORNERSTONE.

The cornerstone for the new parish of St. James' Episcopal church at Piscataway-town will be laid next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services will be in charge of the rector, Rev. Dr. William H. Neilson, of Plainfield, and immediately following the service a meeting of the vestry will be held. This parish house is being built with money from the bequest of $66,000 made to the church by the late Miss Helen Cotheal. The church gets the interest therefrom for ten years and at the end of that period the principal.

To Have the Confidence of Every Man & Woman Who Lives in This Vicinity

That is the goal of our ambitions—to have everyone feel that whatever monies you spend in this store—ARE WELL SPENT, and that you get in return the fullest values possible. We knew that we could not gain that confidence from you when we first commenced business here unless we dealt with you in an honest, straightforward way and that is what we have done and will do—just as long as this house exists.

Dealing with the public in this honest, straightforward, truthful way has been the store policy by which our earlier enterprises at Selma and since in New Brunswick have been made so successful, and our business here is steadily going ahead and will continue to do so, because we feel certain that those same methods which have won success elsewhere could not fail to do so here. Our latest enterprise in Elmira, N. Y., is another example of the policy of the "Tepper" Stores, as we are having results there far beyond our greatest hopes.

And here in Plainfield we will always strive for your unbounded confidence in the only way possible—by dealing with you in an honest manner, giving you absolute value on every purchase, giving you the best service possible, courteous treatment, and one price to all; and in all other little details that crop up in the management of a public institution, because we want you all to have sufficient and merited confidence in us that will prompt you to say

HUMILIATION OF CHINA LAID TO PEOPLE'S LACK OF LOYALTY

Writer Asserts Orientals Have Not Proper Spirit of Nationalism.

Population of 400,000,000 Contrasted as Helpless Against Japan.

An interesting review of political and social conditions in China is given in a letter published by the Chicago Tribune. The writer attributes China's humiliating position among the nations to the lack of loyalty and active patriotism on the part of her people.

The review in part is as follows:

To any one considering the situation in the far east the contrast between the position of Japan and that of China must appear startling.

Japan, a nation of 50,000,000 people, occupying territory about the size of the state of Montana and possessing no great resources, is a great power, to which the other great powers send ambassadors. Japan is sought as an ally, and its desires are most carefully considered.

China is a nation of over 400,000,000, occupying a territory a third greater than that of the United States and, rich in resources, is politically a minor power and as such has ministers accredited to it by the great powers. It is not desired as an ally by anybody. Far from its wishes being considered, it is at present in grave danger of losing considerable of its territory if not of being entirely divided.

Japan Adds to Territory.

Japan, far from being threatened with the alienation of any of its original territory, has added Formosa, the Pescadores, Korea, half of Sakhalin and practically lower Manchuria, including the Taiotung peninsula. In addition, it is accused, and not without justice, of having its eye on inner Mongolia and Fukien, to say nothing of American possessions in and around the Pacific ocean.

China finds itself face to face with Russia and Japan, which, allied since Mr. Knox's disastrous attempt to neutralize the Manchurian railways, have practically swallowed Manchuria and are now turning their attention to Mongolia.

To make matters worse, the news has just leaked out of a recently signed treaty between Great Britain and Russia by which they recognize Russian and British suzerainty in outer Mongolia and Tibet respectively and by which they promise each other mutual assistance should China or any other power endeavor to prevent them from developing these two provinces for their own interests.

Japs Brook No Interference.

No nations attempt to interfere with the internal affairs of Japan.

All nations are constantly interfering with the internal affairs of China. Even its attempts to suppress the national vice of opium smoking are being seriously hindered by Great Britain's desire to prevent financial loss to bankers and merchants who are engaged in this trade.

Interference with Japanese subjects residing abroad brings a threat of war which is heeded by the nation concerned. The San Francisco school incident is a good example.

Chinese are excluded from this country and frequently badly treated. Mexico has murdered numbers of them. In the Dutch East Indies they have been badly abused. None of these conditions has been remedied from the Chinaman's point of view.

Why must China suffer all this, not only at the hands of the white powers, but also at those of Japan, which but a short half century ago was itself being humiliated?

Has Resources and People.

It has great resources. It has 400,000,000 of people. They are intelligent. They have unsurpassed endurance. They are physically larger and stronger than the Japanese. They have a long military history and have in the past shown themselves to be excellent soldiers.

The answer is to be found in the fact that in Japan the military spirit, having been kept alive and the soldiers remaining on top having been able to inculcate the whole nation with the military virtues of loyalty, discipline and sense of duty, when they realized the necessity for adopting western methods they had only to get western arms and learn to use them.

In China the military spirit has gradually died out. The ruling classes lost it first. The soldier dropped steadily down the scale until finally he was at the bottom of it. To such an extent was this carried that for all practical purposes the warrior class had ceased to exist. To be a soldier was a thing of reproach.

Code of Chivalry Unknown.

Such a thing as a code of chivalry, similar to the bushido of Japan, was unknown. The dominant idea was not that when evils were inflicted on the nation they were to be resisted and every effort made to overcome them, but that they were to be expected and must be borne or, at the most, resisted passively.

Thus it was that humiliation after humiliation taught the Chinese nothing. They hated the foreigner and wanted to get rid of him. Periodic and useless outbreaks against missionaries and efforts such as that made by the Boxers occurred.

From time to time men in high positions saw the necessity for adopting European methods. They, however, apparently saw no further than the need for foreign arms and training.

They did not understand that back of these and more important was the military spirit. This lack of understanding, coupled too often with the presence among the troops of dishonest officers, led to such fiascoes both on land and sea as those of the Chino-Japanese war.

Planned Reorganization of Army.

In 1905 a very comprehensive modern scheme was drawn up for the organization of the army. The condition of the soldier was bettered to such an extent that he soon stood far higher in the social scale than he had for some centuries.

By the time the revolution broke out the imperial troops in the north amounted to more than 200,000 men with nearly 900 guns. Their training was good, but the revolution showed the proper spirit to be lacking. The very best of the troops mutinied, not because of sympathy with the revolution, but because of the chance to loot.

The Young China party, which was responsible for the revolution, chafes under the humiliations inflicted on China and even calls for war to prevent their continuation. The leaders know, however, that in spite of its numbers, of its size and of its resources China is helpless. The necessary spirit of nationality and military virtue have been lacking.

National Spirit Lacking.

The population always has been united in theocratic beliefs, in love of family life and family system, in its ethics, customs, precedents, symbols and dress. In spite of this, religionalism has prevailed to such an extent that it virtually has excluded all spirit of nationalism.

The revolution has apparently awakened both the military spirit and the spirit of nationality. The peace loving Chinese are commencing to realize that national integrity and sovereignty rest on military force.

What they have not realized is that the qualities requisite for military success cannot be put aside and donned again like a garment; that these qualities are the results of generations of patient, careful and persistent educational effort; that as time goes on war demands a higher and higher training and moral standard on the part of those who engage in it.

KAISER WILHELM MAKES AMENDS TO HIS TENANT.

Confers Order on and Gives Money to Man He Assailed.

Herr Sohst, the tenant farmer on the kaiser's estate at Cadinen, Germany, whom, his majesty publicly said, he had been compelled to throw out as "worthless and incompetent," has received the "amende honorable" from the emperor.

It is officially announced that the kaiser has bestowed the Prussian Order of the Crown of the Fourth Class on Herr Sohst on the conclusion of negotiations which have ended a five years' dispute between them. In addition the kaiser has agreed to pay to Sohst an indemnity of $30,000. In the notice to quit which Sohst refused to accept last December the emperor offered only $2,000.

Sohst, who by the verdict on Feb. 28 in the third suit that he won against the emperor became entitled to remain another five years on the kaiser's estate, has now surrendered his rights and given up his lease.

A FILIPINO DELEGATE BECOMES AN IRISHMAN.

Tammany Hall Chief Makes "Casey" Out of Manuel Quezon.

From the faroff Philippines comes word of a mistake which has made Tammany Hall famous there. Manuel Quezon, the Philippine delegate to the United States, was asked on his last return to the islands how he had been received in this country. Mr. Quezon, who pronounces his name "Ka-zon," said he had been welcome with the utmost hospitality.

"I went to New York," said Mr. Quezon, "and was there introduced to Mr Charles Murphy, the grand sachem of Tammany Hall. Mr. Murphy made a slight mistake in my name and thought it was Casey. He immediately invited me to accept honorary membership in Tammany Hall, as he said my forbears must have come from the auld sod. By the time I return to the United States I expect to find that I am a member of Tammany Hall—a brave, I believe they call it."

HOME

The average man spends half his life at Home. That takes into account the nights at the club, at lodge, at the theatre, or sitting up with a sick friend. It also takes into account the fellow who sees home often enough only to establish a voting residence. He is balanced off in averaging up by the man who spends a good deal more than half his life at Home. The Newark Sunday Call has figured this all out and says that the statement that more than half of life is spent at Home cannot be disputed. If there is any doubt about it, keep a time schedule for a week or so. The Average Women? Bless you, three-quarters of her life is spent at Home! And that includes the working woman, too, the real NEW WOMAN.

Home shapes up as a pretty big proposition, considering all that. The world realizes it, too, for most of the world's efforts go toward providing homes. Right down at the bottom of things, you come up against that great big reason for it all—"Home."

There was a poet who said that Home was not merely four square walls. That was the absolute truth. Home is what you make it, whether you call it palace, villa, flat, cottage or hut. Some people can make a hall bedroom more homey than others can with a $500,000 marble mansion. It is wholly up to the individual. But as half a life time is to be spent at Home, it is worth trying to make it a success. A real homey Home is life's biggest success.

The poet's four square walls idea, however, should not be taken wholly at its face value. Most truths should not. There is always that little exception to the rule lurking in the background. Accept the truth, but also dig out that little exception and digest its meaning. Then you will get the full value out of the truth. Four square walls do not make a Home. But they help. The better those same walls are the better chance of making a successful Home. Be careful in choosing a setting for the jewel—the home jewel. Remember that you must use that setting half your life. Pick some thing that will wear. See that it is good. That means be careful in choosing your abode. Whether it be a house, a flat or a room, choose it carefully. Whether you buy or rent, remember you are selecting a setting for the biggest thing in life—Home.

The Plainfield Daily Press

thinks a lot about Home. That is natural, for Homes form its destination when it leaves the presses ready for distribution among its thousands of readers. The Daily Press likes to take part in home making and it does all it can to further that end in what it prints. It can aid you in selecting your setting for your Home—the dwelling, whatever form it may take.

The owner of a house who wishes to sell or rent the house goes to an agent—if he be wise and wants results. The agent gives publicity to the owner's desire, attends to the troublesome incidental business, and accomplishes the desired results.

The agent has the assistance of another agent—a very powerful agent for this sort of work. This other agent is the RELIABLE NEWSPAPER, the newspaper that reaches the kind of people the owner would want to sell or rent to. The DAILY PRESS is such an agent. It reaches this desirable clientage and is used by responsible agents. Look at the names of the agents who advertise real estate for sale or to let and note the high character of these advertisers. their agent because it reaches the kind of people They, in turn, have chosen the DAILY PRESS as they want for clients.

Choose your home setting carefully. Study the For Sale and To Let advertisements in the DAILY PRESS. Make notes of what appeals to you, write to the agent or the owner, and inspect the property. You are dealing with established business concerns who can aid you in this big work of Home-Making. They, the agents, are seeking your patronage because you are the kind they want dealings with—the kind who can be reached through the DAILY PRESS.

BAN ON IMMODESTY.

Probably Pittsburg, Penn., is about the last place from which we might expect moral reform, but, nevertheless, a widely published dispatch from the Smoky City relates that Father Pitt is disgusted with women's fashions and that a legal standard of modesty in dress may be fixed. A resolution, about to be introduced in the governing body by a councilman provides for a commission of three to confer with modistes and agree upon regulations in the style and fit of women's gowns. The measure in question to be introduced tonight is this:

"Resolved, That the fashions in feminine wear in vogue today are subversive of the highest ideals of womanhood because of the immodesty in the public display of the figure. The styles of skirts known as the tight-draped skirt, revealing every curve, the pantaloon skirt little better than tights; the slashed skirt, showing the limbs and lingerie, all freely displayed upon public thoroughfares tend to lower the public morality.

"These fashions imported from Paris, devised by the women of the underworld to attract, induce criminal tendencies in the mnids of the lawless, decrease the respect for womanhood in the minds of all and materially affect the young of both sexes, obliterating the lessons of manliness and womanliness taught in the home, and are material aids to the ever-increasing and menacing social evil.

"Resolved, That the council of the city of Pittsburg appoint a committee of three of its members to confer with modistes engaged in the manufacture of feminine dress to devise a standard of modesty in woman's outer apparel, and to specify and prohibit by ordinance such styles and models of gowns as shall be deemed improper for wear upon the streets and in public places."

This, no doubt, may be considered freak legislation, but surely it is not so freakish as the evil it attempts to suppress.

Just what difference there is in the methods pursued by the I. W. W. of America, and the militant suffragists of England is possibly debatable though to those who believe in law and order or in other words the protection of life, limb and property there is much similiarity. How any American suffragist can excuse, much less justify, the criminal acts of the militants can not be fathomed by many who sincerely believe in "Votes for Women." But the "cause" in England should not be judged by the 100 or more militants led by the Pankhurst woman for in that country there are some 300,000 women belonging to the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies who are unalterably opposed to the militant tactics.

It was a case of the office seeking the man and not the man the office, so far as John R. Mott is concerned, and although he says he "regards the Chinese post as the most important in the diplomatic service" this great Christian soldier has sacrificed any personal ambitions by declining the honor. Dr. Mott belongs to the class of really great men of the age. The fact that Yale has conferred on him an A. M., and Princeton and Edinburgh an LL.D., is but one of the many evidences of the high estimate placed on him by his fellow men.

"If Napolean had not been sent to the Island of St. Helena to die, I believe he would have come to Kansas City to live," says William L. Webb, a historical writer. The Kansas man should brush up a bit; when he learned of plans being made for his escape from Helena, Napoleon said that he would rather be a captive monarch on that forlorn island than be a private citizen in the United States.

The passing of Harper's Weekly from Col. Harvey to Norman Hapgood presages a restoration to its former high standard of merit and popularity. Time was when Harper's was the leading weekly illustrated publication of its type, but in recent years it has fallen to the "and others" class.

One newspaper refers to the late William W. St. John as "the newspaperman who put James E. Martine in the United States Senate." That is no exaggeration. "Saint" also put some politicians out of business.

COLBY IS OFF OF THE STATE COMMITTEE

Everett Colby has resigned as a member of the Progressive State committee. He was a member of the executive committee of that body. The resignation is regarded as a sequel to the recent revelation of sharp differences among the Progressive leaders. It is looked upon as Mr. Colby's answer to the criticisms heaped upon him by Edmund B. Osborne, chairman of the executive committee of the State committee, and by James G. Blauvelt, of Passaic, another Progressive leader, upon the publication of a story that Mr. Colby favored union between the Republicans and Progressives.

No amount of questioning could draw from Mr. Colby any further information than that he had resigned, but that he was still a militant Progressive.

A meetinig of the Progressive State committee to take up questions pertaining to the coming campaign has been in contemplation for some time. The resignation of Mr. Colby will be considered at the next session.

Numerous Progressives of the rank and file who are giving considerable time to organization work for the party have recently expressed themselves as disgusted with the bickerings among the Progressive leaders. They see nothing in it but a jockeying for position in the Gubernatorial race and a desire to satisfy personal ambitions.

Mr. Colby has expressed his disinclination to be a candidate for Governor, but apparently has not been taken at his word by other Progressive chieftains. It is known that while he has tried to make it clear that he is not a candidate, Progressives from all over the State have been urging the wisdom of insisting that he be the standard-bearer.

PHILADELPHIA'S MAYOR GOING BACK TO SCHOOL.

He and Members of His Cabinet to Study Political Economy.

Rudolph Blankenburg, the reform mayor of Philadelphia, and the members of his cabinet have decided to go back to school to take a course in political economy, so that they may be more competent to administer the affairs of the city.

The mayor and at least two members of his cabinet have arranged to attend a course of lectures at the University of Wisconsin. The course, which is short and theoretical, is designed to solve the problems that confront modern municipalities. When the mayor and his directors return they expect to be able to ride roughshod over some of the municipal quagmires which have all but engulfed them to date.

The student expedition is scheduled to leave Philadelphia on May 20, arriving at the University of Wisconsin the afternoon of May 21. Following a reception that night tendered to the visitors by Governor McGovern of Wisconsin, the mayor, his directors and the members of the City club will forget for the time being that they are executives and business men from the third largest city on this side of the Atlantic and for three days will live the lives of college students.

The special lecture program arranged to assist Mayor Blankenburg and his directors to run Philadelphia is a very comprehensive one. It has been arranged by the University of Wisconsin faculty and takes in every phase of municipal existence, even telling what shall be done with the waste or unoccupied lands in a city, to say nothing of the broad subject of taxation.

BIG RENO DIVORCE CROWD.

More Than 700 In Throng, Which Grows Larger Daily.

Never has Reno, Nev., witnessed such a crowd of women and men seeking divorce, particularly the former, in its hotels, apartment houses and cottages, walking its streets and flocking to its places of entertainment, cafes and resorts.

Fully 700 of such temporary residents are there for no other purpose than asking for a legal separation from their husbands or wives. They are spending an enforced seven to nine months in any manner which will most pleasantly "kill time" until they are maritally freed.

Unquestionably the final rush for a Nevada decree is in full swing. The three leading hotels, which have been housing many of these so called residents, are literally swamped. Every train from the east adds to the throng, who manage to find quarters somewhere.

Mrs. McBride was Angell's grandmother and before death gave the heirloom to him to be perpetuated in the family. Mr. Angell will plant several grains of the ear this summer to ascertain if the vitality is still in the corn after the thirty-two year drying process.

RESOLUTIONS OR CONDOLENCE.

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, held on May 19, 1913, the following preamble and resolution presented by Dr. Leonard Waldo, were unanimously adopted:

TO WILLIAM HENRY LARRABEE, lawyer, farmer, linguist, teacher, editor of religious and secular newspapers, conductor of Popular Science Monthly and of Encyclopedias of note, essayist and author of books in natural science and mediaeval and eastern history, this Library Board and our city of which it is the creature does now and our combined successors will hereafter own the debt for gracious and illuminating services rendered in the high cause of the culture and enlightenment of this community.

Fifteen years after the founding of our library, Mr. Larrabee was appointed in July, 1894, a director to fill the unexpired term of that distinguished President of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and President and benefactor of our board, Mr. George H. Babcock, whose death had occurred the preceding December. He began his work as a committee of one to prepare a list of books suitable to be purchased for the Babcock Scientific Library, and therein to act in consultation with the library committee. Two years later, in July, 1896, he became a member of this committee, so continuing till his death, and thus for the period of nineteen years the library has had his unremitting service. The choice of books in History and good biography, which is history from the personal standpoint, is relatively not difficult, but the separation of the chaff from the grain in books, which assume to describe great trends of thought or to point out the ways of life or to accurately record the results of science, calls for wideness of knowledge and soundness of literary judgment. These qualities Mr. Larrabee possessed to a remarkable degree. He had lived through the entire epoch of the birth of modern science, and his journal, the Popular Science Monthly, was a mouthpiece of the Huxley-Darwin anti-dogma forces. He had an intimate contact as editor and intelligent commentator on the life of a great sectarian church. Always a thinker, these trainings showed their result in the catholicity of the books chosen for our library, where the constant rule of additions has been that every phase of sincere human thought or experience should be found on the library shelves in the works of its leading exponents. So whether in the advocacy of the purchase of the splendid sets of the transactions of the learned and technical societies, or the encouragement of the special collections in law, medicine or music or art, or the literature of the great though widely different religious movements of the world, which make valuable our shelves, it is to Mr. Larrabee, as a helpful guide, that our gratitude goes forth. More than others, he has enabled us to write over our library the inscription over the portals of the Royal Library in Berlin "Nutrimentum Spiritus"—Food for the Soul.

It is with the emotion of the intellectual brotherhood that we see him, the last year of his life leading the procession of alumni as his western university's oldest graduate, and unattended, with his pilgrim's staff to support his failing steps, but with his inner vision clear to the words of that poet whom he loved

"And to the faithful, Death the gate of life."

Therefore, be it Resolved, That the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library record their deep sorrow at the death of their colleague, WILLIAM HENRY LARRABEE, after an intimate association for nineteen years, during which his great intellectual ability, the keenness and accuracy of his mental processes and his almost certain estimate of the value of books, both from the point of accuracy of statement and as literature, together with his untiring industry in our library upbuilding and the confidence and affection inspired by the sincerity, simple-mindedness and nobility of his character, have largely contributed to the service rendered by this Library to our city and State.

Resolved, That the sympathy of this Board be extended to his family in their bereavement.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to his family and to the Board of Trustees of DePauw University, of which he was so distinguished an alumnus.

MUST PAY DEBTS.

Members of the Credit Men's Business Association of this city, meeting last night in their headquarters in the Frost Building, decided to adopt a more stringent collecting system, plans for which will be made in time for presentation at the next meeting. The various committees reported progress in the matter of compelling dilatory debtors to pay and the membership board submitted a statement giving a list of business firms who have recently joined the association.

TWO EX-CONVICTS ADMIT GUILT IN FORGERY CASE

Somerville, May 20.—After having been identified as former convicts, John Wythe and John P. Fitzgerald pleaded guilty in the Somerset Court yesterday on a charge of forgery. Wythe forged the name of his former employer, Charles A. Moran, to a $30 check which he passed on Benajmin Amster & Bro., grocers, of Bernardsville. Fitzgerald was his accomplice in the transaction. The pair will be sentenced next Friday.

Wythe, who is said to be a former resident of Newark, served a term in the State prison for robbery, and Fitzgerald, who is a resident of Morristown, served time in the same institution for arson.

Wythe, after his release, married a respectable young woman. He told her that he had just returned from a three years' visit to France. His wife in order to be near him in his trouble is working as a servant here and visits him in jail every day. She is said to be still ignorant of her husband's past history.

Since his arrest Wythe has appealed to several Christian Science organizations for assistance and has been visited in jail by women identified with these organizations. His plea is that he is a marked man because of his past record and could not obtain honest employment.

ECONOMY COMMISSION AGAIN TO QUIZ HEALTH OFFICIALS

Trenton, May 20.—Affairs of the State Board of Health, particularly those involving its relations with coordinate departments of the State or local governments, will be further probed by the Economy and Efficiency Commission at a hearing to be given Thursday. The commission also expects to receive at that time some further testimony bearing upon the practice of the board in holding only secret sessions, from which the public and representatives of the press have been habitually barred.

The economy commission has invited to be present at the next session representatives of the Commission on Tuberculosis in Animals, the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission, the Forest Park Reservation Commission, the State Water Supply Commission and the State Board of Agriculture.

A plan which the economy commission now has under consideration contemplates a readjustment of the health laws under which the burdens of inspections shall be placed upon municipalities rather than assumed by the State. This plan, unless carried out under a strict State supervision, is rather at variance with the scheme adopted when the health board was reorganized. At that time it was generally conceded that municipalities, whether through their local Boards of Health or other agencies, do not exercise adequate supervision over local interest.

ADVENTISTS TO RAISE LARGE SUM FOR WORK

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Resolutions, which if adopted, would involve a change in the organization of the general conference and which also involved the raising of $10.40 per year for each member of the denomination, in addition to the tithe, were presented yesterday to the world's conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, which is in session at Takoma Park.

The resolution affecting the organization resulted in the presentation of a memorial by the European members of the general conference committee. On motion of Elder W. J. Fitzgerald, of London, England, president of the British Union Conference, the memorial and recommendations were referred to a special committee.

There was also submitted to the conference a recommendation of the general conference executive committee passed at their council meeting in California last January, urging that each member of the denominational pay twenty cents a week into a fund, seventy-five per cent. of which was to be used exclusively for foreign mission work and twenty-five per cent. for the operation and increased efficiency of the enormous institutional work carried on by the denomination.

EX-CLERGYMAN'S MARRIAGE MAY BE ANNULLED JUNE 16

Trenton, May 20.—The efforts of the Court of Chancery to ascertain the whereabouts of Alphonso Malvin Consolazio, the former Roman Catholic priest, have been unavailing, and unless he puts in an appearance by June 16 a decree of divorce will be entered in favor of his young wife, who was Miss Katherine Frances Johann, of this city. Affidavit just filed with the court shows that the former priest cannot be located, although he is supposed to be in a monastery somewhere in Italy.

The couple were married in Atlantic City in May, 1910, after a courtship of three weeks, and while Consolazio was a curate at a church near Princeton. After seven weeks of married life Consolazio disappeared. The wedding caused a sensation and resulted in the priest' excommunication.

The Care of Summer Bedding.

In winter time warmth is the most essential quality of bedding; in summer it is freshness. On warm nights no bed that is not smooth, fresh and free from fussiness is attractive, but a cot covered with spotless sheets big enough to tuck in securely on all sides, with a small white pillow at the top, is attractive because of its simplicity.

Blankets.

The problem of keeping blankets fresh in summer can be easily mastered if thin cotton blankets are used, for these can be sent to the laundry regularly, dried carefully, hung double over the line, and used unironed. If woolen blankets are used strips of muslin, featherstitched in pink or blue or yellow to match the stripes in the end of the blanket, can be tacked to the end of the blanket which is put at the top of the bed and these strips can be laundered often enough to keep them spotless.

The same system of keeping comforters clean where they receive the most handling and sometimes come into contact with the face—at the head of the bed—can be employed. The strip used to protect the comforter, however, is less conspicious if it is of material of which the comforter is made. A strip six inches wide acts as sufficient protection and can be ripped off and laundered very easily.

Sheets and Pillow Cases.

If you are making new sheets, try turning a hem of the same width at both top and bottom. This makes it possible to use one end at the top of the bed one week and the other end the other week and so distributes strain and wear evenly over the sheet. Of course, care should be taken to keep the same end at the head of the bed for the whole week or whatever span of time marks the interval between fresh sheets, and this sometimes proves rather troublesome when the wide hem does not indicate the head of the bed. But if an initial is worked in one end of the sheet it is easy to remember that this week, for instance initialed ends are at the top of all the beds and next week initialed ends will be at the foot.

It is a good idea always to put the sheets from the laundry at the bottom of the pile in the linen closet; the ones on the top will naturally be used first and those on the bottom will eventually work their way to the top. This arrangement makes it possible to give the sheets equal wear without trouble.

Spreads.

Summer bedspreads should be made of some material easily washed. Really nothing is pretteir than the inexpensive dimity or madras spreads which are sold at small price, and which show a plain and then a crinkled stripe. Some of these are made with colored borders printed on, and these, as well as the plain white ones, wash well.

Swiss bedspreads are also dainty and easily laundered and are inexpensive and easy to make, as well. They wear for a long time, in spite of their flimy appearance, and when they are worn in places, they can be cut up and stitched on the machine into curtains for the kitchen and cellar windows.

Some Cookery Suggestions

IN STRAWBERRY TIME.

FORTUNATELY early strawberries are in the market. While the early berries may not be so sweet and luscious as those that come later, they may be cooked to form many delicious desserts.

Luscious Fare.

Strawberry Salad.—Take berries not too ripe, chill and serve on crisp lettuce leaves well sprinkled with finely chopped mixed nuts. Cover the whole with cut celery until only glimpses of the red berries can be seen. Garnish the top with rings of green peppers and serve with French dressing.

Strawberry Cream.—Take a quart of strawberries and mash with one cup powdered sugar. Rub through a hair sieve. Dissolve one and one-half ounces gelatin in one pint sweet milk. Strain and add one pint whipped cream and the berry juice. Pour in a wet mold and set on ice to form. Another way to make the cream is as follows: Take one quart strawberries rubbed through a hair sieve, mix with three pints rich cream and sweeten. Whip to a froth, add one-half ounce dissolved gelatin. Serve in sherbet glasses.

A Fruit Custard.

Strawberry Custard. — Take fresh strawberries, pick and hull them. Then line a dish with the fruit and fill the center with a custard made by scalding in a double boiler one pint of sweet milk. Pour over the beaten yolks of two eggs and half a cupful of sugar. Cook in the double boiler, stirring until it thickens. Flavor with vanilla and when cool pour in the center of the bowl of berries. Whip the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth with two tablespoonfuls of sugar and heap over the top of the custard.

A Simple Shortcake.

Strawberry Shortcake. — Take two cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, one cupful of milk and one-quarter cupful of butter. Sift together the dry ingredients. Work in the butter with the fingers. Then add it on to a floured board and roll out [illegible] ing as little as possible. Bake in [illegible] round layer cake pan in a hot oven. When done split with a hot knife and spread with soft butter. Sweeten the berries and crush them slightly. Then place them on the back of the range to become slightly warmed. Put them between and on top of the cake. Serve at once with plain or whipped cream.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Biddy Tried to Take Mollie's Kittens.

The Hen Took Charge of the Kittens.

JACK and Evelyn were ready for bed—that is, they would be ready as soon as daddy had finished his story.

"And the story is to be about Mollie," daddy began, "lovely Mollie, the pussy cat pet of a family that lives on Long Island.

"The nice white house in which the family lives stands in a big green yard, and back of that is the barn and stable in a yard all by themselves.

"In the barn are a cow and chickens and other interesting creatures. The horses live in the stables, and the dogs have cozy houses of their own. Yes, it is a very nice home.

"And Mollie lives all over the place. She is such a nice cat that even the cook doesn't mind letting her stay in the kitchen when she has to go out. Mollie never takes food unless it is given to her.

"Mollie is such a fine mouse catcher that the cook is very fond of her and feeds her so much that Mollie is never hungry, so of course she has no reason to steal, as half fed cats nearly always will do.

"But because of the many mice that live there Mollie likes the barn better than any other building about the place. She takes naps in the hay mow and in the hay filled boxes in which the hens lay their eggs.

"There is one box in a dark corner near her favorite mouse hole that Mollie particularly likes. The box belongs to old Mrs. Biddy, and when one day the hen came back from a scratching trip to the barnyard and found four nice kittens there Mrs. Biddy's motherly old heart was filled with joy.

"'Well,' said she, 'it was very kind of Mollie to leave these little dears for me.'

"Mrs. Biddy knew how little chicks should be cared for. She had had enough families of her own to know. So she fluttered into the box and cuddled the kittens under her wings. Nice and warm as this feathered mother was, the kittens wanted their own furry one, and they soon began to meow.

"Mollie on her way back from the house heard them and hurried. When she peeped into the box and saw that Mrs. Biddy was mothering her very own kittens Mollie was mad right through. With an angry yowl she lifted her paw and slapped Mrs. Biddy over the head. Mrs. Biddy was angry then, and she pecked crossly at Mollie. The two had a grand fight, and Mollie got the worst of it. She had to go to the house and by her cries get her mistress to follow her to the barn. Everybody laughed at the cat and the hen, who wanted to kidnap the kittens, but, of course, the pussy was given her young ones. They were put in a box in the stable, and Mollie was so careful that whenever a hen poked its beak into the stable she chased it away."

WASH DRESS.

It Has a Gracefully Cut Tunic Drapery.

NEW EPONGE GOWN.

Tunics are used in a great many wash dresses, in both heavy and light-weight materials. They are becoming to most people and give an opportunity for originality in design and trimming. With the tunic it is possible also to have a frock which seems to be rather elaborate, yet can be done up by the average laundress.

The dress seen in the cut is of tan eponge combined with plain linen. The only trimming used is large white pearl buttons. The chiceness of the costume is attained in the very unusual way in which the two materials are combined.

Care of Face Chamois.

When washing your powder chamois do not rinse out all the soap or it will dry hard and harsh. Use a good soft soap and do not wring it out in clear water. This will bring forward the natural oils in the leather, and it will be soft and pliable as new.

ATTRACTIVE NEW FLOWER HATS FOR YOUNG AND PRETTY MAIDS

DAINTY FLOWER HATS.

EXPRESSIVE of the spirit of summer are the lovely floral hats shown here. One shows the use of the bandeau in tilting the hat well over the face, a feature of many new and fashionable hats. Fine straw was the material of this small round chapeau, which was trimmed with a wreath of roses, a novel propeller ornament of flowers and long streamers of velvet ribbon. The other hat of lace and chiffon is just the thing to don with a smart lingerie gown. It would make a very effective bridesmaid' hat or is suitable for commencement wear. The novel touch in this case is the use of nosegays of flowers, roses and heliotrope to trim the crown.

FASHION'S FRILLS.

Filipino hand embroidery is in favor for fine blouses.

Moire makes a delightful facing for wool eponge wraps.

Hip sashes in self materials are worn with the tennis skirt.

Sand colored linen eponge will be much seen for day frocks.

Plenty of lingerie waists with high collars are being worn.

Picot edged white tulle plaitings appear even on tailored suits.

The colored sash draped round the hips is popular with a great many summer gowns.

For dressy tailored costumes white moire and faille silk are the most fashionable.

Draped coats for afternoon and evening are one great feature of the season's openings.

Spring evening wraps are of heavy charmeuse draped and lined with the same material. Edges of natural colored marabou make a delightful finish.

NEW PILLOWS.

Pretty Designs Suitable For Library or Living Room.

The square pillow no longer enjoys its former popularity, the oblong pillow having usurped its reign.

Lovely designs are displayed, stamped on linen grounds of heavy crash, poncee or burlap. Berries are always effective decorations for the library pillow, so a pillow embroidered with this design should be provided for this room. Using several shades of green silk, work the leaves solid and pad the berries heavily with darning cotton, covering this with silk of a bright scarlet. If preferred red wooden beads may be purchased at the needlework shops, and these can be sewed to the pillow, forming the berries. Pad the stem lengthwise and work over this crosswise with the silk, laying each stitch carefully so that a perfect outline is preserved. If the berries are embroidered outline each one with black.

Pussy willows and butterflies are a pretty combination, and if care is observed when embroidering them to heavily pad them they are lovely.

THE RETURN OF THE FLOUNCED SKIRT IS CLEARLY FORESHADOWED

THIS is a season of fashion novelties. The new double and triple skirts are taking the place of the frock with tunic and foreshadow the revival of flounces. They give opportunity for the use of bordered materials and deep laces and embroideries. Illustrated here is a charming costume of this kind, suitable for a commencement dress or for a bridesmaid's gown. It is of embroidered net made up over messaline and with a sash of satin ribbon, any color preferred being allowable for these.

The thin materials, such as embroidered batiste, voile, crape and mousseline, are frequently made up in these flounced skirts. The return of the double or triple flounce is indeed one of the most conspicuous things in the summer styles. But these flounces are extremely scant. And the lower one generally has even less fullness than the upper one, so as to give the prevailing effect of narrowness at the ankles.

An extremely pretty frock for a young girl has the double flounce of embroidered batiste with scalloped edges. The scallops of the upper flounce are edged with a frill of net about an inch and a half deep. The lower flounce finishes with the plain scallops.

Many of the voiles are embroidered in colors and have the colored scalloped edges. These are made up in the flounced skirts or in plain skirts, with the scallops at the bottom instead of a hem.

Sashes are much in evidence. These may be tied at the side of the back with short ends of even length trimmed with ball fringe. They may hang from a flat bow in the middle of the back, with long, side plaited ends, caught at the bottom by hemstitched bands of the ribbon or the silk.

Chiffon sashes are laid in tiny side plaits and match the gown in shade. Others are of ribbon with tasseled ends. Some small sashes tie in the middle of the front with three inch loops. They have a five inch fringe and hang perfectly straight. Another sash end is shirred with a heading at the high waist line and hangs in straight, loose folds to the bottom of the skirt.

NEW FLOUNCED DRESS.

TRY A PRESS WANT AD

Milady's Mirror

For Summer's Tan.

If your skin becomes sunburned you have no time to lose. You may laugh at the idea of special treatment because you have often been burned and brown without, as you believe, any really harmful results. Such results may not be fully apparent at once, but in a short time small faint lines appear, and the skin assumes a sort of dry and cracked appearance. These lines, although faint at first, if not properly treated become deeper and soon develop into premature wrinkles.

As a soothing application and cure for sunburn buttermilk is most effective. Apply it freely with a soft cloth and rub it will into the face, neck and chest. The hands and arms should receive applications also if they have been burned. Then the parts must be thoroughly saturated with the milk and allowed to dry.

Now put a teaspoonful of borax into a basin of tepid water and carefully and gently wash off the buttermilk. Pat the skin with an old bit of soft linen and then with the finger tips massage or work into the skin very softly some of the lumpy pieces of the milk and allow it to dry thoroughly into the skin. Buttermilk not only bleaches and cleanses the skin but it nourishes and feeds the dry and shriveled parts. After sunburn buttermilk should be applied as soon as possible and allowed to remain on the skin. Soap and water must not be applied while the skin stings or smarts.

To obtain a soft elastic skin the buttermilk treatment must be repeated daily. A disagreeable feature of the milk as a cosmetic is its odor. For this reason it is sometimes best to apply it at night and to use reliable skin food and powder during the day. However, if you are alone and you do not mind the odor then bathe in it all you wish. Because of its efficiency as a bleach and as a food both for the body and skin and because of its commendable cheapness, which is a point well worth considering, it occupies an important position in relation to health and beauty.

Fresh Air Always.

Seize upon every chance to keep out in the open air. If you can do no more, stick your head out of the window as many times a day as you can. Walk instead of ride whenever you can, whether you feel like it or not. Train yourself to it. Keep out of the cars as much as possible; the air in them is not of the purest. On all occasions walk, exercise, play, do anything in the open if it is only to sit in the sun and take a sun bath. Get this one point well fixed in your mind that the greatest tonic given us is the fresh air, whether it be cold or warm, rainy or sunny, clear or murky. It is always healthful and the finest element that we can take into our systems.

Cause of Dandruff.

There are four main causes for the prevalence of dandruff—ill health, worry, pressure of close hats and the use of quantities of false hair. Ill health, especially nervous disorders, are instantly communicated to the scalp. When one feels full of life and energy the hair responds readily to the hurried or careless touch. When ill, hair is stubborn, stringy and generally unruly. Worry is really an affection of the nerves, so that those who indulge in this form of mental folly always pay the price in dull, oily looking coiffures and irritating dandruff.

Improving the Looks.

We owe it to our friends as well as ourselves to look our best at all times, and the girl who can improve her appearance without harming herself should do so. Nothing gives us quite the self confidence as to feel we look well.

Actresses are usually warm hearted, sensible and cheerful. That is because they make the best of themselves in face and form. An old saying is true, "The face is often a reflex of the mind," and in a measure it is no less true that the mind is a reflex of the face.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

Sporting Editor:

Query—On what date do the Plainfield playgrounds open and to whom should I apply for a position as supervisor?—A. M. N.

Answer—The local recreation centers open during the first week in July, probably July 5. Write or apply to Herbert E. Parker, at the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., for the position above mentioned.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Please tell be how to reach Brighton Beach Motordrome and how long it takes to get there?—J. L. C.

Answer—Take the Central from here to New York, and the Hudson tunnel to Hudson Terminal, New York. Then walk over to the Brooklyn Bridge and take a Coney Island express. Leave this at the Brighton Beach station and you will be almost at the entrance of the motordrome. It takes about two and one-half hours with good connections.

Sporting Editor:

Query—A says that the batter gets credit for sacrifice fly only when a runner scores from third base. B says he is also entitled to a sacrifice when a man advances a base after a fly is caught.—F. A. L.

Answer—The batsman does not get credit for a sacrifice fly unless it scores a runner.

"MAC" SAYS

(A glance at the N. P. H. S.-Somerville game.)

By taking Somerville into camp yesterday afternoon, the North Plainfield High School ballists annexed their fifth straight scalp. Another one is due tomorrow according to the boroughites dope, alhtough no definite game has been scheduled as yet.

When Somerville's ebony colored shortstop stepped in front of one of Stahl's fast ones and batted it a distance of twenty feet with the hard part of his skull, it looked as though the visitors would have to ring in a substitute but he rambled to first base after scratching his wool, apparently none the worse for the beaning. On the other hand it seemed to put new life into his playing.

Captain Dunning once more played the outfield, leaving the first station in charge of "Curly" Taylor. Aside from his one muff of Townley's throw to catch a runner in the third, Taylor acquitted himself creditably.

A pitcher is generally looked upon as a star if he holds the opposition in check and does his part of the defensive, but it is something out of the ordinary when he plays the star offensive game and pounds out a trio of hits. Yes, Stahl is his name.

There are times when ball games are made interesting by a little bit of spicyness in the way of wrangles but when the arguments come too close together it has an opposite effect. Somerville displayed some poor sportsmanship at a number of different stages yesterday, especially Captain Kershaw, who wanted to be seen, heard and heeded all at the same time.

It seldom happens that a school nine has a member of the faculty to follow up the field arguments for it but Principal B. J. Phelps started the work yesterday afternoon and he appeared to have finished it for his arguments so overwhelmed those of Kershaw that the latter went to the box and proceeded to fill the bases with walks and bingles.

An exhibition of umpiring such as was evidenced at Hyde Oval yesterday afternoon, is something that is rarely seen in a school boy game. Poth of the officials were deplorably weak in handling out decisions and the Somerville "ump" even went so far as to walk to the plate and confer with the batter before rendering one of his shady ones. Pretty good, huh?

As has been the case in a number of the N. P. H. S. games this spring, the visitor pitching of yesterday found it hard to keep the pellet below the high water mark. The slope of the diamond has caused many twirlers to meet their Waterloo against the boroughites.

Kershaw came to town with a "rep" but he showed little that the Canadians had not already encountered and the N. P. H. S. sluggers really seemed to take a liking to his offerings.

CADORE LOST IN TENTH.

Leon Cadore, who twirled for Plainfield on several different occasions last season, was on the mound for the Buffalo International League team yesterday afternoon when the latter was defeated by the Providence Grays by a score of 4 to 1. The battle went for ten rounds, Cadore weakening in the last frame, allowing two bases on balls and a double, netting the opposition three runs and victory. During the ten innings he allowed but six hits, fanned three and gave seven bases on balls.

COAST ATHLETES START EAST.

San Francisco, Cal., May 21.—The University of California athletes selected to uphold the honors of the blue and gold in the intercollegiate championships at the Harvard Stadium next week started today en route for Boston. The delegation comprises eleven star performers, among them being Carl Shattuck, the world's intercollegiate hammer thrower champion; Fred Allen, the noted broad jumper, and Eddie Beeson, who has a record of 6 feet 5 3-8 inches in the high jump.

N. P. H. S. WILL HAVE GAME.

The baseball game scheduled to be played by the North Plainfield High School ball players at Bernardsville tomorrow afternoon was contested last week instead, thus leaving the boroughites without a booking for tomorrow. Although no game has as yet been carded Manager Spencer is on the trail of several teams and will have an attraction on Hyde Oval tomorrow afternoon.

VAN DEVENTER ON TEAM.

Ludlow VanDeventer, the local tennis player, now playing with the Princeton University team, was one of the winners in the match against Harvard, yesterday afternoon. The Crimson's heretofore unbeaten tennis team went down before the Tigers by a score of 6 to 3. Princeton has yet to encounter its first defeat and are hot on the trail of a collegiate record.

P. H. S. TO MEET KERSHAW.

Plainfield High School baseball players will appear on the Somerville High School diamond tomorrow afternoon in a game with the school boys of that place. This is the same aggregation that was defeated by N. P. H. S. yesterday afternoon, with Kershaw, the heralded twirler, on the mound.

SOMERVILLE BLEW UP IN THE NINTH ROUND

N. P. H. S. Swatters Then Proceeded to Humiliate Visitors With Six More Runs.

Playing a tight and spicy article of baseball for eight innings and giving the spectators something to keep up an interest during that time, the Somerville High School baseball team took a sudden aerial ascension in the ninth round of the game with N. P. H. S. at Hyde Oval, yesterday afternoon, allowing the boroughites to pull six counters across the pan, making the final score sound like 9 to 0. Little can be obtained from the final score concerning the article of baseball put up during the first eight innings, but from a spectator's point of view the contest was one of intense interest and the final decision swerved in anybody's direction until the Canadians annexed their avalanche of counters in the ninth frame.

Besides holding the Somervillians scoreless during the whole game, Stahl allowed but four scattered hits and contributed three of his team's hits. Kershaw, who occupied the mound for the Somerset county seat aggregation, is one of the veritable variety of pitchers and the least break caused him to soar to limits which in the end spell nothing but passes. N. P. H. S. scored nine hits from his delivery and bunched them in a way that counted for equally as many runs. Taylor, Smalley and Kershaw were close seconds to Stahl in the hit getting, each pounding the pellet for a brace of safeties.

FIRST BAPTIST TEAM HAS SIGNED A STAR TWIRLER

Jean McLaughlin, a brother of Warty McLaughlin, the Dunellen mound star, has been signed to pitch for the First Baptist baseball team of the Sunday-school League and as soon as he is eligible to do mound duty he will be used by that nine. Young McLaughlin is a southpaw, with a world of speed and fine assortment of curves. Although he has not done any twirling locally he has worked for several different nines at various times in other sections and is an experienced man. Like the rest of the McLaughlin family, he is powerfully built and makes an imposing appearance as a heaver.

While the new man has been connected with the First Baptist Bible class for some time past, he has not attended regularly and it will be sometime before he is eligible to compete in the league race. Next Saturday afternoon the First Baptist team plays Park Avenue on Probasco field and as both of these teams are conceded to be leaders in the race for the league title a good game is expected.

OBITUARY

UNITED STATES LEAGUE.

Another effort to float a baseball "league" outside of the protection of organized baseball has fizzled out. President William Abbott Whitman, of the United States League, has heaved up the sponge, and the debris will be cleared away very shortly without the aid of a bankruptcy referee.

The league was never really fairly launched. Shoals and rocks, the latter not the right kind (meaning the sort that make bank accounts), were encountered before the league really had its eyes open. It will probably be a long time before another such league attempts to run in opposition to the International League in Newark.

The two games played there were farcical, and the attendance next to nothing. Those behind the project wisely decided to suspend operations before they suffered any severe financial loss. The only plausible way for a new league to make good in Newark will be for the owners to get some big league stars to jump, or again, it might be realized in case of a major league strike. Notice of funeral services hereafter.

LOCAL PLAYERS ARE MAKING GOOD WITH LAWRENCE TEAM

Albie Carlstrom, the Elizabeth boy who formerly played shortstop for the Plainfield baseball team, and who is now playing that position for the Lawrence team of the New England League, is well up among the league hitters, holding a mark of .228. Since he returned to the Lawrence aggregation Carlstrom has been starring both in the field and at the bat and is one of the mainstays of the team. Frank Bruggy, who formerly caught for Bound Brook, is also with the Lawrence team and is hitting at a .272 clip. Lew Ortlieb, the former Plainfield pitcher and the one who was slated to manage Westfield in the Central New Jersey League this season, is another local boy with the Lawrence team and has a mark of .400 for five games to the plate.

Carlstrom's fielding mark is .993 for fourteen games, and Bruggy's is .889. The latter has five stolen bases and Carlstrom has four. Bruggy is credited with six two-baggers and a home run, while Carlstrom has three two-baggers, two three-baggers and a home run.

METROPOLITAN GOLF TITLE.

New York, May 21.—The fifteenth annual tournament for the metropolitan golf championship was opened on the links of the Fox Hills Golf club, on Staten Island, today, with a 36-hole testing round, the first 32 players to qualify for the title competition. The final rounds will be played Saturday and will be followed by the award of the championship trophies.

KLINKERS WILL STOP HERE.

Next Saturday afternoon, Manager William Conger, of the Y. M. C. A. baseball team, will entertain the Somerville Klinkers, who will lineup against his aggregation at that time. This game was originally scheduled to take place at Somerville last Saturday afternoon, but was called off on account of rain.

CHANGE NAME OF POOR FARM TO SPARE FEELINGS OF AGED

New Brunswick, May 20.—The City Poor Farm has a new name and will now be known as New Brunswick Home-stead. Mayor John J. Morrison in his annual message last January recommended that the name be changed to spare the sensibilities of aged persons.

Common Council offered a prize of a barrel of potatoes grown on the farm to the person suggesting the best name. Mayor Morrison, Alderman W. Carey Nicholas and Daniel J. Wray, as judges, passed on the sixty-three names submitted. Miss Mabel A. Hannah won the potatoes.

Among the names suggested are Sunny Shadow, Sunset Lodge, House of Refuge, The Hermitage, New Brunswick Sanitorium and Bide-a-Wee Home.

HEIR MAY GIVE TO CHARITY, BUT WILL CONTEST IS ON

Atlantic City, May 20.—Arthur T. Nichols, a young secretary, made executor and virtually the sole heir to the million-dollar estate of the late Mrs. Jane Fortescue, for last will probated at May's Landing declared that he would devote the better part of the estate to charity. The property was left him to distribute such part of it as he saw fit to benevolent purposes.

The will is to be contested by William Bowler, brother of Mrs. Fortescue, who declared that he is willing to spend $500,000 to gain control of the estate.

The brother, who had quarreled with his sister, was cut off without a penny. Prior to her death, April 20, at the age of seventy-six years, he had made overtures to end a bitter feud of twenty years' standing. Simultaneously with the recording of the will at the county surrogate's office at May's Landing last Saturday Bowler filed a caveat in the Orphans' Court. Undue influence is alleged. Bowler is sixty-five years old.

FEAR "PINK BOLL WORM."

Washington, D. C., May 20.—A quarantine against cotton-seed importations from Egypt and India may be established as a result of a conference held at the Department of Agriculture today on the subject of the threatened invasion of the "pink boll worm." This dangerous enemy of cotton is now widely distributed in Egypt and Indian and it is feared that the pest might be introduced into the United States. The danger is not regarded as very great, however as the importations of cotton-seed from the countries named are very small.

SHOOTING CASES SETTLED.

New Brunswick, May 20.—Suits instituted by Joseph Paulow and John Logosh against the American Smelting and Refining Company for damages as a sequel to their being shot during a strike at the defendant company's plant a year ago, have been settled, Paulow getting $1,000 and Logosh $500. The plaintiffs allege they were on public property at the time of the shooting and were sitting under a tree when hit. They were hit by shots when a volley was fired to scatter the strikers. The bullet which hit Paulow upon the leg had gone through another man's neck killing him.

MENOCAL BECOMES CUBA'S PRESIDENT

Conservative Takes Office as Second Chief Executive, Succeeding Gomez.

Havana, May 20.—Gen. Mario Menocal was inaugurated second president of the Cuban republic shortly after noon today, succeeding Jose Miguel Gomez, who has been at the head of the government since the American control of the insular affairs came to an end on January 28, 1909. The new president received his education in the United States and is regarded as a warm friend of the great American republic. In his program he promises to cultivate closer relations with the United States, and to seek agricultural and industrial development.

The popularity of the new executive was attested by the enthusiastic demonstrations attending his induction into office and the great crowds that witnessed all of the features of the inauguration program. The taking of the oath of office was preceded by a parade of regular troops, civil organizations and the rural guard. The chief justice of the Supreme Court administered the oath of office to President Menocal on the balcony of the palace, in view of the thousands of spectators who filled the Plaza de Armas. The retiring president and his successor were surrounded by the dignitaries of state, the members of congress and the diplomatic corps in brilliant uniforms. After the induction of the president Senor Enrique Jose Varona was sworn in as vice president of the republic.

Gen. Menocal goes into power as the leader of the Conservative party, and as a result of the decisive choice of the Cuban people in the elections of last fall. The retiring administration was controlled by the Liberals. In the new senate the Conservatives have a strength of thirteen members against an apposition of eleven. In the lower house there are now forty-three Liberals and forty-eight who are listed as Conservatives. Five of the latter, however, are Liberal "mugwumps" and they will hold the balance of power.

President Menocal is a man of high ideals and enjoys the respect of all classes of the Cuban people. He is a civil engineer, an agriculturist and business expert, in addition to being a soldier. His uncle, Anisette Menocal, was an American citizen, a commander and engineer in the United States navy. It was under his direction that young Menocal was educated. Since his thirteenth year most of his time has been spent in the United States. He graduated from Maryland Agriculural College in 1884 and from Cornell University four years later.

Equipped with a splendid education and with a perfect knowledge of both English and Spanish, Gen. Menocal's success dates from his first work after leaving Cornell. His first engineering work was done in Nicaragua on the survey for an interoceanic canal. Before sailing from New York on this trip he had to sign a release to the company for any responsibility for returning his body to the United States in case of death. The company would agree, however, to return the body on payment of $150, to be deducted from the salary of the employe in rather large installments. Young Menocal decided that such posthums luxuries were not for struggling engineers, so he signed the release.

It was in Nicaragua, where he spent two years, that Gen. Menocal acquired the intimate knowledge of yellow fever and other tropical diseases that caused him to become one of the most active agents in the cleaning up of Havana during the American occupation.

In 1892 Gen. Menocal returned to Cuba. At that time he laid before the Spanish city authorities a plan for cleaning up the city in the interest of the public health. No attention was paid to the recommendations.

The military career of Gen. Menocal dates from June 5, 1895, when he entered the revolutionary army as a private. Hs education and his engineering ability made his promotion rapid. Moreover he met the difficulties of a hard campaign with the same courage that he faced yellow fever in Nicaragua. His command in Camaguay and Oriente provinces cleared that territory of the Spaniards. His storming of the fortified town of Las Tunas was one of the brilliant feats of the campaign.

As inspector general of public works under the American administration Gen. Menocal was an important factor in the cleaning up of Havana. Gen. Menocal left his position as inspector general to take charge of the interests of the Cuban-American Sugar Company at Chaparra. During the time that this great hacienda has been under Gen. Menocal's supervision it has become the best known sugar property in the world. The production there in 1910 of 540,000 bags of sugar stands as a record from a single estate.

FACULTY ORDERS CHANGES IN COURSES AT PRINCETON

Princeton, May 20.—Changes are being made in the upper class courses in chemistry at Princeton by the university faculty, following a discussion concerning their efficiency. Professor Frederick Neher, of the department, has announced revisions which are aimed primarily to accommodate the students listed in the biological department.

A committee has been appointed by the faculty to revise the entire system of courses in the civil engineering department. For some time the shifting around of the curriculum in this department has been considered.

It has also been reported that the curricula will be remodeled soon at Princeton to the extent of having an "honor series" in each department similar to that which exists now in the classical humanities department. By this means a student will be enabled to take more studies in the department which he has elected and will also be eligible for honors on the basis of the work he does in these particular studies.

SHIFT GRADUATION SCENE BECAUSE OF PRIEST'S PLEA

Point Pleasant, May 20.—A protest made by Rev. Father Berard against holding the commencement ceremonies of the Point Pleasant High School in a Protestant church has caused a change in the plans of the local Board of Education.

It was decided a few weeks ago to hold the exercises in the First Presbyterian church, owing to what some members of the board considered the unsuitability of Arnold Hall for such an occasion. Father Berard, who is the rector of St. Peter's church, at a special meeting called subsequently, protested against the board's action.

Father Berard stated that it was mandatory for him to protest against any Catholics participating in any services of any nature within a Protestant edifice. The exercises will be held in Arnold Hall. The class this year has been named the "hoodoo class." There are thirteen who receive their diplomas on Friday night, June 13, 1913.

Miss Abbie Van Cleef, of West End avenue, has returned from Jersey City, where she visited relatives for the past six weeks.

WARREN CHAPEL C. E. HOLDS CELEBRATION

Church Society Observes its Twenty-fifth Anniversary.

An attractive program, including interesting addresses, special music and reports for the past year, marked the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel, last evening. There was a large attendance of members and friends. Theodore Martin, the president, was in charge.

The chapel was elaborately decorated for the occasion with dogwood, spring flowers and greens, the color scheme being green and white, while suspended over the platform was the Christian Endeavor motto. Hot-house plants and palms were also used to make the decorations effective.

Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of the chapel, conducted the devotional exercises, reading the Scripture lesson and offering prayer. Joseph W. Gavett, who was the first president of the society, gave a hearty address of welcome. The report for the Junior C. E. Society was presented by the president, Adele Demarest, and this was supplemented by a fine report by the superintendent, Mrs. Louis Ely, showing what the society has accomplished during the year. Mrs. George Anderson, contralto, then sang a solo, "Come Unto Me."

Charles Holstein presented the report of the treasurer for the senior society, which was most encouraging. It showed that among other amounts raised, $200 was given toward the mortgage fund of the chapel. Following the report, there was a cornet solo by Dorothy Seader, accompanied by her sister, Louise Seader, and another feature was a vocal duet, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," by Mrs. Charles F. Windham, of Washington, and Mrs. George Anderson. The report of Miss Ida Wheeler showed the society to be in an excellent condition and increasing in membership.

There were two interesting addresses, the first by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, whose subject was "The Proper Use of Time and Character Building," in which the speaker offered many helpful suggestions to the Endeavorers and young people in general. Following a soprano solo, "Evening," by Mrs. George Anderson, E. W. Sprowl, State president of the Christian Endeavor Society, made an address on the subject of "Grow," in which he showed how Endeavorers as individuals and as a society might become more useful in the service of the Master.

In conclusion, President Martin presented Dorothy Seader, Mrs. Charles F. Windham and Mrs. George Anderson with bouquets of flowers. The exercises closed with the singing of a hymn and the benediction, after which there was a social hour and refreshments were served. The social committee was in charge of this part of the program.

"CHICKEN TALK" IN THIS CITY TONIGHT

Professor Stoneburn Will Talk at the Exempt Firemen's Hall Tonight.

Prof. F. H. Stoneburn will deliver a "Chicken Talk" at the meeting of the New Jersey Association for Poultry Improvement, at Exempt Firemen's Hall, 109 Park avenue, this evening.

Prof. Stoneburn has been connected with the poultry industry for the past sixteen years, in various capacities. He is one of the leading poultry writers and lecturers of this country, and the first man in the United States to be given the title of "Prof. of Poultry Husbandry."

Prof. Stoneburn was connected with the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs, Conn., for a number of years, and has lectured at various colleges and universities throughout the country. He is a practical poultryman in addition to being familiar with the theoretical side of the business, and has invented a number of appliances now in common use.

He is a man who is entirely at home in the poultry field, and his talk will be very instructive and at the same time interesting to anyone who feels the slightest interest in chickens. The talk will be one that no one can afford to miss if it is a possible thing for him to be present.

MRS. COLBY'S REMARKS AT SUFFRAGE LUNCHEON

Owing to lack of space, an omission was made in our last Friday's account of the suffrage luncheon at the Park Club, which should be corrected. While the earnestness and solidarity of spirit of all the workers concerned was a great factor in the success of the affair, that success would never have been accomplished without the indefatigable activity of Mrs. Riley's splendid leadership and the efforts of Mrs. Frank deLacy Hyde, who spared no pains to procure the very best speakers that were to be had, and planned the program so well that although there were ten speakers, the program was carried through in its allotted time, and the audience was held every moment of the occasion.

Mrs. Everett Colby at the recent Suffrage luncheon in urging all women to inform themselves in regard to the suffrage movement, said: "Now is the time to put lesser things aside, stop the puttering and pretty fussing over conditions and get down to the causes for industrial and social unrest. Take a stand now for the ballot which can help these causes or against it. Go to suffrage headquarters in New York for their literature, then go to the 'anti' headquarters for theirs. You will find discrepancies. Then write to Washington for statistics, and when you have decided which side of the fence you are on, leave your academic position, and come out boldly and actively in this humanitarian movement."

GIVE KITCHEN SHOWER FOR THE BRIDE-ELECT

As a surprise a kitchen shower was given Miss Bertha Jones at her home on Essex street, last night, by the members of the sewing circle, of which Miss Jones is a member, and by a few other friends. The guests wore kitchen aprons and dusting caps and carried the utensils in their arms. These are the members of the circle: Misses Mabel Crone, May Stafford, Stella Rink, Edna Cronce, Anna Lee, Mary Cumberson, Annie Stafford and Violet Cronce. Others present were Mrs. Alice Wharton, Miss Ida DeHart, Mrs. G. T. Leighs, Agnes Leighs, Mrs. Hendry, Mrs. Doig, Mrs. W. H. Cook, Miss Edith Roseberry, Mrs. Slappe, Mrs. William Carkhuff, Mrs. Jones.

Miss Jones is soon to become the bride of Clarence LaRue.

"GROUP MISSIONARY MEETING."

The missionary societies of the three local Methodist churches and those of Dunellen, Bound Brook and Somerville will hold a "group missionary meeting" in Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church, Thursday afternoon, May 29, at 3 o'clock, it being one of a number of such meetings held in the Newark Conference. There will be an attractive program.

DEMOCRATS MEET.

Much of the time of the session of the Democratic Club last night was occupied in a discussion of the Wsconsin primary law for second choice in candidates. S. E. Pearson was the principal speaker and he explained the Wisconsin idea in detail. A similar measure was defeated at the late regular session of the New Jersey Legislature.

PROSPEROUS YEAR OF CHURCH WORK

Encouraging Reports Submitted by Women's Assn. of Congregational Church.

Reports read at the annual meeting of the Women's Association of the Congregational church held in the church parlors yesterday afternoon were most encouraging to all of the members present and statistics submitted by the various committees all showed material progress. This organization has been unusually active during the past year and the next term promises to be an even more profitable one, several new departments of work being established which will make the influence of the association felt throughout a wider area. Those who attended he meeting held yesterday afternoon were most enthusiastic in their efforts and suggestions which were offered to promote the good being accomplished by the women of that church through their society and as a result the new year of work will start with renewed activity on every hand.

During the year just closed the treasurer received a total of $854.18 and expended $697.39. A balance of $156.79 remains.

These officers were elected: President, Mrs. C. A. Rice; vice president, Mrs. C. L. Goodrich; treasurer, Mrs. P. S. Suffern; recording secretary, Miss Elsie Suffern; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. AUTO PARKING RULES AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

Twenty candidates were elected to membership at the May meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Plainfield Country Club, last night, and a special appropriation was made for the crushed stone for the driveway leading to the clubhouse. A special appropriation was also made to cover the expense of the Metropolitan Junior Golf tournament to be held at the club on June 24 and 25.

It was decided not to permit automobiles to park at the clubhouse, except by backing against the retaining wall and eighteenth green. Cars will not be allowed to stand in any other manner at the top of the driveway. Members spending any length of time at the club are requested to park their cars at the sheds. The treasurer was directed to notify members who have not paid their dues that the time for payment has expired.

JOHN LANNON DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

John Lannon, aged sixty-three years, for many years a well-known resident of this city, died suddenly at his home, 472 West Front street, last night, of a complication of diseases, with which he had long suffered. The final attack was acute and when physicians arrived the victim was dead. Mr. Lannon was engaged in the stone business. He possessed a retiring disposition and took no active part in city affairs.

Beside a wife and daughter, Miss Mary E. Lannon, there survives two brothers, M. J. Lannon, of Bayonne, and James Lannon, of Trenton and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Rogers and Mrs. Nellie McCann, of Trenton, and Mrs. Catherine Greenwood, of New York city. The funeral service will be held at the late home, Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock and at St. Mary's R. C. church at 9 o'clock, where a solemn requiem mass will be offered for the repose of his soul. NEARLY LOSES EYE IN AN ODD MANNER

Frank H. Smith Suffers Injury When Attempting to Separate Fighting Dogs.

County Registrar Frank H. Smith had a narrow escape from losing his eyesight on Monday and is showing a badly cut and bruised face as the result of stopping a fight between a valuable bulldog which he owns and an Airdale belonging to a neighbor. Mr. Smith was using a leather leash having an iron snap on the end in his attempt to separate the dogs, at his residence on Madison avenue, when the piece of iron recoiled and struck him squarely between the eyes.

His glasses were broken into fragments. His nose was laid open for an inch on the bridge and the missile bruised his face and forehead.

The noise of the fighting animals soon brought other neighbors of Mr. Smith to the scene and he was assisted into the house, being temporarily blind by blood and pain.

ICE MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM BAD HURTS

Frank Decker, of Watchung, employed by the Plainfield Ice and Supply Company on one of its delivery wagons, received injuries to his shoulders and left leg this morning, when his wagon partially loaded with ice passed over those parts of the body. The accident occurred on West Front street, when Decker stepped from the rear of his wagon directly in front of a trolley car which he did not realize was so close to him, and was thrown beneath the wheels of the wagon.

Decker was taken to the office of Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, where an examination showed that no bones were broken. The victim's shoulders and leg were considerably bruised and he was unable to continue his work. He was taken to his home at Watchung, where he will be detained for some days.

FIREMAN WAS HERO BUT NOT AT BLAZE

James Fitzpatrick, a fireman attached to headquarters on East Second street, performed a heroic deed yesterday afternoon, when he caught a runaway horse belonging to Fred Ivamy, the seafood dealer on West Second street. The animal while standing in front of Mr. Ivamy's place of business became frightened and started to run at top speed through Second street, after freeing itself from the wagon to which it was hitched.

Fitzpatrick was in front of headquarters when he saw the runaway horse coming toward him. Rushing into the street he grasped hold of the bridle and was dragged about twenty-five feet before he was able to bring the animal to a standstill. The damage to the wagon was slight.

AUTO HIT MOTORCYCLIST.

Joseph Deleany, of South Plainfield, today is nursing severe bruises about the face and body sustained when a touring type of automobile ran him down at the intersection of Railroad avenue and Front street, in that village, on Monday evening while he was on his way to his home from Plainfield. He was riding a motorcycle. According to Deleany the car was being driven on the left side of the road and bore a New Jersey license number. He claims the autoist looked back after the accident and then sped away, thus violating the motor vehicle laws by not stopping and giving his name. The motorcycle was damaged almost beyond repair.

BOTH ARMS FRACTURED.

Miss Ruth Bullock, a teacher in the Salem (N. J.) public schools, and daughter of Mr. and Hrs. Marion S. Bullock, formerly of West Sixth street, is at Muhlenberg Hospital, suffering from a fracture of both arms and severe bruises about the face caused by a fall down the back stairs of the house in which she lived in Salem. Miss Bullock was brought to this city by her father, who is at present living in New York city. She is a neice of Mr. and Mrs. William Starr Bullock and Miss Noel J. Bullock, of this city.

MRS. PERCY D. CULVER.

Mrs. Percy D. Culver, of 220 Somerset street, died suddenly yesterday afternoon, following an acute attack of Bright's Disease. She had been a resident of the borough several years, and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lyon. Mrs. Culver was a member of Grace M. E. church. She is survived by a husband and her parents. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

SUGGEST PROBATION OFFICER BE ENGAGED

Swimming Pool Need Also Discussed by Crescent Ave. Church Men's Club.

The need of a probation officer in Plainfield who would give all his time to the work in this city, and the need for a public swimming pool in the west end of the city were the principal topics discussed at the annual meeting of the Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last night at the home of Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, on Park avenue. Dr. W. H. Murray was chosen as president of the club for the new year and G. Stuart Simons as vice president. The new executive committee consists of Samuel T. Carter, Jr., who is the retiring president, Howard McWilliams, Leslie R. Fort and Deuse VanVliet. William Abbe was re-elected secretary and treasurer. Dr. Murray was unable to be present last night, and Mr. Carter presided in his absence.

The question of a probation officer was brought up by Mr. Carter, who said that the legal committee of the charity organization society had looked into the matter, and felt that such an officer was very much needed in this city. He called attention to the fact that the present probation officer and his assistant are both Elizabeth men and that they give but a few hours each month to the work in this city, and it was his suggestion that a probation officer be employed to act continuously here, at a salary of perhaps $1,000 per year, half of which could be paid by the city, and the other half raised by such organizations as the various church clubs. As there was some doubt as to just what could be done about the matter under the present law no definite action was taken by the club.

Dr. Zelie introduced the question of the public swimming pool. He said that he hoped that the Men's Club could in some way start the movement for one, and that it would later be taken up as a civic movement. The great need of something of the kind was discussed by the members at length, and while all agreed that it would be a splendid thing, there was some question as to whether the expense of running it would not be prohibitive. There seemed to be doubt whether or not the city could afford to support an institution of the kind, even if volunteer helpers were provided to attend it each day it was open. The matter of investigating the operation and cost of construction of similar pools in other cities will be investigated by a committee of seven, who will report at a later meeting.

After the business meeting refreshments and cigars were enjoyed by those present.

HELEN KELLER PRAISES DR. GROSZMANN'S WORK

Dr. M. P. E. Groszmann, the director and founder of the Groszmann school for atypical children, at Watchung Crest, North Plainfield township, has received the following letter from Miss Helen Keller:

"I am deeply interested in the splendid work of the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children. It deserves the support of all who have the welfare of children at heart. It is of the utmost importance to give every child the best education of which he is capable. No effort, no money, no sacrifices should be spared. The more severely a child is handicapped, the more precious is whatever equipment is given him for the struggle of life. Let the public once realize how far such children can be helped, and nothing will be left undone to prevent the fearful waste of human minds which lies heavy upon our civilization. This is true conservation—the saving of valuable human faculties from neglect and unskillful teaching.

"I, too, was handicapped in the earliest years of my life. I, too, had a potentially normal mind. Strong barriers had to be broken down before my mind could be awakened and developed. Only the skill of a wise, loving teacher made this possible. Only a patient study and clear understanding of my mental needs lifted me up to a happier, freer existence. I want every child that is hindered to receive the same careful study, the same wise teaching.

"I fully appreciate your work, and I believe that all children will benefit by your efforts to reach the exceptional child."

MAKES FINE OFFER TO ADVERTISE CITY

Artemas Ward, Noted Publicity Man, Winner in Contest, Writes Chamber.

Artemas Ward, proprietor of the advertising agency of Ward & Gow, in New York, who, under the nom de plume of "Dr. Henry G. Tuttle," won the first prize in the Chamber of Commerce publicity scheme contest, has made the following offer to the chamber in acknowledging the award:

"I have yours of May 16th, and am glad to know that the article which I submitted, in the name of Dr. Henry G. Tuttle, of Dunellen, has been approved by your committee.

"I have more than an ordinary interest in these suggestions and the plan, which I hope Plainfield will allow me to carry out. I would like to add to some of my advertising successes the fact that I creditably boomed a city.

"If the people of Plainfield accept my suggestions and act promptly—which latter is important as the season is advancing—I will at once send my artists, photographers and copy writers to the city, and make up the cards, posters and booklets which are needed. I will throw my energy into the work and do all that is necessary, except the financial end. I must not be expected to solicit money or to finance the plan—the bare regular cost of the spaces will be charged—no one gets a cent of commission—and my own suggestions, copy, photos, etc., are thrown in along with my enthusiasm, because I want to show what we can do for Plainfield. The printing will be charged at cost.

"I thank you for your present good opinion of my proposition, and trust that after the campaign is over, I shall not have lessened in your esteem."

ASSESSMENT ADJUSTERS BEGIN WORK MONDAY

John G. MacLaughlin, Frank J. Hubbard, Armstrong Mulford, Thomas Hughes and DeWitt C. Ivins, the special tax commission appointed by Mayor Percy H. Stewart, to confer with the Board of Assessors for the purpose of making a revision of the tax assessments of the city, met with the assessors, last night, and planned for the work. While it was recognized that it would be practically impossible to make a complete revision of all assessments within the time allowed for the purpose, the commission and assessors believe that a large majority of the assessments can be revised by the middle of July.

The assessors begin their annual work of assessment about May 20 and this year they are assisted by the tax commission. It was decided to start the extra work on Monday and proceed as rapidly as possible. There is perfect harmony between the commission and the assessors and all seem anxious to carry out the purpose as outlined by Mayor Stewart and the Common Council at a recent conference. The work will be taken by wards numerically, starting with the First ward, then the Second Third and Fourth. Special attention will be given to the business properties, with the idea of making the assessment more equitable. The members of the commission have an advantage in being more or less familiar with the city property.

CLINICAL SOCIETY HEARS A FAMOUS PATHOLOGIST

Dr. Norman H. Probasco, of Park avenue, entertained the Plainfield Clinical Society at his home, last night, at which time Dr. Charles Mandel, of the Carnegie Laboratory, of New York, addressed the physicians on "The Clinical Value of Blood Examination." Dr. Mandel is one of the foremost pathologists in the country and his talk last night was listened to with unusual interest. An informal discussion followed.

There were about twenty-four present. The physicians were entertained at dinner by Dr. Probasco. Altogether the affair was one of the most interesting and instructive yet held by the Plainfield Clinical Society.

$100,503 NEEDED TO RUN SCHOOLS

Increase Less Than $12,000 or $2,000 Less Than Raise Given Last Year.

SEVEN NEW TEACHERS

Five to Meet Growth of Schools and Two to Comply with State Law—Special Classes to Be Established for Sub-normal Children.

Mayor Stewart was elected chairman of the Board of School Estimates at a meeting of the organization held in the Plainfield Board of Education rooms in the High School building last night, the purpose of the meeting being to consider the budget for the maintenance of the city schools for the coming year.

In presenting the budget, President William S. Tyler, of the Board of Education, said that the board had formed the budget after a great deal of time spent in studying the needs of the schools, and had included nothing that was not needed to keep the schools up to a high standard and to provide for healthy growth. Mr. Tyler also said that after the budget had been arranged, the Board of Education finance committee had gone over it a second time, and in consideration of the special needs of the other departments of the city, this year, they had arbitrarily cut off several thousand dollars more, paring it down to the quick in many cases, in order to ask the smallest possible amount from the city this year.

The Board of School Estimate spent two hours studying the budget, item by item, and after finishing it came to the conclusion that there was no point where further cut could be safely made. They accordingly voted unanimously to give the board the full amount asked for, $100,503. This makes the increase in the school tax this year a little less than $12,000, which is $2,000 less than the increase of last year. The greater part of the increase is in the item of teachers' salaries, which is due partly to the regular increase in salary according to the salary schedule, and partly to the need for additional teachers. There will be seven new teachers the coming year, five to meet the growth of the schools which are now increasing 150 to 200 pupils annually, and two to comply with the State law, which requires the establishment of special classes for sub-normal children.

CONVICT ANNOYERS OF THE PRESIDENT

Jersey Mountaineers Who Tried to Blackmail Wilson Are Found Guilty.

Jake Dunn and Seeley Davenport, the mountaineers of Sparta Mountain, N. J., indicted by the United States Grand Jury for having sent blackmailing letters to Woodrow Wilson before and after his election as President, were found guilty last night by a jury in the Federal Court in Newark. The letters sent to President Wilson demanded large sums of money in gold and he was threatened with death if he failed to comply with the demands.

The prisoners were convicted on four counts—two for sending threatening letters to President Wilson and two for sending similar letters to Theodore F. King, of Ledgewood, N. J., and Henry J. Misel, of Dover, N. J., a furniture dealer, who has since died. The jury recommended Davenport to mercy. The trial began yesterday morning and lasted all day. After a brief charge by Judge John Relslab the case was put in the hands of the jury. The verdict was returned after two hours' deliberation.

Dunn and Davenport testified in their own behalf. They denied sending the letters, saying that they had never seen them except in the possession of the Federal officers. Dunn testified that he never heard of one of the letters threatening President Wilson's death until Postoffice Inspector Francis A. Butler dictated from it to him to get a sample of his handwriting.

Witnesses from Sparta, where Dunn and Davenport lived, testified that the phrase "sure I did," which Dunn used when he answered Butler's question as to the authorship of the letters, did not mean anything, as the phrase was peculiar to the locality. William J. Kinsley, an authority on handwriting, who was summoned from New Orleans, testified that the handwriting of Jake Dunn as obtained by the Federal officials was the same as that which appeared in all four letters in the case.

Norman S. Hobbs and George B. Quinn, of the Drummond Detective Agency, testified that on the night of May 25, 1912, they went with Mr. King to a place designated in the threatening letter sent to Mr. King. Both detectives said that Dunn and Davenport were loitering near by when they hung a bag under the platform of the freight station as arranged in the threatening letter.

WOMAN CLERIC'S BIRTHDAY.

Elizabeth, May 21.—Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, life-long advocate of woman suffrage and the first woman to be ordained to the ministry in the United States, observed her eighty-eighth birthday anniversary yesterday at her home in Bayway, near Westfield avenue. Mrs. Blackwell is still able to work for the "cause" and recently attended a local suffrage rally. She also addresses women's clubs and on Sunday preacher a sermon at All Souls' Unitarian church in Westfield avenue, of which she is pastor emeritus.

CHIEF OF SKEETER COPS WILL RIDE IN AN AUTO

Elizabeth, May 21.—The Union County Mosquito Commission at a meeting held here this morning appointed Paul Walrath, of New Brunswick as acting assistant chief inspector and decided to purchase an automobile for the use of Chief Inspector Russell W. Giese. Efforts will be made by the commission to secure a portion of the State funds for its work in the county, it having been learned that Essex county was successful in this respect. If some of the State funds are available the money will be used for salt and marsh work.

The commission reported that the house-to-house inspection was about two-thirds finished and thus far about 300,000 feet of ditches have been made. The work is being vigorously pushed in all parts of the county.

WOULD WORK JAIL INMATES.

Elizabeth, May 21.—In her annual report to the Charity Organization Society, Miss Nellie L. Swartz, its executive secretary, referred to the necessity of putting county jail inmates to work. She stated that the matter had been referred to the freeholders' committee, but that the committee had reported unfavorably on the proposition. Dance hall supervision, housing problems and the children's bureau were other matters referred to. She appealed for funds to aid the organization in meeting the increased demands made on it. The following officers were elected. President, William T. Day; first vice president, Augustus S. Crane; second vice president, Mrs. Joseph Cross; secretary, Miss Harriet Townsend; treasurer, Warren R. Dix. Thirteen new members joined the organization during the year.

SUBDUE FUGITIVE IN TUNNEL CLOSE TO THE THIRD RAIL

Jersey City, May 21.—After a chase into the mouth of the Hudson tunnels at Henderson street and Railroad avenue, Police Captain Cody and Lieutenant Rooney, of the City Hall Station, captured Otto Everett, colored, and locked him up. Everett, who says he lives at Spring Lake, is charged with stealing three overcoats from the store of Joseph Salmon, at 558 Grand street, and with taking a suit of clothes from the clothing store of Herman Kimmel at 358 Grove street.

Pursued after the alleged theft Everett ran into the car yards. Tunnel employes searched for him in vain. Finally Cody and Rooney found him in a private car in the yard. They were back at one end of the car and Everett escaped by the other door. He ran along the tracks to the incline into the tunnel where he was subdued after a tussel close to the third rail.

EQUALIZATION BOARD GIVES ASSESSORS ADVICE ON WORK

Trenton, May 21.—Emphasizing the importance of strict adherence to the laws regulating the assessment of property and the duties of local assessors, the State Board of Equalization has sent out a circular of instructions to local assessors throughout the State. Attention is particularly called to the importance of assessing all property at its full value and permitting no property subject to taxation to escape.

Stress is laid on complaints of inequality in assessment. The assessors are admonished to guard especially against this, since the law forbids equalization by reduction below true value, the remedy being to increase all assessments below standard. The assessors are urged to avoid even the appearance of discrimination.

Another precaution urged is the separate listing of lands and improvements. The rule of the board, with a quotation from law, is given in the circular. Only farm property is excepted. The letter enjoins the assessors to use the utmost diligence in assessing all property to the proper persons.

SPECIAL ELECTION JUNE 8 ON SEWERS, IN DUNELLEN

Entertaining a belief that municipal governing bodies had authority in such matters, Francis Teeling and other youths appeared before the Dunellen Council last night requesting that Sunday baseball be permitted. As the State Legislature alone has jurisdiction in such matters, the borough solons took no action. The evening was spent in discussing the plans for the proposed joint sewerage disposal system, to which Plainfield and North Plainfield are parties.

It was deciced to hold a special election on Tuesday, July 8, to obtain the sanction of the voters on the proposition to issue bonds to meet the borough's share of the expense in constructing the trunk system. Dunellen will pay seven per cent. of the entire cost.

LOCAL DELEGATES TO MAYFLOWER CONVENTION

A delegation of Plainfielders numbering fourteen will go to Elizabeth tomorrow morning to attend the annual meeting of the Society of Mayflower Descendants, which will be held in the Old First Street church in that city. A large number of new applications have been received for membership into the organization and these will be acted upon at the meeting tomorrow and the number enrolled will probably be boosted considerably.

Those who will go from this city are: Mrs. Henry Bowen, Mrs. T. R. Glen, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Arthur Lovell, Mrs. Leander Lovell, Leander Lovell, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Mygatt, Henry B. Newell, Mrs. David H. Rowland, William N. Stillman, William S. Tyler, Mrs. Theodore A. Wood and Lamar Van Syckle.

ONE PENNY FINE FOR NOT READING DAILY

Under the auspices of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the First M. E. church, an interesting meeting was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles E. Horne, on Willow avenue, the borough. Mrs. Nelson A. Miller, the president, was in charge. The afternoon was devoted to a general consideration of the subject of "China." Mrs. Miller's plan of having the members spend fifteen minutes every day in reading about China, resulted in everyone present being informed on the subject so that they were able to discuss it intelligently.

According to the new plan each member who fails to devote the fifteen minutes each day to reading is to place one penny in the mite box. Yesterday's discussion covered the political as well as the religious life of China. Mrs. C. M. Anderson led the devotional exercises and during a social hour refreshments were served.

SUBURBAN BUS SERVICE TEMPORARILY ABANDONED

The auto bus which has been giving demonstration runs between Plainfield and Stirling and South Plainfield for several weeks under the management of H. C. Pritchard, will be discontinued for a few days, pending the transfer of the business to the Plainfield Transit Company, which was organized for that purpose. The company will have a meeting tomorrow night, when definite plans will be decided upon for the future operation of the bus or busses as it is proposed to secure at least one more car and to adopt a more extensive schedule to meet growing needs.

According to directors of the company the demonstration runs have proved that the proposition can be made a paying one and for that reason it is planned to extend the schedule and make more trips between Plainfield and the outlying places. Mr. Pritchard will still continue with the company.

MANY ATTENDED SECOND NIGHT OF FESTIVITIES

An attendance that surpassed that of the opening night greeted those in charge of the three days' festival being held at St. Joseph's church, last night, which was given over to entertainment and the success of the affair has already surpassed the anticipations of the committee in charge. A group of school children provided the entertainment the second night, presenting "A Schoolboy's Strike for Shorter Hours."

Other numbers on the program included vocal selections by a quartet composed of Miss Tiny Smith, Mrs. A. L. LaPorte, Mrs. L. E. Seidel and Frank W. Bailey, and another with the following members, Elmer Cutting, Robert Hamilton, Frank Bailey and Percy Bailey. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Seidel, Robert Hamilton, W. C. Smith, Casper Fulkes, of Dunellen, and Miss Blucher, of Raritan. Charles Pagilucca, the six-year-old dancing marvel, sang and danced in a way that called forth much applause from the enthusiastic audience.

Following the entertainment dancing was enjoyed until 1 o'clock this morning, music being furnished by Paroubek's orchestra. The fair will be concluded tonight with a strawberry festival.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The third in the series of monthly sermons to business men on "Business Topics" will be given by Rev. C. L. Goodrich at the Congregational church, Sunday morning.

There will be no Junior Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Congregational church, Friday afternoon, but Rev. C. L. Goodrich, the pastor, will take the Juniors to Chimney Rock for a picnic on Saturday. They will take the 9:15 o'clock car from the trolley station.

PERSONAL.

Miss Irene Day, of the Babcock building apartments, has left for Atlantic City, where she will spend several days.

Mrs. Robert Gow, of West Fifth street, is able to be out again after being detained at home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Blatz, Jr., of the borough, are parents of a girl. Mrs. Blatz was formerly Miss Catherine Kaudenbach, and she is a graduate of the training school of Muhlenberg Hospital.

Peter Hamilton, formerly a patrolman on the local police force, but now connected with the Philadelphia police department, has been visiting friends in town.

Mrs. Walter Emmons, of Orchard place, is detained at home with a severe attack of tonsilitis.

COAL DEALER

"Business is hardly what it used to be —more and more people are putting in Square Pot Boilers each year now. Oh! I've no kick coming—I'm glad to say I own a Square Pot myself; but fact is, Square Pot Boilers run so economically and steam so freely on a small fire, that actually, a man can put in quite a bit less coal than an ordinary boiler or furnace would require and still be on the safe side. Yes, they're economical, all right—and efficient, too—best heaters I know."

Everything the 20th century householder wants in a heating plant Square Pot Boilers give him. Two words sum it up—efficiency and economy. Square Pot Boilers are compact yet powerful. They steam freely on a small fire. They give perfect combustion without heat waste. They run with slight attention and "hold fire" unusually well. Square Pot Boilers have the famous "square firepot" that clears free with a crank turn and never clogs. Let the nearest dealer in your town tell the rest of the story.

A Lincolnism As Applied to Our Business

Abraham Lincoln was not an author; he was not a writer, he was not an orator; but he was the gentlest soul and the purest heart of the 19th century.

Said Lincoln: "Stand with the man who stands right; stand with him while he is right; and part with him when he goes wrong."

And it is just this—and nothing more—that we ask you to do with us.

We ask you to stand with us as long as we sell better clothes for less money than other stores—as long as we tell you the truth about a garment—as long as we pledge our name with every sale.

And once we fail we ask you to part with us—for our own sake as well as yours.

No store in our whole broad land has a better ethical concept of business than Rothberg's—and certainly no store adheres more closely to it.

EDUCATIONAL

To Have the Confidence of Every Man & Woman Who Lives in This Vicinity

That is the goal of our ambitions—to have everyone feel that whatever monies you spend in this store—ARE WELL SPENT, and that you get in return the fullest values possible. We knew that we could not gain that confidence from you when we first commenced business here unless we dealt with you in an honest, straightforward way and that is what we have done and will do—just as long as this house exists.

Dealing with the public in this honest, straightforward, truthful way has been the store policy by which our earlier enterprises at Selma and since in New Brunswick have been made so successful, and our business here is steadily going ahead and will continue to do so, because we feel certain that those same methods which have won success elsewhere could not fail to do so here. Our latest enterprise in Elmira, N. Y., is another example of the policy of the "Tepper" Stores, as we are having results there far beyond our greatest hopes.

And here in Plainfield we will always strive for your unbounded confidence in the only way possible—by dealing with you in an honest manner, giving you absolute value on every purchase, giving you the best service possible, courteous treatment, and one price to all; and in all other little details that crop up in the management of a public institution, because we want you all to have sufficient and merited confidence in us that will prompt you to say

I Know That When I Buy at Tepper's I Buy Right

BLUECOAT LAYS PLIGHT TO SPIRITS TAKEN FOR COLD

New Brunswick, May 21.—Claiming spirits he had taken to overcome the effects of a cold had affected him so that he appeared intoxicated is the explanation given by Patrolman John Vliet of his condition while on duty, which led to his suspension Monday. The police committee charges him with being intoxicated on duty and failing to answer roll call or make telephone reports.

Vliet has been on the force six years.

SEEKING RED BANK MAN WHO DISAPPEARED LAST AUGUST

Red Bank, May 21.—Going out to get his shoes polished August 5 last, Augustus Borden failed to return. The disappearance was made known yesterday. The vanished man made his home with his brother, Al Borden, of Monmouth street.

Mrs. Eliza Borden, the mother, of 71 Benson avenue, Ocean Grove, has expressed the belief that her son either has been drowned or killed by a train. His disappearance was made public at this time in the hope that if he is still living he may be found in time to see an aunt who is said to be dying.

TAX RATE REDUCED IN TWO BERGEN BOROUGHS

Trenton, May 21. Reductions in the tax rate of the boroughs of Dumont and Norwood, Bergen county, for the year 1912, were ordered by the State Board of Equalization of Taxes, Monday. In both cases the reduction ordered was from $2.72 to not more than $2.31.

Both reductions were ordered in accordance with the provisions of the Hillery maximum tax rate law. In the case of Norwood the appeal was taken by Henry Essig, and in that of Dumont by Benjamin J. Whittaker. The decision of the board was based upon the conclusion reached in deciding an appeal of George White, asking for the reduction of the tax rate in Hackensack.

SIX SUE TO COMPEL MAYOR TO SIGN SALARY WARRANTS

New Brunswick, May 21.—Six rules to show cause why writs of mandamus should not be issued were signed by Supreme Court Justice James J. Bergen Monday and served upon Mayor John J. Morrison. The rules will be argued before the Supreme Court, June 10.

The action is to compel the Mayor to sign the salary warrants for Democratic officeholders for January, February and March. The Mayor holds the ousting of the Republican officials last January illegal, and refuses to pay the new officers, holding up his own salary, too, as all are covered by one resolution.

The writs were obtained by Street Commissioner John J. Courran, Overseer of the Poor Arthur O'Neill, City Engineer Asher Atkinson and Tax Assessors William F. Harkins, Frederick Tappen and William Howell.

Plainfield, N. J., May 21, 1913.

THE EASIEST THING.

Unquestionably the easiest thing in the world to do is to run a newspaper. The fact is that ninety-nine men out of a hundred can edit and manage the paper they read far better than those who are engaged in that work. If you have any doubt about the truth of this assertion, ask the first man you meet on the street. If he doesn't tell you the weak points of the newspaper and what a world-beater he would be if allowed to get out the sheet, we miss our guess. It will be his opinion that the paper contains too much of this sort of thing and not enough of that sort of thing. He could go out on the street, no question about it, and dig up more live news in an hour than a trained reporter could in a day, and he would write an editorial that would make people shiver. He would call a spade a spade and he would turn things upside down. There's nothing to it; he would have a real newspaper when he once got on the job.

The sad part of it all is that the average newspaper editor and manager keenly realize what a dismal failure they are in the eyes of the subscribers. Why they read the paper at all is a mystery to the publishers. The Easton Sunday Call's editor, for instance, takes this view of the condition as presented. Says the Call:

"One meets very few people who are not competent to edit and publish an acceptable and popular newspaper. There are men who will admit that they don't understand medicine sufficiently well to practice the art of curing human ills. There are also quite a number who if asked would decline to occupy a pulpit or try a case in court, but none of them would hesitate to go into a print shop and write editorials and manage the issuing of a daily or weekly publication. Of all the easy tasks in the world none equals that of the editor and publisher. "It's as easy as rolling off a wet log."

But somehow or other, the newspaper criticized comes out regularly every day and somehow or other it continues to increase in circulation and in advertising volume. Strange, isn't it?

Widespread publicity is and should be given the law enacted at the last regular session of the Legislature making the publication of fradulent advertising a misdemeanor. It is one of the best works of the lawmakers and for the benefit of the local public, we therefore quote its most important provisions:

"Any person, firm, corporation or association who with intent to sell or in any wise dispose of merchandise, securities, service or anything offered by such person, firm, corporation or association, directly or indirectly, to the public for sale or distribution, or with intent to increase the consumption thereof, or to induce the public in any manner to enter nito any obligation relating thereto, or to acquire title thereto, or an interest therein, makes, publishes, disseminates, circulates or places before the public, or causes, directly or indirectly, to be made, published, disseminated, circulated, or placed before the public, in this State, in a newspaper or other publication or in the form of a book, notice or in any other way, an advertisement of any sort regarding merchandise, securities, service or anything so offered to the public, which advertisement contains any assertion, representation or statement of a fact which is untrue, deceptive or misleading, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

Although thrice defeated in his attempt to wrest the America's cup from this country, the plucky sportsman, Sir Thomas Lipton, is determined to make another effort. His challenge has been accepted and the races, the fourteenth series since 1851, will take place off our shores a year from next September. Eleven years have elapsed since the Irish baronet brought over his Shamrock the Third but during all that time he has never given up the intention of making another try to take the prized cup back to England from whence it came as a result of the Yankee victory in the first race around the Isle of Wight.

Out at Williams Bay, Wisconsin, there's a man who boasts that he is 112 years old and he proudly attributes his longevity to the fact that he arises at 6 o'clock in the morning and retires at 7 in the evening. That man hasn't lived; he's been a Rip VanWinkling.

The contributing editor for Saturday's issue will discuss a movement which has for its object the physical and moral upbuilding of the youth of the land.

The average "popular man" has no more backbone than a jellyfish—Paterson Call.

And he is "generally all things to all men."

Did Mr. Colby say so and if not what warrant is there for the assertion?

PLAN CELEBRATION OF EMANCIPATION OF NEGRO

The meeting held at Bethel chapel last night in the interest of the celebration being planned by the National Emancipation Celebration League, was largely attended and was enthusiastic. Dr. J. C. Anderson, who is chairman of the local commitee, presided and the speakers included Dr. S. P. Hood, chief oragnizer and Rev. J. A. White, assistant organizer, both of whom outlined the proposed plans.

It was decided not to join with Philadelphia in the celebration, but to hold an independent celebration on Young's Pier at Atlantic City the first week in September. The different days will be set apart for the consideration of science, the professions, educational topics, and there will be a Mother's Day and a day for the parade, in which it is expected that all of the fraternal societies of the State will be represented as well as the boy scouts.

SCHOOL CHILDREN PRESENT MUSICAL

Concert Given in Franklin School Auditorium Last Night Well Received.

Parents and friends of the Franklin School pupils packed the auditorium of that institution last night to attend the exhibit of music presented by the pupils under the direction of Charles L. Lewis, supervisor of music in the local public schools. The selections were taken from those familiar to the child, being sung regularly throughout the year during the morning exercises which are held daily and the children sung them in a way that called forth much favorable comment. The numbers included songs by classes, individuals and the entire school, all of which were well received and appreciated by the audience.

The program:

"Welcome to the Springtime" and "Vocal Polka," by the chorus; Grade 1-A, Miss Barber, teacher, "Slumber Boat," "Telephone," "Just Waking Up;" Grade 1-B and C, Misses Wilkins and Baldwin, teachers, "Daffy Down Dilly," "The Three Sisters," "Over the River;" Grade II-A, Miss Slocum, teacher, "Indian Lullaby," "Violets Blue," "Jack Frost;" solo, "I Once Had a Sweet Little Doll, Dears," by Miss Sarah Johnson. SHE SUES MILLIONAIRES FOR $10,000 DAMAGES

Elizabeth, May 21.—The suit for $10,000 damages instituted by Mrs. Fannie Reves, of Cranford, against Thomas A. and William M. Sperry, the millionaire heads of the Sperry & Hutchinson Company, which was begun in the Union County Court yesterday before Judge Vail, is still on today and will probably not be finished until late this afternoon. Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees represents the defense and the plaintiffs are represented by Frank Herwig and Philip J. Shotland.

The plaintiffs alleged that a dam built by the Sperrys on the Rahway river in Cranford, caused the river to overflow and ruin their property. The defense is that the old dam was washed away by floods and the Sperrys thinking to benefit the town, had replaced it with a new and modern structure at their own personal expense. This dam, the defense claims, was lower than the original structure, and that any damages resulting from the land being submerged by water, was due to the rise and fall of the water.

ANNOYS POLICE.

The similarity in the sound of the Boy Scout whistles with those used by the police is frequently causing the police much trouble and confusion, as was illustrated last night when Arthur Parson, of 424 East Fourth street, and Frank Winston, of 201 Plainfield avenue, both colored, while returning from a Boy Scout meeting brought the police up on the run in response to the blowing of their whistles. Patrolman Frank Sweeney was one of the policemen who answered the call, and he decided to take the whistles from the boys and report the matter to Chief Kiely.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

By FRANCES MARSHALL

Health for the Hair.

Nothing but constant care keeps the hair and scalp in good condition. Occasional trips to the professional hairdresser will in no way make up for daily neglect. The hair which is regularly brushed and cleaned and aired is like the garden or plant which is watered every day—far ahead of that which receives occasional lavish attention but which is neglected every day.

The thing of first importance in hair health is cleanliness. Most authorities agree that the hair should not be washed only once a month but it should be cleaned every day. Brushing, airing and massage accomplish this.

Brushing.

A woman who had very beautiful hair once said that anyone who used a clean brush every day could have thick and lustrous hair. The brushing loosens and collects dirt, dust and grime, dried oil and scales of dry skin from the scalp and hair and if these substances are not removed from the brush, before it is used again, they are again scattered through the hair. So the brush, even if it is not washed every day, should be washed often enough to keep it clean and dustless.

The hair should be aired, although care must be taken not to go about in the hot sun without a hat; the sun fades and, according to some authorities, really injures the quality of the hair. If it is possible to rest a little while each day sitting by an open window, with the hair loose and flowing, this is the best way to air it.

Massage.

Massage keeps the scalp in a healthy condition—or at least helps to do so—and so is of great help in keeping the hair in good condition. A good way to massage the scalp is to work for about five or ten minutes a day with both hands, bringing the thumb and finger down on the scalp about half an inch apart and rubbing them firmly together, pinching the scalp between them gently. This massage keeps the scalp in healthy working order and is well worth the time it takes.

Another way to promote the cleanliness and health of the scalp is to rub it occasionally with a cloth wrung out of very hot water and alcohol. This cleanses and stimulates the scalp, and will be found restful and refreshing in warm weather.

Beautiful hair requires attention and care, and no one who is not willing to bestow both in moderation has a right to hope for locks worth having.

FRESH TROUT.

TROUT is delicious served in the ways mentioned below:

Trout Marinaded.—Take two large fresh trout and place in a shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and a little flour. Add a sprig or two of parsley, a cucumber sliced thin and a very small onion or shallot either sliced or finely minced. Put in a bay leaf, three lumps of sugar, the weight of these in butter and an egg-cupful of white vinegar. Bake the fish three-quarters of an hour.

Served Cold.

Spiced Trout.—Cut into slices a trout weighing two pounds. Wash, wipe dry and sprinkle with a little salt and let stand for one-half hour. Then wash and let come to a boil in a bouillon made of five cupfuls of water, one-half cupful of cider vinegar, a half dozen cloves and pepper balls, two bay leaves and salt to taste. Take the fish out and put into a deep dish and add one-half cupful of sugar, one large onion and one lemon, sliced, to fish liquid. Boil until the onion is tender, then remove from the fire and gradually pour on the well beaten yolks of two eggs into which one tablespoonful of flour has been mixed. Return to fire, boil one minute and pour over fish. To be eaten cold.

Daintily Browned.

Fried Trout.—Rub the trout well with salt and pepper, dredge with flour or dip in a well beaten egg and roll in cracker dust. Have a lump of fresh lard and a little ham or bacon fat in a pan. Cook fish golden brown on both sides. As soon as it flakes when tried with a fork drain off the fat carefully, then put a piece of butter in the pan. Let this bubble, but not get too brown. Turn fish carefully. Serve on hot platter.

Served With Sauce.

Baked Trout.—Wash the fish carefully and wipe dry. Take two cupfuls of breadcrumbs and moisten with cold water. Chop one slice of onion and half stalk of celery fine and add to breadcrumbs. Season with one-quarter of a teaspoonful each of salt and pepper, one large teaspoonful of butter, and cook ten minutes. Stuff the fish as full as possible and tie it together with a white cord. Put two tablespoonfuls of lard in a dripping pan, with hot water enough to keep from burning, and rub the fish thoroughly with salt. Cut fine thin slices of salt pork and lay on the fish and bake one and one-half hours. Serve with the following sauce: Take two tablespoonfuls of browned flour, one heaping tablespoonful of butter and one of cream. Rub the flour and butter to a cream; add cream, one-fourth teaspoonful each of salt and pepper and six or seven capers. Add boiling water until it is the right consistency and pour around fish. Serve hot.

The Strangers Plucked the Roses.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Roses Got Their Thorns.

THE roses in the garden were almost ready to bloom. Evelyn had pricked her finger trying to pick a bud.

"Why do roses have thorns on their stems?" Jack wondered.

"Ah," said daddy, "the thorns are there to take care of the pretty flower. That is why Mother Nature put them there.

"Once on a time roses had no thorns. They grew in loveliness in the forest, where only the bees and birds saw and loved them.

"Each flower had a fairy to take care of it, and the rose fairies were the prettiest and brightest elves in fairyland. Every one loved them.

"They swung in their rose hammocks all day and rode about in the sunshine on the wings of butterflies or went to moonlight parties on the backs of moths. They loved the forest and never dreamed of leaving it.

"But one day trees came crashing down and huge forms pushed their way through the shrubbery. Mortals had at last made their way into the woodlands.

"When the strangers reached the lovely flowery nooks where the roses were growing they, so the story goes, were so charmed by the beautiful blossoms that they plucked some of them to take home to the ladies.

"And the fairies, who lived in the roses, were many of them carried away in the blossoms and faded and died when the roses did. So, of course, there was great mourning in Roseland. The roses were almost afraid to open their little buds for fear the men would come back and carry off more of them.

"One morning they did come back, and when the rose fairies heard them coming they said, 'Now we will fight.' So they borrowed from the bees and the wasps and the hornets the stings with which they protected themselves, and they set these up along the stems and twigs and branches.

"Then when a mortal came up to a bush and tried to rob it of its flower these stings would sink into their flesh and they would cry aloud with pain and go away trying to get the sting out of their hands. And the fairies were pleased, for they thought now their dear roses should be left in peace.

"But they were mistaken. They did not understand mortals very well, for one day the men came back again with picks and spades, and they dug up the loveliest rosebushes by the roots and loaded them into carts and carried them off to plant in their own gardens, where they could see them all the time. They had stout gloves on their hands, and through these the stings could not pass. But the stings grew tightly to the stems, and when the roses were planted in the mortals' gardens the mortals gave to them the name of thorns."

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

The Equal Suffragists of Plainfield are not feeling at all disturbed over the announcement that an anti-suffrage league is about to be established here. On the contrary the same results are anticipated for this city as have been obtained in Elizabeth. Miss Esther Ogden, president of the Elizabeth Equal Suffrage League, stated to the writer that after the recent organization meeting of the "antis" in that town twenty-seven new members were added to her league within ten days. The woman suffragists court discussion and even the bitterest opposition is much to be preferred to apathy and indifference.

We urge everybody to attend all the meetings of the antis with note book and pencil so that they may correctly record the argument advanced. We promise to refute through the Plainfield papers any that may be proclaimed. Every citizen, man or woman, owes it to himself and herself and to humanity to be fully informed on both sides of this important subject. An old broad-minded preacher was told that he was accused of heresy. "I don't care what my hearers say of me," he retorted, "if I can only make them think."

Mrs. Mary Ware Dennet, superintendent of the National Suffrage Headquarters, at 505 Fifth avenue, said to the writer recently: "The hardest proposition we have to deal with is the suburbanite middle class woman. Contented, thoughtless, selfish, she simply will not go to meetings or read literature or even listen to arguments. It is comparatively easy to reach the stated rich or the suffering poor, but your suburbanite is well nigh hopeless!" Ellen Key, the great Swedish writer, finds in Sweden these same apathetic women, whose final, powerful sluggish reason against the ballot is, "We do not care a particle for that miserable vote. Why should we try to get more undesirable burdens than we already have? We simply don't want it!" Having previously swept away all the other objections, Miss Key exclaims, "Before such a reason even a Socrater would remain mute. And those who reject the vote have therefore the last word. But this is the course of things in this strange world of ours that whenever one part of the community puts its thoughtless or heartless 'I will not' against the great and just claims of the time, it is the event of the time and the personal fortunes which give the final answer. Those who nowadays refuse to vote will perhaps experience political or social disaster which the women of the country might have prevented through their vote. And it certainly also may fall to the lot of some of these indifferent women to see those who are dear to them become victims of conditions in society which voting and eligible women might have helped to destroy. And it is still more probable that those same 'refusing' women will be harmed by old laws which voting and eligible women could have caused to be changed or abolished."

LOUISE B. DORR.

"I was not favorable to suffrage before it was granted," writes a woman from Seattle, "but when I contrast the difference in our treatment and in the interest which we take—and are encouraged to take—in all public affairs, and what it will mean for the human uplift, I am willing to say that I am very much ashamed of my former attitude."

The Elizabeth Equal Suffrage League will hold a public meeting at the Elizabeth Town and Country Club on Thursday afternoon, May 22, at half after three o'clock. Miss Esther G. Ogden, president of the league, will preside and the speakers will be Mrs. Raymond Brown and the Rev. Waldo A. Amos, association rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Brown is the president of the Women Suffrage Study Club, of New York, and it was she who organized the beautiful pageant given at the Metropolitan Opera House on the evening of May 2.

Mr. Amos is a strong advocate of the great democratic movement exemplified in the campaign to secure equal suffrage. Both he and Mrs. Brown are speakers of exceptional ability and training and no doubt many people outside of Elizabeth will take advantage of the opportunity to hear them. No admission is charged and all those interested in the subject of suffrage will be welcome. Mrs. Arthur Tounsend, treasurer of the Woman's Political Union, of New York, and other leading suffragists will occupy seats on the platform.

The membership of the Elizabeth League is steadily increasing and includes professional women, business women, women of leisure, trained nurses, teachers and social workers. Among the men members are the Mayor of Elizabeth and representatives of the law, medicine, the ministry and business interests. An active campaign throughout the coming year is to be conducted on broad democratic lines in every part of the city.

The Montclair Club Hall was filled to overflowing on Monday night at the annual meeting of the Montclair Equal Suffrage League. The admission was 10 cents and about $50 were taken in at the door.

The boy scouts took up the collection which amounted to $56.

The business of the evening was transacted in about ten minutes and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. G. G. Scott; vice president, Miss Alice Parsons; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Hunter; corresponding secretary, Miss Rose; recording secretary, Miss Cassandra Kinaman. The chairman, Mrs. C. C. Scott, then introduced General Rosalie Jones, who entertained her audience with a description of the hike to Washington and especially commended the New Jersey roads. The object of the hike, she stated, was to reach the country people who hadn't come in touch with this great woman movement and also enlighten the college youth. The surprise of the evening was the presence of Helen Ring Robinson, the woman Senator from Colorado, who charmed her audience. Then came the address of Miss Elsie MacKenzie, the English Militant, whose dignified demeanor and discourse won the respect of all present.

Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, was the principal speaker at the yearly meeting of New Jersey and Pennsylvania Friends, held in the Quaker Meeting House, 15th and Race streets, Philadelphia, May 13. She spoke on the need of women suffrage in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and told of the methods of work which have been adapted for the coming suffrage campaign in both these States. The voters will have a chance to express themselves on this question at a special election in New Jersey in 1914 and in Pennsylvania in 1915.

For the Outdoor Girl.

A hot bath and a vigorous rubbing after a day outdoors is a necessity both for cleanliness and to prevent fatigue. The feet and the face and hair naturally suffer most, and where much walking is done one should be careful not only to bathe the feet in lukewarm water and soda at night, but also to keep the soles powdered and take heed that the stockings are well fitting and without creases. Even though the shoe be well fitting much misery is caused by too long, too short or too heavy stockings.

For Headaches.

When the first symptoms of a headache appear take one teaspoonful of clear lemon juice fifteen minutes before each meal and at bedtime and continue until symptoms are past. For biliousness plain lemon juice and water is very good. It allays fever and promotes sleep and appetite.

BALL PARK TO BE CORNFIELD.

Glen Gardner, May 21.—With little regard for the national game and with none at all for the Glen Gardner baseball team, former County Collector Humphrey has plowed up his meadow, where the team used to have its games, and will plant corn on the erstwhile diamond. The meadow is about the only available piece of ground in Glen Gardner for ball games, but the team didn't pay Mr. Humphrey the $40 rent he demanded and, as a consequence, corn tassels will nod where three-baggers used to fly, while crows will camp in the grandstand, once occupied by leather-lunged rooters.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

Sporting Editor:

Query—Can there be more than one assist scored on a single play in baseball, if so, under what circumstances.—L. E. D.

Answer—Assists should be credited to every player who handles the ball in the play which results in a base runner being called "out" for interference or for running out of line. Therefore you can see that a play can evoke more than one assist.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can I apply for registration in the Amateur Athletic Union? What is the registration fee?—M. K. G.

Answer—Registration blanks can be secured from and filed with E. C. Ostlin, physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., and the fee is twenty-five cents annually.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Has anything been done toward arranging an athletic meet to be held on Parker Field this summer and if so, under whose auspices are the events to be run?—J. K. B.

Answer—The Scotish Clans have suggested a meet to be held under their auspices on Columbus Day, October 12; but nothing has been done toward starting the annual Y. M. C. A. meet which was supposed to be held every Fourth of July. There will be frequent minor meets for children under the director of the playground commission.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What High School would Plainfield High have to consider in claiming the State High School baseball championship?—J. S.

Answer—Having already defeated Seton Hall "Prep," the local school boys have yet to play Trenton High School, which is considered to be a formidable opponent. Rahway High, while not on the P. H. S. schedule, would also have to be considered. There is practically no such thing as claiming a "High School" title as the State "Prep" schools are also included in such an undertaking. Therefore P. H. S. would also have to defeat the St. Benedict "Prep" school, of Newark, which is perhaps the strongest combination in the State.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Does it make a ball player a professional to coach a track team for which he receives compensation of any kind?—A. R. T.

Answer—It certainly does. Professionalism covers every branch of sport and if an athlete is barred in one he is barred in all.

BASEBALL NOTES

The champion Lawrence team is piling up a big lead in the New England League race.

The Pirates will have to start something if they intend to live up to their reputation as pennant contenders.

Seldom does a youngster make a better showing in the major leagues than has Pitcher Ray Keating, of the Highlanders.

Mike Donlin, who is on the Phillies' reserve list, says that he would like to have another trial with the Gaints.

Johnny Kling's fancy backstopping and batting should help Joe Tinker's Reds slap one on the enemy now and then.

Pitcher Cliff Curtis, a veteran of many campaigns, is helping the Brooklyn Superas climb the ladder by clever work on the slab.

Charley O'Leary is doing great work for the Cardinals in Hauser's place at short. Charley is knocking them down from any angle.

In only two of the first 22 games did Eddie Collins, of the Athletics, fail to make a hit. He is leading the American League in batting.

Clark Griffith's Washington Climbers ran into a snag or two on their Western trip, but came right back and are still out to cop the muslin.

The St. Paul team leads the American Association in club batting and stands second in club fielding, but is having its troubles keeping out of the cellar at that.

Briscoe Lord, who helped the Athletics win a world's championship, is back in the big show, this time with the Boston Braves. He was with Baltimore last season.

Little old jinks has fallen off the fence into the Cleveland ball yard. Just as the Naps began to show some class Manager Birmingham broke a leg and Lajoie spilt a finger.

Manager Jennings, of the Tigers, will try out a new first baseman, Mr. Pipp from Kalamazoo. It is said Mr. Pipp was a considerable ball player in the Southern Michigan League.

While the Cubs were playing in New York recently, Charley Murphy the Cubs' boss, appeared at the Polo grounds decked out in gorgeous scenery the likes of which Gotham had never seen before.

"Big Ed" Walsh was in 60 games last season, but he is not feeling well this spring and Manager Callahan fears that Ed will not be able to take part in more then 58 or 59 games this year.

Duffy Lewis the Sox left fielder has a great throwing arm. In a recent game in Detroit Duffy doubled up a man at first base, and later in the same game he got Ty Cobb at the plate.

So far this season the Phillies have been the hardest team for National League warriors to beat. And before the season opened the dope was peddled around that Dooin's crew would never see the first division.

NEW YORK YACHT CLUB ACCEPTS THE CHALLENGE

The New York Yacht Club yesterday cabled to the Royal Ulster Yacht Club accepting Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for the America's Cup. The races will take place in September, 1914, under the New York Yacht Club's present rules as to measurement, time allowance, and racing rules.

Sir Thomas considers that the conditions of acceptance of his challenge by the New York Yacht Club are a great victory for him. He says they will enable him to build a good, seaworthy boat.

There are, he says, a few small details yet to be settled, but he feels sure that these will be arranged satisfactorily. One of these difficulties is the question whether Sir Thomas Lipton will be allowed to tow his yacht across the Atlantic. As to this Sir Thomas says he feels sure the members of the New York Yacht Club will do everything that is right in the way of granting this concession.

PIKE SEASON OPENS.

On next Tuesday the season opens for pike and pickerel and a large number of the fishermen are getting out their tackle from last season and oiling up. There are a number of excellent places for this game fish. Weston's Mill is perhaps known to everyone and contains not a few of the fish. Parsons' Pond, in Milltown, is also the rendezvous for a number of fishermen and some excellent catches have been reported from this source. The mill pond at New Market is also reported to contain some good fish.

CITY LEAGUE HELD IMPORTANT SESSION

Matters of a Business Nature Disposed of at Special Session Last Night.

A special meeting of the City Baseball League was held in the rooms of the West End Athletic Club last night and many matters of importance concerning the league management were discussed and disposed of. Two of the league teams, the West Ends and the Saurers, posted their league forfeits and are now bona fide members of the organization which will begin active operations next Saturday afternoon, the opening date which was originally carded for last Saturday being deferred one week because of rain.

It was decided to place players' benches on the two fields that have been selected for the contesting of games by the organization and this work will be started immediately and ropes will be put up along the first and third base lines to keep spectators off the field of play. Ten per cent. of the gate receipts of each game will be turned over by the respective managers to the league treasurer who will use the same in paying off current expenses. Tickets have already been provided for the four teams and the managers will also have charge of their disposition.

Another meeting of the organization has been called for next Friday night and at that time each team has requested to have an umpire on hand and the official's duties will be threshed out to the satisfaction of all at that meeting.

DRISCOLL'S FEMALE STAR WANTED BY CONNIE MACK

On Saturday afternoon, Miss Carrie Kilbourn, the wonderful girl pitcher, will make her 1913 debut in baseball, pitching on the Kilbourn Knitting Machine Shop team against the Interwoven team. The game will be played at Amusement Park, New Brunswick, preliminary to a Central New Jersey League game, which will be staged there. Miss Kilbourn's pitching will be received by Tom Hanson, a former Rutgers player.

Among the many offers received from all parts of the country for Miss Kilbourn to show her athletic skill is a standing one from Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics. One day last season Miss Kilbourn practiced with the Athletics at Shibe Park. Connie Mack from the clubhouse saw her performing, and ran out and stood behind for a half an hour, watching her break and curve the ball. "Any time she wants to travel," Connie Mack told I. W. Kilbourn, "let me know. She can travel with us for exhibition purposes any time she desires."

Miss Kilbourn is slated to pitch in Philadelphia on May 31 on an independent team.

Y. M. A. A. HAD HOT PRACTICE.

The Y. M. A. A.'s had last night probably the warmest practice they have had this season and Manager Conger was well pleased with the showing the team made in general. Practicably an entire new infield will be placed in the game Saturday against the Somerville Klinkers. The latter team has the name of being a strong aggregation, and Manager Conger is putting forth every effort to put in the game this Saturday one of the fastest amateur teams in the city. There will be season tickets on sale this week which will entitle holder to witness any contest of the above team played on their home grounds.

MARLINS WON FAST DIAMOND STRUGGLE

Succeeded in Downing the Manhasset Club by a Score of 9 to 3.

Last Sunday the popular Marlin baseball team travelled to Manhasset, L. I., and defeated the strong Manhasset baseball club in a fast game by the score 9 to 3. "Speedy Joe" McDonald, who was on the mound for the winners, pitched a steady game, fanning thirteen men and allowing only six hits, and aided by excellent support by his team mates, pulled out the sixth consecutive victory for the Marlins.

The feature of the game was the fielding of Garry and Biley for the winners and also the batting of Morge, the later obtaining four hits in five times at bat. Left fielder Biley made three wonderful catches that brought applause from the large crowd that witnessed the game, stopping liners that were labelled for extra bases. Shortstop Garry figured in three lightning double plays, and also accepted four difficult chances.

The score:

		R.	H.	E.
Marlin	0 1 0 0 3 0 3 2 0	9	14	1
Manhasset	0 1 0 2 0 0 0 0 0	3	6	4

Batteries: McDonald and Gill; Ween, Fox and Halahan.

MRS. ROGERS' JERSEYITES WON DECISIVE GOLF MATCH

Mrs. N. P. Rogers, of this city playing under the colors of the Baltusrol Country Club, headed a team of Jerseyites in the third of a series of matches over the links of the Knollwood Country Club, yesterday afternoon, her team winning the championship over a team headed by Miss G. M. Bishop, composed mostly of New Yorkers, by a score of 22 points to 13.

Mrs. Rogers was opposed to Miss Bishop in the principal match, with the result that the latter, who is a former National champion, came out on the winning end by means of a garrison finish, squaring the match on the sixteenth green, and winning the last two holes. The margin was two up.

VAN DEVENTER LOST TWICE BUT TIGER TEAM WON AGAIN

Although the Princeton University tennis team succeeded in keeping its record unblemished playing against Yale yesterday afternoon, Ludlow VanDeventer, the local boy playing with the Tigers, was forced to swallow another defeat, being beaten by Peasley, of Yale, in the singles by scores of 1-6, 6-4, 6-3. VanDeventer played on the losing side once more in the doubles when, paired with Farr he was defeated by Peasley and Stanley, of Yale, by scores of 2-6, 7-5 and 6-3.

The Tigers took six singles and two of the doubles. After the matches the Princeton team elected Winfred Hayes Mace, a Sophomore, captain for next season, who with George H. Church was the intercollegiate doubles champion last year.

DRISCOLL DID NOT ENTER THE LEAGUE

Bergen and Williams do the "Shafer" Act—Both Have Quit Plainfield Team.

Central New Jersey League magnates held another busy session in Hotel Kensington last night disposing of a number of outstanding details, pertinent to the playing of the regular Saturday afternoon games this week. Although it was expected that Dave Driscoll would be on hand to enter his Brunswick aggregation last night, the former Plainfield captain did not apply for a franchise and therefore Bound Brook was not taken in as a member of the organization.

In the event of Bound Brook entering without a sixth team in the circuit the organization would be an odd team one, thereby mixing up a schedule to an untold degree and leaving one team idle every week-end. Present conditions seem to indicate that New Brunswick will come in before the next games are played, however, and if this comes through Bound Brook and New Brunswick will meet on the Amusement Park diamond in New Brunswick, as Newhouse is ready to enter his combination at a moment's notice.

Manager Ernest Dorflinger, of the Plainfield baseball team, announced at the meeting held last night that Bergen, the crack outfielder who formerly played with the New York Yankee team on its training trip two seasons ago, and Williams, the Sunday Day School League recruit who has been trying out at short, had quit the team, giving him no reason for their actions. Dorflinger will have substitutes to fill the gap by Saturday, however, and the two players who have jumped local contracts are not eligible to play with any other team in the league.

ALEX SMITH MAKES NEW RECORD AT SOMERVILLE

Aleck Smith, former national open champion, who will captain the team of American professional golfers against a team of Frenchmen at La Boulie, France, next month, had a good tryout on Saturday at the Somerville Country Club in a four ball match with Edward Eriksen, the home pro, as his partner against Jack Auchterlonie. While Smith and Hobens, of Englewood, and Lawrence Eriksen lost 6 up and 5 to play for thirty-six holes the redoubtable Aleck set a new course record of 78 in the afternoon.

Auchterlonie had charge of the green of the Glen View Country Club, near Chicago, for eleven years and went back to St. Andrews, Scotland, two years ago. He recently returned to America to take charge of the green of the Ravisloe Country Club, also near Chicago.

FIELD DAY FOR P. S. MEN AT HILTON OVAL

A delegation of fifteen employes of the Plainfield division of the Public Service Railway Corporation went by special trolley to Hilton Oval, Essex county, yesterday, when the annual field day of that corporation was held. The affair was attended by 1,500 employes and officials of the corporation representing the Plainfield, Paterson, Hudson County, Milltown, Hilton, Montclair, Orange, Roseville, South Orange, Edgewater, West Hoboken, Greenville, Elizabeth, Big Tree and Montgomery divisions, all of whom made the trip in special trolleys. A feature of the day's program was the ball game between the Montclair and Elizabeth divisions, and the former's 200 rooters cheered frantically when their favorite won the diamond contest by a score of 9 to 7.

Few ceremonies were gone through previous to the athletic events, the whole attraction being displayed before the ball game, when led by prominent officials of the Public Service Corporation and a few officials at the different car houses, the athletes held their annual meet.

An act which was not on the program, but caused much interest, was the one performed by William Ulrick, of Irvington. The lad was one of the onlookers at the meet with a friend, when it occurred to Ulrick that he could sit on top of a water tank near the Hilton carhouse. A small wager was made and Ulrick started his way up. The Irvington lad did not use the ladder which led to the bottom of the tank, which was about eight feet from the ground, but climbed up through the girders. The top of the tank, which is about 100 feet from earth, stoned down and made climbing impossible. This did not check the new youth, for he lassoed a big iron bolt which was on the top of the tank and slowly pulled himself up to the highest point, where he remained for a few minutes, while the down-town crowd to show that he had reached the top. Much applause went up when he had completed his climb and he was heartily congratulated by a few of his friends who awaited his return. Ulrick got down safely.

Enthusiasm was at its highest when the athletes from the twenty-two departments and four poles responded to Referee Eddie Dillon's call for the trial heats of the 100-yard dash. About 150 entrants were in the race, and all during the time the heats and finals were run off there was cheering galore, for nearly every car house and department represented had followers by the score, and no contestant was shy a little ovation from his fellow members.

A program of nine other events was run off by experienced officials, the competition being keen and the rivalry intense at all times. No local man took part in the field events but the Plainfielders were interested spectators. A banquet was served following the meet and all returned in the special cars that night.

EMERY'S WARDROBE SWELLED WHEN HE GETS CIRCUIT HIT

Jim Emery, the former Plainfield baseball club's third baseman, was presented with a sole leather suitcase and half a dozen pairs of silk hose yesterday, when he banged out the first home run of the Ohio-Pennsylvania League season. The bases were unoccupied when the Queen City product dented the pill to the extent of four bases but nevertheless the haberdashers in the little town of Steubenville, where the bingle was made, came across with the accessories they had previously offered for the first home run of the season.

Emery is playing the difficult corner to perfection for the Steubenville aggregation and has earned a permanent berth by virtue of his hard hitting and clean fielding. The league is a class C organization and his team finished third in the league race last year.

DREW SEMINARY SEEKING MILLION

Madison, May 21.—In order to put Drew Theological Seminary upon a self-supporting basis, so that it will be possible to do away with annual requests for private subscriptions to eke out deficiencies, the board of trustees has voted to launch a campaign for that amount.

Rev. Dr. Ezra Squier Tipple, the new president, is sponsor for the scheme, and he urged it successfully upon the trustees, declaring that the necessity for an adequate endowment was one of the greatest problems confronting his administration.

In conformity to Dr. Tipple's desire, a trustees' sub-committee on endowment will name two committees, one an active body from among the membership of the trustees, and the other an alumni committee, to organize and carry out a campaign for subscriptions, with the million-dollar mark as its ultimate aim. In explaining his views Dr. Tipple said:

"For many years the income from present endowments has not been sufficient to meet the expenses of the seminary, and each year the income has been supplemented by private subscriptions. The number of these annual contributions has been diminishing through the deaths of the seminary's benefactors, and a new constituency must be created at the earliest possible moment, but this will require patience, time and great perseverance.

"Most persons, I find, erroneously think this institution is well endowed. The endowment must be increased immediately, so that the seminary will have larger resources at its command if it is to do the work that it must do to maintain its place in the front rank of theological institutions.

"The man who comes here must have training in business methods, in church finance, in organization of church societies, in apologetics and in comparative religion. This school has a distinct mission to the needs of hundreds of untrained men in the ministry of the church who have been deprived of educational advantages. To meet all these requirements we must have a larger income."

EDITOR AWARDED $250 AS RESULT OF NAP ON TRAIN

Paterson, May 21.—As the sequel to a nap on a train from New York to Passaic and an extra ride to this city last October, Frederick A. Mallery, of Passaic, an editor of New York, was awarded a verdict of $250 in his suit against the Erie Railroad by a jury in the Circuit Court yesterday. Mallery brought action for $20,000 for false arrest.

October 19 Mallery fell asleep on his way home from Manhattan, and awoke as the train was pulling out of the Passaic Station. The conductor demanded an extra fare of twelve cents.

Mallery refused to pay and was arrested. When arraigned the next morning the charges were dismissed.

MAN FOUND LIVING AFTER DEATH WAGON IS SUMMONED

Hackensack, May 21.—Thought to be dead when he was taken from a machine in which he had been caught headfirst, at the mill of the American Paper Company, in Bogota, William Anderson, eighteen years old, of Oak street, Ridgefield Park, showed signs of life, after County Physician Samuel E. Armstrong had been notified and the mortuary wagon summoned.

Instead of going to the morgue, Anderson was taken to the Hackensack Hospital in an ambulance that was called at the first indication of life he showed. It was said, however, that the youth had suffered a fracture of the skull and was in a precarious condition. Anderson was employed as a felt cleaner and was at work on the moving machinery.

LOST ON WAY TO HOSPITAL.

New Brunswick, May 21.—On his way to one of the local hospitals, to seek treatment for a broken rib, Raymond Hunt, of Rochester, N. Y., and engineer on the dredger Eddy at work in the Raritan River at Martines dock, two miles below this city, apparently became lost and was reported to the police yesterday as missing. Hunt fell into the pit on the dredger. He is twenty-four years old, with smooth face, and has one upper tooth missing.

BARBERS OF BAYONNE MAY QUIT THEIR CHAIRS MONDAY

Bayonne, May 21.—A strike of the journeymen barbers in this city will be called next Monday, it was said yesterday, unless the bosses agree to their demands.

They are seeking hours from 8 o'clock to 8 o'clock daily, except Saturday and Sunday. Saturday the time sought is from 8 to 10 o'clock, and Sunday from 8 o'clock to noon.

At a meeting of the Barbers' Protective Association, comprising the bosses, at Capitol Hall, it was voted to ask that the hours be made 7:30 o'clock to 8 o'clock every day except Saturday and Sunday. Saturday, 7:30 o'clock to 11 o'clock is sought, and Sunday, 7 o'clock to noon.

There was a conference last night at Columbia Hall between representatives of the Barbers' Protective Association and the Journeymen's Association, regarding the matter.

Memorial Day morning at 7:30 o'clock all comrades will assemble at Post Headquarters, Reform Hall, and proceed with band by trolley cars, leaving here at 8 o'clock to the Baptist cemetery, Scotch Plains, where services will be held and graves decorated under command of Dr. J. F. Berg. They will re-assemble at headquarters at 9:30 o'clock for the parade, in which Co. K and the Boy Scouts of the city will take part. The line of march will be as follows:

The line will form on Central avenue, right resting on West Second street. The marshal will order the line to move at 10 o'clock, prompt, through Second street to Park avenue, to Front street, to Watchung avenue, to Chatham street, to Presbyterian cemetery, where services will be held and graves decorated; thence through Chatham street to Somerset street, to Front street, to Plainfield avenue, to Evergreen cemetery, where services will be held and graves decorated; thence through West Fifth street to Central avenue, to Post Headquarters and dismiss for lunch and re-union. Flags, flowers and grave markers will be furnished at headquarters.

All comrades and visitors will reassemble at Reform Hall at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon for special exercises to be held in the hall. S. S. Swackhamer will be the orator of the day and make the address. Officers of the Post will also have a part in the program and a large chorus of school children in charge of the Women's Relief Corps will sing patriotic songs. Past Department Commander William C. Smith will preside and be master of ceremonies. The public is invited to these exercises. H. Craig Smith, adjutant, has prepared the order of exercises.

MISS DAY WON'T ACCEPT PENSION

Popular Teacher Privileged to Retire After Thirty-five Years' Service.

TWO ARE NOW ON LIST

Several Others Eligible to Half-pay—Superintendent Maxson Will Keep on Although He Could Ask To Be Relieved and Get a Pension.

Miss Anna M. Day, principal of the Stillman Public School, although havin been a teacher thirty-five years, twenty of which has been in the local public schools, and is privileged to retire on a half-pay pension under the State law, she has decided to continue teaching indefinitely, Under the provisions of the law a person who has been teaching for twenty years in one place can take advantage of the retirement feature, although the term of service is thirty-five years.

There are now two former teachers on the retirement list, Miss Ellen Niles, who taught in the High School, and Miss Emma Force, who was a teacher in the Franklin School. There are several teachers here who are entitled to the retirement privileges, but they prefer to remain in active service. Among these teachers who can now ask to be retired are Miss Millicent Humpstone, principal of the Washington School, who has been teaching for thirty-eight years; Miss Anna Booraem, of the Jefferson School, who has been teaching for thirty-five years, and Miss Louise Wood, who has served the same number of years. Miss Genevieve Petrie, principal of the Irving School, and Miss Noel Bullock, principal of the Franklin School, are also nearing the retirement period, provided they wish to take advantage of the law.

Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield Public Schools, has been a teacher for thirty-five years, and for the past twenty-one years has held his present position, but he has no thought of retiring on a pension. Dr. Maxson says that there will be a fewer number of changes in the teaching force for next year than usual, there being not more than seven or eight who contemplate making a change to some other school or getting married.

LOCAL MEN EXPLAIN HEBART HALL NEEDS

Committee Goes Over Atypical School Accounts and Makes An Appeal.

W. delaR. Anderson, H. W. Marshall, Charles Hamilton Frost, L. W. Randolph and Francis E. Bodin, comprising a committee of Plainfield citizens of the board of trustees of the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children, have examined the books of the association and in a statement declare them to be complete and kept in a business-like manner and that all individual items can be easily and conveniently traced and verified.

The report further states that the association has been conducting its various activities in an economical business-like manner, that the deficit is small in comparison with the great educational advantages, that the present efficiency is hampered by lack of funds, that no individuals connected with the association derive any personal benefit.

It is recommended that the people of Plainfield should realize that an association with a national reputation has its home in their midst and that for the expansion of some of the important national and State work, including scholarships for worthy children, a minimum fund of $15,000 is needed at present.

SWALLOWS PIN, BABY MAY DIE

Little Mazie Coleman's Stomach Contains Safety Pin and Tetanus is Feared.

VICTIM SUFFERS PAIN

Parents Away When Child Gulped It Down—Dr. Hervey Buchanan Will Use X-Ray to Locate It—But Worst is Feared.

Mazie Coleman, the sixteen months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Coleman, of 812 West Third street, is in a critical condition, the result of swallowing a pin a few days ago. The child is under the care of Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, but up to the present time all efforts to remove the pin have failed. The physician has decided to use the X ray treatment for the purpose of locating the pin before it has a chance to injure the vital parts of the stomach or become rusty and cause tetanus.

The accident happened while the child with her parents was visiting in Jersey City. The child got hold of a pin which she placed in her mouth. A member of the family noticing what had occurred made an attempt to get the pin, but instead pushed it further into the child's mouth and the next instant she swallowed it. Since then the child has suffered great pain and cries almost continually.

A physician was summoned, but his efforts to remove the pin were futile. The parents then decided to return home and place the infant in charge of their own physician. According to the latter there is a possible danger of the pin striking some vital part of the stomach or if allowed to remain undisturbed it might result in a case of tetanus.

3 AUTOS TO BE GIVEN AWAY BY DAILY PRESS

Prizes Aggregating Over $4,000. in Value Offered in the Greatest Subscription Campaign--It Costs Nothing to Enter and Nothing to Win--Stop, Look and Listen!

Who would like to own an automobile? Who would not devote a little of his spare time to pleasant and congenial work if he were to receive for his efforts an automobile?

Far surpassing the many generous offers that have been made in the past, The Plainfield Daily Press announces the most astounding offer of prizes ever given in Plainfield, viz.: $4,000 in prizes to be given away without a cent of cost.

How can it be done?

This is the question which many people will ponder over. It is easy to solve when it is recalled that the people of Plainfield and vicinity are loyal to The Plainfield Daily Press and always willing to give generous support. In return, The Plainfield Daily Press offers a first-class newspaper and is not afraid to venture such a generous offer as the present one.

It is needless to say what the result will be. Everything of a similar nature The Daily Press has undertaken has met with great success and the great prize distribution announced in this issue will by far surpass anything previously attempted.

As a part of today's issue is a big advertisement giving the details of the contest, the conditions, prizes and how to start and get your name in the list of winners. Never before have the people of this section had the opportunity of winning such big rewards for easy and pleasant work. Prizes such as The Plainfield Daily Press is offering, are big inducements, and in order to have everyone share equally, the territory has been divided into two districts.

Contest Open to Everyone.

Any man or woman, young or old, can enter the contest and compete for the many prizes. With the territory divided into two districts, everyone may enter with a good chance of winning, no matter how little or how much he is able to devote to the campaign. It is a strictly competitive proposition in which there is no element of luck or chance, and the results will depend entirely upon the efforts of each individual entering.

A committee of prominent citizens will be chosen to count and recheck the votes and award the prizes. Candidates will be allowed to suggest the names of the members of the committee. The motto of the contest will be a square deal to each and every person who enters and each one will be sure to receive fair and impartial treatment.

To enter this friendly competition and win one of the valuable prizes will not cost a penny. It will cost nothing to enter, nothing to make the race and nothing to win a valuable prize except the time spent. The prizes will be well worth many times the effort any person could possibly devote to the contest. In other words your time could not be devoted on any other proposition in which the same amount of prize value could be earned.

How to Win a Prize.

The object of this contest is to secure subscriptions to The Plainfield Daily Press. Double the number of votes will be given on new subscriptions. Candidates securing the largest number of votes will win the prizes, according to their respective standing when the contest closes.

Votes will be allowed on paid in advance subscriptions to The Plainfield Daily Press. See big ad for vote schedule. Get your friends and neighbors to subscribe for The Plainfield Daily Press. Mail or bring the subscriptions to the contest department, votes will be issued on same. The standing of candidates will never be known. A coupon will be published in every issue good for a certain number of votes. Candidates may clip these coupons, send them to the contest department and will be given credit for same in the columns of The Plainfield Daily Press. The subscription votes, however, will be issued and returned to the candidate and need not be voted until the last night of the contest.

We Will Send a Representative.

Cut out the nomination blank appearing in the big advertisement in another part of the paper, send to the contest department. This will count as 1,000 votes. A representative will then call and explain fully how to set about to win one of the valuable prizes. The contest department would be pleased to have any person interested in the contest call at the office and secure circulars and other valuable information concerning the contest.

SURPRISE GATHERING FOR MRS. E. R. GAVITT

Mrs. Edmund R. Gavitt, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rogers, of West Fifth street, was pleasantly surprised last evening by a company of friends mostly member of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. Mrs. Gavitt was an efficient worker in this society, being the president the year before her marriage. Her home is now in Omaha, Nebraska, and she has been visiting her parents here in Plainfield for a few weeks, also relatives in Connecticut. She leaves for her home today, stopping for a brief visit on the way at Chicago. The young people last evening had a delightful time playing games, singing, partaking of light refreshments, and wishing Mrs. Gavitt well on her journey home, and for many more visits here in the future.

RATHVON TO LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Church-going people nowadays hear from their own pulpits a great deal of doctrine that sounds like Christian Science. Most clergymen have read its text-book, "Science and Health," by Mrs. Eddy, and many of them are giving their hearers some of its teachings without indicating the source. Others in presenting Mrs. Eddy's ideas have courage enough to place the credit where it belongs.

An instance of this kind is related by Wm. R. Rathvon, member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, who lectures here next Sunday afternoon in the Plainfield theatre.

THREE NEW FACES IN LOCAL LINEUP AGAINST DUNELLEN

Captain Howard Craig, of the Plainfield baseball team, has signed three crackerjack players to take the places of Bergen and Williams who recently left the team and the new stars will be seen in the lineup for the first time next Saturday afternoon in the game against Dunellen. The new players are McGee, Earl and Levy, all members of Billy Stallings' Bayonne semi-professional nine. All of the trio are heavy hitters and stellar performers in the field and will probably bolster the local aggregation considerably.

Stallings' team only plays Sunday ball and the three players will be able to play in this city regularly every Saturday afternoon. It is not known at present what plans Bergen and Williams have for the future, but it is likely that the latter will return to the Sunday-school organization from whence he came.

STOVALL MUST APOLOGIZE.

St. Louis, May 22.—George Stovall, the suspended manager of the St. Louis American League Baseball Club, who spat on Umpire Charles Ferguson in a game here recently and was suspended, was today reinstated by President Ban Johnson on condition that he write a letter of apology to Umpire Ferguson.

GIRLS' MISSION CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL SESSION

Officers were elected and plans for the coming year discussed at the annual meeting of the Girls' Mission Club of the Congregational church yesterday afternoon. The club has a membership of twenty-four, of which twenty-one were present. These officers were chosen: President, Miss Kathleeen Phillips; secretary, Miss Martine Weeks; treasurer, Miss Ethel McIntosh; chairman of work committee, Miss Lillian Whitall; chairman of supper committee, Miss Ethel Van Zandt; chairman of program committee, Miss Lillian Heulsen.

In planning for the coming year it was decided to contribute to the support of a native girl in Mexico and to sew for missions during the year, with the aid of the Woman's Association and members of the latter organization will be invited to attend the club meetings. It was decided to raise the dues from ten to twenty-five cents and thus give the club more working capital. Following the meeting supper was served by a committe of the young women.

GOVERNOR SULZER HAS STARTED CAMPAIGN AGAINST "BOSSES," ASSERTING "ALL MUST GO"

Governor Sulzer, of New York, says his primary bill must be passed, the bosses—all bosses—must go, and that Lieutenant Governor Martin H. Glynn, now perched on the factional fence, must come down and take sides in the war that began with the Governor's speech in Buffalo, N. Y.

Those who are marked as first for the slaughter are pictured above—Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader; Patrick E. McCabe, John H. McCooey, William H. Fitzpatrick, Charles N. Bulger and the Lieutenant Governor, Martin H. Glynn, if he doesn't speak.

The strange feature is that he who wields "Excalibur" to-day is in and of Tammany, which elected him Speaker of the Assembly, sent him to Washington as a Representative in Congress, and, finally, after many rejections, named him for Governor, the office which had been the goal of his ambition for

UNVEILED BY THE DESCENDANTS OF AMERICA'S EARLY FIGHTERS

NAPOLEON'S CANNON UNVEILED AT PITTSGROVE, N.J.—DESCENDANTS OF REVOLUTIONARY HEROES.

In surroundings almost as historic as the relic itself, an old brass cannon, resurrected from obscurity after being dragged in the wake of the armies of Napoleon and Wellington and falling into the hands of the Americans, who kept it in the war of 1812, was recently unveiled amid simple but impressive ceremonies at Pittsgrove, N. J.

The ceremonies were marked by the presence of Governor Fielder and others of the State officers, including several members of the State Senate, residents of many New Jersey towns and cities, veterans of the civil war, clergymen and others. The actual ceremony of the unveiling of the ponderous old relic was accomplished by eight girls, dressed all in white, and daughters of descendants of early defenders of the colonies in the Revolutionary War and of the young republic in the War of 1812.

THIS IS THE FEAST OF CORPUS CHRISTI

Roman Catholic Commemoration—The Story as it is Handed Down.

New York, May 22.—In all the Catholic churches of New York special services were held today in commemoration of the feast of Corpus Christi. The program embraced the celebration of mass, the procession of the blessed sacrament and the rendition of music selected especially for the occasion.

The feast, which celebrates the institution of the Eucharist, formerly fell on Thursday in Holy Week, but as the Catholic Church observes the passion of Christ that day, the early dignitaries changed the date of the feast.

The Blessed Juliana, a holy religious of Liege, Belgium, in the eleventh century, according to the Catholic verson, believed that she had seen a vision enjoining her to influence the ecclesiatical authorities to establish such a feast. In 1230, when she became the head of the order she consulted several theologians and church dignitaries about the vision, with the result that the archdeacon of Liege, who afterward became Pope Urban IV., became interested and an office was composed.

In 1246 Robert, bishop of Liege, ordered a day set apart for especial observance in his diocese. After Juliana's death Henry, the next bishop of Liege, petitioned Urban IV. to establish the feast as a universal one, which that pope did by a bull issued in 1264. Since that time the feast has remained a universal one, and is so celebrated.

HE CLERGYMAN WHOSE ELECTION CAUSED SPLIT

THE REV DR JOHN TIMOTHY STONE

The election of the Rev. Dr. John Timothy Stone, of Chicago, as Moderator of the General Assembly of the Northern Presbyterian Church, at Atlanta, Ga., has aroused a lot of hostile criticism and unpleasant talk and has caused more or less of a split among the Presbyterians. Dr. Stone was elected as a "dark horse," and in commenting on this one clergyman said "not only a dark but a black horse."

The general opinion was that instead of being a non-political action the election was one of the most deep laid schemes ever perpetrated on a General Assembly. Not one word is said in criticism of Dr. Stone, who is one of the best known and most popular men in the Church, but there is the most pronounced criticism of the way his name for the office was sprung on the Assembly.

CHINDA ORDERED TO PRESS JAPAN CLAIMS

Washington Disappointed for Bill is Not Considered Treaty Violation.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Tokio, May 22.—Ambassador Chinda at Washington is being urged by the Japanese Government, through the Foreign minister, to press the Japanese interpretation of the treaty between the United States and that country with regard to the California anti-alien land bill. The question of submitting the alien land bill to a referendum of the people of California is not received with favor here, as the result is considered very doubtful. The reply of the United States government to the protest of Japan has caused disappointment in official and other circles here in that the authorities at Washington do not consider that the Alien land bill violates the treaty between the two countries.

LIBERTY DAUGHTERS END THEIR CONVENTION

Reports Presented at Annual Meeting at Atlantic City Attended by Local People.

The annual convention of the State Council of New Jersey Daughters of Liberty, which began Tuesday morning at Atlantic City ended last night. Delegates from Old Glory Council were present.

ANCIENT RULE CHANGED BY THE FIRST BAPTISTS

The plan of holding the month[illegible] business meeting on the first Sunday in each church has not been followed since 1833, when it was changed to the last Sunday in each month, and hereafter the sessions will be held quarterly, and it was further decided in the future to combine the annual church meeting and the annual parish meeting in one meeting to be held April [illegible], thus making two [illegible] instead of [illegible]. Heretofore there has always been a small attendance at the April meeting, when the financial affairs of the church were discussed and the treasurer's report presented. Now all of these reports as well as those of the church societies will be presented at one meeting.

It having been decided to make extensive repairs to the church this summer, which will necessitate the closing of the main auditorium during July and August, it was left with the deacons and trustees and the pastor, Rev. Dr. Paul B. Strong, to make arrangements for services during that time. Just what will be done is not definitely decided, but it is possible that services may be continued elsewhere, while no doubt the annual custom of holding union services Sunday evening will be adopted again. At the time repairs were made at the Crescent Avenue church that congregation made arrangements to meet at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, which was available on Sunday.

The annual letter from the church to the East New Jersey Association was read by Oliver B. Leonard, the church clerk. The anniversary meeting of the East New Jersey Association will be held on Tuesday, June 10, at Emmanuel Baptist church, Newark, and the local church will be represented by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, Oliver B. Leonard, church clerk; Deacon and Mrs. J. L. Manning, Deacon and Mrs. R. W. Barnes, Mrs. Rufus K. Case, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Douglas and Miss Anna E. Boice.

Four candidates will be baptized at the evening service on Sunday.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels is in favor of such a plant and has declared that there is practically no competition now among the three firms now holding on the material. As a result he has said the government is paying an excessive sum.

STYLISH — RELIABLE

A Lincolnism As Applied to Our Business

Abraham Lincoln was not an author; he was not a writer, he was not an orator; but he was the gentlest soul and the rarest heart of the 19th century.

Said Lincoln: "Stand with the man who stands right; stand with him while he is right; and part with him when he goes wrong."

And it is just this—and nothing more—that we ask you to do with us.

We ask you to stand with us as long as we sell better clothes for less money than other stores—as long as we tell you the truth about a garment—as long as we pledge our name with every sale.

And once we fail we ask you to part with us—for our own sake as well as yours.

No store in our whole broad land has a better ethical concept of business than Rothberg's—and certainly no store adheres more closely to it.

To Have the Confidence of Every Man & Woman Who Lives in This Vicinity

That is the goal of our ambitions—to have everyone feel that whatever monies you spend in this store—ARE WELL SPENT, and that you get in return the fullest values possible. We knew that we could not gain that confidence from you when we first commenced business here unless we dealt with you in an honest, straightforward way and that is what we have done and will do—just as long as this house exists.

Dealing with the public in this honest, straightforward, truthful way has been the store policy by which our earlier enterprises at Selma and since in New Brunswick have been made so successful, and our business here is steadily going ahead and will continue to do so, because we feel certain that those same methods which have won success elsewhere could not fail to do so here. Our latest enterprise in Elmira, N. Y., is another example of the policy of the "Tepper" Stores, as we are having results there far beyond our greatest hopes.

And here in Plainfield we will always strive for your unbounded confidence in the only way possible—by dealing with you in an honest manner, giving you absolute value on every purchase, giving you the best service possible, courteous treatment, and one price to all; and in all other little details that crop up in the management of a public institution, because we want you all to have sufficient and merited confidence in us that will prompt you to say

Plainfield, N. J., May 22, 1913.

AUTOMOBILES ARE FREE.

Even greater than our successful European tours contest, which was been without parallel in the history of newspaperdom in this section at least, is the extraordinary offer made by the Plainfield Daily Press elsewhere in this issue.

Solely for the purpose of increasing the circulation and thereby making our advertising columns still more valuable to the business and professional man, this paper offers automobiles and a variety of other costly prizes to those who lead in getting subscribers. The contest will be started on June 4 and will not be closed until July 19, giving all candidates ample opportunity to show their ability to pile up votes for themselves It is open to all, and as our reputation gained in the big European contest assures, no favorites will be played and no advantage given to anyone whatsoever. The conditions are few and they are explained concisely on pages 10 and 11 of today's issue.

To illustrate the magnitude of this remarkable offer, it is only necessary to say that among the prizes will be a $1,585 Henderson car, fully equipped; a $985.00 Overland car, and a $525.00 Ford car, both also completely equipped; two bank accounts of $150.00 and two of $35.00; some $50.00 Vitaphones, scholarships in a high standard business college and many other prizes lesser in value, but all well worth striving for.

Since the change of ownership some sixteen months ago, the circulation of the Plainfield Daily Press has been steadily increasing, but our campaign is a persistent and continuous one and it is the only kind that brings the desired results. We want the Plainfield Daily Press in every home on every week day in the year. And in this contest there is not to be a penny of profit to us other than a larger volume of circulation.

Do not fail to read our announcements on pages 10 and 11 today.

Politicians and statesmen as a rule have few sincere friends and this has been learned by experience for once they are "down and out" the host of pretended friends no longer have any use for them. Whether "up" or "down," however, James E Martine always could count on one tried and true friend and he was the late William W. St. John. "Saint" never looked out for his own personal interests; he cared more for the interests of those in whom he put his trust and faith and the greatest of these was Martine.

Undaunted by the sweeping victory achieved by the Progressive forces at the Presidential election, in the two States, those two notorious reactionaries, Penrose, of Pennsylvania, and Lorimer, of Illionis, have announced their purpose of going before the people for primary preferment for United States senatorships. They don't need any tonic for their nerve; what they want is something for their brain.

You must pardon William Howard Taft for that smile he wears. It is because his income as professor at Yale is but $5,000 and he has the laugh on Theodore Roosevelt, who as a magazine writer comes within the range of the income tax assessment.

Even if Lipton can't lift the cup he can spend a lot of money here, thus reversing the general rule, which is for Americans to either inherit or amass—generally the former—fortunes here and squander them abroad.

Many a cause has been lost because the campaign has been overdone.

Paterson is to be pitied. The I. W. W. strike has brought to that city Lincoln Steffens, Upton Sinclair and other muck-rakers. Its troubles do not come singly.

New York man tells us how to advertise Plainfield. It would be worth more if he told us how to get the necessary funds for that purpose.

With his new French tile, Vice-President looks more like an aristocrat than a believer in Jeffersonian simplicity.

HIS BRAIN STOLEN, "MESSAGES" FROM DEAD PALMIST SAY

JOHN W FLETCHER

Spirit messages and the story of a search for the missing brain of John W. Fletcher, a palmist, noted in London, New York and Boston, who died under mysterious circumstances in the Hotel Pelham, in this city, on April 22, will be the features of a contest over the will of Mr. Fletcher begun in the Middlesex County Court at Cambridge.

Mr. Fletcher died after the police had gone to his apartments to arrest him on a serious charge, which recent developments seem to show was unwarranted, and when questions were asked at Police Headquarters, and by the medical examiner, Dr. George B. Magrath, the policemen who sought to arrest the palmist declared he had swallowed a pellet, which they believed contained poison, and dropped on the floor unconscious.

Dr. Magrath performed an autopsy and was unable to find any traces of poison, so he sent the internal organs to an expert for chemical analysis.

Meanwhile Miss Susie C. Clark, of Cambridge, an author, identified with various organizations for psychic research, declares that spirit messages have been received from Mr. Fletcher in which he assures his friends that he did not commit suicide and that he is working hard in the world beyond to vindicate himself of the accusations made by the police.

Other spiritualists have told lawyers interested in the settlement of the estate that they have had messages from Mr. Fletcher telling them that his brain was stolen after his death and begging them to find it so that he can tell them fully everything that has happened since he went to the great

A NEW RADIUM TREATMENT.

Announcement of Important Discovery Comes From Berlin.

From Berlin comes a report that a physician named Saubermann has discovered a way in which water can be treated with radium so that it has the greatest medicinal value.

He says that water thus artificially charged with radium emanation is of a much higher degree of activity than any water found in natural springs. Already hydroradium emanation therapy has met with remarkable results in the treatment of the whole range of diseases of metabolism, including gout, rheumatoid arthritis, nephritis and arteriosclerosis.

All over Europe claims are being put forward by various spas, but in the majority of cases the amount of radium emanation in the water or in the air is too small to have any physiological effect. Dr. Saubermann's discovery permits the water charged to reach any degree of radioactivity desired.

DICTOGRAPH TO SAVE FOWLS

Inventor Places Device In Hencoop to Trap Chicken Thieves.

K. M. Turner, inventor of the dictograph, has rigged up the buildings on his farm at West Nyack with a unique burglar alarm system to trap chicken thieves.

Turner is a poultry fancier and keeps hundreds of hens on his Ridge egg farm that have more than once proved tempting to prowlers. After considerable study he devised a wire system that can be made to do the work of a telephone, burglar alarm or dictograph.

The contrivance is used during the day as a telephone system to the various farm buildings, which are connected with the superintendent's residence. When the lights go out on the farm the turning of a switch transforms the device into a burglar alarm.

ASYLUM PATIENTS TO PUBLISH PAPER

Preparations Being Made for Insane to Run One at Morris Plains.

Morristown, May 22.—A plan to have patients at the Morris Plains State Hospital for the Insane publish a newspaper, has been thought out by Dr. Britton D. Evans, medical director of that institution. The idea is yet in its infancy, but it is thought that a weekly periodical covering events at the institution will be published.

A printing press will be purchased and installed in a new building to be erected on the hospital grounds. Dr. Evans will direct the policy of the paper, and will write the editorial articles. Some of the patients have shown talent as writers, and it is thought that the plan can be successfully carried out.

The hospital authorities are also arranging for the organization of an industrial department, where the men and women patients will be employed in making brooms, weaving, bookbinding, raffle work, and things of like nature.

"AD" MEN'S BANQUET 'MARKED DOWN' PRICE

Martine, Fowler and Pierce Asked to Address at Club Feast.

Elizabeth, May 22.—There seems to be no limit to the unique features being arranged for the dinner to be given by the Advertising Men's Club, of Elizabeth, at the Elks' clubhouse next Monday night Cards of admission to the dinner are in the form of red shipping tags, six inches long and four inches wide, which contain the information: "You must wear this tag to be admitted." It also is announced thereon that there will be sold a $2 dinner for $1.87, which will comply with the provisions of New Jersey's new advertising law.

"Honesty is the best policy," is to be the slogan of the dinner, which it is guaranteed will conform to all pure food laws in captivity. Invitations to the dinner have been sent to United States Senator Martine, Congressman Tuttle, former Congressman Fowler, State Senator Pierce, county and city officials and the advertising men of Newark, New York and Elizabeth. John Wetmore, of a New York newspaper, will be toastmaster.

HOW NUTLEY FINDS 'C. M.' ADVANTAGEOUS

Attempt by use of Initiative Privilege to Reduce Number of Saloons.

Nutley, May 22.—The initiative, a measure which received the support of President Wilson when he was Governor of New Jersey, has been resorted to by the people of this town in an effort to cut the number of saloon licenses from 17 to 9. The commissioner form of government, and with it the initiative, was adopted by Nutley about a year ago. Other communities in the State have also been won over to the commission idea, but until Tuesday none had given the initiative a trial.

The fight between the liquor interests and those who have sought to close some of the saloons has been bitter. The liquor interests held their own until the antis happened to remember that there was a tool they had not yet tried to use. So they prepared an ordinance which would close nine of the saloons in town and, as required by the new law, obtained the signatures of 15 per cent of the voters at the last general election. When these documents were filed with the commission, composed of Abram Blum, Arthur Carr and Henry Lefferts, it became necessary for the commission to pass the ordinance without alteration or submit it to a referendum. The commission announced yesterday that the latter course had been decided upon. As a result the people will have an opportunity to express their will on June 17.

The voters of Nutley are taking a great interest in the first experiment with the new voting power. They refused to accept a suggestion that the matter be delayed until the next general election in order to save the expense of a special registration.

Nutley has a population of 7,000 about equally divided between the natives and the commuters. It is the intention to begin the campaign at once, and the advocates of the new measure will make every effort to get out a substantial vote to illustrate one of the petitioners said, that President Wilson was right when he spoke of the initiative, when applied to a community, as a valuable weapon in the fight of the people against the domination of political bosses.

HE TELLS HOW TO RAISE THE CHICKENS

Prof. F. H. Stoneburn Gives an Instructive Talk to Poultrymen.

Approving to a degree the natural and old fashioned ways of breeding and caring for poultry in preference to the many new fangled ideas brought into vogue by the experimenter and inventor, Prof. F. H. Stoneburn delivered an instructive "chicken talk" last night in Exempt Firemen's Hall, before members of the New Jersey Association for Poultry Improvement. The speaker has been engaged in teaching poultry raising for many yars and is known as "Professor of Poultry Husbandry." His advice on the rearing of the young chicks into lusty birds, the most extensive and important part of the poultry business, was decidedly interesting.

Although claiming that chicks bred by a hen rather than by the incubator are the stronger, healthier and the best "layers," Prof. Stoneburn also gave instructions regarding the artificial rearing of chickens. The most important facts summed up are as follows: Allow the chicks to remain in the incubator at least forty-eight hours after hatching; do not feed them for seventy-two hours after hatching as the vitality instituted in their bodies through the hatching period should be allowed to develop before their constitutions are taxed with any prepared food-stuffs; when the chicks are four to five days old feed them dry mash and when they have attained the age of three weeks, meat or good fish scrap can be given them with good results. Other advice given was to the effect that chickens should be allowed a large space in which to circulate and that food-stuffs can be defined as grits, grains, greens and grub. He also said to secure the best results in the hatching line, use the eggs of a hen which has been a rather poor "layer" rather than a bird who has given a substantial output of this product. He asserted that the consequent loss of vitality of the former kind had a tendency to lessen the strength of the young chick.

C. T. Cornman, editor of the "Poultry Item," spoke of the convention of the American Poultry Association which is to be held the second week in August in Atlantic City. He said 15,000 square feet of exhibition space had been reserved for New Jersey poultrymen. During the business session of the meeting, $10 was appropriated toward defraying the expenses of this convention. Nine new members were elected to the fold, making the association's membership total 142.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

By FRANCES MARSHALL

The Economy of Quantity.

A man in the public eye today, who had a family which included six daughters, used to say that it was less expensive for him to travel than it was for the father of three. For the father of six could buy things in quantity. When he went to a hotel he could get special rates, sometimes, because his many daughters took up so much room; and in Paris he could buy hats and frocks by the half dozen, sure that each daughter would find among them the hat or gown she wanted.

There is economy in buying in bulk always. For instance, canned vegetables generally can be bought at a slight saving when bought by the dozen or half dozen; flour and sugar, too, and many other staple food supplies cost less when bought in bulk than when bought in smaller amounts. So if you have adequate store room and the money on hand you will effect an economy really worth while by buying these things in large quantities.

Sometimes, however, buying in bulk is not economy. For instance, take the biscuits and crackers which are neatly and hygienically wrapped in paper or tin boxes. They cost more when bought in this way—no one can deny that. But, on the other hand, they keep fresh and clean when they are bought in small packages and when they are bought by the bulk, excepting in the case of a boarding house or a very large family, they become soggy and broken before the last of them are eaten.

Household Supplies.

Many household supplies should be bought in bulk—blueing, soap and starch, for instance. Soap positively improves with age, and both blueing and starch, if they are kept out of the dust, can be safely kept on hand for many months.

There are many articles of wearing apparel which can be bought at wholesale rates at certain stores if they are bought in large quantities and it is worth while looking these up. Stockings can be bought, a dozen at a time, at a big saving, and surely cotton or lisle stockings, which take up little room and are moth proof, are little trouble to take care of until they are needed. Handkerchiefs can be bought and used in the same way.

Lace, too, can be bought by the piece or three pieces at a time; for if the members of one family cannot use all the amount necessary to make lowered rates possible, surely friends can be found who will be willing to buy some of the lace at cost. Longcloth and lawn can be bought in the same way.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, Mrs. Jos. Smith, Mrs. Wm. M. Sandford, Jr.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

The New York City Mothers' Club holds its meetings on the second Monday of each month at the Hotel Astor. All interested in the aim of the club—"To promote the education of women in the wiser care of children, and to uplift and improve the condition of mothers in all ranks of life,"—are invited to join the club.

A ten-year-old boy has been sentenced to a reformatory in Georgia until he is twenty-one, for taking a five cent bottle of soda water. The father appealed the case but the Supreme Court affirmed the decision of the lower court. The wrong done to childhood in the name of law and justice is not yet a thing of the past. The boy's name is Ollie Taylor. Governor Brown has it in his power to pardon him.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Bryant School held its last meeting of the season Tuesday evening when the teachers displayed the special work done by the pupils during the year. The vitaphone recently purchased by the school was exhibited. Mr. Best, of the High School faculty, gave an educators frank opinion of these associations and said they were not like the famous shield,—blue on one side and golden on the other,—but alike to both parent and teacher for their interest was the same, being centered on the child. Mrs. Robert Moyer sang two appropriate songs and refreshments were served.

One the evening of May 20 parent-teacher meetings were held in Roselle, with Miss Asker, of Trenton, as speaker, and in the McKinley School, in Westfield, where a program by the children was given and dancing was enjoyed druing the latter part of the evening.

The Bound Brook Woman's Literary Club, which is affiliated with the State Congress of Mothers, has taken up nursing service as its special work. During the year service has been given to 313 patients to whom 1,166 visits were made. 412 friendly visits were made. Fifty morning were spent in the schools assisting the medical inspector. The service is being asked by the insurance companies of the State to look after patients who are policy holders. The service derives a revenue of fifty cents for each visit of this kind.

Miss Caroline LaMonte, one of the club members, has recently been elected to serve on the Board of Education.

In speaking to the National Congress of Mothers meeting in Boston last week, Dr. Cope said: "We need a careful guarding of the whole range of mental food, more careful than that maintained at the kitchen door. We need not only lists of book classics for children's reading, but more current material wisely selected and more information widely disseminated as to such material."

In order that the new laws effecting the public schools may be enforced, State Commissioner Clavin N. Kendall has issued a summary of the provisions of the new statues: They are as follows:

Providing for the immediate distribution of the railroad tax appropriated to the schools, the distribution hereafter to be made annually in September.

A general revision of the compulsory attendance law harmonizing the school age with the provision of the statue regulating child labor.

Requiring teachers to instruct pupils as to ways and means of preventing accidents.

Permitting any school district to establish vocational schools.

Permitting the State Board of Examiners to establish summer schools for the purpose of training in teaching elementary agriculture, manual training, household economics, etc.

Permitting the opening of public school buildings as social centers, for entertainment, for political meetings and as polling places at elections.

Are you teaching your children how to spend money?

"Oh," you answer, "anyone can spend money. The trick is to make it."

Wrong!

As a nation, Americans are the finest moneymakers in the world, and the worst spenders. This is due to the fact that from the cradle up they hear the importance of making money emphasized, while the right spending of money is ignored. They are taught how to earn or acquire it, not how to get full value for what comes to their hands. The lad who runs an errand is handed a nickel or dime without any suggestion as to how to spend it. The little girl receives a dime for tending the baby while mother makes a call or a visiting aunt tucks a shining quarter into her dimpled fist with the hint to run along and have a good time with it. Nobody demands an accounting from either child for these cash gifts.

The regularity of an allowance has a steadying effect on a child's nature. The boy who is given a nickel for running an errand or for blacking father's boots will think that tomorrow will bring another errand or a convenient rain may muddy the boots. So he spends the reward of spasmodic labor with a reckless hand and waits, Micawber-like, for something to turn up. But if the boy is paid ten cents a week to keep father's boots polished, he will immediately begin to balance his earnings and his desires. He will discover that a dollar ball glove means more than three weeks work. And if father is the right sort the boy will find that he can't draw ahead on his allowance without denying himself things the week no allowance is forthcoming.—Pictorial Review.

STRAWBERRY DESSERTS.

DAINTY strawberry desserts in various forms are suggested here. Often when the fruit is not in the best condition ways of preparing it for table so that its defects will not be obvious are required. Some hints of that sort may be gleaned from these recipes.

Tempting Sweets.

Strawberries and Orange Juice.—To prepare this dish orange juice is pressed from the orange over the fruit, just as you would squeeze a lemon over fish. A delicious way of serving strawberries left over from luncheon or from dinner is to pile them in a pyramid, after having taken away the stalks, and pour gently over it a sirup made with sugar and boiling hot water, adding two tablespoonfuls of raspberry sirup. Leave it in a cool place all night. It will be a charming dish for next morning's breakfast table.

Chartreuse of Strawberries.—For this make a chartreuse by lining a mold with red currant jelly, keeping it on ice the while. Then stick all round it strawberries cut in pieces, putting the red side next the mold. Crush one-half pound of strawberries with half their weight of powdered sugar, add one ounce of gelatin dissolved in very little water; whip a gill of cream, adding all the above when it begins to stiffen. Fill the center of the mold with this and let it set.

A Fruit Salad.

Strawberries and Lettuce.—When the berries are very acid they may be combined with lettuce to form a breakfast salad. Have them thoroughly drained, and then heap each portion to be served in cups made of delicately green tender leaves from head lettuce. Serve with a sweet salad dressing made piquant with lemon or grapefruit juice or a French dressing, or heap whipped cream, sweetened to taste, over them and serve.

Toothsome Pudding.

Strawberry and Custard Pudding.—Take three eggs, a pint of milk, a little powdered cinnamon, two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and strawberries enough to make a thick layer on a pie dish. Well butter the dish. Hull the strawberries, and, if large, halve them. Put them in the dish and sprinkle with the sugar. Beat up the eggs, mix them and the milk together, and strain these over the fruit.

Bake very slowly until the custard is set. Dust the top with sugar and a little powdered cinnamon, and serve either hot or cold.

If the flavor of cinnamon is not liked it can be left out.

Her Daddy Kissed Her Good Night.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—When Edith's Daddy Came Up to See Her.

DADDY smiled as he lifted Evelyn to his knee. "You do love your daddy, don't you?" he said.

"Of course we do," both Jack and Evelyn answered.

"Well, I'm glad to hear it. Edith loves her daddy too. Sometimes, though, she makes herself a bit troublesome because she wants him at her side all the time.

"Edith's daddy is a doctor. Often he is very busy and cannot romp and play with her as Edith would like. She forgets that little girls and boys who are sick may need her daddy to come and make them well.

"One evening Edith was sent to bed early. Her father was seeing some people in his office when she climbed the stairs.

"'Never mind going in to say good night,' Edith's mother said. 'He is very busy now.'

"Edith climbed to her room, took off her shoes and stockings, her clothes and climbed into bed.

"She was not a bit sleepy and chattered as long as her mother was in the room.

"After making her quite comfortable for the night Edith's mamma left the room and went across the hall into her own room, where she sat down to read.

"Edith listened till she heard her father's callers go out. She did not know, but he was still very busy doing some important writing. Edith felt cross because he did not come right up and see her.

"'Mamma, I want to see daddy,' she called.

"'Go to sleep,' her mother answered.

"A few minutes later she called again. 'Mamma, please tell daddy I want to see him.'

"'Shut your eyes and go to sleep. You can see him in the morning,' was the reply.

"Edith tossed about on her pillow awhile, then she tried again.

"'Mamma,' she cried, 'I've just got to see daddy!'

"'You cannot,' her mother sternly replied. 'Your father is very busy, and I won't disturb him. There are some sick people waiting to see him as soon as he can go out.'

"Edith raised herself on her elbows. 'Then, mother, he would better see me before he goes out, for I'm a very sick person myself. I'm homesick to see my daddy!'

"Downstairs Edith's daddy heard what she said. He laughed, and you may be sure he came up then, though it was only to kiss her good night."

An Attractive Costume.

A delightful little effect is obtained in this frock for a young girl by combining a short tunic with a white linen skirt. The deep collar and cuffs, slashed and joined again by strappings, are another interesting detail.

COMBINATION OF BLUE AND WHITE LINEN.

Cookery Points

Iced Chocolate.

There are various ways of preparing iced chocolate, but this method permits all the labor of preparation to be done hours in advance of serving time. Scrape or grate a quarter of a pound of unsweetened chocolate and put into a porcelain lined or aluminium saucepan with three-quarters of a cupful of sugar and one cupful of boiling water. Stir and cook steadily until a smooth, shiny paste is formed, but take care it does not burn. Add one and a half pints of boiling water and let boil slowly until a sirup is formed; then remove from the fire and stir every few minutes until cool. Flavor with vanilla and a suggestion of cinnamon, pour into a preserve jar, seal tight and stand in the refrigerator. When ready to serve add three-quarters of a cupful of rich cream and beat with an egg whip until light. Half fill the glasses with crushed ice, fill up with the sirup and top with a teaspoonful of whipped cream.

Nut Shingles.

Nut shingles are sure to be well received. Cream together one-quarter cupful each of butter, lard and boiling water, then mix in one-half cupful of molasses into which has been stirred one teaspoonful of soda. To one-half cupful of brown sugar add one-half tablespoonful of ginger, a little grated nutmeg and clove and a pinch of salt, and add all this to the other ingredients. This amount will require about three cupfuls of flour. The mixture should be chilled and then rolled very thin and cut into strips about three inches long and one inch wide. Spread chopped nuts over these and bake in a good oven. The baking requires only ten minutes or so.

Vanities.

Vanities! They don't sound very filling, but they are worth eating just the same, and they are so simple and easy to make that they are worth trying. Beat one egg very thoroughly, then beat into it one-half teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful of milk. Add flour according to your judgment, which being interpreted in the case of anything like cookies always means enough to roll very thin. The chief joy of the cooky lies in its crisp brittleness. Cut the dough into oblong pieces and make two or three bold, lengthwise slashes in each piece, then drop them carefully.

Dandelion Wine.

One gallon dandelion blossoms (gathered when the sun is shining so they will be open). Pour over them one gallon of boiling water. Let stand in a cool place for three days; then put into porcelain kettle, with the rind of three oranges and one lemon cut fine. Boil fifteen minutes; then strain. Add three pounds of granulated sugar and the pulp and juice of the oranges and lemon. When lukewarm add half of a yeast cake. Stand one week in a warm place, strain again, let it stand until it stops working; then bottle. This is said to be an excellent remedy for rheumatism.

Hard Sugar Cookies.

Hard sugar cookies are very easily made, for the directions are of the simplest. Cream one-half cupful of butter and beat in one cupful of granulated sugar and then one-half cupful of milk. Add one-half teaspoonful of soda, a pinch of salt and the flavoring. Almond is very good, also lemon. Use enough flour to make it possible to roll the cookies very thin. They will be very attractive if cut into hearts, diamonds, clubs and spades and a dainty addition to the card party refreshments. They should be baked to a delicate brown.

Raspberry Sherbet.

Place in a bowl one-half pound granulated sugar, one quart lukewarm water. Squeeze in the juice of three lemons, the grated rind of one and the white of an egg. Press through a cheesecloth into a bowl one-half pint preserved raspberries, add two drops carmine coloring and one tablespoonful Swiss kirschwasser and add the mixture to the water lemon ice, thoroughly mix with a silver spoon for five minutes. Strain through a Chinese strainer into a small ice cream freezer. Pack around with a liberal amount of ice and salt and let the mixture stand until well frozen. Serve immediately.

Carrot Saute.

Boil young carrots not longer than your forefinger for eight minutes in salted water. Rub and scrape off the skins, cover with boiling water and cook tender. Drain and cut each carrot into strips. Heat a tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan with a half teaspoonful of white sugar, a little salt and pepper and when it boils lay in the strips of carrots. Cook three minutes after the bubble commences.

Pineapple Cake.

Cream one cupful of butter with two cupfuls of sugar, add one cupful of pineapple juice very gradually, beat in one and one-half cupfuls of flour; then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of eight eggs, add another cupful and a half of flour and beat well before pouring into the baking pan. When baked spread the pineapple over the cake and cover with a plain icing.

For the Children

The two mites in the picture were doubtless inspired to go forth in battle array by witnessing a parade of soldiers, or perhaps they remembered last Flag day. The warm sun and soft airs have made play in the house out of the question, and so they seek the open to enjoy the welcome springtime. The flag, symbolic of the greatest nation of the earth, probably has no meaning to them beyond its brilliant colors. But they are parading, and that is all they care about at present. When they grow older they will learn the significance of the stars and stripes. Today their home is their country, and they have no wish to wander far. On Memorial day it may be their lot to see a column of veterans of the civil war marching to the cemetery to decorate the graves of their fallen comrades. But to them it will only mean glorious music and waving flags.

If andirons and coal bucket cost $7 what will a ton of coal come to? To ashes.

What is the naval definition of a kiss? A pleasure smack.

Why are your nose and chin always at variance? Because words are always passing between them.

Why are your bedroom slippers like a deferred resolution? Because they are put off till next day.

Why is a man in front of a crowd well supported? Because he has the press at his back.

The Stork.

In Holland and Germany especially the stork is treated as a welcome guest, and there, as indeed elsewhere, it annually returns to the nest which has cradled many generations on the steeple, on the turret, on the false chimney that the Hollander has erected for its site, in a box or on the platform which the German has placed for its use. The stump of a decayed tree is sometimes chosen by the bird, and the nest is made of sticks and twigs, in which are laid from three to five cream colored eggs about the size of those of the common goose. The hatching continues for about a month, when the young are hatched. These are carefully attended by the parent birds until they the fully feathered and able to obtain food for themselves.

An Ancient Flame.

The ancient sacred fires have not all been extinguished. One still exists which was consecrated twelve centuries ago in commemoration of the voyage made by the Parsees when they emigrated from Persia to India. The fire is fed, five times every twenty-four hours with sandalwood and other fragrant materials combined with dry fuel. This fire, in the village of Oodwada, near Bulsar, is visited by Parsees in large numbers during the months allotted to the presiding genius of fire.

Life's Best Thing.

The only really valuable thing in this world is character. Every organization of any kind—bank, corporation, manufactory, church, government or society—is on the lookout for character. If you have it you need not fear that you will be overlooked, for the search is too sharp for character to conceal itself.—St. Nicholas.

Memorial Day.

Dear little girls, bring bright flowers
In memory of those you once knew,
Bring flags made of gay bunting
And garlands of red, white and blue.
Deck all the graves with sweet blossoms
And say as you shed a tear:
"Dear friends, we will never forget you.
We will come again next year."

Dear little boys, bring bright banners
To place o'er your friends once so dear.
Remember the good in them only
As you shed a fond, boyish tear.
Forget not those who have left you.
Remember they stand "in the light."
Say as you plant your gay banners,
"Dear friends, your memory is bright."

Brave soldiers, wave your loved banners;
Play softly the fife and the drum.
Ever remember your comrades.
Oh, never forget to come!
And as you march with the living
In each beautiful month of May
Ever bring flags and gay flowers
To honor Memorial day.

"MAC" SAYS

Announcement has been made of the Boys' Golf Tourney which will be held at the Plainfield Country Club June 24 and 25, and the junior golfers are rounding into shape for the event, which is one of the leading ones of the season.

Those who cherish the "bally game of golf" will have a chance to shine on those beautiful days in June.

Speaking of golf:

GOLF EPITOMIZED.

"You place a ball on a little pile,
You hit it about half a mile;
The further it goes, the more you smile,
Then you wander after it, single file—
That's golf!"

In the philosophy of many golfers, anything you can get away with is a well played shot. Yet, we try to pull the same stunt in every day life and as a rule succeed in getting away with it.

Once more the Leal School ballists were the only local performers who had the courage to brave Jupiter Pluvius' threatenings. Once more the private school boys fell for the cunning of the Carlton Academy nine.

P. H. S has one of the hardest games of its schedule to play off Saturday afternoon. Trenton is the opposing proposition and the game will be played at the Capitol City.

Louis Slocum has gone to Georgia to join the Brunswick nine. He will then be playing on the same team with Tommy Mullin, another local product who is burning things up in the sunny south. How natural?

Umpire baiting is a thing that ought not to be tolerated for an instant, especially in school boy circles. It surely looked as though Somerville had the official just where they wanted him in that N. P. H. S.-Somerville High game last Monday afternoon.

When an "ump" has to hold a consultation with the batter before calling a ball or strike it is about time to stop referring to the contest as a ball game.

From the array of local athletic talent entered in the Princeton Club's meet to be held next Saturday afternoon, it looks as though the Queen City should come somewhere near winning one of the awards. Nineteen high and prep schools are entered.

One of the livest, and perhaps "the livest" baseball manager in this city today is the little Leal pilot. Win or lose, this enterprising individual is always on deck the first thing the following morning with a box score. That's real baseball ability.

If an all-star aggregation was to be picked from the new City League rosters, it would make a crackerjack squad to send out on a Japanese invasion. Four teams and "57" varieties.

Fred Ritter, the husky twirler who appeared in this city last season, according to dispatches, has earned a permanent berth on the Atlantic City team's bench. He will probably be able to prop his feet against the water cooler for the rest of the playing time.

Bergen and Williams have quit the Plainfield team, according to reports. "Snapper" looked good to fans and his place will be hard to fill.

Believing that all the umpires in the American League have been instructed to be strict with him, Clark Griffith has sworn off arguing with them, and he even has gone so far as to bet a suit of clothes that he will not get put off the field all season.

On the advice of his physician, Harry Hooper, the Red Sox "sun fielder," has had his eyes tested and is wearing glasses off the field. The strain of looking into the glaring sun had weakened the muscles of one eye and the glasses are being used to bring them back to par. Since he began wearing the "windows" his batting has improved.

Fred Clarke, of the Pirates, was the first major league manager to be suspended this year. His term was five days. George Stovall was second, and it is not certain yet when he will be back with the Browns.

Fred Toney, the Cub flinger, can't see the sense of buying a new $3 hat and then paying 30 cents a day to the hotel hat check bandits to watch it while he eats He figures that in 10 days he will have handed out enough to buy another hat, so he wears his old cap and eats with it in his pocket

A baseball psychologist has figured that the fans are more disconsolate after the loss of a close game by the home team than if the opposition led by a mile from the start.

Reports from the West say that Chance keeps two pitchers warming up constantly while another is performing in the game.

NEW LEAGUE BEGINS.

Newburgh, N. Y., May 22.—The New York and New Jersey League, one of the most recent additions to the ranks of organized baseball, opened its initial season today. The league is a six-club organization, the circuit comprising Kingston, Middletown, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh, N. Y., Long Branch, N. J., and Danbury, Conn. A season of 100 games will be played. The closing date will be September 7.

FLYNN AND COFFEY TO MEET.

New York, May 22.—The Garden Athletic Club has prepared an interesting card for those who attend its boxing show at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. The feature event will be a ten-round go between Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, and Jim Coffey, the "Dublin Giant." It will be the first heavyweight contest pulled off in the metropolis in some time.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is the present City Baseball League the same as the old Manufacturers' League or is it being run by the same board of governors?—H. J. G.

Answer—The Manufacturers' Baseball League has been defunct since it closed last season. The present board of the City League is in no way affiliated with the old league body.

Sporting Editor:

Query—When does the season open for trapping skunk, mink, muskrat and otter.—G. L.

Answer—These four animals are classed under the same general head and the season is open from November 15 tb April 1, inclusive.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can I obtain tickets for the Yale-Princeton baseball game? Also when will the game be played at Princeton?—S. A. D.

Answer—The Princeton-Yale game is scheduled for June 7 at Princeton. To secure tickets for the contest write to W. H. Murray, Princeton Athletic Association, Princeton, N. J.

Sporting Editor:

Query—With a man on third and another one at first and one out, the batter hits a fly to the center fielder. The man on third holds his base and scores after the fly is caught, but the runner on first is doubled up. The runner coming from third crosses the plate before the runner is put out at first, does the run count?—U. O. T.

Answer—The run counts. The play is not the same as a double play on a forced hit.

Sporting Editor:

Query—In keeping score what code is best to use?—K. C. N.

Answer—A code of your own is easily made up and will prove the most adaptable to your work. I would not advise you to try to memorize the codes outlined in the back of many scorebooks, as they are complicated and many of the figures are unnecessary.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can I get a copy of the New Jersey fish and game laws?—H. R. H.

Answer—The New Jersey Board of Fish and Game Commissioners have issued a synopsis of the last Legislature's acts relating to fish and game. You can get a copy by addressing the State Board of Commissioners at Trenton, N. J.

Sporting Editor:

Query—From whom can I secure information pertinent to the organization of a troop of Boy Scouts?—L. A. C.

Answer—C. William Bingeman, Boys' Secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., will be glad to advise you on this subject as he is one of the local scoutmasters. Charles R. Bostwick, of the Plainfield High School faculty is another scoutmaster.

BOUND BROOK AND BRUNSWICK WILL PLAY BALL SATURDAY

Whether or not the Bound Brook and New Brunswick baseball teams enter the Central New Jersey League before next Saturday afternoon, these two teams will clash at Amusement Park, New Brunswick, next Saturday afternoon in New Brunswick's first Saturday afternoon game of the season. Manager Charlie Newhouse went to New Brunswick yesterday and completed the final details for the match which was originally scheduled for last Saturday afternoon, but had to be called off on account of rain.

Newhouse has promised to get his best players together for the match and Driscoll will also have a star aggregation on hand, so the contest will undoubtedly be a speedy one. A preliminary game between the employes of the Kilbourne office and those of the Interwoven Stocking Company will be played. Miss Caroline Kilbourne, the female star, will twirl for the former aggregation.

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL TRACK AND FIELD ATHLETES IN PRINCETON MEET

Nineteen of the foremost high and preparatory schools of New Jersey will send their athletes to compete in the interscholastic meet to be held under the auspices of the Princeton Club, of Newark, at the Academy Field, in that city, next Saturday afternoon, among whom will be Plainfield and Westfield High Schools. The local institution will be represented by five of its best athletes in seven different events, while the Mt. Ararat school has entered five athletes in as many events. In a way the Princeton Club's meet is regarded as a championship affair and practically every runner or jumper who has done anything of note either on field or track will be seen in competition.

The battle for the McCarter trophy, the individual point cup, will probably narrow down to a fight between the Central High School and Newark Academy teams, with the latter a slight favorite. Among the athletes the local boys will have to contend with are Sheldon Moora and Ezra Wenz, both of whom are well known in this city. Morra will be remembered by the local Y. M. C. A. boys who have attended the State camp at Lake Wawayanda and is well known for his sprinting ability. Wenz is the present holder of the United States interscholastic record for two miles and he is looked on as a dark horse in the events he has entered in Saturday's meet.

In the 100-yard dash, the first event on the program, Arthur VanZandt, of this city, will be a contestant He will have pitted against him such cracks as Carr, the well known East Orange High School sprinter; Weil and Gardner, of Central High School, and Anderson, of Dickinson High School. The record for this distance for school boys is held by Samuel Martin, of Jersey City High School, with a mark of 10 1-5 seconds made in 1912. Paul Taylor, the Westfield High School runner who has won laurels in many Metropolitan meets will also run in this event and is looked upon as a sure point winner. He will be remembered as the football end of the Mt. Ararat school who beat P. H. S. by a long and speedy end run on Parker Field last fall.

Alfred Day, the Dunellen boy who has figured in a number of Y. M. C. A. and interscholastic long distance races, has entered the one mile run and will compete under the colors of the Plainfield High School. The record holder for this distance, Willie Weber, who has run against Day on many previous occasions, will not run Saturday as he is not a member of any High School at the present time. The record is 41 1-5 seconds, made in 1912.

Ralph Runyon, a P. H. S. youngster, is entered in the pole vault and expects to land one of the three prizes for this event. A mark of ten feet ten and three-fourths inches made in this event by E. A. Hill, of Newark Acamedy, in 1910, stills stands, and the Plainfielder is hopeful of smashing this mark. He has done between ten and eleven feet repeatedly in practice and expects to beat the rest of the big field which includes Lasser, the Central High School crack, and Hanks, of Dickinson High School.

Elwood Waller, a Plainfield High School freshman, is entered in the twelve pound shot-put and from past performances in school boy meets it looks as though he would have to do fifty feet or better in order to get in the price list.

Two local boys, Elwood Waller and Ralph Runyon, are entered in the high jump, and as the mark established in this event last year was 5 feet, 10¾ inches, it looks as though they would have to exert themselves in order to pull out anywhere near the top of the list.

In the broad jump, Arthur VanZandt, of this city, will be opposed by P. Taylor, H. Randall and C. Ewing, of the Westfield High School team, as well as by one of the biggest fields of any one of the events. Elwood Waller, of Plainfield High, and R. Marsh, of Westfield High, are entered in the 220 yard dash. Westfield has E. Ewing in the quarter mile and H. Critenden in the 300-yard run.

BOGARDUS AFTER A CRACK INFIELDER

But Dunellen Manager is Having Trouble Corresponding With His Find.

If the Central League pennant does not fly in Dunellen next season it will not be the fault of Bob Bogardus, the live wire pilot of the Corn Huskers. Hustling Bob was in town last night and uncorked the information that he is casting his lines about for an infielder of the Johnny Evers stripe He has two names of ambitious stars secreted under his hat band whose records he is trying to unearth.

One of the "wonders" is McGee, who cavorts in the infield of Bill Stallings' Bayonne Sunday aggregation. According to the data already secured by Manager Bogardus the lad is a "speedboy" in every sense of the word and it will occasion no surprise to see him in a Dunellen uniform in the due course of time.

"Who is the other fellow you got up your sleeve," asked the Daily Press diamond expert.

"Just wait a bit," mused Bob, as he delved down into a pocket for a slip of paper. "This feller has quite a long name and if I sign him I think we will be compelled to get a special size of score book made to accommodate his name. He claims he is an infielder and somewhat of a twirler. Let's see, here's his name, can you pronounce it?"

With a sigh Bob revealed the name of his prospective star to the Daily Press man. After a series of shivers that swept his entire frame the latter discovered the identity of Bogardus' possibility as follows:

Mandayam Ypralivadibhayankaram Tirusnab Acharya. Only forty-four [illegible] Yea Bo, won't the scorers swear if Bogardus really does sign this fellow.

Newspaper dispatches convey the information that Mr. Acharya recently applied for naturalization papers in New York. He is a Turkish athlete.

LEALS FAIL TO HIT AND LOSE ANOTHER

Carlton Academy Ball Tossers Won by a Score of 10 to 3 —Fielding Poor.

Taking a chance in running into a rainstorm, the Leal School baseball team went to Summit yesterday afternoon and were defeated by the Carlton Academy players by a score of 10 to 3. Inability to hit the ball accounted for the local boys' defeat for the best they could do during the afternoon's sojourn in Summit was to connect with the pellet for a quartet of safties, while the home nine was touching up Shepherd's delivery for eleven of the life giving variety, four of which were two-baggers. Both teams played erratically in the field and many fizzels, which ought to have been disposed of as easy outs, had to be recorded by the scores. Leal was guilty of a half dozen misplays while the home nine slipped seven times. While the visitors were out-batted and out-scored they had a decided edge on the winners as far as fielding was concerned, many pretty plays going to their credit at different times during the afternoon.

Carlton started its scoring in the first inning bringing across a trio which was equally as much as the opposition got the whole nine stanzas and drew another counter in the second. Another big round came in the fifth when four were brought to the platter, and one more came in each of the seventh and eighth innings.

As a hitter, Quirke, the home nine's first sacker, was the whole show. Our of five trips to the platter he pounded out a quartet of hits, two of which were two-baggers, and long ones at that.

OLD FAN AND SI RECALL OLD SWATFEST

The Old Fan, minus his straw hat, was seen rambling along West Front street, this misty morning, when he halted at the corner of Front and Somerset streets, and remarked to his friend, Si Fencebreaker:

"Don't it beat all, Si, how old Honus Wagner can slam the horsehide. He nearly busted the Polo Grounds up last week and yesterday the old man's hit put the quietus on the Brooklyn's. He's the best dog darn slapperitis artist that ever put on a uniform."

"Nix, I don't agree with you," declared Si, as his gray eyes sparkled with the fire of the old days at Scotch Plains when Freeholder Sam Wilbur was one of the greatest ball players in these parts.

"One minute, Bo, I'll tell you about a game that Sam broke up with five home runs. That was close on to forty years ago when the Blue Stockings, of Scotch Plains, were playing the Actives—the team that Wren Townley used to play on—y' know. The score of that game was 5 to 4 in favor of Scotch Plains and Wilbur made every one of the runs. The game went eleven innings, and it looked as if it was going longer than that, when with two out, and the crowd a-hollern for Sam to do something more, when the mighty Sammy raised his reliable old hickery stick—and biffo.

"Everybody held their breath until the ball was seen to soar over the centre fielder's head and drop to the ground. When Sam crossed the plate

DRISCOLL THINKS FEE IS TOO LOW

Claims That the $50 Would Only Pay for Five of His Players.

Reasons advocated by Dave Driscoll for "holding out" from the Central New Jersey Baseball League are varied and many and he is evidently leading the Brunswick papers to believe that he has the league promoters at his command and they await his calling before doing anything further in the outstanding matters. As a matter of fact, however, the league magnates are perfectly contented to let the league remain as a four-team organization and claim that six teams, necessitating the admission of Bound Brook and Brunswick, are not pertinent to the welfare of the league.

Brunswick papers claim that Dave came to Plainfield, Tuesday night, to "talk business" with the Central managers but received little or no satisfaction. The truth of the matter is, however, that Driscoll was told in black and white just what the regulations of the league were to be and because they did not suit him to the point, refused to enter his combination in the race. He contended that the price of the Brunswick team was far above $50, the salary limit and guarantee fee, and that this amount would only pay for about five New Brunswick players. (Therefore he must have big leaguers, or is evidently paying some fancy prices which is very unlike the wiley Dave.) Driscoll thinks that his team would be a drawing card all over the circuit, but there are other teams that pull their share of the fans also, and are worthy of just as much consideration as the Brunswick nine.

New Brunswick decided to take the allotted week to turn matters over and at the expiration of that period they will make known their decision.

CYCLING CLUB RACE THE GREATEST EVER

Decoration Day Run Expected to Surpass the Other Four of This Club.

Jack Horner, the well known bicycle race promoter, is busy arranging the final details for the twenty-five mile road race which will be run under the auspices of the Plainfield Cycling Club, Decoration Day morning, over the Mountain avenue course. The event is opened to all amateurs registered under the N. C. A., by whose sanction the race is being run and an entry list surpassing the large one of last year is expected before next Friday.

The prizes will be numerous and attractive and clubs from all parts of the country have signified their intention of entering individuals and teams. The entries close with Jack Horner next Monday afternoon, but a number of post entries will probably be accepted after that time. The riders will be sent under way at 10 o'clock Friday morning on Mountain avenue and the course, which will be covered from Mountainside, will be covered twice. This is the fifth annual event of its kind held under the auspices of the local club and in all of the races the entry list has been large and the competition keen.

JOHNSON NEARS THE "RUBE'S" GREAT MARK

Three Teams in a Merry Scramble for Third Place in National League.

A glance at the standing of the National League race shows that a merry scramble is being waged for third place between New York, St. Louis and Chicago, only a single point separating this trio of clubs. The Giants are clinging to third place with a percentage of .517; St. Louis is fourth with .516, and the Cubs follow with a percentage of .515. Brooklyn continues to play a fast kind of ball and is making the Phillies go the limit to maintain first place.

A coincidence of the race in the two major leagues is that the tail-enders, Cincinnati, in the National, and the Yankees, in the American, today enjoy the same record of 9 wins and 22 defeats.

With an unbroken string of eleven victories it is apparent that Walter Johnson, Washington's star twirler, has ambitions to equal or shatter Rube Marquard's wonderful "19 straight records" posted by Rube Marquard last season.

By piling two defeats on the Giants the Cardinals are one best bet just now.

SLOCUM WITH BRUNSWICK.

Louis Slocum, the local heaver, who has been performing for the Winston-Salem team of the Carolina League, was released by that aggregation last Monday afternoon and is at present playing with the Brunswick, Georgia, team along with Tommy Mullin, of this city. Mullin is playing third for that combination and has already made a hit with the fans. During the present season three local boys, Otto Frederickson and Louis Slocum, pitchers, and Tommy Mullin, an infielder, have been given tryouts by the Winston-Salem team but all have been released. Freddy has returned home and is pitching for Scotch Plains and High Bridge while Slocum and Mullin are now playing with the same Southern aggregation.

ENGLISH POLO TEAM NOW THE FAVORITE IN BIG MATCH.

In spite of the fact that an unfortunate accident has kept W. S. Buckmaster, the highest handicapped polo player in England, from accepting a place on the English polo team which will strive to regain the international polo championship lost to America at Hurlingham, England, in 1909, and successfully defended by this country's representatives at Meadow Brook, L. I., in 1911, it is asserted by practically all the best British judges of the game that the English team now here is the strongest that could possibly be made up.

Captain R. C. Ritson, Leslie St. George Cheape, A. Noel Edwards, Vivian Lockett and F. M. Freake, the five players who have come to represent England, are conceded to be as good as there are in England, and Englishmen are so firm in their belief that the prospects of a successful issue to the contest, which starts on June 19, were never brighter that they have made their team the favorite at odds of 6 to 4.

Captains Cheape and Edwards are the only members of the present team that played at Meadow Brook two years ago, when the Britishmen complained that if they had had two or three better ponies in their string the result might have been different. They are remembered as two first class opponents.

Captain Cheape is an extraordinarily versatile player. He is equally as good a back as he proved to be in No. 1 position two years ago. He is a very fine horseman as well as an excellent hitter. He probably will play back in the coming contests and his horsemanship should prove a great benefit to the team, as he will no doubt be quite a match for Devereux Milburn when it comes to the rough and tumble of a game.

Captains Ritson and Edwards have shown such steady improvement in their play that judges of the game in Great Britain are inclined to believe that their playing, especially that of Captain Ritson, may prove the surprise of the matches.

AUTO CONTEST OF INTEREST

Liberality of Splendid Offer Made by Daily Press Surprised Plainfield People.

EARLY START IS BEST

Those Who Get in Subscriptions in First Weeks Will Receive More Votes for Their Efforts Than the Laggards—Open to Everyone.

The big announcement of a $4,000 subscription contest of The Daily Press seems to have met with popular favor. The telephone was kept busy last night answering incisive inquiries concerning the contest and the proper manner in which to get started to be the winner of one of the valuable prizes.

Many people wonder how The Daily Press can afford to give away a list of valuable prizes, as announced last night. The answer is easy. The Daily Press knows that it is giving the readers of Plainfield and vicinity the kind of news they want. The Daily Press knows that every new reader secured through the contest will after reading The Daily Press feel that it is a necessity in the home. It is not today The Daily Press thinks about, but tomorrow, and the next day and the next. Long after the cost of the valuable prizes, which will be given away has been forgotten, The Daily Press will have among its readers and friends people who during the contest will assist some candidate in the race for the auto, by giving them a subscription to The Daily Press. Those thinking of entering the race must not imagine it will require hundreds of subscriptions to win the valuable automobiles. All that is necessary is to have one vote more than your competitor.

The small number of subscribers it will require to win the grand prize, when its value is taken into consideration, might amaze the people of Plainfield and vicinity when the final count is made. No one can tell, however. The more candidates interested the less subscriptions it will require to win.

The subscription vote standing will never be published. No candidate will ever know the standing of another. This makes the race one of effort alone. No chance for one who is gifted with worldly goods to take a chance on an investment to win a valuable car, because he will never know the standing of candidates and it would be folly to think of such a thing. With the greatest number of votes allowed at the beginning it is possible for any candidate to keep busy until the close of the first offer and secure enough subscription votes to place themselves so far in the lead that it will be impossible for a candidate to overcome the lead taken by the one who starts early.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS TO HAVE A PARTY LATER

Inclement weather caused the postponement of the annual meeting of the Camp Fire Girls, which was originally scheduled for last night, and instead a social and business meeting was held in the Y. W. C. A.

HEAVENLY REST MEN TO HOLD A FESTIVAL

The Men's Club of the Church of the Heavenly Rest at a meeting last night made tentative arrangements for a festival on Saturday, June 21. The festival will be held on the lawn of the church in the afternoon, and the evening affair will take place in the Parish House at night. J. A. Maynard is chairman of the arrangement committee. Last night's meeting was presided over by the president, John Bray.

LITTLE INTEREST TAKEN IN SCHOOL'S BUDGET

Less than three per cent. of the voting population of Dunellen voted on the school budget last night at the polling place in the Whittier School, of that borough. Nineteen ballots were cast and all were in favor of the amounts as recommended by the Board of Education, viz: General expense, $10,025; repairs, $600; manual training, $600, making a total of $11,225. Although women have the privilege of voting at borough school elections, and there are some ardent suffragists in Dunellen, not one member of the fair sex cast a vote. The total voters in the borough is approximately 700.

J. Newton Apgar was chairman of the session and Charles J. Hamley was secretary. Walter S. Craig and Charles B. Mattis acted as tellers.

FREEHOLDERS FAVOR MORE FOR BONNIE BURN

Improvements to Cost $125,000—County May Have to Pay High Rate.

Elizabeth, May 23 (Special).—The Board of Freeholders at a special meeting held in the Court House yesterday approved a new issue of county road bonds in the amount of $50,000 to run twenty years. Efforts will be made to sell the bonds at 4½ per cent. interest, although County Collector Nathan R. Leavitt informed the board that owing to the slowness of the bond market it might be found necessary to increase the rate. This issue will succeed another one which has just been retired.

The board adopted a resolution authorizing the employment of an auditor at a salary of $1,500. William Howard, of Rahway, whose term as a member of the Board of Governors of Bonnie Burn Sanitorium expired, was reappointed for a full term. The committees report favoring the expenditure of $125,000 for improvements at the sanitorium was adopted and the work will be undertaken within a short time.

MORE CHARGES AGAINST STIRLING'S POSTMASTER

Ray Allen, the former postmaster of Stirling, who is now a prisoner in the county jail at Morristown, having been arrested by the Federal postal authorities on a charge alleging a shortage in accounts, is now said to have robbed the postoffices at Basking Ridge, New Providence and Short Hills.

Allen owned an automobile and it is alleged that he made frequent trips to the various postoffices, taking stamps and money. The postal authorities are now investigating the latest charges.

The funeral services of John Lannon were held at 8:30 o'clock this morning at the late home on West Front street and 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church, where a solemn requiem mass was offered for the repose of the soul. There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends and many beautiful floral tributes.

RECEPTION IS GIVEN REV. AND MRS. HERRING

Under the auspices of the Pastor's Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church, a reception was given at the church, last night, for Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Herring, to which all the members and friends were invited. There was a large attendance and all enjoyed the many social features, including an attractive program.

By way of entertainment, there were vocal selections by Mrs. E. W. Poinier and the Young People's Chorus of the church, and piano selections by Miss Helen George and Herbert J. Harold, organist of the church. After the program there was a social time, during which the Pastor's Aid Society served refreshments.

"JERSEY JUSTICE" FOR HIM.

Somerville, May 23.—Piero Giovanni, an Italian residing at Bells Mead, who was arrested on a serious charge, the complaint having been made by his fourteen-year-old daughter, was brought into court before Judge Beekman, this morning, following a consideration of the case by the Grand Jury wherein he was indicted. Through the court interpreter, Giovanni pleaded not guilty. The court announced that the prisoner would be assigned counsel and fixed next Monday as the date for trial.

BOUND BROOK MAN TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Italian Arrested as Suspect When Attempt is Made to Rob Bank Messenger.

New York, May 23.—Salvatore Messina, who gave his address as South Bound Brook, and his occupation as a carpenter, was arrested as a suspicious character by the police yesterday afternoon and examined in connection with the attempted robbery of James E. Wintress, a bank messenger, yesterday afternoon. The young messenger was shot in the right arm and after being struck down with a heavy club successfully fought off four desperate men who attacked him while he had $8,000 on his person. Crouched over the grip containing the money, Wintross fired nine shots at his assailants which served to attract the attention of the police.

Captain Savage, of the East 104th street station, and Inspector Cahalene hurried to the scene and arrested Messina and a seventeen-year-old Japanese. When taken to headquarters the Bound Brook man could not give a satisfactory account of himself and because of the several conflicting stories he told he was remanded for further examination. Evidence against Messina is meagre and it is likely that he will be released from the New York police station this afternoon. The prisoner is a well known character in Bound Brook where he has lived for some time and has been employed by various contractors in carpenter work in that town.

MAYFLOWER SOCIETY MEMORIAL SERVICES

President W. S .Tyler Among Plainfielders Present at Annual Observance.

William S. Tyler, the president; F. E. Mygatt, Mr. and Mrs. Lamar VanSyckel, William M. Stillman, Mrs. Henry E. Bowen and Mrs. Leander N. Lovell, of this city, attended the commemorative service of the Society of Mayflower Descendents in the State of New Jersey held in the First Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon. The service was opened with an organ recital, Wenham Smith, organist, and Miss Ethel Cecilia Smith, violinist.

The feature of the service was an address by Rev. Henry R. Rose, of Newark, on "The True Grandeur of the Republic." The musical numbers were also much enjoyed.

Th First Presbyterian church, of Elizabeth, where the service was held, was established in the Seventeenth Century, and less than fifty years after the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth. It was organized by the first settlers, Puritan families which came from Connecticut and Long Island in 1664 and 1665. It is the oldest church in New Jersey founded in the English language. After almost a century of service it received its charter from the "King of Great Britain, France and Ireland," George II. The parchment bears the date, 1753.

The present edifice stands on the site of an earlier meeting house which was burned by the enemy in the Revolutionary War. In that had spoken such visiting preachers as George Whitefield and David Brainerd. The pastor at the time of the burning was James Caldwell, known as "the fighting parson." His activity at the Battle of Springfield has been described in the poem of Bret Harte. Both he and his wife were shot and killed by the British. The gravestone of the pastor and Mrs. Caldwell may be found and read in the rear wall of the church.

Last year "Tip Toe" won thirteen ribbons and four shows, Plainfield, Newark, Islip and Rumson Road. The same entry will be made at the annual show of the Long Island Kennel Club at Sheepshead Bay, L. I., Friday, May 30.

EDWARD BABLER MADE A PRIEST

He is Ordained by Bishop Scarborough at All Saints' Church.

SOME GIFTS FOR HIM

Visiting Clergy Witness Solemn Ceremony—Will Become a Curate at Trinity Chapel, New York, on June 1.

Rev. Edward Babler, of All Saints' Episcopal church, Scotch Plains, was ordained a priest of the church by the Rt. Rev. John Scarborough, Bishop of New Jersey, the services being held at the church yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Twing preached the sermon. Bishop Scarborough gave an inspiring address in which he praised the work of Mr. Gabler, who will leave All Saints' church on June 1, going to Trinity chapel, New York city, where he will serve as a curate. The Ladies' Aid Society presented Mr. Gabler with a sterling silver communion set and All Saints' Guild gave him a clerical case.

Mr. Babler made a brief address in which he thanked the friends for their gifts and expressing his regrets at leaving the church, which he has served for some time. Among those present at the service were Rev. W. E. L. Ward, of St. Stephen's church, and Rev. C. H. Mallery, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, this city; Rev. Mr. Stristburg, of New York, and a number of other clergymen from neighboring towns. After the service at the church the women of the parish served a luncheon at Fanwood Hall for the guests.

MARTINE MENACES EPISTOLARY FLOOD

"Our Jim" May Read 600 Letters Into Record to Block "Washed" Money.

Washington, May 23.—United States Senator James E. Martine, of Plainfield, N. J., is being kept busy just now helping his friends the plate printers, in their fight against the government's washing of paper money. They are opposed to the present plan because it reduces the printing of new paper money and consequently cuts down the work of the plate printers. Already the Senator has received some public notice of his efforts to discredit the washing machines, which are so heartily detested by the plate printers.

The Senator has taken the floor every time in behalf of the resolution and the gallery has waited expectantly for some verbal pyrotechnics. Martine says that he is determined to carry his point and force into print at government expense, the letters that have been collected by the plate printers. He is against the washing of much handled paper money, not because of the economy of the measure threatens the jobs of some score or more printers, but because the washed notes, so the Senator asserts, have proven a "snare and delusion" to bank tellers and cashiers the world over.

LOCAL CIVIC SOCIETIES' JOINT MEETING TONIGHT

The West End Civic Association will send as its representatives to the Chamber of Commerce meeting tonight in the Boice-Runyon building, Thomas F. Hyland, W. W. Robison, Frank A. Weeks and John J. Carroll. At this session practically every civic society or organization, with the probable exception of the Board of Trade, will be represented by one or more delegates. The purpose of the session is to devise a plan whereby the respective bodies can co-operate in the matter of securing improvements. The discussion will be an informal one.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR MRS. JENNIE BOYLAN

Fifty friends of Mrs. Jennie Boylan tendered her a surprise at her home on Regent street, last night and the evening was passed in playing games and dancing. A number of the guests provided musical entertainment and several solos were rendered. The party was arranged as a surprise for Mrs. Boylan by her daughters, Mrs. J. M. Boylan, Mrs. D. M. Waldron, Mrs. C. L. Amerman and Mrs. J. M. Ammerman.

KIDDIE LONGED FOR LIFE IN WILD WEST

But Little Sammie Potter's Dreams Rudely Shattered When Arrested Here.

Inspired with the ambition to live a life on the plains, as pictured to him by the "movies" in his home town, Samuel Potter, 13 years old, of 22 Hamilton street, Somerville, en route for the "wild and wooly" West, had his dreams of wealth and adventure thwarted last night, when he was apprehended at West Front street and Park avenue by Patrolman Saunders. Word that he had run away from home had gone before him and when the local "copper" saw a youngster wandering aimlessly along the street he recognized him by a description furnished Chief Kiely. Young Potter was taken to his home this morning.

At headquarters the would-be adventurer told of the plans made by himself and several other playmates to leave home for the "land of opportunity"—never to return until their fortunes had been made. Potter said when it came time to make their departure, however, all were attacked with "cold feet" with the exception of himself, and that he decided to start out alone. Contrary to all precedent, the youthful runaway failed to provide himself with hunting knife or horse-pistol with which to defend himself against the attacks of savage "Indians." After spending the night at headquarters, he awoke this morning fully believing in that proverbial saying, "There is no place like home."

BECOMES THE WIFE OF NORMAN WYCKOFF

Miss Nellie Garretson Stillman the Bride of a Newark Man.

Miss Nettie Garretson Stillman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Stillman, of West Fourth street, was married at the home of her parents last night to Norman L. Wyckoff, of Newark, the Rev. Edwin Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, officiating. The bride was gowned in white charmeuse trimmed with lace and pearls and carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Her veil was caught up with orange blossoms sent here from California by Mrs. Lizzie Mezzler, an aunt of the bride.

Miss Lillian Stillman was maid-of-honor and wore a gown of yellow silk covered with hand embroidered white voil and carried a bouquet of marguerites. Clarence H. Kriedler, of Newark, was best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Ethel D. Stillman, of Westerly, R. I., a cousin of the bride, and Miss Helen Lever, of Newark, rendered several piano selections. Following the ceremony the couple left for a short wedding trip and upon their return will make their home in Newark.

The bride is well-known to a host of friends in this city where she has lived since childhood. She was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1910 and during the next term of school acted as an assistant to the late James D. Mcnab, who was at that time commercial instructor in the lolcalll High School. She is a member of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, where she takes an active interest in all branches of church work, especially the Christian Endeavor Society, of which she is one of the officers.

PROCTOR'S FINE BILL.

"Daddy-Long-Legs and the Katzenjammer Kids," head the fine vaudeville bill at Proctor's theatre this week. They are acrobats and general fun-makers. Their queer antics delight both old and young. Chester and Chester offer a rural comedy sketch entitled, "The Law," which is a scream from start to finish. Special scenery is carried for this act. Maley and Woods, "The Wop and the Girl," are two clever entertainers, while Lillian Snyder, "The Little Mascot," is a charming and talented singer and violinist and a great favorite. Fields and Allen, comedians, are sure to chase the blues. The motion pictures are always interesting.

MARTINE'S TRIBUTE TO W. W. ST. JOHN

Senator Unable to Attend the Obsequies of Able Newspaperman.

"In the death of William St. John I feel that I have lost a most loyal and kind friend. He was a man tender-hearted and generous in a superlative degree. I never knew a more conscientious man. Nothing could swerve him from what he deemed the path of duty. Few possessed his ability as a newspaper writer. He would on a few words build up a story that told the truth in a delightful and readable way. The poor fellow made a brave fight. He hoped against fate Peace to his ashes."

Such was the tribute paid by United States Senator James E. Martine to William W. St. John, known throughout the State as a newspaper man of marked ability, whose remains were interred yesterday in the Rosdale cemetery at Linden. Mr. St. John died on Monday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Charles Tate, of Bath, N. Y., after a long illness. The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in Bath and the body was taken to Linden on the 9:56 train on the Pennsylvania Railroad, yesterday.

Only relatives and close friends attended the committal services. The members of the funeral party were met at the train in Linden, and taken in coaches to the cemetery, preceded by the hearse bearing the remains. The casket was enclosed in a metallic case. Among those who attended the burial were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tate, of Bath, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. George Hewlitt, of New York city. Mrs. Tate and Mrs. Hewlitt were sisters of the deceased. James Kerney, a Trenton newspaper man, and Martin P. Devlin, prosecutor of Hudson county, both of whom were intimate friends of Mr. St. John; Harry D. Conover, of Trenton, who was associated with him for a number of years in newspaper work in the State Capitol, and D. W. Litteil, of this city, represented Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, of which Mr. St. John was a member. Senator Martine was unable to attend the funeral services.

Simplicity characterized the service at the grave. The Presbyterian burial service was read by the Rev William B. Hamilton, pastor of Westminster Hope Memorial chapel, of Elizabeth, who paid a brief tribute to the departed. Mr. Hamilton spoke of Mr. St. John's ability as a newspaper man, of the nobility of his character and the honesty of purpose that had marked his career.

The casket was opened before it was committed to the grave. There were a number of floral pieces sent by friends of Mr. St. John in Trenton. Among the tributes was a cluster of white roses sent by State Treasurer Edward E. Grosscup.

IT WAS ONLY A CASE OF TOO MUCH PA-IN-LAW

"Too much father-in-law" resulted last night in the arrest of William Mauser, 41 years old, of 27 Somerset street, and his son-in-law, Samuel Dawson, 24 years old, of the same address, on charges of fighting and acting disorderly. After listening to a lecture in the City Court this morning, Judge DeMeza being the orator, they were released on a suspended sentence.

TO BUILD SIX HOUSES AT SOUTH PLAINFIELD

Charles E. Drake, of West Fourth street, signed a contract with the Twin Realty Company, of New York, this morning providing for the erection of six new houses on Maple avenue, South Plainfield. The structures will be built at a cost of $3,275 each and work will start Monday morning.

COLORED YOUTHS IN TOIL.

Richard Keas, 35 years old, of 211 West Fouth street; James Stille, 21 years old, of 411 West Fourth street, and Walter Saunders, 24 years old of 513 East Third street, all colored, were committed to the county jail this morning on serious charges preferred by 15-year-old Marjorie Lane, colored, who is under arrest on charges of waywardness. All are being held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

IRVING SCHOOL SHOW.

Specimens of the work being accomplished by the pupils of the Irving School in sewing, wood work, manual training, cooking, basketry and drawing were exhibited in the school auditorium last night. A feature of the exhibit were the samples of cooking, the work of the seventh grade girls done in their own homes.

FOUR ARE GIVEN NURSES DIPLOMAS

Rev. Dr. Eaton Addresses Graduating Class of Hospital Training School.

MR. MELLICK PRESIDES

He Presents Certificates and Mayor Stewart the Pins—Exercises Held at the Hartridge Auditorium—Reception Followed.

Miss Elizabeth Duff and Miss Isabelle McNicol, of West New Brighton, S. I.; Miss Aurelia Brown, of New York, and Miss Ella Schenck, of Scotch Plains, were graduated from the training school of Muhlenberg Hospital last night, the exercises being held at the Hartridge Auditorium. The young women have practically completed their course of training and three of them plan to follow their profession, while the fourth, Miss Duff, is to be married early in July to Frank McInerney, Jr., of this city.

The exercises attracted a large number of friends of the graduates and of the hospital. A feature was the presence of twenty-seven members of the Nurses' Alumnae Association, who, attired in their uniforms, marched into the auditorium and occupied seats reserved for them.

As the former graduates, this year's graduates and the pupil nurses of the school marched in they were greeted with hearty applause. It was the largest representation of the school present at any graduation. Among the former graduates was Mrs. Adolphus Fryer, nee Clark, now of Camden, who was a member of the first graduating class of 1896. The other four members were Miss Hartranft, Miss Trembly, Miss Wolf and Miss Erdman, the last named now being Mrs. J. B. Probasco. William R. Cock, a former member of the Board of Governors, had a photograph of the class, which aroused considerable interest among the nurses. Another former graduate present was Mrs. Cortright, wife of Dr. Cortright, who was Miss Stewart. She lives in Brooklyn and it was the first time she has attended a graduation since leaving the city

The exercises, which were short and simple, were in charge of George P. Mellick, president of the Board of Governors, and included an excellent address by Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton,

PLAN TO OPERATE A SUBURBAN BUS LINE

The board of directors of the Plainfield Transit Company, at a meeting last night, decided that the demonstration runs of the bus operated by H. C. Pritchard for the past two months from Plainfield to South Plainfield and Stirling, show that the proposition is a good one and should prove profitable to the stockholders of the company.

It was also decided that as soon as buses can be purchased the transit company will proceed to operate a line from Plainfield to South Plainfield, Stirling, Mt. Bethel and Millington, connecting with the important trains on the New Jersey Central, Lehigh Valley and Lackawanna Railroads.

FOUR ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS

pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, the presentation of diplomas to the graduates by Mr. Mellick and the presentation of pins to the graduates by Mayor Percy H. Stewart. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue church. After the program there was a reunion of graduates, congratulations for this year's class, dancing and refreshments.

Dr. Eaton, the speaker of the evening, said that it was a real pleasure for him to have a part in anything that concerned Muhlenberg Hospital, and he briefly recalled the hospital campaign which he said he was glad to learn was such a success. In addressing the graduates, he cautioned them to the effect that the public is a hard task-master, and he emphasized the importance and value of service, adding that there is nothing more worthy.

The speaker brought words of encouragement to the graduates. He advised them not to be simply trained nurses, but to be something more as they follow their honorable and useful work in the world. Dr. Eaton said that it was within the province of a nurse to not only alleivate pain and suffering, but to be the means of dispelling fear and anxiety and to bring cheer to the patient and those of the family circle. It is part of the physician's duty to bring hope and cheer and so it is with the trained nurse, but if a nurse follows her profession just for the money she gets she will miss the greatest opportunity of her life.

In the second place, Dr. Eaton suggested that the nurses take good care of their health so that they may always feel fit and strong, and he advised them never to be afraid to stand up for their profession. He said that here was no door of opportunity more wide open to them than the one of their chosen profession and the graduates were counseled to go to work as the chosen servants of God, glad when they can alleviate suffering. Being a woman, in spite of the militant suffragettes, Dr. Eaton considered one of the great things in the world and in conclusion he wished the graduates God-speed in their work.

In presenting the graduates with their diplomas, Mr. Mellick said in part:

"On behalf of the Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital it is a great pleasure to welcome all who honor us with their presence this evening. It is particularly gratifying to see the Alumnae Association of the Muhlenberg Training School for Nurses represented. This is a new feature in our graduation exercises, and I hope it will be a permanent one, that each year the nurses who have previously graduated from the training school will find it a pleasure to assemble at the annual graduation.

"It is fitting that on this occasion, having an opportunity to speak to the public, for me to say something of our institution and its present work. We feel that there are a greater number of people now interested in the hospital than ever before by reason of their participation in the recent campaign, and the many contributions given us for the construction of our new buildings. Progress has not been as fast as we would have liked it to be in the new construction work, but it is now moving along very well, and we are much pleased with the work of our architects, as the buildings promise to be fully up to the expectation in their attractiveness and completeness as to work.

"As you will remember, the total amount of subscriptions received during the campaign was about $132,000. I am very happy to tell you we have already received about $107,000 from the contributors. There is $25,000 still to collect, and the final payment is due October 1 next. This $25,000 still to be collected represents to a very large extent many small subscriptions, and I wish at this time to remind those persons, those who have paid nothing as yet on their subscription, that it will be very gratifying to the governors of the hospital, if these subscriptions are paid as soon as possible. I refer to those who have paid absolutely nothing on their promise to pay. It must be remembered that each person who contributes to that hospital, signed a pledge which is a moral obligation to pay the money, and as I know the people of Plainfield are honest people, there is no doubt whatever but that these pledges are good, and that the money will be paid; some have carelessly postponed payment but I hope within the next few months it will come in.

"The cost of labor and prices of building materials is so high that to completely carry out our plans we need every cent of the money given to this campaign. I can assure you that the building committee has devoted many months of careful and conscientious labor in the consideration of all matters pertaining to the improvements and additions of our hospital. We are not building and changing things there to meet only the demands of today, but rather looking ahead so that for the next ten years Muhlenberg Hospital will have a capacity equal to its demands, and when the work is finished, the people of Plainfield will well be proud of an up-to-date, economically yet wisely constructed hospital that in its efficiency will be unequalled by any other institution in the State. We have avoided all kinds of extreme or expensive luxury; we have had only one thought in mind and that was the efficient care both of the rich and poor in order that the work done by our institution may be a greater blessing to the community than ever before.

"We never know when we ourselves, or some of our loved ones may need the opportunities which Muhlenberg Hospital affords, and it is earnestly desired by the Board of Governors, that the people of Plainfield will love its hospital. It is a hospital of the people. There is no one connected with its management who has any selfish ambition; the work done by the governors is hard work, and many of the men on the various committees really give hours a week to the thoughtful, conscientious direction of its various departments. We are very proud of it, and we hope the people of Plainfield are proud of it."

Mayor Percy H. Stewart then presented the graduates with their pins, speaking words of appreciation and encouragement to the young women, and adding that he felt sure they would always honor the training school from which they were graduated. The graduates were showered with beautiful floral gifts from relatives and friends. Music for the reception and dancing was furnished by VanEps Brothers, and it proved a delightful feature. It is the hope of the Board of Governors that these annual affairs will be more largely attended and appreciated by the public, they being democratic in every sense of the word.

Norfolk, Virginia, deserves no credit for the overwhelming popularity of the Norfolk Suit this season.

In fact, the coat of that name will put the city of that name back on the map.

"Rothberg" Norfolks

You might think it egotism for putting the word "Rothberg" in quotation marks, but when you see the coats you'll agree that it is pardonable.

Styled just a bit different, made just a bit better, patterns just a bit newer—that's the "Rothberg" part of the proposition.

The selection takes in Blue Serges and a host of fancy mixtures.

Eastern Rugs

Their desirability cannot be determined by a knowledge of the fact that they were made in any particular Oriental district.

A master weaver's individuality in artistic conception and skillful handicraft serves to produce, in all weaves, rugs that are of a class decidedly above the average in interest and value.

Our experts in all the rug weaving centres of the Orient are constantly collecting, with discriminating care, these unusually interesting examples. This enables us to offer a collection unequalled in merit and diversity.

Our reasonable prices add to their desirability.

COLBY FOR GOVERNOR.

It looks now as if the Progressive party in this State would force the nomination for Governor upon Everett Colby and what a superb candidate he would make! Can the men of the Republican party appreciate the opportunity this presents for them? Why do they not also nominate Mr. Colby? It would mean the redemption of the State, the rehabitation of the Republican party along Progressive lines, and the elevation of the politics of New Jersey. It is a chance that only comes once in a life time.

It is perfectly evident to any thoughtful man in the State that the Republican party has not the smallest possible chance of carrying this State with a direct party candidate of its own. Has its present leadership the political sagacity to see this fact and act upon this splendid opportunity? The party is absolutely dead unless something of this kind can be done. Senator Colby is fair to all; he is a loyal progressive and is a better Republican, considering principles he has stood for, than many so-called Republican leaders. As the candidate of the Progressive and Republican party his election would be a certainty and New Jersey would be assured of a Governor of whom all the people of the State would be proud. A union on such a man would take all the sting out of the fight of 1912, and unite, as nothing else could, all the forces which stand for righteousness in politics and government.

Has the leadership of the old party brains enough to see this and wisdom enough to do it? It involves no sacrifice, it leads to no dishonor; it would show the people that the Republican party had regained its Lincolnian wisdom. Mr. Colby has always been a consistent, honorable Republican, with consistent progressive principles, until after the Chicago convention last June, and who now justifies the action of that convention? All want to forget it. Unless it is forgotten the Republican party can never live again. The thing to do is for all parties to unite upon Everett Colby as a candidate who will represent the best progressive thought, found in all the parties and all the people of the State, what a result this the State. What a result this this would give to our State among the sister States of the Union!

Union on Colby means uplift and victory.

The Daily Press is always glad to publish communications and in fact, invites them, but as we have said many times a limit must be placed on their length as is the custom with all daily newspapers. Communications more than a column in length cannot be handled. The story of the Creation was written in less than 700 words.

Several thousand dollars worth of prizes, including three automobiles, are offered in our subscription campaign contest. Read the important announcement to be found on pages 14 and 15 of this issue.

The English King and the German Emperor hug each other in meeting at Berlin. It will be observed, however, that the two nations are still discussing the prospects of a war.

When the situation at Wharton and at Paterson is appreciated, it makes a Jerseymen envy the Pennsylvanians who have a State constabulary to stop mob lawlessness.

Allen E. Beals, scout commissioner of the Boys' Scouts in Plainfield, will be the contributing editor for tomorrow's issue.

CRANFORD MILLIONAIRES MUST PAY HER DAMAGES

Elizabeth, May 23.—After nearly four hours' deliberation, the jury before whom was tried in the Circuit Court the damage suit brought by Mrs. Fanny Reeves, of 8 Orange avenue, Cranford, against Thomas A. and William M. Sperry, of that place, returned a verdict for $325 in her favor. The amount sued for was $10,000 and was based on the claim that a dam erected by the Sperry brothers across their joint estates on the Rahway River, caused the water to inundate the property owner by Mrs. Reeve, 500 feet above.

The defense contended that the dam only replaced another which had been on the site for years and that during all that time at certain periods of the year, under certain conditions, the Reeves property was flooded.

Mrs. Reeves in part admitted this allegation, but asserted that since the erection of the new dam, which she claimed was higher than the old one, her property is more frequently inundated and at times when flood conditions do not exist all along the stream.

MAY GRAND JURY RETURNS TWENTY-FIVE INDICTMENTS

Elizabeth, May 23.—The May Grand Jury yesterday returned twenty-five indictments to Judge James C. Connolly, sitting in the Court of Quarter Sessions. This makes a total of forty indictments returned by the Grand Jury to date.

The foreman announced that the body had not completed its work.

DUNELLEN'S SPITE FENCE WILL BE TAKEN DOWN

Dunellen's only "spite fence" erected by William Winges around his premises at Lincoln avenue and Front street, is doomed for destruction. According to a advertisement appearing in the Dunellen weekly paper, the black painted boards are for sale, as Mr. Winges is going to erect an ornamental iron fence in place of the "vision proof" wooden one.

The structure which is about ten feet in heighth and painted a dull black was erected several months ago to obscure his view, so he said at the time, from so-called immodest scenes which he alleged he witnessed through a neighbor's window.

Recently Mr. Winges received a letter signed by "The Red Fire Gang," threatening to blow up the unsightly structure unless he tore it down immediately of his own volition. Marshal Davenport has been making strenuous efforts to locate the writer without avail. Whether this missive prompted Mr. Winges to decide to erect an ornamental iron fence in place of the wooden structure is now known. At any rate, when the new fence is in place Mr. Winges will again be able to witness the "scenes" which angered him, if there are any, a thing which many Dunellenites question.

GABRIELLE RAY TO SEEK DIVORCE FROM HER RICH HUSBANE

MISS GABRIELLE RAY
FROM BLACK & WHITE

Gabrielle Ray, one of the most beautiful musical comedy actresses in London, and formerly the object of more adoration from stage door Johnnies than any other stage beauty, has filed suit for restitution of her conjugal rights. This is a preliminary step to divorce proceedings against her husband, Eric Loder, whom she married a year ago.

The highly susceptible Manuel of Portugal was once reported to be smitten with the charms of Gabrielle.

Gabrielle and Loder, who is the scion of a rich family, were married at Windsor, England, after the first ceremony was somewhat marred by the non-appearance of the bride. Miss Ray afterward explained that she was ill, or had forgotten the engagement, or something or other.

MRS. C. BOARDMAN TYLER GIVES DELIGHTFUL MUSICAL

Mrs. Cornelius Boardman Tyler, of West Seventh street, gave a delightful musical at her home, yesterday afternoon, entertaining about two hundred friends. The program was presented by Hugo Brandt, pianist; Miss Gabriele Drosse, soprano soloist of the First M. E. church, and William Trumpey, tenor soloist.

The selections by the artists were of a popular sort and all were enthusiastically received. Several encores were given throughout the musical. Mrs. Tyler was a charming hostess and she provided a lavish entertainment.

MRS. LONGSTREET BLAMES RAILWAYS

MRS. HELEN DORTCH LONGSTREET

Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, widow of the noted Confederate general, had a hearing before the Senate Post Office Committee recently to give her version of the circumstances leading to her displacement as postmaster at Gainesville, Ga. Mrs. Longstreet did not ask reinstatement, but sought to reply to Postmaster General Burleson's statement that her office was poorly managed. She referred to Mr. Burleson as "President Wilson's sixty-day Postmaster General."

Mrs. Longstreet declared that she was the victim of the Georgia Railway and Power Company, which, she said, had pursued her because she urged legislation to "curtail its favors." She presented a long list of indorsements of her administration, and asserted that the people of her community who knew her were more competent to judge her than the Postmaster General.

The departure of the cook or maid does not prostrate the lady who knows the efficiency of Press want ads.

And want ad-reading servants are of the desirable class.

N. P. H. S. CHEMISTS SEE THE REAL THING

Borough High School Instructor Takes Pupils on Sight Seeing Trip.

Contending that the old maxim, "Seeing is believing," is the best one to follow, even when applied to chemistry instruction, Miss Roxanna Love, teacher of that science in the North Plainfield High School, inaugurated a new custom in the Borough High School, yesterday, when she led a delegation of nine chemistry pupils on a sight seeing trip to the Standard Oil plant at Bayway, near Bayonne. The visitors were shown through the plant and had the various processes, through wich the raw material has to go before it is turned out as the finished product, explained to them by expert guides.

Samples of the various by-products manufactured from oil were distributed among the pupils, who were Miss Helen Hughes, Miss Helen Woodruff, Miss Lois Peck, Miss Virginia LaPorte and Thomas Fetherstone, Clarence Schmidt, Franklin Lowe and Frank Dunning. Negotiations are being carried on by Miss Love, which, when completed, will give the same pupils a chance to visit other plants of interest in the State.

NOTES FROM LABOR FIELD

About 8,000,000 men are employed in regular occupation in Great Britain.

In 1912 the total number of strikes and lockouts in Canada was reported as 148.

Actual construction will soon begin upon a six-story labor temple in Cleveland, O., to cost $60,000.

The union of boilermakers in England has, by a referendum vote, decided to withdraw from the Labor party.

The labor unions of Houston, Tex., have subscribed over $500 toward the establishment of a tubercular clinic in that city.

The carpenters, electrical workers and other unions in Galveston, Tex., have taken steps to form a Building Trades Council.

Thirty-two bills were introduced into the State Legislature of New York for the purpose of effecting a recognization of the State labor bureau.

It is estimated that work will be supplied for skilled laborers in Ohio, Nebraska and Indiana for the next five years as a result of the recent floods. In Nebraska the greatest damage was done by tornadoes and windstorms.

There is no reason for bridge and structural iron workers to be out of work this summer, according to the officers of the International Union. The large number of new bridges to be built will furnish employment for all the men available.

A general council composed of representatives of welfare organizations has been formed in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Frederick Schoof, of Philadelphia, is president; Mrs. John Hays Hammond, vice president, and Mrs. C. H. Shelton, of Washington, secretary.

Last year the Italian government gave official notice to its female employes in the telephone service that they should not marry under the age of 28 years. Recently a new order has been announced that no married woman need solicit admission into the service.

At Winnipeg, Manit., a labor representation committee has been formed for the purpose of securing labor representation upon all public bodies for the purpose of organizing the working class into one consolidated political body. W. B. Simpson was elected chairman.

Labor Commissioner Powers, of Michigan, reports that of the 50,000 persons by which the number of employes in manufacturing establishments was increased in 1912, only 508 were children between 14 and 16 years of age. This is said to be due to the employers' liability law and effective factory inspection.

The 90,000 members of the Bricklayers' and Stonemasons' International Union are preparing to vote on the question of affiliating with the American Federation of Labor. It is said that other trades have been gradually encroaching on the trade of the bricklayers and they decided to join the Federation for self protection.

During the past year there has been a considerable falling off in the number of strikes in France. There were 1,471 strikes in all, involving 230,646 strikers, employed by 16,048 different firms and corporations. The total number of days lost amounted to no less than 4,096,393 compared with about 5,000,000 during the previous year. Of these strikes 261 were successful, 529 partially successful, 681 failed entirely, and only 21 lasted more than 100 days.

GOLF POPULAR WITH GIRLS AS CADDIES

New Girl Will Promote the Game Say Experts—Pretty Feminine Ball Chasers.

England, the nation well known for the remarkable vigor and agility of a certain element of its weaker sex has found time somehow—while not engaged in putting to rights the ruin wrought by Mrs. Pankhurst's friends—to put a new wrinkle in that delightful pastime sometimes known as golf. Word comes to us that the last gasp in dear old Lunnon and thereabouts is the lady caddie. Young women are retrieving the far-hit rubber pellet and old J. Bull seems well pleased with the notion.

It is not at all unlikely that the idea will find favor in this country. In fact, as we give the matter our mature deliberation it occurs to us that once started it will be the large scream here. The game of golf will enjoy a popularity that it has never known before. We are something less than a weatherman in the prognosticating line, but we'd like to risk a few nickels that the innovation of easy-to-look-at young wimmin caddies would have a lot of us poring over the most recent edition of "Golf, and how she is played."

Still, like so many other things in this cale of tears, it would have its drawbacks. In the first place we don't consider it an ideal job for a lady. If we have been correctly informed, the proper execution of the brassie cannot be negotiated without a considerable degree of blasphemy. To be able to "tee off" with finesse absolutely demands a resourceful diction of cursing. Such as would be quite unfit for the ears of a lady. And supposing—just s'posing—the ball should go over a fence! And the caddie, the lady caddie, should be expected to recover it. My goodness!

There are other objections, but we hesitate to mention them. We are heartily in favor of the scheme and don't care to spray cold water on it. But what if you were married and had a wife, and the chances are if you were, you would, and after considerable trouble you had found a caddie-ette that you thought would suit and had paid her a season in advance—and then enter: the frau. Blooie, blooie! Goodnight, nurse, the stuff's off!

But then perhaps you're not married. Vivi la caddie-ette!!

Y. M. A. A. VS. KLINKERS.

Manager William Conger, of the Y. M. A. A. baseball team, will pit his youngsters against the strong Somerville Klinkers tomorrow afternoon, this game having been deferred from last week on account of the weather conditions prevailing at that time. The local boys will take the field as follows: Clark, p; Lambertson c; Greenwall, 1b; Compton, 2b; Brick, 3b; Smith, ss; Meyers, lf; Conger or Hadley, cf; Harry Hann, rf.

CORNELL-HARVARD BOAT RACE.

Ithaca, N. Y., May 23.—The Poughkeepsie plan of running an observation train for the accommodation of the spectators will be tried here for the first time tomorrow, on the occasion of the Harvard-Cornell boat race. The two varsity crews showed splendid form in their final practice spins on Lake Cayuga today and unless all signs go astray the big race will be a close and interesting contest.

SCENES VIEWED AT THE DAILY PRACTICE OF THE AMERICAN POLO TEAM.

L. E. STODDARD DRIVING THE BALL BACK TO D. MILLBURN, FOXHALL KEENE RIDING TO HEAD MILLBURN OFF

Louis Stoddard, who is making a strong bid for a place on the American polo team, is seen in this picture making a back hand shot close to the boards. His object is to get the ball back to Mr. Milburn, who is riding up to make a long hit. Mr. Keene is rushing in to head off Mr. Milburn from the ball. Note Mr Keene's cap. It is his mascot, and he is never seen in a game without it. The team is being worked hard in preparation for the match with England in June.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

Sporting Editor:

Query—Did Ernest Dorflinger manager of the Plainfield baseball team, ever play professional baseball, and if so, with what team?—J. L.

Answer—Dorflinger was an outfielder in the old Penn-State League about fifteen years ago.

Sporting Editor:

Query—A bets that George Voehl, president of the Dunellen baseball club; used to play with the old Crescents. B bets he did not. Who wins.—R. B.

Answer—A wins. Voehl played with the Crescents as a third baseman about twenty-five years ago.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Please explain why the Giants are not winning consistently.—A. F. H.

Answer—Your query is a timely one but a difficult one to answer. The reason most apparent to us is the absence of "pep" which has heretofore been a conspicuous feature in all of the Giants' races for the pennant.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Does Horine's style of jumping (the world's champion) bear the approval of athletic authorities in the U. S.? Was he criticised in Sweden? Does Russell Lawrence Beatty hold any record for the shot put?—G. I. H.

Answer—You do not want to know much, G. I. H., but I will do the best I can in satisfying your wants. Horine's style bears the approval of the highest U. S. authorities. It was watched closely by Swedish officials but not criticised. "Ras" holds the intercollegiate record for the eight-pound shot, made at the intercollegiate games in 1911.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where did the game of rugby originate?—D. G.

Answer—Rugby originated in England.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Please tell me where I can get a copy of the song, "Only a Dream of You," which I heard some time ago at the theatre.—H. A.

Answer—Any music dealer ought to be able to get the song for you but why dream of me?

Sporting Editor:

Query—In a poker game, A holds the edge in a jack-pot. B cannot open, but C does open and when it comes to B's turn to stay, he wants to raise the pot. Can he?—J. P. L.

Answer—He certainly can. This is a common play in poker, but like in all other card games a move of this kind is governed to some extent by the rules of the house.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can I get a list of the hotels in Asbury Park and Ocean Grove and their rates?—J. S. D.

Answer—The hotel directory at the public library will give you the desired information.

There is only one WAY to do business with and that is the right WAY.

TO JOIN DETROIT.

Joe Peploski, captain and star player of the Seton Hall 'Varsity team, upon his graduation next month will take up professional baseball, having agreed to sign a contract with the Detroit American League team. Since he pitched a few sensational games for Seton Hall last season, Peploski has received offers from big league magnates, but he waited until he was about to graduate before he made his decision. He will receive his degree at Seton Hall on June 12, and will join the Tigers in New York a few days later. Peploski is an all around good ball player, his batting and base running recommending him even more than his twirling as an asset for fast company. He is 21 years old. His home is in Bayonne.

SPICER LINEUP.

In their game with the Royal Colored Giants in connection with the opening of the City Baseball League tomorrow afternoon the Spicer team will take the field as follows: Burns, 2b; Baldwin, ss; Campbell, lf-p; O'Loughlin, 3b; Compton, c; Reick, cf; Mague, rf; Scott, 1b; Fleming, p; Thompson, 1b-rf; Dolan, p, and Hunt, cf.

WESTFIELD HORSE ENTERED.

John G. TenEyck, of Westfield, has entered his star pacer Reta Ambulator in the Decoration Day meet to be held under the direction of the Freehold Driving Association. The Westfield horse is a bay mare and is entered in the 2:18 trot or pace mixed, prizes for which aggregate $300.

GOLF PUTTERS

"Golf is a fiery furnace that tries the souls of men," says a writer. We agree perfectly with this philosopher for it certainly is a trial to many.

A few golf maims:

All is not golf that putters.

It's a long ball that has no turning.

There's many a slip 'twixt tee and lip.

Coming bunkers cast their shudders before.

At the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow afternoon the second round of the Spring Handicap will be run off.

Play for the President's and Oakmont Cups will be resumed at the Park Golf Club tomorrow afternoon.

A Goat's competition is another contest that is occupying the attention of Park Club golfers.

John D. Rockefeller has announced that worry over his wealth interferes with his golf playing. It's rather strange that this impediment has never made itself felt in our playing.

General advice to beginners—Try playing every shot just the opposite manner for a spell.

It takes all kinds of people to make up a world. Have you ever met the kind who insist on giving you a detailed account of every shot they have made during the afternoon?

HOLY CROSS AT CRANFORD.

The Holy Cross baseball team, of this city, will go to Cranford tomorrow afternoon to lineup against the Athletic Club team of that place. The local church boys have gathered together some star performers and expect to return with a victory tucked away under their belts.

GAME AT BRUNSWICK.

Bound Brook will play at New Brunswick tomorrow afternoon, thus inaugurating Saturday afternoon ball for the season of 1913 at that place. Both of these teams have been mentioned as possible Central New Jersey League entrants but they have not as yet been taken in and unless some further action is forthcoming before tomorrow afternoon they will play as independent aggregations. Charlie Newhouse has gathered together a star combination and expects to give Dave Driscoll and his crew a strong fight for first honors.

CITY LEAGUE OPENS WITH TWO GAMES

Four Games on Tap in Recently Organized Circuit—Good Teams.

Games tomorrow afternoon:
Spicer vs. Royal Giants.
West Ends vs. Saurers.

Teams of the City Baseball League will make another attempt to start their schedule going tomorrow afternoon following the rain postponement of last week, and the same program of games is offered again this time. Manager Pete Simmons will pit his dusky warriors against the Spicer aggregation while the West Ends will lineup against the Saurer Motor Company nine on Clinton avenue.

Both of the league fields have been put in the finest kind of condition and as all four teams have secured a choice list of players the City League games ought to be hummers. No definite rosters have as yet been announced but all four managers claim to have nine stellar performers whom they can rely on. Britt Martin, the former Plainfield and Dunellen captain, will lead the Saurer team on the diamond, playing second base.

TO START WORK ON FIELD.

William Conger, manager of the Y. M. A. A. baseball team, has announced that the work of remodeling the Centre street baseball diamond will be started next Monday afternoon and when completed the new field will probably be one of the best in the city. It is proposed to plow up the field and resurface the infield, making it both fast and attractive.

High Bridge vs. Somerville
Somerville 3:30 o'clock

Providing Jupiter Pluvius decides to hold off during the afternoon, another round of Central New Jersey League baseball is due to be decided tomorrow afternoon, when the High Bridge and Somerville teams meet at Somerville and the Plainfield team lines up against Bob Bogardus' Dunellen "Corn-Huskers" on Parker Field. The game in this city promises to be one of particular interest as the two contenders have always been the closest of rivals and a number of shifts are due to take effect in both lineups before tomorrow's contest.

Billy Coyle will supplant Captain Britt Martin at second base in the Dunellen lineup, the latter having quit the team, while Les Dodge will be seen in right field, taking Katz Miller's place in the local lineup. Jim Wolf, a brother of "Home Run" Wolf, will play short for Dunellen while McGee will take Williams' place at short on the Plainfield team. Although it has been announced that Bergen quit the Plainfield team, he has returned to the fold and will be seen at his old stand in left field.

The teams playing at Parker Field will lineup as follows tomorrow:

The Plainfield club will have Stewart and Moran on the bench.

ROSTERS OF FOUR TEAMS THAT WILL BATTLE FOR DAILY PRESS TROPHY

A meeting of the new City League managers will be held in the rooms of the West End A. C. tonight at 8 o'clock to complete the final details for the opening of the league race tomorrow afternoon when four teams play their initial games in connection with the league. The organization which is composed of four teams will have an incentive to competition, the silver loving cup donated by the Plainfield Daily Press to be awarded to the team coming out in the lead after the schedule is completed. Last year the Daily Press trophy was won by the R. G. E. team of the Manufacturers' League after a close race and one this year promises to be even more closely contested.

Aside from the main prize, a gold medal has been offered by a local jeweler to the man getting the most stolen bases, while Sam Rothberg has donated the tickets to be sold at every game.

The team rosters are as follows:

BRUNSWICK SCHOOLBOYS TRIMMED BOUND BROOK

A team of Bound Brook High School ball players was swamped by New Brunswick High School at the latter place yesterday afternoon, the Brunswick boys winning by a score of 14 to 2. In bringing home the bacon, Brunswick pounded out nine hits and this, with the spilling of an even dozen errors by the visitors made victory doubly easy.

HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE.

Calgary, Alta., May 23.—Luther McCarty and Arthur Pelkey finished training today for their ten-round contest which is to be pulled off at Tommy Burns' club tomorrow night. Public interest has reached a high pitch with the near approach of the date of the battle. The interest has been further increased by the announcement that the winner of the fight will lay claim to the heavyweight championship title. McCarty is a favorite in the betting, but Pelkey has many admirers here who believe he will be able to hold his own for ten rounds against the big fighter from across the border. The advance sale of seats indicates that a big crowd will be on hand to see the mill.

INITIAL GAMES IN S. S. LEAGUE RACE

Four Teams Will Start Operations Tomorrow Afternoon if Weather Permits.

Games tomorrow afternoon:
Hope Chapel vs. Monroe Avenue.
First Baptist vs. Park Avenue.

Although the Sunday-school Baseball League was scheduled to start operations last Saturday afternoon, the opening had to be deferred until this week on account of rain and as a result the same two games that were originally carded for last week will be played tomorrow afternoon instead. The Sunday-school League field have been put in first-class condition and the two games on tap are expected to provoke a large amount of interest from the four bands of cohorts.

Efficient umpires have been engaged to take charge of the officiating and the first contests will enable the various factions to get a line on the relative strength of their favorites in comparison with the other nines.

GORGE ORTLIEB RELEASED BY NEW ENGLAND LEAGUERS

Manager Louis P. Pieper, of the Lawrence team, of the New England League, has announced that he has released Pitcher George Ortlieb to the Worcester team thus complying with the league regulations to keep within a player limit. Ortlieb's home is in Westfield and he is well known locally, having twirle on many occasions for the Plainfield team.

At the beginning of the present season, "Germany" Ortlieb was mentioned as manager of the Westfield team, which then proposed entering the Central New Jersey League, but he was gobbled up by the Lawrence manager and baseball organization has faded away in his home town. This is his third season of training with the Lawrence leaguers and Manager Pieper still retains a string to the Mt. Ararat youngster, who did some good work on the spring trip.

MARTIN SHINES AGAIN.

Jack Martin got another of his spasmodic shining spells yesterday afternoon and tore things up in the game between Rochester and Newark, when his team won by a score of 5 to 2. Besides scoring two of his team's runs, Jack knocked in two more, got a single and accepted two putouts and seven assists without an error. Pretty good, huh?

TORONTO RACE MEETING.

As usual, the feature event of the opening day will be the famous King's Plate. The meeting will continue seven days.

TELL OF ENDEAVOR PROGRESS IN CHINA

Mr. and Mrs. Strothers Address the Plainfield C. E. Union—Officers Chosen.

The election of officers, the awarding of the prize attendance banner and addresses by Rev. and Mrs. Edgar Strothers, Christian Endeavor field secretaries in China, combined to make the annual rally meeting of the local Christian Endeavor Union, held at Warren chapel, last night, an enjoyable occasion. There was a large attendance despite the inclement weather, and all were well repaid for their efforts.

Mr. Strothers brought greetings from the Christian Endeavorers of China and said that China was the second country in the world to adopt Christian Endeavor, adding that the society meetings and training are deepening the spiritual lives of the Chinese Christians. Each society is divided into evangelistic bands which meet on street corners and give the gospel invitation.

Preaching by the native Christians has been found to be far more effective than by foreign missionaries. At the time of the Boxer troubles when there was great excitement in Pekin only the Christians were calm, said Mr. Strothers. The Pekin local Christian Endeavor Union was formed during these troublesome days. Since that time a Chinese heathen temple has been opened for Christian worship.

Mrs. Strothers described an Endeavor meeting in China and said that the Chinese Christians used to make long talks in meetings and say practically nothing, but now they speak briefly and always say something worth while. In one meeting fifty-seven took part in fifty-three minutes. These Chinese Endeavorers are very practical, Mrs. Strothers said. The members of one society noticed that many women were kept from the meeting because of stony roads. They formed a "good roads" committee, picked up all the stones and put sign posts along the way with verses of Scripture pointing out the way to the meeting.

The prize attendance banner was won by the society from the Netherwood Reformed church, with a percentage of 92. The society from the Temple Baptist church was second with 63 per cent. and Hope chapel third with 61 per cent. Hope and Warren chapels were almost a tie. The Temple Baptist society made a good showing with 49 members present.

Reports of the past year's work were read and the following officers elected for the ensuing year:

President, Arnold Finkle, of Netherwood Reformed church; vice president, Frank Kellogg, of the Seventh Day Baptist church; secretary, Miss Lucie Coriell, of Trinity Reformed chruch; treasurer, Miss Agnes Leighs, of Hope chapel; chairman missionary committee, Miss Hattie Squires, of Warren chapel; chairman lookout committee Frank Stewart, of Temple Baptist church; chairman prayer meeting committee, William Latourette, of Trinity Reformed church; chairman temperance committee, Clarence B. LaRue, of Temple Baptist church.

The report of the nominating committee was read by Fred Lounsbury Jr. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, and Rev. Evarts C. Conver, of Temple Baptist church.

REV. DR. STRONG SPEAKS TO SHILOH BAPTISTS

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, made an address, last night, at the Shiloh Baptist church, in connection with a concert given for the benefit of Tribe No. 2, Arthur Jones, captain. The program was an elaborate one arranged by Mrs. J. D. Hampton and Miss Mickins. There were recitations by Miss Frances Elizabeth Giles, of Richmond, Va.; solos by Seymour VanBlake, Miss Jessie Steward and Miss Patsey Landers. The entertainment was concluded with a tableaux and the serving of refreshments.

ROYALTY GATHERS FOR THE CEREMONY

Princess Victoria Louise Becomes Wife of Prince of Cumberland Tomorrow.

Berlin, May 23.—After many weeks of hard work and feverish activity the preparations for tomorrow's royal wedding which will make Princess Victoria Louise, only daughter of Emperor William II., the wife of Prince Ernest, of Cumberland, are practically completed. The imperial palaces in Berlin and Potsdam are filled with the distinguished guests invited to the wedding and to make room for their numerous suites and for his own special guests the Emperor found it necessary to reserve the first and second floors of the Hotel Adlon for his three sisters, the Prince and Princess Henry, of Prussia, and a large part of the entourage of King George and Queen Mary of England.

Tomorrow's royal wedding will be a great event in more than one respect. The loyal Germans are delighted with the prospective union. The princess has always been extremely popular and as it is well understood that her marriage to Prince Ernest is a genuine love match and not a union planned and arranged for State reasons, the whole country rejoices over the event. The fact that the marriage has also great historical importance, in that it will end the fifty-year feud between the Houses of Hohenzollern and Cumberland, is an additional reason for general rejoicing.

Among the distinguished guests invited to the wedding who have already arrived in the Capital are King George and Queen Mary, of England, the King and Queen of Italy, the King and Queen of Denmark, Crown Prince Francis Ferdinand, who will represent the aged Emperor of Austria, Francis Joseph, and a score or more of princes and high dignitaries sent as the representatives of the various other European dynasties and governments. The presence of these distinguished visitors with their entourages and the arrival of the numerous delegations from all parts of the Empire, bearing gifts and addresses from the loyal people in the principal cities of the country, together with the oustands of visitors from all parts of Europe and even from many countries beyond the sea have caused considerable congestion of the hotels and accommodations are difficult to obtain.

The religious marriage ceremony which will be preceded by the civil formalities at Potsdam, will take place tomorrow at the chapel of the imperial palace, in the presence of the Imperial family and of the distinguished invited guests. The happy bride will wear a magnificent bridal gown of white satin and handmade lace, made with a court train three and one-half yards long and a beautiful veil of filmy handmade lace. In accordance with custom the bride will be given away by her father, the Emperor.

The truly royal trousseau of the Princess, carefully selected by her during the past few months, and the magnificent wedding presents from the royal houses of Europe, the rulers and governments of other foreign countries and the loyal citizens of the various States and cities of the Empire have been on exhibition in the well gaurded room of the Imperial palace for several days but only to the members of the court and some privileged visitors. The aggregate value of the jewels and other gifts is estimated at $1,000,000, but the most princely gift of all, it is believed, will be the gift of Emperor William, consisting of the crown of the Grand Duchy of Brunswick to which will be added a considerable slice of the old kingdom of Hanover, now a Prussian province including the district of Lueneburg.

This arrangement will bring to a most felicitous ending the feud between the Hohenzollern and the Guelps which for more than fifty years has caused a great deal of friction in European politics and has greatly complicated the political relations between Germany and England. The fued dates back to the time of George I., who, when he succeeded to the English throne was both Duke of Brunswick-Lueneburg and King of Hanover. At that time there was no German Empire, and the Duchy and the Kingdom were independent States in which their rulers held large property and revenue rights. There was another house of Brunswick, the house of Brunswick-Wolfenbuettel, which terminated, however, in 1844 by the death of the last Duke, William, Duke of Brunswick. The Dukedom was then claimed by the house of Brunswick-Lueneburg, which is now represented by Duke Ernest of Cumberland. Political complications caused the German Emperor to oppose the succession of the Duke of Cumberland to the title of King of Hanover and to the enjoyment of the possession of the Duke of Brunswick. All efforts of mediation by the late King Edward proved without avail and it will remove a great deal of ill feeling and bitterness if the young Prince is restored to the title and possessions denied to his father.

A Money-Saving Boiler

Square Pot Boilers operate economically. Their fuel consumption is comparatively small, their heat-delivering power comparatively large. The reason of this superior economic efficiency lies in the firepot. This is square at bottom and round at top—a form that gives greatly increased radiating surface over the ordinary round pot. Here is a sectional view of the economical Square Pot Boilers.

Note the nearness of interior water-holding sections to fire—upward trend of surfaces and capacious feed door and square firepot.

This arrangement gives free steaming and develops high efficiency on little fuel.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Chauncey Olcott, with a supporting company of unusual excellence, will be the attraction at Plainfield theatre, Wednesday evening, June 11, presenting a new play by Rida Johnson Young, entitled "The Isle o' Dreams." The play, which is rather a novelty in the Olcott repertoire, tells a story involving the rescue from condemnation as a spy the son of the heroditary lord of a small island off the Irish coast by his foster brother, a young foundling cast up by the sea, and the arrest of this young man in his place. Prior to the commencement of the first act, Ivor Kelway has been rescued from a great wreck off the coast by Father John, the parish priest. He is raised as the adopted son of old Mother Kelway, the tavern keeper. After saving Robert O'Deen from capture as a spy of Napoleon, he himself is taken, and led before Colonel McFarlan, the English commander, who orders a drum-head court-martial convened to try Ivor. Things look very black against him, and he is finally convicted, although innocent of the charge. As sentence is about to be pronounced, it is ascertained that Ivor is really the younger brother of Colonel McFarlan, who was supposed to have been lost at sea as a child, and instead of the ignominious death sentence which he expected to hear, Ivor learns that he is of noble birth, —a scion of a wealthy Calway family, and no longer the obscure, low-born fisherman, and accompanying his new-found brother, sets sail back to the Isle of Dreams, where he passed the happiest years of his life. The love interest is furnished by the attachment of Ivor to the playmate of his boyhood, Kathleen O'Doon, to whom he is unable to pay court while thinking himself the poor fisherboy, but to whom he turns when he discovers himself to be a patrician.

Curtains For Warm Weather.

The first consideration when a housewife is curtaining the windows in her house is, of course, the consideration of the appearance of the windows from the inside of the house, the softened light which the curtains provide, the protection which they form against the gaze of passers-by, and, in summer, the ease with which they may be laundered and the amount of air they will admit.

A good many persons who do not need curtains as protections against dust, passers-by or nearby houses, put them away with the first warm weather and leave the windows uncurtained until frost. The rooms, of course, look somewhat bare without them, but at the same time the air has a freer right of way.

All summer curtains should be of light, easily laundered materials. Wide-meshed net, swiss, cheesecloth, scrim or lawn are all good materials.

Pretty summer curtains for bedroom windows are made of figured lawn in pink, blue, green or yellow and white. These fade as the summer progresses, but they are dainty even then, and if worst comes to worst, and the blue fades to an unattractive grey and the pink to a lemonish color, the curtains can be boiled in water and washing soda until they are white, and then used again.

If you do not need a curtain over the window and yet do not want to have the rooms look bare because of the absence of curtains, hang single widths of cretonne on each side of the windows. The connecting valance is, of course, attractive, but it makes it impossible to get air at the top of the windows. These side curtains do much to furnish the rooms and do almost nothing to keep out the air. On the other hand, if they are pinned to curtain rings and run on a brass rod they can be pulled over the window to keep out the glaring light or sudden and uncomfortable drafts.

The Second Consideration.

The first consideration, of course, is the effect of the curtain from the inside of the house. There is a second consideration—the effect from the outside of the house. Many an attractive house has been spoiled because of unattractive curtains. You looked at it from the street and all you could see, it seemed, were coarse lace curtains elaborately looped and tied with ribbons.

When thinking of the appearance of the curtains from the outside of the house, remember that it does not always add to the dignity of the house if passers-by can tell, from the sorts of curtains at the various windows, which the living room and which the different bedrooms. The most artistic curtaining, so far as the outside of the house is concerned, is that which is carried out in only one material.

HOT BEEF PIES.

LEFTOVER beef may be used in making substantial pies for the home dinner. If there is no cold beef cheap cuts of beef may be used for this purpose. A little gravy makes them richer, and with a biscuit dough crust the pies are much nicer than with the ordinary pie crust.

Without a Crust.

Hotpot.—Take for this one pound of cold beef, a pint of canned tomatoes, a large onion, a half dozen potatoes and some good gravy or stock. Cut the meat in slices and fry in fat or drippings; also fry the sliced onion until browned and boil the potatoes until half done. Put a layer of meat in a shallow pudding dish, then onions, tomatoes and potato slices. Spread a little butter over the top and then pour over all some good stock well seasoned. Bake in a moderate oven until browned. Serve in the dish in which cooked.

With Biscuit Dough.

Beef Potpie.—Take pieces of coarse fat beef of equal size, put into a saucepan with cold water and stew for about two hours with the lid on the pan. Add a few slices of fat pork or bacon, an onion, salt and pepper to taste and thicken with flour and water. Turn into a dish lined with biscuit dough such as is used for dumplings, cover with more of the dough and bake in a quick oven until done. Turn out on a warm dish and serve immediately.

With Plain Pie Crust.

Beef and Onion Pie.—Take one and a half pounds of lean beef about the size of walnuts, stew gently in a small amount of water till tender, season to taste with salt and pepper, line the sides of a good sized pudding dish with plain pastry, half fill it with sliced onions, put meat on top, draining it free from gravy; cover with pastry, cutting a slit on top; cover with buttered paper and bake in a moderate oven. When done heat the gravy that was drained from the meat, pour it over the pie and serve at once.

Anna Thompson.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Brave Boy Color Bearer Of Gettysburg.

The Color Bearer Pressed Forward.

MEMORIAL day was at hand. Jack and Evelyn understood what it meant, for grandfather always took them out to the cemetery and showed them the graves on which little flags were fluttering and told them stories of the blue and the gray.

"Can't you tell us a soldier story, daddy?" the children asked. Daddy nodded; he was thinking.

"Fifty years ago was fought the great battle of Gettysburg," he began. "Gettysburg is a little town in the state of Pennsylvania. It lies just over the border from Maryland. In the old days fifty years ago, when north and south were fighting one another, General Lee, who was in command of the southern, or Confederate, army, wished to send his soldiers to Harrisburg, the capital of Pennsylvania, to fight the northern, or Union, soldiers there. The Union army, however, met them, and a battle was fought at Gettysburg. The battle lasted for three days, when the southern army was defeated.

"Among the soldiers in the Union army on the day when the fighting began was a young boy, a color bearer. It was his duty to carry the flag, and very proud he was of his post. When the fighting became fast and furious he pushed his way to the front of the line facing the Confederates.

"The little color bearer knew that if the men of his army saw him, a boy bravely facing the guns of the enemy, they would be ashamed to fall back.

"But it happened that in that part of the field there were many more Confederate troops than Union ones, and the boy saw his comrades falling around him by scores as the guns of the enemy roared and whistled.

"It was the hope of the little color bearer that the regiments whose general he knew was hurrying to their aid would reach them before the enemy drove them back. At last, as he saw how few of his companions still lived and were able to fight, the boy stepped out beyond the front of the line and carried his flag farther forward. But the Union soldiers knew that they had lost that part of the field and began to fall back in spite of his example. Carried away by grief, the little color bearer turned to wave his flag defiantly and shake his clinched fist at the enemy. All day the shot had been whistling around him. Sometimes it chipped his flag staff, but it had not touched him. But as he turned to follow his retreating comrades a shot from the enemy's lines killed him. He fell dead still clutching his beloved stars and stripes.

"But he is not forgotten. In the great cemetery that the nation keeps for the brave dead who fell at Gettysburg you will see the white marble figure of a boy holding a flag in his hand and with clinched fist upraised."

THE SLEEVELESS TUNIC.

Sleeveless tunics and draperies over skirts of contrasting fabric are now the height of fashion, and the thrifty woman is evolving a stunning new gown with three yards of plain fabric and her last season's foulard. This graceful frock has a sleeveless and draped tunic of silk voile in a lovely shade of rather dull green over a foundation of flowered silk in green, pink and brown tones.

Wedding Invitations.

If you are planning to be married in July it is time to think of the details, which may be very annoying, but custom insists on their observance.

The invitations are the first thing to be chosen after the date for the wedding has been decided upon. They should be sent not more than one month nor later than fifteen days before the date. If a large church wedding is contemplated all the names of both families' visiting lists are included. Besides these the relatives and friends of bride and groom and father of the bride are honored with invitations. Friends who are in other countries and those in mourning (although the latter will not attend) are notified of the coming event.

Select a good stationer, who will submit to you some of the newest forms of invitations. Besides these, there are always accepted "set" styles, which conservative persons select. These are always correct.

If the bride has a family crest that she has used on her note paper the die can be left and the crest stamped in white (never in colors) at the center of the top of the sheet and on the flap of the envelope.

Paper should be white or cream and with an unglazed surface. With every sheet of paper two envelopes are ordered, one to inclose the invitations, the larger one to hold both and to be addressed and stamped. The first one is not sealed.

On the unsealed envelope is a line written. This is the name of the recipient. You should never make one invitation serve for an entire family. Economy should not be practiced at this time. To a family one invitation is sent to the husband and wife, one to "The Misses Gray" and a third to "The Messrs. Gray." These three envelopes or the number required are placed in one large outer one, and that is addressed to the matron or hostess of the house, in this case "Mrs. Edwin Gray."

The accepted form, which should be engraved in a simple script or block lettering, is as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Beck request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter,
Alice,
to
Mr. Andrew Hall
on Monday afternoon, June the sixth,
at four o'clock.
St. Mary's Church,
New York.

Another form has a space at the top in which the name of the guest is written by hand. This gives a personal touch to the engraved form.

A bride who has no parents living issues her invitations in the name of her nearest living relative. If a married woman should be this hostess the exact relationship is explained thus:

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Black request the honor, etc., at the marriage of Mrs. Black's sister, Miss Alice Gray, etc.

If a wedding is to take place at the home of a friend a form like the following is good:

The pleasure of your company is requested
at the marriage of Miss Alice Gray
to
Mr. Andrew Hall
at the residence of
Mr. and Mrs. Albert Claire, etc.

A stepdaughter's relationship is clearly defined in an invitation issued by her parents. "Mr. Gray's daughter" or "Mrs. Gray's daughter, Margaret Anderson," explains this.

With invitations there are sent at home cards, which have the name of the newly married couple, their home address and the date suggested for receiving callers. The correct forms are on hand at all stationers' shops.

New Stationery.

Seven by five and one-half inch sheets are fashionable for correspondence stationery, which, doubled once, fit into envelopes with deeply pointed flaps and of extreme size. These receptacles are additionally unique because lined with pebble surfaced tissue paper sprinkled over with sprays of fine flowers and leaves. Like the sheets, which at the right upper corner are engraved with the home address, the envelopes are of a sort of parchment paper in old ivory—a tone which, at the moment, is ultra smart in stationery.

Long oblong sheets of glazed surface paper, with a half inch lap over at one end and fitting into extremely narrow envelopes with straight flaps, are another stationery novelty of this season. These sheets and envelopes come in French gray, cream and light brown shades, and to match them are 2 by 6 inch correspondence cards, also with lap over ends and exceedingly narrow envelopes.

A new idea in mourning stationery is the envelope in pure white save for a fine line of black defining its deeply pointed flap, but with a black tissue paper lining.

Tennis Etiquette.

On tennis courts or any similar places at which groups of people are thrown together introductions should be made by the one who is an acknowledged leader or the one in most authority. The introductions are rather perfunctory—a mere mention of the names—and are done because of the sympathy of interests and the common aim.
